NO ELASTIC CURRENCY.

Congressman Babcock Says Custom Receipts Will Receive Attention.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] "No elastic currency legislation will be passed at the special session of Congress," said Representative Babcock today. "It is, however, desired to legislate so that in periods of great financial stress, customs receipts can be used to greater advantage, as internal revenue receipts now are, also, to make something in addition to United States bonds security for deposits in national depositories.

"The best possible work will be done in the interests of the financial condition of the country, but an elastic currency is not the probable thing."

NO LAUGHING MATTER AT AWFUL SMILOVO.

Servet Pasha Storms the Insurgents With Six Battalions and Heavy Artillery Fire—New Outbreak in the Environs of Salonica—Mosiems Preaching the Advent of a Holy War and Urging the Slaughter of Christians.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALONICA, Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Bulgarian insurgents sustained a severe reverse at Smilovo, Friday, 1000 of them being killed. The insurgents, to the number of 3000, occupied a position on a height, which was stormed by six battalions of Turkish troops, commanded by Servet Pasha. After losing 1000 of their number, the Bulgarians fled in the face of the heavy Turkish artillery fire. The Turkish losses were insignificant.

SOFIA, Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Dispatches received today from Constantinople, Salonica, Monastir and Andranople reveal an equally unsatisfactory condition of affairs in Macedonia. From Salonica come reports of new risings. At Monastir, the insurgents are said to be the masters of the situation. Telegrams from Adrianople declare that the insurgent bands are continuing their outrages.

At the moment the Porte is asking Belgium to supply officers for the Macedonian gendarmerie, the Swedish Ambassador at Constantinople has notified the Turkish government that unless they receive their pay immediately, the Swedish officers now at Uskub will leave the country.

The Dnevik says the Servian diplomatic agent has notified the Porte that two divisions of the Servians are said to have been mobilized without any hostile intention as regards Turkey, but they will be sent to the frontier to prevent Albanian incursions into Servia.

A new outbreak is reported to have occurred in the environs of Salonica, and several skirmishes have taken place between Gievgyeli and Salonica, and there has also been a fight near Edijvarda, both sides losing heavily.

In the district between Kasteria and Flerna, south of Monastir, the insurgents have destroyed all the fortified residences of the wealthy Beys. A notorious brigand named Abdul Medjid recently delivered a harangue to the inhabitants of Tetovo, telling them to prepare themselves to slaughter all the Bulgarians upon the first appearance of revolutionary bands in the neighborhood.

Many wounded Turkish soldiers have been brought into Salonica from Uskub, Seres and Monastir. The Turkish troops are reported to be greatly discouraged, and many deserters have been thrown into prison.

According to the Dnevik, the Hojas (teachers attached to the mosque) in the vilayet of Kossa are preaching that the time for a Holy War has come, and that the people must be ready to kill the Christians in the vilayet.

Insurgent bands are said to be in complete control of the districts of Dmirhissar and Kitschevo, and the chief mountain pass near the village of Monastir. The total strength of the bands in the vilayet of Adrianople is estimated at 6000 men. The insurgents have blown up the barracks at Ghioktipe, near Malketernovo, killing 60 soldiers. They also attacked and set fire to the Turkish camps at Egert, Alanka, Kratovo and Kotcheni. A great panic ensued, the troops firing into each other. The Bulgarian government has sent another regiment to strengthen the frontier forces in the neighborhood of Kratendil.

A private telegram from Ruia, Bulgaria, near Kostendil, says the reserves in the frontier villages have received orders to be ready for mobilization the moment that fighting occurs at a frontier post.

CAPTURE OF NEVESKA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALONICA, Aug. 30.—The Bulgarian insurgents on capturing the town of Neveska, August 25, seized the arms and ammunition of the garrison, levied a contribution of $5000 on the town, and then withdrew to the mountains. The Turkish troops on their arrival bombarded the town, but receiving no response, they entered the town without molesting the inhabitants.

SHOT UP THE SKY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 30.—It appears that the report by the Austrian council at Uskub that a detachment of troops discharged their rifles at the Austrian consulate there, arose from the simple circumstance that a party of Albanian reservists on leaving Uskub station in a train, fired in the air as is their custom on joining the colors, and the Austrian Consulate happened to be close to the station.

BEIRUT'S SUDDEN ACTIVITY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 30.—Since the representations made by United States Minister Leishman regarding the attack on the life of Vice-Consul Magelssen, the authorities at Beirut are displaying a marked activity in their efforts to find the culprit.

ANARCHY RULES SUPREME.

TROOPS BEYOND CONTROL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Salonica correspondent of the Daily Mail describes the situation in Macedonia as being one of the utmost gravity. The insurgents are everywhere increasing in numbers, and holding their own against the Ottoman soldiers.

Anarchy reigns supreme, asserts the correspondent, the vast Turkish army being completely out of control and eating up the country. In a few weeks famine must ensue, causing untold misery. An outrage in the city of Salonica now would turn the Turks into soldiers and the populace into wild beasts. The country west of the River Varda, toward the vilayet of Monastir, is expected to rise daily.

CONFLICTING AND CONFUSING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Times' correspondent at Salonica gives a similar account to that sent by the Daily Mail correspondent of the ill-concealed terror prevailing in that city and the fears that some incident may precipitate an indiscriminate massacre.

Commerce, he says, is paralyzed, and a famine is apprehended. The ambassadors and consuls recently appealed to their governments to send warships, but the desire to avoid the appearance of encouraging the insurgents seems to be held of greater importance than precautionary measures for the protection of Europeans, hence the vessels have not been sent. Preparations for an approaching insurrection in Northern Macedonia are rapidly progressing, but the date for the outbreak has not yet been fixed.

Among the Turks themselves, continues the correspondent, a growing body professes to be ready to support European intervention to remedy the desperate condition of affairs and even talks of murdering the foreign consuls as a means to compel foreign intervention.

There is no lack of sensational news from the interior, but all the reports are conflicting and confusing. There is much interest and anxiety regarding the fate of Kilsura, which has long been besieged by the insurgents.

According to the latest report, a large body of Turks sent to raise the siege has gained an important victory.

A report is current that September 1, the anniversary of the Sultan's accession, has been selected to begin the outbreak in the vilayet of Salonica.

GOOD NEWS FOR TURKS.

TROOPS EVERYWHERE GAINING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] In official circles it is claimed that the situation in the vilayet of Monastir is improving, and that the troops are gaining the upper hand. A flying column is being formed to fight the bands in the Adrianople district, where the military authorities are requisitioning horses almost everywhere, and giving vouchers payable after the restoration of order.

Precautions have been adopted to protect the Russian Embassy and consulate, owing to the receipt of anonymous letters threatening them with destruction.

GARIBALDIAN SYMPATHY.

WILL GO WITH TURKEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Gen. Ricciotti Garibaldi, who fought on the side of Greece against Turkey, will support Turkey against Macedonia. He said he did not find it strange that Greece and Turkey should unite in suppressing the Macedonian insurrection.

"I, have myself," he continued "urged Greece to come to an agreement with Turkey before Pan-Slavonism or Austria Pan-Germanism gaines the mastery over all the eastern Adriatic coast. Greece, Albania and Italy have only one road to safety, and that is a full and cordial agreement with Turkey. Boris Sarafoff asked my advice in organizing the Macedonian insurrection, complaining that I was unfavorable to it. I answered that I could not approve it, because the insurrection was based on the hope of Austro-Russian intervention, which, if it came about, would be in the interest of those two countries. My plan is the independence of Albania under Italian protection with an understanding with Greece, while contemporaneously, Sarafoff would appeal to Europe for Macedonian independence, renouncing all idea of Austro-Russian intervention.

"If my programme is accepted, I will appeal to the Italian people, convinced that in twenty-four hours 20,000 volunteers would follow me to the other side of the Adriatic. I am in hope that the Italian government would not prevent my carrying out this project, but if it did, I would renounce Italian citizenship."

ONLY A FEU DE JOIE.

THAT SHOOTING AT BEIRUT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Sofia correspondent of the Times telegraphs that it is suggested that the Beirut affair was merely a wedding party indulging in a feu de joie, and the shots were not directed with design against the United States Vice-Consul, Mr. Magelssen.

AMERICAN SQUADRON ON THE WAY TO BEIRUT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Other than the advices from Admiral Cotton announcing his departure with the cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco for Beirut, there were no developments in the Turkish situation today, so far as Washington is concerned. No additional official news came today from United States Minister Leishman, Secretary Hay saying tonight that he has not heard from our Minister to Turkey since yesterday morning.

The orders to the squadron to proceed to Beirut will not be cancelled, it is authoritatively stated tonight, unless the President so directs. Such an order at this time, however, apparently would not avail anything, as the admiral is now on his way to Turkey.

The Associated Press interview with Chekib Bey, the Turkish Minister, at his summer home at Sayville, L. I., was a topic of almost general discussion in official circles today. That the Minister manifestly is perturbed over the situation of affairs in Turkey is fully realized here. His uneasiness over the presence of an American fleet in Turkish waters, lest it be taken by the revolutionists as an evidence of the American government's sympathy with their cause, it is thought, will not be a strong enough reason for its withdrawal. The administration regards it as a sacred duty to see that adequate and prompt protection should be given American interests in the disturbed districts, and for this reason feels justified in having the warships sent to Turkish waters.

Contrary to expectation, Chekib Bey had not arrived in Washington up to 9 o'clock tonight, and inquiry at leading hotels failed to disclose that he was coming. A number of dispatches were awaiting his arrival here. Presumably some of these dispatches are from Constantinople. Secretary Hay will grant the Minister an audience tomorrow if he comes to the city.

With the departure of the crüisers Brooklyn and San Francisco for Beirut this morning, as announced by Admiral Cotton to the Navy Department, the entire European squadron is now on its way to the Turkish seaport, the bunboat Machias having left Genoa yesterday. The cruisers are much faster than the gunboat, and Rear-Admiral Cotton cabled that he expected they would reach Beirut by Friday next.

SAILED FROM GENOA.

AMERICAN CRUISERS LEAVE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The Bureau of Navigation of the Navy Department has been advised by cable that the cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco sailed from Genoa this (Sunday) morning, and are expected to arrive at Beirut Friday next.

DEMONSTRATION AT BELGRADE.

SYMPATHY WITH MACEDONIANS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BELGRADE, Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] A crowd of thousands of people gathered in the theater square this afternoon and made a demonstration in sympathy with the Macedonians. Several well-known politicians spoke. They condemned Turkish misrule, appealed to the Servians to assist the Macedonians in their struggle for freedom, and declared that Servia, Bulgaria and Montenegro ought to occupy and rebuild the Turkish Empire. The meeting adopted resolutions calling on the government to intervene on behalf of the Macedonians.

Reports are in circulation here that the monastery of St. Procohov, on the Servian frontier, was attacked Saturday night and entirely demolished by the Turks and Albanians.

CALL BACK THE SQUADRON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—A dispatch from Constantinople, dated August 29, to the Exchange Telegraph Company, says it is understood that after an interview with Foreign Minister Tewfik Pasha, Mr. Leishman requested Washington to recall the European squadron that had been ordered to Beirut.

OBITUARY.

Gen. Giovannelli.

PARIS, Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Gen. Giovannelli died last night at Sedan. The general distinguished himself during the French campaign in Mexico in 1863 as a lieutenant. He went through the entire siege of Metz in 1870, commanded a regiment in Tonkin in 1884, and was promoted agent before the end of the campaign. He later served with distinction in Tunis, Algeria and Madagascar. He was born at Rostino, Corsica, in 1847.

WASHINGTON.

WAITS ON COLOMBIA.

No Fight Will be Made over Canal.

Government Will Keep Quiet for a Time in the Hope That Developments May Develop.

Spooner Law Fixes no Time When the President Must Negotiate with Nicaragua.

Gen. Greeley Preparing a Report on Wireless Telegraphy—Pasteurization of Milk.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In spite of numerous suggestions that have been made by Colombia to the effect that it would like to know what the United States proposes to do in regard to a canal, this government will keep quiet for the time being and await developments. The Spooner law prescribed the course for the President to pursue, which was to construct a canal by the Nicaragua route in case satisfactory terms could not be made with the Colombian government. As the law did not specify a time when the alternative route should be chosen, the President will probably take his time in deciding when negotiations shall be opened for the Nicaragua route, and while the matter is thus held in abeyance nothing will be done.

The United States government does not propose to tell Colombia how long it will wait before proceeding with the other route, nor will it waver from its position as to the treaty. All propositions for amending the treaty and the negotiation for another document receive no consideration by this government. It is the present treaty or none. Meanwhile the United States will take just what time is deemed necessary to decide when negotiations with Colombia are at an end.

Incidentally, the story about possible war with Colombia to compel that government to accept the terms of canal treaty and to build a canal by force, caused only derision here. Such action on the part of the United States would be in direct violation of the Spooner bill, which distinctly specifies that if the United States cannot enter into a treaty with Colombia for the Panama Canal, it must be built along the Nicaragua route or nowhere else. Talk of possible war with Colombia is held at the State Department to be purest "jingoism."

REPORT ON THE WIRELESS.

GEN. GREELEY PREPARING ONE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—Gen. A. W. Greeley, Chief Signal Officer of the Army, who has just returned to Washington from the International Wireless Telegraph Congress at Berlin, will present a report on the subject to Secretary Hay Tuesday. The report is considered of considerable scientific importance, and probably will be made known soon. The purpose of the congress, Gen. Greeley said, was to formulate international rules for the control of wireless telegraphy.

PASTEURIZED MILK.

NOT EQUAL TO NATURAL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—The Agricultural Department, in a contribution to the general discussion on the quality of milk supplied to cities, has issued a bulletin on the subject, in which many suggestions are made for the improvement of the milk supply, among which is the registration of all dairies, an official indorsement of properly-conducted dairies, and inspection of all herds, barns, dairy buildings, etc., once a month.

The report says: "The practice of pasteurization appears to be gradually extending, yet the medical fraternity is divided in opinion as to its expediency, and the best sentiment favors natural milk produced and delivered in such a pure and protected condition as to be greatly superior to any pasteurized article."

GUNBOAT GOES DOWN.

Austrian War Vessel is Lost Off Cadiz—Eleven Lives Reported Saved.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CADIZ (Spain) Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Austrian gunboat Sherla has foundered off this port. Eleven of her crew were saved by a French Trans-Atlantic steamer.

Naval records do not show an Austrian gunboat named Sherla, which name probably was a telegraphic mutilation for the Kerka, an Austrian wooden schooner-rigged gunboat, 147 feet long and 3540 tons displacement. The Kerka had a speed of nine knots, and carried two 5.9-inch guns and one 2.7-inch gun. She had a crew of 104 men.

Silver Reaches a High Point. Shanklin and Tulloch on Business—Mariscal.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CITY OF MEXICO, Aug. 29.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Ignacio Mariscal, Minister of Foreign Affairs and Vice-President of Mexico, left Thursday night for Europe via Vera Cruz, accompanied by his wife, married daughter, Laura Mariscal, and nephew, Mariscal y Pina. The Presidential car, attached to the regular night express of the Mexican Railway, conveyed the party to the port, from whence they sailed today. President Diaz and hundreds of families and the entire diplomatic corps were at the depot to bid farewell to the distinguished statesman, who is going abroad with a view to rehabilitating the shattered health of Mrs. Mariscal. During the absence of the Secretary of State the duties of the office will be performed by José Algara, assistant secretary.

MISSING W. S. ALLEN.

Willard S. Allen of Boston is supposed to be in the republic. Boston papers describe him as an elderly man, nearsighted and clean shaven, who absconded recently with $74,000 belonging to the Methodist Preachers' Aid Society and $38,000 from the Methodist Historical Society, of which New England organizations he was treasurer. He was met at El Paso Tuesday morning by Ernest C. Guenther, an American artist of Paris, who was in this city last year on a pleasure visit, and who knew Allen during a visit of the latter to France a few years ago. Guenther was ignorant of the reports concerning Allen, and only learned of them on reaching Boston, when he wired back to Mexico. It is supposed Allen is somewhere in the republic, en route to South America, where he has a brother.

THE OAXACA GOLD FEVER.

The gold fever has struck Oaxaca, and the news received here Monday caused excitement. A telegram from W. H. Robinson, agent of the Waters Pierce Oil Company of Oaxaca, stated that a gold vein had been found seventy-five leagues west of the city of Oaxaca and twelve miles from the station of Ejutla, on the Mexican Southern Railway. Ore was found yielding $50,000 a ton. A stampede commenced from Oaxaca, and the State government sent a detachment of Rurales to guard prospectors. The gold was discovered by an Indian plowing a field near the little town of San Juan Xaquia, in the district of Ejutla. The Indian was using an old-time plow, or crooked stick, and struck a rock field, and the plow point broke. Picking up a piece of the rock, he thought the ore was bronze, but when Prefect Salazar saw the rock he recognized gold, and, accompanied by Engineer Enriquez, quietly denounced the field.

The news traveled swiftly, reaching Ejutla and Ovaca, whence a stream of prospectors commenced. A number of Americans made a rush and already two thousand claims are filed. The vein in the ledge is fifteen feet across in white and blue quartz, and quartzite, the white containing pure gold in stringers and chunks an eighth of an inch wide, and in places solid nuggets weighing one ounce. Sixteen-ounce gold nuggets were located on the surface near the vein denounced by Salazar, who refused $100,000 for his claim, and is already looked upon as a millionaire. The ore is free-milling and easily worked, and the vein sides on a continuation of the Soledad vein, quietly worked for months past by Americans, who hitherto were ignorant of its real worth, but who will diligently follow up the hint. A stream of prospectors is pouring westward to Ejutla, thence to the new gold fields.

FEVER AT SAN LUIS.

Texas authorities decree quarantine against San Luis Potosi, claiming yellow fever there. This is not the first time they have jumped at conclusions, and done what was unnecessary, greatly to the inconvenience of the traveling public, creating also needless alarm and concern. The Board of Health of this capital took up the matter Monday, and Dr. Eduardo Liceaga, the president, telegraphed a protest to Texan medical officials, and the State Sanitary Board, demonstrating that an epidemic is impossible at San Luis Potosi on account of its height, 6300 feet above sea level. Even in isolated cases, where the patients acquired fever at Tampico or lower levels, on reaching San Luis Potosi they died, but did not spread the plague, for it would not spread at that altitude. Liceaga filed an identical protest with Dr. Walter Wyman, chief of the Marine Hospital Service of the United States and president of the Sanitary Commission of the American Republics. Pending a decision, passengers to the United States will avoid San Luis Potosi to prevent being tied up ten days on the Texan frontier.

A rare case has just been announced at this capital in the death from yellow fever of Emilio Espindola, express messenger for Wells, Fargo trains on the Mexican Railway, who contracted yellow fever at Vera Cruz. Believing himself improved, he came to this city, but died Monday morning. His home was in Calle Tenexpa. The disease was localized in the victim, and no danger whatsoever is felt by the public. Fever is still decreasing at Tampico. Yesterday there were no new cases nor deaths. The sanitary authorities disinfected yesterday, 150 houses and burned two.

SILVER'S HIGH POINT.

Wednesday, silver reached its highest point since November, 1901, being quoted that day at 26 3-10 at London and in New York 56¾ cents. Bankers look to the long continuance of the favorable rate of silver. Exchange dropped below 220 on gold. The railroads cannot now take advantage of the governmental concession to raise traffic rates 15 per cent., being able to do so only when exchange on gold exceeds that rate. The merchants are taking advantage of the recent favorable and low rate to ship money abroad, where their accounts are payable in gold. A further drop is expected, and it is thought that perhaps by September exchange will reach 210 or the rate in September of 1901.

TULLOCH AND PARTY.

S. W. Tulloch, formerly cashier of the General Postoffice at Washington, famous as the man who made exposures and unearthed the recent postal scandals, is here, accompanied by a party of friends associated with him in Mexican mining matters. The party also includes Walter R. Hensey, attorney of New York; B. F. Cole and J. W. Moberly of Washington. They went Tuesday to Guerrero, for a week's visit to La Dicha mines, in which they are interested. They will be the guests of E. D. Elson, general manager of the mine.

COLONISTS FROM OKLAHOMA.

Part of the colonists arrived from Oklahoma to settle in the valley located on the Mexican Central between San Luis Potosi and Tampico. The newcomers are headed by A. L. Taylor, an experienced agriculturist from Elk City. They have purchased 74,000 acres of land, whereon they intend to raise fruits, general tropical products and cattle. The total colony will be sixty families.

HONDURAS'S EX-PRESIDENT.

Gen. Terencio Sierra, ex-President of Honduras, is on the way to Mexico to locate at this capital.

Archbishop Atenogenes Silva of Morenos State, is expected here in a few days. He is then going to Rome on business with the Pope, possibly a cardinalate.

DIAZ RECEIVES SHANKLIN.

Arnold Shanklin, the World's Fair Commissioner to Mexico, was received by President Diaz in private audience Thursday morning, accompanied by Gen. Manuel Gonzales Cosio, Minister of Encouragement. Shanklin brought greeting from David R. Francis, president of the Exposition, and thanks for interest manifested, stating that this country is the first foreign nation to build a competing pavilion. The President reassured the delegate of his abiding interest in the exposition. Shanklin later was banqueted at the beautiful Chapultepec Restaurant by governmental officials.

POPOCATEPETL SOLD.

The famous volcano Popocatepetl will tomorrow pass into the ownership of Americans, who, while they never will be able to move the mountain into American jurisdiction, will exploit its mineral and vegetable resources. The purchasers are New Yorkers, who have been negotiating eight months with the owner, Gen. Gaspar Sanchez Ochoa, an aged veteran of the Mexican army, who obtained the concession forty years ago as a reward for military services in behalf of the Liberal party against the Conservative or Clerical party. Ochoa made no systematic effort to exploit the mountain, except by the extraction of sulphur and ice in limited quantities. The big deal was engineered by Capt. Charles Holl of New York and A. E. Roberts, an American of this city, who enjoyed Ochoa's confidence. Ochoa will receive tomorrow the purchase price, $50,000 gold and stock of the company formed, 250,000 shares, making him a quarter owner. The company will capitalize heavily, and among other projects erect a hotel at the summit, build an electric railroad to the summit, including a trolley system to the snow line, thence a cable cog road to the crater. The New Yorkers acquire water rights of immense value, sulphur, ice and boundless forests of pine. They will erect a summer hotel at the base of the volcano, also a sanitarium for consumptives.

MEXICO AND COTTON.

Department of Encouragement has distributed among the planters of the State of Michoacan a number of bags of seed of Egyptian cotton, which, it is thought, will assimilate in Mexico soil and climate.

NEW ROAD.

R. Hudson, president of the Arkansas Pacific Railway, who was here on a brief business visit, returned Thursday to headquarters, San Antonio, Tex. He says work is being pushed on the Alice Brownsville road.

FRIARS FINED.

Two Carmelite friars recently arrested for violation of the laws of reform were sentenced to pay a fine of $100 each, and were warned against a repetition of the offense.

The Foreign Office has decided to open a department of information attached to the Mexican financial agency at London.

AGAINST MONTEREY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LAREDO (Tex.) Aug. 30.—The rigid quarantine which was established yesterday against Monterey, Mex., is being enforced against all train crews. Among those compelled to submit to a five days' quarantine is Consul-General Philip C. Hart of Monterey.

MINISTER POWELL UNINFORMED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—A dispatch received today by Chief Inspector Watts from United States Minister Powell, from the City of Mexico, in relation to the report that Willard S. Allen, the defaulting treasurer of the Preachers' Aid Society of the M. E. Church, had been seen in that city last Sunday, Minister Powell said he had no personal knowledge that Allen had been there. The telegram also said that the Minister would cooperate in every way with the authorities to find Allen.

TO FIND NORDENSKJOLD.

Dr. Jean Charcot's Antarctic Expedition Leaves Brest and an Argentine Gunboat Will be Sent by That Government.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BREST (France) Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The steamer Francais, with the Antarctic expedition under Dr. Jean Charcot, son of the well-known Allenist, which will endeavor to find Nordenskjold's missing expedition, sailed today. The Francais left Havre August 15, but was afterward delayed by a fatal accident to one of her sailors. She will go to Madeira, Buenos Ayres, and Punta Arenas, from which point the voyage into the Antarctic will be made. The expedition is under the patronage of the Academy of Science and the Ministry of Public Instruction.

Prof. Otto Nordenskjold's South Polar vessel Antarctic sailed from Gothenberg, Sweden, October 16, 1901. She has not been heard from for considerably over a year. The Swedish government dispatched a relief expedition on board the Frithjof, August 17. The Argentine government has also arranged to send a relief gunboat.

HATS OFF AT LAST.

ST. PAUL, Aug. 30.—At White Bear Lake tonight, by the overturning of a rowboat, Wilbur Carlson and wife, and Seth John, all of St. Paul, were drowned. They were attempting to knock off each other's hats.

LABOR

WINDOW-GLASS MEN REACH AGREEMENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DETROIT (Mich.) Aug. 30.—The conference of the Wage Committee of the Window Glass Workers of America and the Independent Window Glass Company and the Federation Window Glass Company ended this afternoon. It was agreed to withhold all wage scales until the present stock of glass in the country is exhausted, and further, that there will be no resumption of work in the factories until a general resumption is ordered. It was also agreed that during the next year, stoppage of work, as well as resumption, shall be general in all factories. It is stated that the cooperative companies of the country will also adhere to this general stoppage and resumption plan.

A uniform scale of wages, which will be an advance of 10 per cent. over last year's so-called Burns scale, was decided upon. As a result of the increase of wages, there will be an immediate withdrawal of all current price lists on glass and an advance in price ordered.

PEACE AFTER YEARS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PITTSBURGH (Pa.) Aug. 30.—As viewed in glass circles in Pittsburgh, the agreement effected at Detroit is the most important that has been reached among the window-glass men in years, or the first time in four years the warring factions have been brought to a peaceful state.

The waiting by all factories until the surplus stock of glass is sold means that at least one million boxes will have to be disposed of before any fires are lighted, and under present conditions of the trade it is likely that little will be done toward new stocks until November. In the mean time thousands of men will remain in idleness, but are willing to do so to help demoralized trade to get on its feet again.

MAMMOTH AMALGAMATION.

PROPOSES TO ABOLISH STRIKES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PITTSBURGH, Aug. 30.—According to Frank Buchanan, president of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, it is planned to amalgamate the six powerful structural trades into a mighty national building trades council of 600,000 workmen, and the absorption of the smaller building trades, such as granite, cutters, marble polishers, stone cutters, etc.

A meeting to further this object will be held at Indianapolis October 7, and will be attended by national officers representing the carpenters, bricklayers and masons, the plumbers and gas fitters, painters and decorators and the Building Trade Laborers' International Union. At the root of the proposed organization is a decision of its promoters to in a great measure abolish strikes.

CATHOLICS WARNED.

CANNOT TAKE UNIONS' OATHS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MARSHAL (Mich.) Aug. 30.—Rev. Dr. B. A. Baarth, rector of St. Mary's Church, today said no Catholic could consistently take or keep the oath of some labor unions. He mentioned particularly the Typographical Union, part of whose oath he quoted, as follows:

"I hereby solemnly and sincerely swear that my fidelity to the Typographical Union and my duty to the members thereof shall in no sense be interfered with by any allegiance that I may now or hereafter owe to any other organization, social, political or religious."

Father Baarth said the oath placed the union before the church and before the State, and distinctly impeached the loyalty and Catholicity of those who take such an oath. Possibly the leaders may not have realized the full force of the words they used in their oath, he said, but whether they did or not, every patriotic citizen and every sincere, consistent Catholic should demand that such an oath be modified, and that the objectionable clause be cut out.

CLOSING OF COLLIERIES.

BAER SHEDS NO LIGHT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

READING (Pa.) Aug. 30.—George F. Baer, president of the Reading Railway, with his family arrived from Europe late last night. As to reports from the upper anthracite region that some collieries there would have to close, Baer said that he had not kept in touch with the coal situation and could not say whether, for the present, any of the Reading companies' collieries would be ordered to shut down.

It would be a surprise to the coal and railroad officials here generally if orders should be issued for the collieries to close, now that the fall and winter trade is about opening.

WOOLEN MILLS OPEN.

NEW ENGLAND GETS BUSY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BOSTON, Aug. 30.—Most of the score or more of mills in Massachusetts, New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Vermont and Maine, owned by the American Woolen Company, which have been shut down one to two weeks, will be opened tomorrow. The shutdown was ordered to make repairs. Twenty thousand employes were affected.

FRED WILLIAMS ESCAPES.

TWO PURSUERS DROWN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BELLAIRE (O.) Aug. 30.—During a disturbance today between the striking machinists and those still working, Fred Williams, a non-union man, was pursued by strikers. Williams, while flourishing his revolver, ran onto the ferry boat. The gangway broke and two of his pursuers were drowned.

BOUNDARY COMMISSION.

Secretary Root and the American Commissioners Arrive in London. Canadians Already on the Ground. Contentions of the Two Parties.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Secretary of War Elihu Root, ex-Secretary of State John W. Foster, Hannis Taylor and Judge John M. Dickinson arrived at Liverpool on the Celtic today for the meeting of the Alaskan Boundary Commission, which will open in London September 3. The Canadian commissioners also are here. United States Ambassador Choate has arranged to give a dinner in honor of Secretary Root, at which all the American and British representatives will be present. The commissioners are already familiar with the facts of the case, which were filed several months ago. At the first meeting of the commissioners, next Thursday, the Americans and Canadians will submit their briefs, which will be a condensation of the facts and arguments regarding the interpretation of the treaty. The commission will then announce the day on which the oral arguments will be heard.

The documents have not yet been made public, but the Associated Press correspondent learns that the whole controversy centers on Canada's efforts to acquire an outlet to the sea. It is known authoritatively that the Canadian agent asserts that, under the Russo-British treaty of 1825, the line properly crosses numerous inlets, including the headwaters of the Lynn Canal. The contention seems to be that the inlets, less than six miles wide, situated in the disputed region, belong to Canada.

United States Commissioner Foster vigorously opposes this view, holding that the treaty clearly places the line thirty miles inland, following the sinuosities of the coast, thus separating Canada from all the arms of the ocean and putting Porcupine Creek and the gold district under American jurisdiction. The American representatives are confident that their position is unassailable. The commissioners expect that the complete consideration of the entire case will take less than two months, and that even should the commission fail to render a majority award, the facts will be clearly established. This will lead to an easier settlement in the future.

Secretary Root intends to take advantage of the recess between the filings of the briefs and the oral arguments to witness the British army maneuvers.

AMERICAN HOT SHOT FOR SUBLIME PORTE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The United States will not change its programme with regard to Turkey. Not only will ships go to Beirut, for which point they are already on the way, but this Magelssen episode affords the opportunity the United States has long sought for making Turkey live up to many promises she has made, but of which not one has been fulfilled. All accounts current will be settled, even if it is necessary to blockade a port or two.

The question of such action has been considered by the President and Secretary Hay. They have come to the conclusion that it is time to make Turkey perform what she has often and often promised. If a blockade is deemed necessary, it will not be of a pacific kind. Any blockade which the United States declares on Turkish ports will be tantamount to a declaration of war.

The President and his advisers intend to force a settlement of all questions pending. If the Turkish Minister comes to the State Department, he will have his fatigue for his reward. He will be told that the way for Turkey to preserve America's friendship is to stop lying to Minister Leishman, and do what she agrees. War with Turkey would not be a serious matter. She has no navy worthy of the name, and war would consist chiefly of blockade and reprisals on Turkish commerce, which, in the Mediterranean, is valuable enough to enable the United States to recoup any losses she might suffer by taking measures to force Turkey to live up to her duties.

The Minister will also be told, if he calls, that the United States cannot afford to take the Ottoman government's word that American citizens will be protected and given all rights and privileges accorded to citizens and subjects of other powers. For that reason, if for no other, this government cannot see its way clear for making any change in the programme.

MEMORIAL TEMPLE FOR ODD FELLOWS.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

BALTIMORE, Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The most important question to come before the Sovereign Grand Lodge of Odd Fellows at its national session in Baltimore next month is the proposition to erect a memorial building here as a national temple for the order, to cost more than $1,000,000.

The original temple of the order was in Baltimore. Here it was instituted, and prominent members in all parts of the country favor the scheme for a memorial temple. The Baltimore committee in charge of the project has received letters from members of the Sovereign Lodge commending it and expressing their willingness to vote in favor of it.

Assistant Grand Secretary Elvin Curry of Maryland says: "When the plan was launched, it was our purpose to advocate an expenditure of about $500,000 for a temple, to be located here, but we readily accepted the suggestion of the grand representative in this city to change the figure to $1,000,000. I believe, considering the fact that we have 1,300,000 Odd Fellows, it ought not to be difficult to raise $1,000,000 for this purpose. A committee from Washington lodge will formulate definite plans to bring the matter before the Sovereign Lodge."

NEW FASHION SHOW AT MADISON SQUARE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—For the next two weeks, Madison Square Garden will be given over to the display of fine dresses, the fashion show formally opening there tomorrow night. Acting Mayor Fornes, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Cortelyou, United States Senato Chauncey M. Depew and others will deliver brief addresses.

This is the first exposition of its kind ever held in this country. Its purpose is to set styles and to establish a unity of ideas in the making of gowns between American and Parisian modistes.

European modistes have contributed to the exposition one hundred and fifty gowns of every style, while a large number of American designs will be displayed. Otto Adler, a delegate from the Parisian dressmakers, will deliver addresses on European fashion. Handsome girls, during the afternoon and evening sessions, will wear the different styles of gowns on a stage. Every style of garment favored by women in outdoor life will be shown, including golf, automobile, yachting, tennis and bicycle styles. The live exhibit will show the process of making many of the articles of apparel and will include the silk loom in operation.

There will be a display of proper styles to be worn at various functions, including an ideal wedding costume. The millinery exhibit will be on a large scale, and the display of domestic and foreign laces will be notable.

Another feature of interest will be hair-dressing, showing the proper manner of arranging the hair for morning, afternoon and evening, and in the most becoming manner, in accordance with the style of gown to be worn.

Revenue Cutter Thetis Returns from Icy North.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The revenue cutter Thetis failed in an effort to reach Point Barrow this summer, with mail and supplies for the missions, and whaling station at the most northerly point of Alaska. The Thetis arrived at St. Michael July 14, but lay there until August 1 waiting for Senator Deltrich of Nebraska, whom she was to take to Nome. She reached Nome August 2, and the day following started on the trip northward.

At Icy Cape, nearly one thousand miles from Nome and about two hundred miles from the government rescue station, where the mail is left, she encountered a solid ice pack, which in that frozen sea never yields to the onslaught of any ships that man has yet built. The Thetis hugged the shore in the hope that shifting winds might open a way, but in that she was disappointed, and turned back. The mail was left to be taken by Eskimo canoes or whalers, but it will be months before it gets there.

NEEDS OF ALASKA.

PATTERSON INTERVIEWED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 30.—United States Senator Thomas M. Patterson of Colorado arrived en route from Alaska to his home in Denver. Senator Patterson is a member of the Alaskan Commission, selected by the Senate to visit that Territory and report its legislative needs. In company with Senator Dillingham of Vermont, Senator Burnham of New Hampshire and Senator Nelson of Minnesota, the other members of the commission, he sailed from Seattle June 28 and reached there on the return trip, August 28.

"The most urgent need of Alaska," said Senator Patterson tonight, "is good roads. Another crying need is for law. Every man is a law unto himself, and the administration of justice is woefully slow. The mining laws need to be reformed and regulated and courts appointed with power to control the Territory. We have not decided yet upon what recommendations we shall make to the Senate upon these things, but we shall do everything possible for the improvement of the Territory."

Picnic of Entracht Bunds—Senator Patterson on the Urgent Needs of Alaska.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The revenue cutter Thetis failed in an effort to reach Point Barrow this summer, with mail and supplies for the missions, and whaling station at the most northerly point of Alaska. The Thetis arrived at St. Michael July 14, but lay there until August 1 waiting for Senator Dietrich of Nebraska, whom she was to take to Nome. She reached Nome August 2, and the day following started on the trip northward.

At Icy Cape, nearly one thousand miles from Nome and about two hundred miles from the government rescue station, where the mail is left, she encountered a solid ice pack, which in that frozen sea never yields to the onslaught of any ships that man has yet built. The Thetis hugged the shore in the hope that shifting winds might open a way, but in that she was disappointed, and turned back. The mail was left to be taken by Eskimo canoes or whalers, but it will be months before it gets there.

The session was largely devoted to the appointment of committees and the reading of reports from the officers covering last year. Previous to the business meeting, the delegates attended in body a solemn high mass at St. Boniface Church, celebrated by Rev. Sebastian Neumann, the rector. Coadjutor Archbishop Montgomery assisted at the mass and preached the sermon.

Archbishop Montgomery congratulated the delegates on the strides the Verband had made during the last year and the encouraging outlook it has for the future. He said that the spirit of the age demanded union in order to obtain strength, and the Catholic church itself, the greatest organization of the world, recognized this necessity.

Concerning the much-mooted question of the teaching of the German language in schools, he said that matter would settle itself.

Delegates Arriving at St. Paul for the Annual Reunion of the Society—Two Important Questions to be Discussed.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Aug. 30.—Delegates are beginning to arrive for the annual reunion of the National Society of the Army of the Philippines, which will meet tomorrow. The East is sending a large delegation, and indications are that the Western and Southern States will be well represented. Fully 2000 are expected. St. Louis, Chicago, Chattanooga, Put-in-Bay Island, Buffalo and Cleveland are making a campaign for the next reunion. Two questions of vital importance will be discussed. At present, contract surgeons who served in the Army of the Philippines are not eligible to the society. Many that have served in that capacity desire to become enrolled, and the bylaws may be so amended that they may become members. The society also will consider the advisability of forming a ladies' auxiliary, similar to the one in connection with the G.A.R.

Wednesday will be the greatest day of the encampment, the military parade taking place on that day. Gen. Kobbe and staff, Gens. Wheaton, Summers, Merritt, MacArthur, Funston, Metcalf, and Brig.-Gen. Charles King are expected to be in line.

YANKEE ON FIRE.

Soft Coal Taken Aboard at Bar Harbor the Source of a Smouldering Blaze in the Vessel's Bunkers.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEWPORT (R. I.) Aug. 30.—The flagship Yankee of the naval training squadron, which is flying the flag of Rear-Admiral W. C. Wise, and which has been engaged in the maneuvers off Portland, entered the harbor this morning with her midship bunker afire. The fire was discovered Thursday morning by smoke on the gun deck. Some two hundred tons of coal were removed from the top of the bunker, leaving some three hundred tons. Then the fire hose was used, and since that time the fire has been smouldering.

The crew is still engaged in moving the coal from one bunker to another. The Yankee coaled at Bar Harbor, August 9, and this is some of the soft coal that was taken aboard there.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BUTTE (Mont.) Aug. 30.—A special to the Miner from Havre says that Frank Baker, a cowboy, was arrested on a Great Northern passenger train today, on suspicion of being connected with the notorious Curry gang of outlaws, who had, it is alleged, planned to hold up the westbound flyer at Wagner today. Two men, said to be Baker's companions, became frightened at the large number of heavily-armed special officers in the express car and made their escape.

Inspector Hall, who made the arrest, is said to have some strong evidence against Baker.

ASSOCIATION BALL CLUBS.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—A meeting of the National Association of Baseball Clubs was held in this city today to frame an answer to the big leagues concerning the position the small leagues will take regarding the national agreement which the National Association has been invited to sign. The bone of contention is a membership on the national board. The minor leagues claim that they are the bone and sinew of baseball, have a larger following all over the country than the two major leagues, and therefore should be represented on the National Board. The other articles of agreement that do not suit the minor leagues are the drafting law and the method of paying for players drafted. After the meeting, Secretary Farrell gave out the following statement:

"The meeting unanimously decided that it could not subscribe to the agreement presented at Buffalo, and the National Association Committee was authorized to present the Buffalo agreement in amended form to the Buffalo committee.

"A resolution was adopted that it was the sense of the members of the National Association present that we adhere to the terms of the Lucas resolution unanimously adopted at the meeting of the associatiotn held last October."

The Lucas resolution provided that in the event of a joint invitation being extended to the National Association to confer with the Board of Directors of the National and the American leagues in the interest of tripartite agreement, the National Board of the National Association should preserve to the National Association its present form of government and its individual organization, supreme and intact, and it was also resolved that the instructions were mandatory and compulsory. Among those present were T. J. Hickey of the American Association, and M. H. Sexton and E. C. Packard of the Western League.

ROCK ISLAND AGREES WITH THE SANTA FE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

DALLAS (Tex.) Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Texas Railroad Commission has learned, unofficially, that the Rock Island Company, in order to avoid furnishing the Santa Fé with a secret agreement between the Rock Island and the Southern Pacific companies and in which they reach the Gulf at Galveston, a trackage agreement with the Santa Fé lines in Texas, which is expected to become operative soon. The Santa Fé expects soon to be furnished with an official copy of this new agreement.

It is known that the agreement extends to the Santa Fé's Texas lines, and that the Rock Island will be thereby afforded entrance into Galveston over the Santa Fé, instead of using the tracks of the Galveston, Houston and Northern, the Southern Pacific's property, as was originally contemplated. The action of the Railroad Commission in declining to sanction trackage contracts entered into by the Rock Island with the North and South lines of the Southern Pacific, is said to have led to this new agreement.

It is understood the new alliance also applies to the Southern Kansas and Pecos Valley systems, both of which are Santa Fé properties. If this be true, the Rock Island is enabled to obtain direct connection from the north with its Choctaw line at a point near Washburn, Tex., and with the Texas and Pacific at Pecos.

Schooner Henry P. Mason Lost off Highlands, N. J.

C. Oliver Iselin Sends a Boat to the Rescue—Reliance's Men Were Ready.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—During a strong gale eight miles off Highlands, N. J., at 11 o'clock Saturday night, the three-masted schooner Henry P. Mason, from Perth Ampoy, N. J., for Portland, Me., loaded with red clay, struck, it is believed a submerged wreck and sank at 2 o'clock this morning. The crew and two passengers took to the vessel's small boat and were buffeted by the high seas all night and part of today, until rescued by the Sandy Hook life-saving crew. The life-savers were towed to the boat one mile off Gallilee by the New York Yacht Club committee boat Navigator, on which were C. Oliver Iselin, managing owner of the yacht Reliance, and Bert C. Leeds. The survivors reached Sandy Hook at 3 o'clock this afternoon, apparently in good condition. It is believed the schooner will be a total loss.

The rescued include:

CAPT. A. W. FROST, Portland, Me.

JOHN H. SMILEY, first mate, Boston.

CHARLES JOHNSON, second mate, Baltimore.

PRESTON GROVER, steward, of Tennants Harbor, Me.

MRS. GROVER,

N. G. MASILOUS, New York,

MRS. MASILOUS,

When the Mason struck the mainmast and mizzenmast were broken off short, and the vessel started to leak badly. At 1 o'clock an anchor was dropped overboard, but it was soon discovered that the vessel would not keep afloat, and the crew and passengers took to the small boat. For a time they held to the stern of the schooner, but as there was danger of her going to the bottom at any moment they cast off and drifted. About a mile off Gallilee they made fast to a fish pound, where they remained until rescued.

Repeated efforts were made by the life-saving crews to launch a boat, but the heavy sea running made it impossible. Meanwhile word had been sent to Sandy Hook for assistance and Iselin volunteered the services of the Navigator to tow the life-savers to where the small boat was in danger of being swamped.

It was 11 o'clock this morning when the Navigator located the twelve persons in their perilous position, and it was fully an hour before they could be rescued. This was accomplished in as daring a manner as ever has been told in any sea tale. The big tug made several attempts to get near the yawl, and then finally going to windward, cast off the life line. With splendid dexterity, a line was sent from the lifeboat to a pole on the fish pound, and then was paid out until the yawl was reached.

The shipwrecked crew and passengers were in such a condition that they could not help themselves, and Capt. Patterson of the life-saving crew and his men had simply to lift them out. First came two women, and then three sailors. Meantime, under the direction of Iselin, the Navigator's crew had thrown a dozen pails of oil overboard to the windward of the yawl, so that the sea was calmed and the big tug had taken a position so that the wind did not catch her on the beam. The women, when brought aboard, were carefully attended to, Iselin having taken along a woman attendant. Capt. Frost of the Mason said later that just before the Navigator arrived they had concluded that the women would die in a few hours, and they had decided to try for the beach. He said that Saturday when they were out near the lightship at anchor, the old Dominion line steamer Hamilton offered to take them off, and he urged the women to go, but they declined to leave without the men. During the night, he believes the Mason struck something.

Thousands along the shore watched the clever work of the life savers. Twice the lifeboat was filled with water, but as she is a self-bailer, she cleared herself. The going down in tow of the Navigator was in itself a perilous thing in such a sea. When the men returned, Iselin said a special word of praise to them, and in return was heartily cheered.

When Capt. Patterson asked for the assistance of the Navigator, Capt. Barr of the Reliance, who stood by, said: "I have fifty men; every one of them will volunteer to help if you want them."

It was the tug and not the men that was needed, however.

JEUNE'S PSYCHOLOGY MAKES WOMEN MAD.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sir Francis Jeune, the judge in the celebrated Greek divorce case just concluded, has brought a storm of feminine criticism upon himself by remarking from the bench that it was "the peculiarity of women not to be able to love two men at once; whereas, a man can love two women at once." Following are samples of the deluge of letters received:

"Sir: I flatly refuse to accept Sir Francis Jeune's judgment setting forth that a man can love two women at the same time. If I had thought such a thing of my husband, I should never have married him. In my opinion, a man cannot love two women at different times, because love comes only once in our lives. Man may flirt (and does) with two women (or twenty, for that matter) at the same time, and I think that must be what is meant.

[Signed] "CONSTANCE."

"Sir: As I read Sir Francis Jeune's remark, it forms an excuse for man's duplicity, as though the fact of his being able to love two women at once was to be considered in the light of a great temptation. It is news to me that man has a greater capacity for love than woman. I believe any woman could love two men at the same time, but, generally speaking, a wife and mother is actuated by too high principles to permit her love to be divided or distributed. I am sorry the wise judge of the divorce court said what he did about men, because it will do them no good, but probably harm.

[Signed] "ENGAGED."

"Sir: The excellent judge will allow me to differ with him. I know by experience he is not strictly true to life. What about a girl with two strings to her bow?

[Signed] "JILTED."

HOLD-UP MEN DO MURDER.

Robbery and Bloodshed at Chicago Car Barns.

Clerk and Motorman Killed and Two Clerks Wounded.

Desperadoes Shoot Through a Window—Three Thousand Dollars Stolen.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 30.—Without a warning, two men were killed and two others wounded by hold-up men at the barns of the Chicago City Railway Company at Sixty-first and State streets at an early hour today. The shooting was done by three men, who escaped after securing $3000. Three of the men who were shot were working in the cashier's office, and the other was a motorman asleep in the outer office. The men in the office were shot before they were aware of the robbers' presence, and the motorman was killed as he was rising from a bench where he had been sleeping. The dead:

FRANK STEWART, assistant clerk in cashier's office; shot through body; died half an hour later.

JOHN B. JOHNSON, motorman; shot through head; died instantly.

The injured:

WILLIAM B. EDMOND, receiving clerk; shot in left thigh; will recover.

HENRY BIEHL, shot in the head; will recover.

The robbers took no chances, but disposed of all the opposition of the employés before they entered theoffice. Choosing the time when employés were busily engaged in balancing up the receipts of the night, just after the last conductor had turned in his money and left the barns, the robbers suddenly appeared at the receiving window and began shooting without warning.

The first bullet struck Stewart, and he fell to the floor without a word. Biehl and Edmond, who were sitting near Stewart, turned to see what was the matter, but before they could leave their chairs they were rendered helpless by bullets from the robbers. Johnson, the motorman, who had been asleep on a bench in the outer office, started up to go to the assistance of his companions, but was shot before he could get on his feet. Making sure that all opposition had been removed, the robbers then broke open the door of the cashier's office with a sledge hammer and took from the desk $3000 in bills. They then made their escape.

Four men were arrested three hours later on suspicion of being implicated in the crime. They as yet have not been identified.

MONEY TO RAISE GIANTS.

Count de Pierrecourt's Funds Will Help Make Big French People.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

PARIS, Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The $2,000,000 legacy left by Count Alfred St. Ouen de Pierrecourt to his native city of Rouen, on condition that chief provision be made for propagating a race of giants, has finally been disposed of. The natural heirs began litigation which has now resulted in an agreement that the city shall spend $160,000 in founding an institute for giants, keeping $600,000 in reserve and giving the balance to the legitimate heirs.

It is proposed to maintain in this novel institute a score or more of giant couples, establishing workshops for them and conditions favorable for scientists to observe the result on the progeny of giant couples.

Big Catch of Ugly Fish in Police Dragnet—Robber Suspects.

DESPERATE CHARACTER.

CORNERED on Alameda street last night by Detective Talamantes and accused of having stolen a rig, Dan McMahon, a desperate character, with two terms in the penitentiary to his record, tried to murder the officer with a dirk and was beaten to the sidewalk by blows from a pair of handcuffs.

The knife used by the ex-convict fell from his hand when the detective knocked him down and a companion, a member of the "Coyote Club," which is a band of criminals led by McMahon, snatched up the weapon and made his escape. Three other members of the gang who took no part in the fight, but who participated in stealing the rig, also got away.

A quick parry of the blow aimed at him by McMahon saved Talamantes from being stabbed. The knife point grazed his left wrist, making a slight cut.

McMahon was taken handcuffed to the Police Station, the blood from two gashes in his head running down his face and clothes. His name was entered in the detectives' book, no charge having yet been made against him.

ACCUSED OF STEALING WAGON.

In former times it was highway robbery that got McMahon into trouble; this time it was the theft, so alleged, of a spring wagon and two horses belonging to Theodore Verdugo at the Meat Cutters' picnic at Verdugo Park yesterday evening.

When Verdugo missed his rig he sent his boy to police headquarters with a description of the five men who drove away from the park in it as furnished by two persons who had seen them.

About 4 o'clock last night Detective Talamantes, who was detailed on the case, found Verdugo driving on Main street in another rig, and with him was one of the men who had seen the thieves.

On Alameda street, near Macy, they saw a group of five talking, and the detective immediately spotted them as members of the criminal gang.

He jumped from the wagon and, as he did so, three of the men slunk away across the street. McMahon and the other awaited the officer's approach.

When Talamantes was within a few steps of him the ex-convict drew a knife and, calling the officer a vile name, told him to come on.

Hardly waiting for him to do so, McMahon jumped forward and made a vicious swing with his evil weapon, but was soon placed hors du combat as related.

Detective Talamantes claims that the evidence against McMahon of having stolen Verdugo's rig is complete. If the robbery charge does not hold there will still remain the felony charge of assault with a deadly weapon.

LOOKS LIKE HOLD-UP MAN.

It was remarked by the police when the ex-convict was scrutinized that he answers exactly the description of one of the two taller men who held up the San Pedro car Friday night.

In addition to having served two terms for highway robbery, it is a moral certainty with the police that McMahon was implicated in the robbery of a Chinaman on Macy street last winter. Once McMahon escaped from Detective Paul Flammer, who arrested him for a hold-up, and the officer shot him through the hand.

SUSPECT AT MT. LOWE.

It is deemed a possibility that the leader of the San Pedro hold-up gang paid a visit to Mount Lowe the morning following his prime, spending most of the day there. At least, a suspicious person answering the full description of the robber is reported as having been at the resort.

Whoever he may have been, his actions are said to have been very peculiar on that date. About five feet ten inches in height, of medium build, and with a smooth-shaved face and close-cut hair, he also had the peculiar blue eye whose shifty uncertainty is said to have been a distinguishing mark of the bandit chief.

He went up early in the morning, and appeared to be very much in need of sleep, his face showing tense lines as of mental strain recently undergone. Several times on the car he seemed to fall into a doze, but awoke with a start, looking rapidly around. He stayed alone all day, sitting always in the back end of the car, and getting out of sight of the rest of the excursionists at every opportunity. His right hand he kept constantly in the side pocket of his coat, apparently gripping some bulky object.

Although his clothes and his person seemed rather the worse for wear and tear he had plenty of money, and spent it freely. At the Alpine Tavern he took a room, entering it with a soiled, rumpled collar and a torn necktie. A few minutes later, although he carried no luggage, he came out again with clean linen and a brand new cravat adorning his throat. His hands were not those of a workingman, and yet he did not have the appearance of a tourist. Nervous and restless, he seemed merely to be passing the time, and was apparently anxious to be swallowed up by the mountains. He never returned to Pasadena. If he is seen by any of the local officials he will be closely questioned.

Apart from this one circumstance absolutely nothing has turned up to show in a marked way any possible movements of the highwaymen. According to Capt. Auble the doings of several tough bunches are yet to be investigated, and their whereabouts on the eventful night strictly accounted for.

BIG JAIL POPULATION.

Yesterday religious services were held for the prisoners in the main apartment of the prison, and afterward a number of "sporting ladies" visited the sisterhood in their apartments. For the most part this motley herd of human creatures, far too big for the quarters in which it was housed, sat stupidly and silently on the bare benches in the jail, knowing nothing of its possible fate—and caring less.

The habit once developed of saying the things that should be left unsaid sooner or later leads to this, for it leads to irritation, and when irritation comes between two there is no kindness of heart left to them. A little ignoring of a hasty speech will save the trouble.

A man, fretted at something outside the home, sits down to his noonday meal, and lessens the tension by growling. "It's a queer thing that you never can teach Bridget to cook potatoes fit to eat."

The wife, who doesn't realize that the trouble is not potatoes at all, or who may have been having "troubles of her own," probably will reply with a fair amount of tartness, "I don't see how you can be so unreasonable as to say such a thing as that."

She thinks it a just criticism, and very likely it is, but she has not taken the best time or place to deliver it. The more unreasonable a man is the less he cares to be told so, and almost anyone can say what will come next in the conversation. Is home made happier by it or will the meal end with slammed doors and tears?

There are few households where something of this sort does not occur, or it may take this form: Kate, going to dress, finds her belt gone. She calls to her sister, "Lizzie, have you my belt?"

"I had it yesterday. Didn't I put it back?"

"No, you didn't, and I do wish you would let my things alone! It's enough to tear your own things and leave them all over the neighborhood without losing and spoiling mine, I think."

Immediately Lizzie's instinct of justice and self-defense roused, and unless she has self-control and tact there is a small battle at once. Kate is right, but if an opinion is to be delivered for good it must be pronounced calmly and at the proper moment.

Possibly Lizzie may laugh and say, "That's so, Kate. I am a trial, I'll admit, and a wretch to make you uncomfortable," and she wins peace as she could never have done by attempting to justify herself.

DIPLOMACY OF SILENCE.

So much unhappiness is caused by the wrong use of the tongue that it sometimes seems as if dumbness were not the great misfortune that it is. One of the saddest things in life is

The little rift within the lute
That, by and by, doth make the music mute,

and to know that it was made by the hasty speech, generally not meant, but forgotten and always festering in the heart. To say nothing—it seems simple, and yet it is so difficult.

Living happily in close relations with anyone calls for the exercise of the highest kind of diplomacy, for it necessitates being brought into such close touch with that other's moods, which may not be yours at all, and in becoming in some sense a part of that person as he of you. It is equally true whether the relations be business or social. There is but one way of keeping everything moving smoothly, and that is to overcome the friction with the oil of silence—even the silence that says disapproval is better than words from an irritated mind. It does not leave stings to be cured afterward. The more intimate the relation the greater the need of good breeding, and it is never well bred to get into an argument or to say unkind things.

No degree of relationship or intimacy justifies in telling needlessly unpleasant truths. If they become necessary to be told there is a way to do this in a spirit of love at the proper time. Surgery of the soul may be imperative, and when it is it is time enough to try it. That a girl of one's daughter gives no parent a right to call her homely and awkward any more than to say the same to a neighbor's daughter. She is an individual, with self-respect to be wounded, and if the parent forgets his duty he has no sensible reason for expecting her to remember her own. The lack of consideration sometimes shown by loving parents toward self-conscious young people is explanation enough for what is called the discourtesy of youth.

The taming with the tongue rests wholly with its possessor, but old age comes upon many a one who has put no bridle upon it. Do the years find him surrounded with those who enjoy being with him, or does he find himself shunned by those who have learned to fear and shun the sarcastic word, the witticism that wakes irritation within them?

The habit of saying hateful things is no reversal to the law that the more one does a thing the more he will, and the more natural it becomes. It does not take long for the talent in repartee with a sting to degenerate into a characteristic not far from bragging or deliberately wounding, and though there is an exception to most rules, there is none to the law that love is not won by sharpness of speech, nor once won, is it held by him or her of the biting tongue.

THE TAMING.

Then, if you are cursed by heredity or by birth with the quick temper, the sharp wit, that speak to wound, what will you do to win and keep the love you want? "Set a seal upon thy lips." Tears and regrets for what the tongue has done are useless. No tears can wash out the scars of an unjust, unkind speech.

The tongue can be tamed if the will to tame it is one, but it will require years before one can always put away the pain-inducing thought ere it springs to life in words. The one means of taming the tongue is so hard to follow. It is almost impossible not to reply when one is angered at an unfair speech, and it is difficult not to be drawn into an argument, but it is the first word that counts, and that is the one to save. The one safe way to peace for the woman who argues, who nags, who speaks unkindly, is to put herself into another room as soon as a chance for trouble arises if she cannot be dumb for the time.

Happiness is so frail a thing that it will not abide where contention dwells, therefore, as one sees the shadows of life coming over her she will give thanks for the years of effort which have resulted in the self-mastery enabling her to bridle her tongue so that it may be directed into right paths, leading to, not from, love and peace.

Use of the Tongue in the Home.

CARELESS TALK.

PROBABLY AS GREAT A DESTROYER OF HAPPINESS AS ALL VICES COMBINED. WOMAN'S DEADLY NAGGING KILLS LOVE—SILENCE THE BEST THOUGH DIFFICULT REPLY TO CUTTING SPEECH.

BY DORA MAY MORRELL.

THOSE pessimistic reformers who find the home slowly becoming extinct, marriage more generally a failure in too large a proportion of cases, friendship more rare, and other ills resting upon the earth, have sought an explanation from almost every imaginable source. What the drink habit may do to bring misery has been told so often and magnified until there is none so deaf that he has not heard of its possible wreckage; so, too, of gambling and of other vices, and each has its share in making human beings miserable; but, bad as they are, they are not responsible for all the unhappy homes.

TONGUE A HOME DESTROYER.

No missionary in the work of making home happy has yet begun his labors by giving to the tongue its meed of power as a destroyer of peace, maybe because "the tongue can no man tame" except its owner, and no attempt being made to hold it in check, what wonder that the untamable thing works woe and destruction. It may be doubted if all the vices together do more to produce unhappiness in the home than does the careless tongue. No fault which is occasional can bring so much discomfort as that which is daily and hourly. So far as actual comfort in living is concerned, the home of the drinking man or the gambler may exceed that of the man without a vice, but with a cranky, grumbling disposition. As it is easier to meet great evils than to bear smilingly a swarm of gnats, so one may face with patience the vices, but lose all pleasure when every act is only an occasion for sharp speech or faultfinding.

It must be admitted, alas! that the tongue generally is the woman's weapon, though she has not a monopoly of it, and she uses it right cruelly. Man hits from the shoulder, and the blow knocks down, but the hurt soon heals; woman employs her tongue in her battles, and cuts the tenderest spot, and though the blow may not show outwardly, the wound is vital and never ceases to bleed. The strangest thing about it, too, is that the woman, who is first in good works, often is first in stabs with the tongue. She does not find her pet sin forbidden by the decalogue, and therefore she may account it to herself as a virtue. Vice often travels incognito.

Woman often prides herself on her love of truth because she tells unpleasant things. She forgets that agreeable things are as true as those that pain, and possibly a lie itself does no more harm than this form of truthtelling. She deceives herself. She tells the unkind thing, not because she loves truth, but because she is cruel and likes to see another person cringe under bad tidings. She may believe that she is obeying that impulse of which she says so much, "her sense of duty," but those who really are governed by that principle have neither time nor inclination to be hurting another without strong cause.

FEMININE "NAGGING."

The tongue does its wicked work in many ways; one is proud of her wit—and wit is a two-edged blade cutting wherever it falls. Too often to one who is witty the satisfaction of vanity is more than winning love, and the two are never companions; easiest of all to forgive is the hasty temper which springs into speech before thought comes; one of the worst to bear is what our English cousins call "a nasty temper," the kind that relieves itself by making others equally uncomfortable. But the peculiarity which leads all of these is strictly feminine and is named "nagging." There can be no one so happy as never to have known what it is. It is the attribute of the woman who never forgets trifles, though her memory is never exact. If she gets into a discussion—and she will—she will remind the person with whom she is talking of things said twenty years before under provocation and long since forgotten by all but her. She says she remembers them because she is so sensitive and was so hurt, but she flatters herself. She is not sensitive; she is vain. If she were sensitive she would be tender toward the feelings of others; being vain, she is tender only of her own feelings. The sensitive person forgets; the vain remembers.

It is impossible to live happily in the house with a nagging tongue. One might as reasonably try to walk comfortably in shoes studded within with nails. One never knows at what moment there will break upon him a torrent of old and new sharpness and reminiscences punctuated with tears. It is almost impossible to bear with patience such a recital, and however free one may be from intent to quarrel in the beginning of the controversy, he is usually moved upon to bear his part before the end. The instinct of self-defense is strong, and it takes inexperience a long time to teach the lesson that silence is the best, indeed, the only reply to the first nagging remark. One speech leads to another, and finally there are two who truly love each other feeling that each is "the hatefulest person that ever lived, and so utterly unreasonable," and both are quite forgetful of the love that was so dear.

CONTENTION KILLS LOVE.

Every time Love goes through an experience like that he grows weaker. Whatever the kind of love, conjugal, filial, parental, or between brother and sister, it thrives only on courtesy. They who love Love, who want him dwelling ever with them, cannot afford to put into force against him a family or a lover's quarrel. The second comes easier than the first, and the third than the second, and before one knows it Love has flown, and all that remains is the cast-off garment in which men were wont to find him.

Look into your own heart after you have played your part in a contention. Is the spirit you find that which cherishes? Is it akin to love or is it more like hate? Be honest with yourself, and then decide which way you will go hereafter. What if some one is unjust? Do you convince him with the person with whom she is talking? Suppose you were right and he was wrong—do you think he will admit that fact while you are hammering him with it? Which do you want more—that the right shall stand, or that he shall pour incense upon your egoism by saying he was wrong. He will know you are right, if you are, but he will never say so while you insist upon it, and there are few truths worth proving at the cost of half an hour's heated argument and one whole nervous system disturbed. It is a great measure toward peace when one realizes that right will come straight along even if she does not carry it upon her shoulders.

"It seems strange that insisting upon the truth makes trouble, since truth is the basis of all good," you say; but do you not see that you are not insisting upon the truth, but upon the recognition of it as seen by you—which is a different and less important matter? Truth is not changed by ignorance of it, and to know it is worth any sacrifice, but it is not at all essential that your world shall know you as the only guide to truth, so why try by words to force such an opinion upon it?

HOW TROUBLE BEGINS.

There is nothing more unfortunate in the career of humankind than the ease and celerity with which some slight statement grows into a quarrel, parting friends and breaking up homes.

GARVANZA.

Garvanza has the happy faculty of frequently giving to the public something unique in the line of enterprises. Last fall and winter much attention was attracted to this neighborhood by The Times' illustrated description of the numerous canvas houses and winter campers located in various sections of Garvanza. This fall and winter there are plans maturing for a canvas city on a much enlarged plan, and which gives promise of becoming one of the features of this southland for the tourist from the more or less frozen East. Ralph Rogers has decided to keep "open house" all winter at Mineral Park. The canvas cottages and tents will be fitted up for rent, and the dining-room on the grounds will be run as a restaurant all winter. Mr. Rogers believes that many a tourist and seeker after variety will be glad of an opportunity to camp out in "the dead of winter" and have this to add to their fund of California stories when they return East.

This week will witness the completion of the first regularly improved street in Garvanza, Avenue 66, from Pasadena avenue to the northern city limits. Work is well in progress on several of the other streets, and more is planned. By spring there will have been accomplished a great transformation in the appearance of the thoroughfares of Garvanza. Digging for Salvage Among the Ruins of Burned Chinatown.

THE old adage that "it is an ill wind that blows nobody good" was illustrated in a lively manner yesterday in and about the ruins wrought by Saturday's fire in the eastern end of dilapidated old Chinatown. Urchins and hangers-on about the locality made a handsome "rake-off" from the stinking, soppy, fuming pile where stood the Mongolian rookeries, seven in number, before the fearless fire set in to purify the block.

Over in the soaked-down debris the scavengers, yellow and white, young and old, dug for salvage as fervently as the evangelists stationed for Sunday harvesting around the edge of the lower city tried to find something worth saving in the muck of souls down there. At the end of the day the scavengers drew off with far more to show for their digging than had the harvesters, it seemed.

sold among the crowd at 50 cents the pair. There was pretty Oriental pottery to be had for the picking up; and in the same way could have been secured any number of purple, or green or yellow Celestial trousers, if anybody had the nerve to indulge. But the leg apparel was still there at sundown, creating bits of color throughout the heap.

The losers in the game with the fire stood around the edges and looked at the devastation with the stoicism of the fateful centuries whence they are descended.

The least event in Chinatown that reaches the ears of the public arouses keen interest. During the day many parties from the residence sections of the city drove through the narrow streets to the scene of the fire, the event furnishing an excuse for a visit to the region in which the respectable are supposed to be seen only on extraordinary occasions.

What will be done with the burned-off property is yet to be decided, but each fire that purges the original sections of Chinatown means the ultimate addition of more substantial and more sanitary buildings.

The story that Fook Hing left $1400 in his store when he fled from the flames added special zest to the hunt. Chinamen and white men gathered with shovels, half burned implements or whatever else they could lay hands on, and seized by that universal human ailment, the fever to prospect, they delved in the sop.

Once a youngster came up radiant with a lucky find, a $5 gold piece. Another dug up about four dozen plated table knives, which he sold at 10 cents apiece. Resurrected silk slippers

PROPOSED PATENT COURT.

At Friday's session of the American Bar Association, held at Hot Springs, Va., the Committee on Patent Law recommended the establishment by Congress of a court of patent appeals for the determination of patent, trade-mark and copyright cases, the decisions of such court to be final, subject only to such power of review by the Supreme Court of the United States as shall be necessary to preserve the jurisdiction vested in that court by the Constitution. The report was adopted, with an amendment eliminating trade-marks from the proposed jurisdiction of the proposed court.

It is very much to be hoped that this matter will be brought before Congress in the form of a bill creating the proposed patent court. Some such tribunal has long been needed for the determination of the rights of patentees, which are often seriously infringed through the long and tedious process of adjustment in the existing courts. It often happens that the rightful owner of a patent is robbed of his property through sheer inability to meet the heavy expenses of defending his rights in the courts.

Under the present system, a patent that is really valuable is very apt to be infringed, or appropriated outright. In either case, the owner must submit to be robbed, or must seek the protection of the law. If he take the latter course, he must be prepared to expend a large amount of money, and to wait, perhaps, for years, before he can secure a final court decision in his favor. As a writer in the New York Times of recent date points out, "in a patent suit it is a matter of 'staying powers,' largely expressed by the purse and check-book. There are ways easily to be devised by competent patent lawyers, methods that cannot be well gotten around or successfully combated, whereby the trying of a case is spun out and the evidence woven to an interminable length. Nor is any other kind of law, from the traditional way it is conducted, so expensive in its every step. The financially weaker party must, sooner or later, go to the wall. All the culprit infringer needs is to drag along the action over weeks and months." Even the preliminary steps in patent litigation cost several hundreds of dollars. Large numbers of witnesses must be secured, the attorney usually demands associate counsel, and expense piles upon expense, until the patentee, unless he be the possessor of unlimited wealth, is apt to be financially ruined before the preliminary stage of the game is over. The writer in the New York Times, above referred to, says:

"Should it happen that a patent case before a referee could be dispatched briskly and without delays, it would still be one of the most expensive forms of going to law. But once the hearing is nearly at an end, the infringers are by no means through with the poor wretch who has had the temerity to object to their appropriating his patent. On one pretext or another—and attorneys are most skilful in this regard—the hearing is extended; another hearing is granted. The man who has started the fight can be driven to the wall if he is only pushed enough. No individual purse, unless it is a mighty one, can stand it.

"Take one incident, and an interesting one. There are certain railroads in this country that are very progressive, and want every possible modern improvement. But they do not want to pay royalties, nor pay. Indeed, any man in any way for any of his patents. So they have the field of patents, so far as the railroad interests are concerned, constantly under survey.

"Inventions and devices that mean improvement for them, some as applied to one road, some to another, are simply taken bodily and made use of. Of course, when this happens, the inventor and the patentees rise up angrily, protest, and threaten. But these railroads have long been ready for them. On these affairs they have combined, and a big legal firm in New York, on a large retainer, handles them as they come up.

"To his amazement the individual, just as he has got in the thick of the fight, finds that in reality he is contesting with, not a single big railroad of the country, but with a number of the strongest, standing side by side, and all in this matter contributing pro rata to the expense and equipment of this legal patent defense bureau."

Theoretically, when the United States government grants a patent to an applicant, it guarantees to him the exclusive use and benefit of his device for a term of years. As a matter of simple right and justice, this guaranty ought to be valid. The government ought to stand back of it. No patent should be issued to an applicant unless he is clearly entitled to it. Once it has been issued (and, perhaps, passed upon by an authorized court, such as it is proposed to create,) the patent should be in fact just what it purports to be—a guaranty to the patentee that he shall have the exclusive use and benefit of his device for the specified term of years. If the government takes an inventor's money it should give him something in return.

The creation of the proposed patent court appears to be both feasible and necessary. It would probably furnish a remedy for the disgraceful and altogether unsatisfactory conditions which prevail under the present practice. It would be a boon to thousands of inventors who have not the means to defend their rights in the courts, for it would protect them against the rapacity of wealthy and unscrupulous infringers who are now able to prey upon them with impunity.

HANDS OFF.

The National Irrigation Association, in a circular, calls attention to the fact that in his last message the President urged the repeal of the desert land law, of the commutation clause of the homestead law, and of the timber and stone act. Unfortunately, this great measure of reform did not even get out of the committee room of the House of Representatives, showing what a powerful "pull" is possessed by the big land grabbers. The association declares that the bill will never pass, except at the behest of an imperious and irresistible public opinion, and adds, truly, that every patriotic American should lend his voice and influence to the making of such a public opinion, before Congress meets again. The association, in its circular, says, further:

"The great issue of the hour is this: Shall we have on the remainder of the public domain the land monopolist or the multitude of small proprietors? Shall we have the two families or the 40,000? Shall we give the public domain away, or shall we put it into the hands of those who claim it as a birthright—of those who will build their homes upon it and use it for the support of their children?

"These burning questions can be evaded no longer. When Congress meets again they must be answered once and for all. While we are talking about it the lands are being absorbed by those who know their value only too well and who propose to sell them at enormous profit to the real home makers, or to hold them as great private estates."

The public land question has been important for many years, but never so important as today, when the National Irrigation Act is about to be put in force, with its great possibilities of good for the people at large. It must not—it shall not—be prostituted to serve the selfish ends of a few greedy speculators. Land grabbers, whether they are Wyoming cattle barons, or Northern California timber sharks, or Southern California oil men, must be made to understand that they are to keep hands off Uncle Sam's public domain, or take the consequences.

A veteran now in Los Angeles, who, of course, is still concerned for the welfare of his country, writes to The Times to call attention to the fact that the Democrats of Ohio, in convention at Columbus last week, declared unyielding opposition to trusts, and adds the Democratic party when in power was "wonderfully successful in creating and maintaining distrusts," a statement which history fully corroborates.

We trust that our citizens will not become so interested in looking after dope in their milk, swearing at the garbage man, listening to the rows about civil service, looking over the bids for fire hose and watching the performances of the new street sucker that they will omit to plant a few shade trees, now and then.

If a lot of dupes insist on paying Sam Parks a fat salary while he is in Sing Sing prison paying the penalty of his crimes, let them do so; it's their money. But the fact that they are doing it is evidence that they should be either in Sing Sing or in an idiot asylum themselves.

In addition to wanting the limited trains to slow up, Ventura is hot after the slot machines. In her latter crusade she has the best wishes of The Times, and in the former she is able to look out for herself.

A son of Senator Gorman has been nominated for the State Senate in Maryland, and it is to be hoped that his chances, for the sake of the family name, are a good deal better than his dads.

VIGOROUS WORDS FROM THE PULPIT.

Rev. Dr. Healy Denounces Boycotters and Walking Troublegates. Abuses in the Labor Unions—Burdette on "Too Much Preaching."

BEFORE a large congregation at the University Methodist Church Rev. E. A. Healy, D.D., the pastor and the most prominent candidate for presiding elder of the Southern California conference, delivered a great sermon yesterday morning on "Work."

His discourse was an analysis of the problems that confront the Christian citizens and workmen of today, and his treatment of his theme was straightforward, fearless, and refreshing. The labor agitator was handled without gloves and the machinations of the boycotters were shown up in their true light.

Boycotting was denounced as un-Christian and beneath the dignity of law-abiding citizens.

The absurdity and falsehood of the statements made by the head of the Typographical Union were revealed as they appear in the white light of unvarnished truth, and the boycott against a store easily recognized, but not named by the preacher, was declared to be not only wrong from the standpoint of loyal citizenship, but surely gaining for that store in ever-increasing volume the trade which the trouble-breeders seek to destroy.

For over an hour Dr. Healy held the closest attention of his audience and at the conclusion of his sermon a large number of his parishioners crowed around the chancel rail and congratulated him upon his manly stand and the fair-minded manner in which he treated the subject.

All in all, it was one of the ablest sermons ever preached in the church, and the wonderful impression it made will not soon be forgotten by any who heard it.

Dr. Healy tok for his text "The Laborer is Worthy of His Hire," and he said in part:

"I associate with these words of the Lord Jesus a passage which contains an inference from one of the sublimest discussions in all literature. The subject is mortality and life. From the depths of moral contagion and from the noisome prison of the sepulchre, man, redeemed in flesh and spirit, is shown to be the heir of incorruption, immortality and heaven. In glowing periods the author follows him upward until you hear Faith's triumphant challenge to Death and the grave, and the sounding peans of victory given by God himself through our Lord Jesus Christ. Then we have the corollary, 'Be ye steadfast, unmovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord.'

"The motto of John Wesley's adoption, 'I am a man and nothing that concerns man do I count foreign to myself,' may well be in the creed of every preacher of righteousness and every good citizen, and may justify me this morning in a brief discussion of work that is not confined to devotion, the Sabbath, and the church.

"That labor of muscle and brain is included in the import of the text is shown by Paul when he cites it to Timothy, parallel with another in which the worker is an ox, 'Thou shalt not muzzle the ox that treadeth out the corn, and the laborer is worthy of his reward.' 'But,' said a friend to whom I quoted this text the other day, 'he isn't always worthy.' I could not deny it, and so we must admit that not all workers are up to the scriptural idea, 'deal justly, love mercy, walk uprightly.' Making this admission, look first at our nation's morality.

APPETITE AND AVARICE.

"The two great propelling motives in wrong doing have their root in appetite and avarice. Appetite in the quaint Saxon words of the old Book is 'the lust of the flesh, the lust of the eye, and the pride of life.' Out of these spring the carnival of sense which has its exhibit in the popular demand for sensational and spectacular entertainment. This makes the theater pay if it caters liberally to the sensuous and sells rapidly the book that trenches hard on themes that are not discussed in polite society. It is this carnival of sense that breeds the crime that invades the home, destroying its purity, contributing to the numerous divorces that disgrace our loved California, and supplying the population of the sad and nameless under-world of our cities. The same carnival of sense steals the Sabbath for pleasure, apart from real rest and devotion, devoting it to pleasure seeking on a lower plane. The same passion, acidulated into hate and murder, spurs on the lynching parties that all too often stain the fair name of our commonwealths. We throw up our hands in horror at the unspeakable Turk, while he in turn points in scorn at the disorder and horror of these lawless mobs. Avarice trades in appetite. The latter alone would not support the saloon and the house of death. But avarice, by stimulating appetite and gilding vice, cultivates and fosters the demand for vicious pleasure. Avarice grinds labor looking only to the profit of the employer on one side or the workman upon the other.

"Work is the divine order for men. The first habitat of the first man was by the divine order to be tilled by him. The greatest of the world's teachers forever dignified labor by his declaration, 'My Father worketh hitherto, and I work.' Perverse human nature deems it a curse. To be above it is the unworthy ambition of ignoble minds. Teach your child to love work and you have solved for him the problem of living. But work has achieved all victories from the 'brooding on the face of the waters' in Creation's dawn to the latest wonder of Marconi and Edison.

"But avarice wants to shorten the way to wealth, and so the employer oppresses the worker and the workman studies how to get the largest pay for the smallest endeavor. Avarice says what must I pay, instead of what can I pay? It finds large capital more powerful than small means, and so forms combinations that we have named trusts. A neighbor of mine went to Oregon, thinking that the change of climate would be good for him, and intending with a few thousand dollars to go into the lumber business. He found he could not do so. The large concerns had frozen out all the small concerns so that they could not buy, by selling lumber cheap until the little men were crushed.

"If I were to mention oil some Californians would have vivid memories of experiences it would be sweet to forget.

HOT-AIR COMPANIES.

"Then there is a class of promoter who goes another step and sets up fictitious capital. A man and his wife, his son and his daughter incorporate and hold an election. President, vice-president, secretary and treasurer appear in a beautiful prospectus of gold mine, oil company or mysterious loan scheme that guarantees —— per cent. a month. Then the sale of stock begins. And teachers, preachers, clerks, workingmen and women with their small savings become stockholders in the concern. After a while there are dividends, but the money is paid not chiefly to those who furnished the cash, but to the promoters who held the several thousands of the stock.

"In politics avarice bribes the voter and buys the legislator. Let us be thankful that not all are purchasable.

"Combinations of capital are opposed by the organization of labor. Both are legitimate and useful if conscience is in them. The trades unions are beneficial in many ways. They secure a community of interest and the comfort of fellowship. Numbers give courage and hope. They secure efficiency of representation when labor would treat with capital. This will appear if you remember that 75 per cent. of the workers in the factories of Lowell are foreigners. The union assists in making a fair demand of wages in proportion to the profits of the business.

"But avarice in the union is as bad as it is in the employing firm or corporation. It creates the business agent or walking delegate. The mischievous results are all about us.

UNION ABUSES.

"The abuses should be known and recognized. See first the limiting of the number of apprentices allowed in a given trade. My neighbor's son wanted to be a jeweler, but the union said that there were learners enough, and though he had great aptitude for fine mechanical work he had to turn away.

"Second, the unions often order a limit of production. A ship builder upon the Clyde put in American machinery, but the union stepped in and ordered him to produce only what his neighbors could produce with their worn-out machinery and methods. Result, $100,000 loss and ruin, his only hope being, as he said, that the American unions would limit the production over there and thus restore the balance of business.

"Third union abuse. The arbitrary scale of wages. The skilled carpenter and the man who goes by the 'rule of thumb' must get the same pay, according to union rule.

"The unions deny this, saying they fix the minimum rate, but do not prevent the employers from paying more. But the president of the international Typographical Union says 'We establish the rate on what an average printer can do.' This introduces the law of averages. A witty Los Angeles man says: 'It's a humiliating thought that nearly half the human family is below the average in intelligence.' You will readily see that if the inferior printer must not be paid less than the average, then the skillful 'typo' cannot be paid more if the average is to be maintained.

"Fourth union abuse. Many a good man under the order of his union to quit work, is compelled to be guilty of a breach of contract. A man may refuse to renew a contract that he does not like, but he is in honor bound to fill out his term, and he has no right to compel another man to break his contract. Neither can anything give him the right to prevent another man from taking the place he has vacated. Common sense shows that it is no longer his.

"Fifth. The abrupt and arbitrary breach of contract brings serious loss to the workers themselves. In the recent coal strike 140,000 men were idle more than six months.

"Sixth. The inevitable result of such situations is violence. This is exhibited not alone in bodily injury amounting sometimes to murder but in contumely and persecution which is even harder to bear. A bridal couple in a Pennsylvania town were followed to the church, having hurled at them the name that some idle union men use as the acme of all that is disgraceful, driven from their carriage after the ceremony and terrorized almost out of their senses.

"Seventh. A perversion of the good word 'sympathetic' is used to describe an order for the abrupt breach of contract on the part of another and sometimes far-off group of workmen.

"Eighth. It too frequently happens that the unions pass an order to their members and even request the public in general to avoid the firms that deal with non-union men.

"There is a restaurant in San Francisco that has been advertised into unwonted prosperity by the marching up and down in front of it of a man sandwiched in between requests to let it alone.

"Many of you may have received through the mails, as I have, an impertinent request to keep away from a merchandising house in our good city, a request that surely must have stimulated a tendency to trade there.

BOYCOTT WORST OF ALL.

"These and many other vicious results that might be enumerated must go down to the discredit of organizations that might be beneficial. The worst of the whole atrocious mass is the 'boycott.' It is un-American, contravening the document that we are so proud to read once a year, that liberty is one of the inalienable rights of man.

"The unions are disloyal; many of them try to prevent their members from belonging to the militia or home guard of their State. William Potter of Schenectady was expelled from the Painters' Union for such membership.

"Defenders of the unions say, and with reason, that there are bad men in the church and the ministry. It is sadly true. There are slips on pulpit stairs as surely, if not so often, as on the steps that lead into the Chamber of Commerce. But the church is grieved and promptly applies the remedy in discipline or expulsion. Too often the unions order a course that must result in hatred and violence.

"The facts will show that the American workman receives twice the pay of his brother in Belgium, Italy, Germany and Spain, and one and one-half times as much as he would in England or Scotland.

"The true and only corrective of the abuses above named is a right public opinion. The sanity of a Christian civilization in which conscience is enthroned on both sides of the line dividing capital and labor will alone perpetuate our institutions. That this public opinion is here and in the main is right was beautifully shown in the result of the action of our manly and fearless President when he proposed a commission to settle the coal strike. You will remember that many of the wise and cautious were sure he had made a mistake and both parties in the difficulties were at first unwilling to accept his proposal; but public opinion, voiced chiefly by the press—which in the main is right on great questions, compelled the acceptance of the commission that settled the difficulty.

"Let us be courageous and strong, 'abounding in the work of the Lord,' and whether in national life or spiritual life or even in material prosperity 'steadfast and immovable.'"

"Son of Man, Dig."

Ezekiel viii:8 gave Rev. C. C. Willett a practical text yesterday morning at the Orchard Avenue Baptist Church, from which he preached a practical sermon.

"This," said the preacher, "was the first commandment God ever gave to man. When the Lord God planted a garden eastward in Eden he put in it to dress or till it, the man whom he had formed, and said, 'Son of God, dig.' Man's digging in Paradise teaches us that industry is not a curse, but rather is tributary to his perfect happiness. After the fall man found himself in a desert. But in the desert, as in the garden, he must dig. So we find Abraham digging a well in the land of the Philistines and calling it Beersheba, the well of the oath. By that well he plants the grove in which, as in God's first temple, he called upon Jehovah the everlasting God. 'Son of man, dig,' is the message that comes to the Christian now sojourning in the enemy's land. Dig a well and beneath the surface tap the great under current of divine grace and comfort. Ninety years after Isaac coming to the same place finds that the Philistines have filled up the wells of Abraham's digging. What does he do? Does he simply mourn and lament the loss? Not so. 'Son of man, dig,' is the message he gets. So he digs out the old wells and calls them by their old names. Just what we are called upon to do now. Some of the old wells of truth and doctrine have been filled and fouled by modern Philistines.

"'Son of man, dig,' is the message for the minister today. Dig out the old wells, preach the old truths, find the old paths and call things by the old names.

"Again, Israel's King and allies are in the wilderness and there is no water for the host. Son of man, dig, says God, through Elisha. Make this valley full of ditches. What a test of faith was that. No water source in sight. No rain or wind to come, yet deliverance is promised if the ditches are dug. The same message testing our faith comes to us in our work today. Oh, Christians, be not faithless, but believing. If we dig the ditches God will fill them.

"'Dig channels for the streams of love,
Where they may broadly run;
And love has overflowing streams
To fill them every one.
But if at any time thou cease
Such channels to provide,
The very founts of love in thee
Will soon be parched and dried;
For thou must share if thou wouldst keep
That good thing from above;
Ceasing to share you cease to have:
Such is the law of love.'

"God's people were in Babylon and the time of deliverance was drawing nigh. The hand of the Lord was laid upon Ezekiel and the Spirit carried him in vision to Jerusalem. A remnant had been left to occupy the sacred city and worship in the holy temple to which God had promised his captive children should return. The prophet sees the temple in glittering volume, and would fain at once bring all his fellow-captives there. But he is to be taught that as heaven is a prepared place for a prepared people, so Jerusalem must be purged and its temple cleansed ere it is ready to receive the captives. To outward view all was fair. The robed priests, the smoking altars, the swinging censers, the outward ritual observances all professed great zeal for God. All seemed ready for the return of the exiles. 'But, son of man, dig,' is the startling command. Look beneath the surface. Uncover the secret idolatry. Dig in the wall and see what the ancients of the house of Israel do in the dark. Such a voice comes to the church today. Let her secret idols of worldliness and greed, and pride be uncovered and cast out, and let judgment at the house of God begin, then, when Babylon is taken out of the church the captives shall come out of Babylon with weeping and with supplication they shall seek the way to Zion."

Dr. Walker's Return.

Said he: "I am glad to get back to my people once more. I think I have cause to feel proud of this church, if pride is not wrong in this attitude, for since my return I have received the minutes of the General Assembly, in which I find that Immanuel Church stands fourth, numerically, among the Presbyterian congregations of the United States. Better than that, we are the largest in benevolences west of Chicago."

Dr. Walker took as his text Isaiah xlii:9, and his subject "A New Force in Man's World and Man's Life."

He said, in part: "The hardest fact for men to realize today is that, with the coming of Christ, there actually entered into the world a new force—a force which was to effect every department of life. They still reason from the old standpoints, and they argue from the old law, forgetting that the old law is dead. Everything is new about the Gospels, even. Of course, it is an old story, newly told.

"The greatest thing that men of science, so called, find to quibble about, is the miracles of Christ. They say that he suspended and violated the laws of nature, and that this is impossible. And arguing in this way, they fall into the modern pitfalls of occultism and their theories are wilder than any impossible miracles alleged to have come to pass in any age.

"Coming over on the boat the other day, I fell into conversation with a gentleman of education and apparent refinement, who seemed to be serious amid all this whirl of excitement and gayety. I began to talk to him, and he went off into the strangest whimsicalities, talking about science extracting our food from the air, and like things even more marvelous than the imagination of any writer of a former age could have conceived. Yet he was not ready to accept any of the alleged miracles of Christ, and denounced them as preposterous.

"The old theologians are trying to patch up an old garment—to put new wine into new bottles. I think when we get to heaven we will find that each one of us has had a strangely different experience, that each soul has had a marvelous work all its own. Yet the laws of God have never been suspended. Each Christian man and woman, feeling the power of the Spirit of God in their hearts, has had a miracle performed in his or her own soul just as miraculous as the turning of water into wine.

"It was Phillips Brooks who said that every sunset seemed more glorious since his birth into the kingdom of God; that every day but held more promise, that each hour life seemed sweeter and more desirable.

"And the last thing of all is the new strength Christ gives. The saddest of all things is failure. The sweetest message of Christianity is the hopeful command, 'Try again.'"

Next Sunday will be a gala occasion at Immanuel Church, as it is the fifteenth anniversary of the establishment of the parish. Just that number of years ago a number severed their membership with the old First Church at Twentieth and Figueroa streets, and, under rather doubtful prospects, bravely started out as an independent body at Tenth and Figueroa streets, under the leadership of the late Rev. Dr. Chichester as pastor.

The fathers of the church builded better than they knew, as Dr. Walker said yesterday morning, and now one of the greatest churches in America stands as a monument to their fidelity and toil. A special programme is in preparation for the anniversary event.

Seventh Day Adventists.

Elder W. T. Knox of Oakland was the speaker yesterday morning at the camp meeting of the Seventh Day Adventists, now in progress at San Pedro and Twenty-second streets. The large tent will seat 1000 persons comfortably, and a large number of small tents on the grounds are occupied by those in attendance at the ten-day meeting. The discourse of Elder Knox was devoted to the second coming of Christ, which the Adventist people believe to be near at hand.

Reading from second Peter, the speaker said: "This prophecy of Peter is verified at the present time, for it is said there shall come in the last days scoffers, walking after their own lusts, and saying, 'Where is the promise of His coming? for since the fathers fell asleep, all things continue as they were from the beginning of the creation.' There are scoffers in the church and scoffers without. And why is this? It is on account of ignorance, for Peter says, 'For this they willingly are ignorant of, that by the word of God the heavens were of old, and the earth standing out of the water and in the water. Whereby the world that then was, being overflowed with water, perished.' They do not believe the story of the flood.

"There were scoffers in those days, for though the antediluvians were stirred by the preaching of Noah, they did not profit by it. It seemed unreasonable to them that this world upon which hitherto the rain had not fallen, God having another way for watering vegetation then, should be destroyed by a flood. But the water was there, and it could be used as a blessing for the human family, or for the destruction of the earth. 'But the heavens and the earth, which are now, by the same word, are kept in store, reserved unto fire against the day of judgment and perdition of ungodly men.' As the water was there, so God has stored in the earth and in the heavens above a fire, doubtless serving the human family as a blessing now, but reserved for the destruction of ungodly men when time shall end.

"Why this delay? The Lord is not slack concerning his promise, as some men count slackness, but is long suffering to us-ward, not willing that any should perish, but that all should come to repentance.' Why does he wait? It is because of His great mercy. He is withholding His presence that men may be saved. 'But the day of the Lord will come as a thief in the night: in the which the heavens shall pass away with a great noise and the elements shall melt with fervent heat, the earth also and the works that are therein shall be burned up.' I believe that word. If there's any statement in God's word that He seeks to make emphatic, it is that. It is repeated over and over.

"But to whom will his coming be like the thief in the night? Why, those who are not looking for him. In First Thessalonians, 5:4, however, we read, 'But ye, brethren, are not in darkness, that that day should overtake you as a thief. Ye are all the children of light, and the children of the day: we are not of night, nor of darkness. Therefore, let us not sleep, as do others; but let us watch and be sober.' 'Seeing then that all these things shall be dissolved, what manner of persons ought ye to be in all holy conversation and godliness, looking for and hastening the coming of the day of God, wherein the heavens being on fire shall be dissolved, and the elements shall melt with fervent heat? Nevertheless we, according to his promise, look for new heavens and a new earth, wherein dwelleth righteousness.'

"Why do we continue to declare this to ourselves and to our neighbors? Because the human family then will have been divided into two classes, to only one of which will be given everlasting life. Character alone will determine it. 'Wherefore, beloved, seeing that ye look for such things, be diligent that ye may be found of Him in peace, without spot and blameless, and account that the long-suffering of our Lord is salvation.' It is a high standard, but we who have confidence of the inheritance of God also confide in his power to keep us blameless and spotless."

Among the preachers in attendance at the camp meeting are Elders R. S. Owen, Clarence Santee, W. T. Knox, J. F. Ballanger, E. S. Ballenger, W. M. Healey, J. W. Adams, S. Thurston, J. H. Rogers, S. T. Have, E. H. Adams, C. T. Adams, C. D. M. Williams and C. E. Knight. The meetings will end September 7.

Burdette.

At the Temple Baptist Church, Sunday morning, Rev. Robert J. Burdette preached from John vii:46: "Never man spake like this man." He said:

"A man said to me—I don't remember the man or the day—some man in a group of half a dozen—yesterday, the day before, last week, last month—almost any day—you will probably hear the same remark tomorrow if you will bring up the subject of preaching in a group of men—'Oh, people are preached to death!' So many men say that to me—usually men who never go to church, that it is not necessary to specify the man. Now and then a woman says it. And then, if you draw the speaker on a little, he will usually add, 'What the people need is more amusement.' This, in the city of Los Angeles, where I do not know how many theaters of all grades of excellence and trashiness are open seven nights in the week, some of them also noon performances every Sunday, every Sunday is crowded with door entertainments—ball games, gardens, coursing parks, all-day time concerts; where Sunday trains run extra cars to people away from the churches, beaches; where every variety of entertainment from Sunday golf to disgusting brutality of the prize ring, publicly advertised daily, and the vigilance of decent men necessary to prevent the brutality of bull fighting to meet the wants of people who want to be amused, where the churches, in the midst of this Vanity Fair, offer two services a week to the over-amused people, look all this in the face and say that the people are preached to death. There are some people who, I would think for five minutes after they spoke, wouldn't say that a month. And that would be glad to take back what they said the week before. 'People preached to death.'

"Say what you will about the personal touch' and 'personal contact,' all that; it is all most excellent in winning of souls. It cannot be too strongly emphasized. And yet the fact remains that the greatest agency in bringing the gospel to the hearts of men has been and is in print. It has been preached for 2000 years by the printing press with its millions of newspapers and magazines, pamphlets and books has not in the least weakened the power and influence of the preached word. The great preaching power of Jesus' ministry lay in His 'mighty works,' but in His words. His touch healed the sufferer, but 'the flesh profiteth nothing.' The words that I speak unto you, they are life.' 'Heaven and earth shall pass away, but my words shall not pass away.' 'The hour is coming, and now is, when the dead shall hear the voice of the Son of God, and they that hear shall live.' The power of the gospel as it is preached in its newness and simplicity by consecrated men who preach it as though their souls depended above everything else on earth, and as is this preaching that draws the unbelieving thousands every Sunday to hear Robert McIntyre, George Thoburn, William Horace Day, Reno Walker—and others like them—men whose least thought in the pulpit is the grace of oratory and the graces of elocution, but whose souls are aflame with the fire and love of the Christ to tell you, people are not preached to death. They are preached to

But three more days of the scholarship contest remain, and three mighty strenuous days they will prove to be for most of the contestants who are in this contest to win.

There is no need, presumably, to tell the contestants to do their very best to increase their scores in the little time remaining, for they will be sure to do that anyway. It is the people who have promised to assist them at the last moment that need the exhortation to get busy.

The last vote must be in by 12 o'clock Wednesday night, in order to do any good, and persons intending to vote are exhorted not to wait until the last minute before sending in their coupons or subscriptions. Render the assistance you have to give today, or tomorrow at the latest, so as to be sure to get in your votes before it is too late to do the contestants any good.

A general "barring loose" of points held in reserve should begin today, so as not to delay the count at the end. Only two days will elapse between the close of the contest and the awarding of the prizes, and in order that the scores may be completed in time to announce the result next Saturday morning, it will be necessary to receive the bulk of the votes yet to be cast early this week.

LAST COUPON.

The daily coupon is printed for the last time this morning, so no one will have to bother with collecting coupons for the last two days the contest is on. If any have large quantities of coupons to put in, please have them sorted in such packages, of uniform size, quality, fit and finish. The number of coupons contained in each package, together with the name of the person for whom they are intended, on the top of each package, together with the number of coupons contained therein. If these arrangements are carefully made it will not be necessary to have the name written on each coupon, and the count will be greatly facilitated. It is impossible for the various contestants to call at all the places where coupons are being saved for them, and persons in out-of-the-way places where contestants are not likely to call before the contest is over, are requested to send in their coupons they may have saved at once, so that they will be given for them just the same as if they were brought in by the contestants themselves. Persons desiring to have contestants with subscriptions are requested also to pay at the office or to any of the Times agents or collectors, at once, for fear that a contestant will not be found in time to personally bring in the money.

MONEY TALKS.

Action is given once more that only cash subscriptions count in the contest. It will not do simply to agree with The Times for a certain time, and at the convenience of the subscriber. If that were allowed, there would be no limit to the number and size of subscriptions that could be claimed by the contestants, and in the end many of the subscriptions would probably be worthless. It would be impossible to distinguish between those of good faith and those simply padding out the score. To get a number of unpaid subscriptions made by parties known to be good, and have already been refused, will be useless for any one to

But three more days of the scholarship contest remain, and three mighty momentous days they will prove to be for most of the contestants who are in this contest to win.

There is no need, presumably, to tell the contestants to do their very best to increase their scores in the little time remaining, for they will be sure to do that anyway. It is the people who have promised to assist them at the last moment that need the exhortation to get busy.

The last vote must be in by 12 o'clock Wednesday night, in order to do any good, and persons intending to help an enterted not to wait until the last minute before sending in their coupons or subscriptions. Render the assistance you have to give today, or tomorrow at the latest, so as to be sure to get in your votes before it is too late to help the contestants any good.

A number "barring loose" of points held in reserve should begin today, so as not to delay the count at the end. Only two days will elapse between the close of the contest and the awarding of the prizes, and in order that the count may be completed in time to announce the result next Saturday morning, it will be necessary to receive the bulk of the votes yet to be counted early this week.

LAST COUPON.

The daily coupon is printed for the last time this morning, so no one will have to bother with collecting coupons for the last two days the contest is on. If any have large quantities of votes to put in, please have them placed in neat packages, of uniform size, and the name of the person for whom they are intended, on the top package of each package, together with the number of coupons contained therein. If these arranged and numbered it will not be necessary to have the name written on each coupon, and the work will be greatly facilitated.

It is impossible for the various contestants to call at all the places where votes are being saved for them, and persons in out-of-the-way places where contestants are not likely to call before the contest is over, are requested to have the coupons they may have saved sent to The Times office, where they will be given for them just the same as if they were brought in by the contestants themselves. Persons desiring to help some contestant with subscriptions are requested also to pay at The Times office or to any of the regular Times agents or collectors, at which time the contestant will not be credited in time to personally bring the money.

MONEY TALKS.

Attention is given once more that only paid subscriptions count in the contest. It will not do simply to agree with The Times for a certain time, and at the convenience of the subscriber. If that were allowed, there would be no limit to the number and value of subscriptions that could be claimed by the contestants, and in the event of the subscriptions would be worthless. It would be impossible to distinguish between those in good faith and those simply sent for padding out the score. Even a number of unpaid subscriptions made by parties known to be friends have already been refused, and will be useless for any one to attempt to get in votes for a scholarship candidate without paying in advance, as the rules of the contest require.

It is also useless for subscribers to resort to subterfuges in trying to classify "old" subscriptions as "new" so that the favored scholarship contestant will receive credit for more "points." All "new" subscriptions must be approved by the route men or agents before credit is given for them as such.

If any of the contestants are holding in reserve new subscriptions that have not yet been approved they are requested to send them in at once so that they can be investigated and approved before the contest is over.

If everybody will comply with the above requests, there will be no delay in figuring out the final score and announcing the result.

ROOM FOR ALL.

There will be further announcements soon concerning the "scholarships, and next Saturday's jubilee.

All the regular contestants, whether they will have high enough scores to win any of the scholarships or not, will be included among the guests of The Times, and every one of them is requested to be at The Times office not later than 10 o'clock next Saturday morning, if they wish to take part in the frolic.

TALK OF THE TOWN.

PASADENA'S LOYAL CITIZENS.

The Pasadena Star, under the heading "Talk of the Town," contains the following interesting bit of gossip concerning The Times' scholarship contest in that city.

"There are some people—indeed there are a good many of them—who are for Pasadena first, last and all the time, whether it is matter of a dog fight, a government garden or even a scholarship contest. George F. Kernaghan is one of them. The other day he happened to glance over the report of the progress of The Times' scholarship contest and became interested. Then he ran his hand through his hair—or over the place where his hair ought to be if he had always been good—and started his think works a-going. The result of his analysis was the conclusion that the first prize in the contest lies between Pasadena and Santa Ana. 'Well, now, I want to know!' said George F. 'If Pasadena is in this thing at all, she is in it to win, or I miss my guess.' So straightway this loyal Pasadenan—who doesn't even know the Pasadena contestant, and the writer of this doesn't even know her name—straightway this loyal Pasadenan went to work. He made a list of his neighbors and friends and acquaintances—a list of people whom he would feel free to approach—went to The Times' office in this city and checked off those who were subscribers paying by the month. Then he went after them. 'See here,' he would say, 'you are taking The Times, paying for it month by month—paying more in the aggregate than it would cost you if you paid a year's subscription in advance, besides the bother of having a boy running to your house to collect every month. Now, you give me your check for $8 for a year's subscription and save money and avoid annoyance and help this worthy young woman to win a valuable scholarship.' As a result of one afternoon's work—in fact, of a few hours' work—Mr. Kernaghan turned in over 5000 votes for the leading Pasadena contestant. Supposing everybody in Pasadena who has the time and inclination should do as Mr. Kernaghan did! Would there be any doubt about the result of the contest?"

"UNKNOWN FRIEND."

Miss Inez Lynn, through courtesy to a stranger who sent her some coupons, received greater and more substantial assistance from him, as the following letter attests. It is dated Santa Barbara, August 24, and reads:

My Dear Miss Lynn: No doubt long ago you decided that the "unknown friend," as you very graciously call me, had either lost interest in the scholarship contest or passed his favor on to one of your opponents, but as you see, such is not the case. Since sending you the last coupons, like you, I have been ill, and isn't it wretched? I haven't enjoyed myself in the least.

Enclosed you will find five dollars ($5) for six months' subscription to The Times. After the extremely clever manner in which you found me—by sending one of my addressed envelopes to the postmaster at Sierra Madre, where I was then staying—I should much like to send in for a year, but at present feel I cannot afford to do so.

My subscription will be new, as I am a stranger in your land. Kindly have the paper sent to me at Sierra Madre, where a friend will get it.

With sincerest hopes that you will obtain the scholarship you wish, I am as ever, cordially,

The name of the sender of the letter and the subscription is withheld, as he prefers to remain Miss Lynn's "unknown friend."

I HAVE been treated by Dr. Schiffman for years. I have tried all his different methods and can say unhesitatingly no dentist or physician has ever operated with such success or skill. In extracting my teeth he did it without any pain to me. It is a great pleasure to me to recommend him and his method of treatment. MILO M. POTTER,

Prop. Van Nuys Hotel and Hotel Potter, Santa Barbara.

Ten years ago a reputable D. D. S. of Va, told me that a certain molar tooth could not be satisfactorily saved and that it would probably not be of service for one year. It has not only served me for ten years, as Dr. Schiffman saved and crowned it, and comparatively speaking without pain. I sing his praise.

I. M. ANDREWS, Pastor M. E. Church, South, Cor. 6th and Mateo Streets.

On account of some unfortunate experience I had in the extraction of my teeth I became a great coward in this respect. Today Dr. Schiffman extracted one of my very refractory teeth without causing me one particle of pain. D. K. TRASK, Judge Superior Court, Los Angeles.

Dr. Schiffman extracted a tooth for me absolutely without pain. His advertising phrase, "Didn't Hurt a Bit," is literally true.

R. D. HOLABIRD, Pacific Electrical Works, Under Nadeau, First St.

SEVERAL years ago Dr. Schiffman did some crown and bridge work for me which has proved entirely satisfactory. The work was done painlessly and with great skill. It gives me great pleasure to recommend him.

IRVING R. SMITH, L. A. Times.

Dr. Schiffman has put in almost an entire upper bridge for me. The bridge is perfect in every respect, and I can use it as well as my natural teeth. The work was promptly and painlessly done. F. P. WELL, 804 West Twelfth.

Dr. Schiffman pulled two of my wisdom teeth, and it didn't hurt a bit; on the contrary, the sensation was pleasant. GUY L. HARRISON, Vice-Pres. Herald Pub. Co.

It is with pleasure that I state that I have had several teeth filled by Dr. Schiffman, and that he filled and extracted the nerve and filled the root of one of my teeth and put on a porcelain crown, which cannot be distinguished from a natural tooth, all of which was done without pain. JUDSON R. RUSS,

Of Davis & Rush, Attorneys, 3 Rogers Blk.

I have had porcelain crown work and some filling done, also had ten teeth and roots extracted by Dr. Schiffman, and take great pleasure in recommending his method to anyone wishing dental work done without pain. MRS. C. W. SCHRAMM,

Mother of Paloma Schramm, Cor. Acosta and Wadsworth.

Dr. Schiffman has put in a very satisfactory piece of bridge work for me and I cheerfully recommend him to anyone in need of dentistry. F. FLORENTINE,

About a year ago I had a solid gold bridge put in by Dr. Schiffman. The work was absolutely painless, and has proved entirely satisfactory, and I cannot say too much in praise of the doctor. GUS BASLER, 215 W. First St.

Dr. Schiffman extracted my teeth and replaced same by bridge work. He also treated and filled two teeth, which I thought were too far gone to save. The above work was all done painlessly and is perfectly satisfactory. E. A. POLLARD, 727 Central Ave.

This is to certify that Dr. Schiffman did some crown work for me seven years ago and the work is as good today as it was when he finished the job.

S. J. McKENZIE, Police Officer, 1438 Essex St.

L. B. OSBORN, Covina Fruit Packer and Postmaster.

Have just had a large back tooth extracted by Dr. Schiffman; had been benefitting, but it was only a trifle and gave no pain. FRED A. DAY, Deputy City Assessor.

SANTA ANA.

COMBATING VINE DISEASE.

SANTA ANA, Aug. 30.—As the result of investigations and experiments extending over the past several years, Prof. Newton B. Pierce, pathologist in charge of the government Pacific Coast laboratory and plant improvement gardens located in this city, has issued a preliminary bulletin on the status of the dread California vine disease, which has worked such havoc among vineyards in this and other portions of the State. In the bulletin Prof Pierce announces some interesting facts concerning the hardiness of the Lenoir vine, a variety with which he has experimented for the past several years in a badly-infected district. This vine, when growing upon its own roots, has been found to be practically resistant to the disease, having been known to thrive and bear heavily for fifteen years in the midst of acres of dead and dying vineyard. As a top graft the Lenoir will save tender Muscat roots for several years after all Muscats upon their own roots in the same region have been killed by the disease, and when used as a root upon which to graft varieties of grapes very subject to disease, this hardy variety has been known to save tens of thousand of tender tops in a vigorous and normal condition for five years, and this in the midst of dying or dead vineyards. It is also noteworthy that new varieties of grapes which have received Lenoir blood through hybridizing have shown great resistance to the disease.

Prof. Pierce has made his experiments with the Lenoir vine and other varieties very thoroughly in the hope of obtaining a resistant stock to combat the inroads of the disease and thus save thousands of dollars to the viticultural interests of the State. Thus far the Lenoir has proved its hardiness in a very satisfactory manner and hopes are entertained that with further experiment varieties will be perfected which are thoroughly resistant. Prof. Pierce now has tests and experiments under way both at the government station and under the direction of experienced viticulturists throughout the State looking to this end.

In the same bulletin Prof. Pierce says that there is "no reason to doubt the identity of the vine disease in the Santa Clara Valley with the California vine disease."

DIED AT OAKLAND.

Word has been received here of the death in Oakland at 11 o'clock yesterday morning of I. S. Insley, a former well-known resident of this city, who moved from here only a few months ago to make his home in the northern part of the State. Mr. Insley was aged about 70 years and was for several years a resident of Santa Ana. He is survived by a widow and two sons.

RIVERSIDE.

BREAKING BLUEROCKS.

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 30.—There was a larger number of contestants than usual at the Magnolia Gun Club's regular weekly shoot at the Arlington traps. There were a dozen events in which good scores were made by Davis, Hancock, Cuttle, Johnson, Merriam, Keith, Kinneally and others. It is probable that a series of shoots will be arranged to take place some time soon, with a team made up of the crack shots of the San Bernardino Gun Club.

SAN JACINTO.

MORE THRESHERS NEEDED.

SAN JACINTO, Aug. 30.—Much anxiety is felt among the grain farmers. Up to this time not more than one-half of the grain crop is threshed and out of the field, and it will take the eight or ten large harvesters into October to finish the threshing. The large fields will be open to rains, and it is feared should the fall rains come early the damage which they will do will run up into the thousands of dollars.

MORE FOREST ACQUIRED.

Notwithstanding the supervisors of the forest reserve in Southern California have put forth every effort to prevent the sawmills in the San Jacinto Mountains from acquiring trees on that reserve, the Scharman Brothers have recently acquired several sections of choice trees, and upon which they will operate the coming five years. One of the tracts acquired lies in the Hemet or Johnson Valley, and another tract north of Strawberry Valley. The stately pines which have so long enhanced the true value of the Hemet Valley, and which were within government purchase have been bought by Scherman Brothers and will be by them rapidly converted into lumber.

SAN JACINTO JOTTINGS.

Hon. R. J. Waters, president of the State Bank here, returned today to Los Angeles.

Ed. Mead, Jr., a large grain grower and hotel man of Imperial, is in town in the interest of his large holdings. Mr. Mead speaks very highly of Imperial and of its bright future.

J. A. VanWinkle of Hemet, and one of the largest and most prosperous fruit growers on the Hemet tract, is to begin at once grubbing up his large orchards in view of sowing the ground to alfalfa and cane. VanWinkle says he has fully demonstrated that there is more money to be made out of growing alfalfa and cane than in growing fruit.

Those present were: F. F. Grave, John Van Liew, C. L. Zahn, F. W. Wachter and D. Boise, directors, and Arthur Wright, attorney, all of Los Angeles. The work of excavating for the foundation walls of the company's proposed new building on E street will be commenced at once.

NEW LAW TEST.

A law passed by the State Legislature in 1901, making it a misdemeanor to interfere with electric wires, will have its first test in this county in Justice Hanna's court at Colton tomorrow, in the case of T. L. Haas of High Grove. Several weeks ago Haas, while engaged in moving a house on South Mt. Vernon avenue, by reason of alleged carelessness brought the moving structure in contact with a live wire, which caused the blowing out of several fuses along the line.

SUNDAY SIFTINGS.

District Attorney Sprecher, who returned yesterday from the Needles, where he was called to investigate the charges of criminal assault preferred against three railroad men, says that most of the reports that have been circulated regarding the alleged assault on Florence Maple, a Harvey House waitress, are not founded on facts. The woman, on the witness stand, testified positively that she had not been the subject of a criminal assault.

The Santa Fé employés in San Bernardino, having practically despaired of having this city chosen as a site for the company's proposed new hospital, which will in all probability be built in Los Angeles, are agitating a movement to have a branch hospital located here in leased quarters, suitably located and properly fitted up.

The estimated cost of the building is between $5000 and $6000, and the work will be done by day's labor, instead of by contract.

RIALTO.

WILL HANDLE LEMONS.

RIALTO, Aug. 30.—The California Citrus Union is remodeling the Gregory packing-house here by opening all sides of the large building to admit free circulation of air. They propose handling lemons under an improved method, having adopted the Teague system. At such times as the market is unfavorable the lemons will be sorted for grade and color and placed in tents and stored for future markets. By this tent system it has been demonstrated that lemons can be carried in good order from November and December to June and July. The Union promises to make every effort and spare no expense to put the lemon business on a paying basis.

MUCH DIVORCED MAN WANTS ANOTHER ONE.

TROUBLE OF THE DUNTON FAMILY TO BE AIRED AGAIN.

Attorney Who Secured Their First Divorce and Later Remarried Them, Files Suit to Sever the Bonds He Tied. Oxnard Clean-up.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, Aug. 30.—The experience of ex-Superior Judge Williams of this county with the Dunton family is about as peculiar as any legal man ever had. A few days ago as attorney for the plaintiff, Williams filed a complaint in the suit of Henry Dunton against Caledonia Dunton for divorce, action being brought on the ground of desertion. On its face this is a simple little story of domestic trouble which two aged people finally bring into court for settlement, but in reality it is only the last chapter, so far as known, of a stirring series of events which go to make up a peculiar life story, with Williams pretty closely woven into the queer tale.

The Duntons were married in this county (then a part of Santa Barbara county) away back in 1867. A son, now grown, was born to them, and apparently all went well with them, for a time at least. Then Williams became acquainted with them. When a fledgeling lawyer, in 1871, Williams was retained by Mrs. Dunton to secure a divorce for her from her husband on the ground of desertion. He succeeded in having the decree rendered.

Time passed and Ventura became a county of itself after a while. The attorney was made a Superior Judge. Meantime the Duntons had become weary of living alone and each had taken a spouse. But these new marriage ventures proved no more successful than their own, and each Dunton in time secured a divorce from his partner. Incompatibility of temper would ever crowd itself forward and make the dual life unpleasant.

Then came another chapter to the strange tale. In 1892 the two Duntons so well remembered by Judge Williams again came across his path. They appeared before him with a marriage license and asked that he again tie the knot which he had severed years before. As Superior Judge he did so with his blessing. He thought that action ended the story and that the Duntons would live happy ever after. This was not to be, however. Williams is again at private practice. A few days ago he was surprised to have a call from Dunton, and still more surprised when Dunton informed him that he wanted another divorce. The attorney will do his best to secure it.

TO ENFORCE THE LAW.

Citizens are complaining of wheelmen who insist upon riding on the sidewalks of the town despite the fact that there is an ordinance forbidding the practice and which fixes a severe penalty upon violators. The ordinance has grown to be a dead letter by reason of non-enforcement, and wheelmen, many of them, have evidently forgotten that it exists. It is a common thing to have a man swirl along the prominent sidewalks of the town and ring for pedestrians to get out of his way. The trustees will be urged to see that their law is enforced.

Oxnard is preparing to oil its streets. It will go at the matter in a systematic way and use oil and gravel in the operation. There will be no experimenting, but the best method will be studied and then the work rushed as it should be.

Oxnard is cleaning out the pimps and other toughs which infest the place, and it is stated that there is enough work on hand and in prospect for a dozen justices of the peace in this line. Sam McVey, the colored pug, and William Abernethy have already been gathered up in the official dragnet as "vags." The latter was given five months in the County Jail.

SANTA MARIA.

WORST OF GRAIN BLOCKADES.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

SANTA MARIA, Aug. 30.—One of the worst grain blockades experienced in years is now on and at the local grain warehouse the grain is piled as high as the warehouse, right on the platforms. At the beginning of the season the officials took every precaution to handle the grain as rapidly as possible, but owing to a lack of steamers the shipments could not be made, and in consequence the grain is piled up as never before. It is questionable now if the platforms can be cleared before the winter rains set in. On an average about 15,000 sacks of grain arrive at the station every day, and as the steamers are able to carry only about 5000 at a time, and make only two trips a week it can be readily estimated how long it will be before the harvest of more than a half-million sacks is shipped. In another month the beans will begin to come in, and how they will ever be moved out this season is going to prove a puzzle to the ranchers, who seek returns for their crops.

WILL ENTER A PROTEST.

The State Board of Equalization has notified the clerk of this county of a proposed increase in the assessed valuation of the county. In consequence the matter has been taken up by the Board of Supervisors and the County Assessor. Supervisor Elliot of the Santa Maria district and Supervisor Broughton of the Lompoc district, together with Deputy Assessor Barker, will appear before the State board on Monday and protest against the proposed increase. The property valuations last year, including real estate, improvements, personal property, money, and mortgages, was $13,465,855. This year Assessor Smith has placed the valuation on the same items at $15,507,105, to which is added $1,779,494 railroad assessment, which is the same valuation as last year, making a total of $17,286,599. Many of the taxpayers consider the proposed additional taxation out of all proportion.

SANTA MARIA BREVITIES.

William V. Powell, a pioneer of this valley and a veteran of the Civil War, died here Thursday and was buried on Friday. Powell was well known in this part of the county, and his funeral was largely attended by residents from all parts of the valley and from some of the neighboring towns. He distinguished himself during the war, and was promoted from a private to the rank of captain. He served with the One Hundredth Indiana Regiment.

Prof. H. Pinnell and wife have moved to Anaheim, where the professor will take charge of the High School.

Charles Bloom and family of Watsonville are visiting R. O. Walker.

H. A. Rispin and Charles Searles, oil men from the East, were in the valley last week, looking over the oil field in the interest of the Midland Pacific Railroad.

Miss Mabel Palmer of Iowa left for Pasadena yesterday.

Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Harris celebrated their china wedding on Wednesday evening. A large number of friends were present.

My Treatment Cures

Permanently these conditions for which you have treated many times.

I Treat The Exact Cause

I know what I am able to accomplish by personal attention.

Functional Decline
Fagging of Strength

I believe the treatment I employ in the cure of this derangement is the only scientific, rational and absolutely certain method whereby functional activity of the parts can be fully restored to normal. I do not excite temporary activity. This would be followed by reaction. Instead, I remove the local cause, "EXACT CAUSE" producing the derangement and restore normal physiological conditions throughout the organic system. As the congestion or inflammation is removed, circulation is increased and the parts take on a healthy, strong and vigorous action the effect of which is felt throughout the entire body. Men suffering from general debility will find the cause directly traceable to these conditions.

Contagious Blood Diseases

May be inherited or contracted. When the system becomes tainted with the poison, it may manifest itself in many ways: ulcers, sores, scrofula, eczema, stiff and painful joints, eruption, copper-colored spots on the body, ulcers in the mouth, swollen and inflamed tonsils, loss of hair, decay of flesh and bone. If your symptoms are any of these, I invite you to take advantage of the treatment I offer; which will completely eradicate the last taint of poison from the system.

Good results are not had by guessing, but by knowing what to do and how to do it. Patients who have been disappointed, and who have chronic conditions follow improper treatment or neglect, are especially anxious for the right kind of treatment. With my treatment and methods that are rational, and personal attention, you will note improvement from the first, which will be the beginning of a cure and a re-establishment of normal conditions. Many weaknesses and conditions requiring treatment are directly traceable to the reproductive system. My examinations are searching and you may know what you can depend upon.

Varicocele.

I effect a cure in 4 to 6 days, which is permanent and complete. I may refer you to a number of cases if you are in doubt or have been treated unsuccessfully. In this you will know just what you can depend upon. My personal attention to each case treated is necessary to attain quick results.

Contracted Diseases.

Become chronic through improper treatment. A million men have failed to get relief through inferior mediums. I cure these ailments more quickly, with less pain and inconvenience, than any one claiming to treat successfully these disorders. The treatment is direct, and goes to the very spot. Has your trouble become chronic through improper treatment, or by the use of caustic remedies? Has it caused deep-seated inflammation, and irritation of the urinary tract, as the result of which you now suffer from stricture? I cure some of the most aggravated conditions in 10 to 15 days, and can promise that my work along this line will give perfect satisfaction.

Piles

I cure without any operation whatever. They are a condition which may be treated unsuccessfully for years. I cure by direct contact, and by restoring tone to the hemorrhoidal veins. The cure is absolute, and no return will occur. Also Contracted Diseases, Rectal Troubles, Varicocele, Piles, Chronic Nervous Disorders, Bladder and Urethral Diseases and Prostatic Troubles.

Not by Mail.

A Practice Built on Merit Will Stand.

I do not treat by mail—in this I avoid all guess work. When I treat any condition I must know what for and why. Experience and training of the right kind is absolutely necessary to accomplish quick and permanent results. My examinations are such and so thoroughly conducted that I will know what to do, and with my facilities, how to do it. This enables me to get at the "exact Cause" and treat with some certainty of a cure with the most effective treatment. Certainty of a cure is what you want and this cannot be had by guessing through the mail.

Stricture

I cure some of the most aggravated cases in 10 to 15 days. By a thorough and combined method of absorption and irrigation I am able to remove the urethral obstruction, all inflammation and soreness, thus rendering the parts healthy and free from any discharge whatever. My treatment is safe, quick, clean, thorough and effective.

I WAIT FOR MY FEE UNTIL CURED.

PASADENA SUBURBS DESIRE IMPROVEMENTS.

LA CANADA CITIZENS PERFECT AN ORGANIZATION.

Will Develop Water, Build Roads and Strive for Railway—Poor Widow Inherits Fortune from Sailor Lost at Sea—Coöperative Laundry.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 24 South Raymond Avenue, Aug. 31.—La Cañada people seem to be deadly in earnest in their intention to turn the foothill ranch suburb into a thriving town with all city appurtenances. It looked like a one-man spurt at first, but now the entire population is stirred up and working for the trolley which in this neighborhood has come to be regarded as the forerunner of prosperity. The sanguine ones can see La Cañada built up solidly with suburban residences, and they don't see it so far in the future either.

On Saturday night the ball was set rolling when nearly a hundred citizens assembled in the town hall and organized an improvement association. Dr. D. W. Edwards was chosen president; Sam Hall, vice-president; D. J. Green, second vice-president; Alpha B. Knight, secretary; J. J. Bell, treasurer. These gentlemen are all old settlers and representative, progressive men, the cream of the community. Their selection makes the business look like something doing.

Among those who made talks of interest at the meeting were Will D. Gould, Esq., who is interested in real estate in that section; Rev. Lantz Eastman, who also owns considerable property; B. Hayman, the Los Angeles wagon merchant, who owns a large orange grove at La Cañada; J. H. Nicholson, C. H. Morris and other property owners.

The new association chose an executive committee of the officers which is to further at once several plans that were agreed upon at the meeting. La Cañada has several propositions for betterment of its condition, and it proposes to begin at the bottom. Everybody realizes that more water is needed if the section is to be built up. So there is a scheme for developing it from the well-supplied near-by mountains. Most of the members of the committee own large water rights, so that they know where and how to start. A big storage reservoir is talked of. The association will also look after the improvement of roads and, when the foundation of achievement is laid and they have model conditions to offer to settlers, they propose to try to induce the Pacific Electric Railway to build through the county. Huntington has already decided upon Verdugo Cañon branch that would run near by. What La Cañadans want is a belt line that would run through Verdugo Cañon from Los Angeles, thence eastward over the mesa and connecting with the North Pasadena extension, necessitating a bridge across the arroyo. They think this would not only be a great scenic route, traversing as it would a section that is popular with tourists, but would also tempt business men who are employed in Los Angeles and Pasadena, to erect homes. Some members of the association have more confidence in the Salt Lake route as their rescue from obscurity. The Salt Lake is already built on both sides of the place.

CHIEF AS SAMARITAN.

The business of being Chief of Police is not an easy one. It is seldom that the duties of the office are pleasant. They consist principally in dealing with unclean criminals, listening to the lamentations of broken-hearted wives of drunkards and breaking the news to wayward youths that they will have to spend the night in the lock-up. But Chief Freeman yesterday had a little break in the general routine, like the sun shining suddenly through dark clouds. He enjoyed the pleasure of informing a poor widow with two children that she has fallen heir to a small fortune.

The information came in a letter from Ballard, inquiring as to the whereabouts of Mrs. Fritz Johansen, who had resided on Orange Place at one time, but later removed without leaving any address. The letter was also covered with stamps that there was scarcely room for the address. It was in Dutch, and had to be interpreted. Freeman got it explained into the vernacular, learned that Mrs. Johansen's deceased husband's brother had been at sea and left her some 2000 or 4000 florins. Mrs. Johansen lives on Orange Place at present in Los Angeles.

PARTNERSHIP WASHING.

South Pasadena is to have a cooperative laundry, which, if the ideas of the promoters work out to their satisfaction, will make the settlement laundry bills a treasure. The company is being organized under the State laws, and the name "The Home Co-operative Laundry Association," expects to start next week at building a plant on the bank of the arroyo in the Ostrich Farm. The new company claims to have already 500 members who have paid in $10 each for a start-up fund. Part of this sum is to constitute a reserve fund. The contention is that the bigger the membership the smaller will be the charge for cleaning socks, collars, cuffs, clothes, napkins, etc., to members. Each member is to have a share of stock, if there are any. It costs on an average about 75 cents per dozen to send a family wash, and the new company is sanguine of being able to do it for from 10 to 20 cents per dozen.

CAUGHT IN PASSING.

The choir of All Saints' Episcopal Church is to be greatly improved this week. There is to be a quartette, of which Mrs. Bragdon, bass, and Miss Hastings, soprano, of Los Angeles, have been selected. H. H. Bragdon will remain as director and organist, but will be engaged in addition.

Funeral of the late Mrs. Edward Hastings was quietly held at the residence, No. 97 Grand avenue, Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, Rev. Wilbur MacCormack officiating. Mr. Hastings will leave this evening for New York with the body for interment.

Ah Kee, laundryman, was relieved of his horse by the police yesterday. Ah Kee was so far in the next world that only his tail stuck out. He will get this morning and depart in

Mr. and M. Hill and family are enjoying an outing at Coronado Beach.

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND.

BANK NOW ASSURED.

AVALON, Aug. 30.—A bank for Avalon is at length an assured fact. Negotiations have been pending for some time between J. W. Harris, president of the Evarts State Bank of Evarts, South Dakota, and W. M. Hunt of Avalon, in regard to the renting of a building here for bank purposes, and yesterday the deal was closed whereby Mr. Harris takes a lease of the premises now occupied by Dr. J. J. Pickham as his office. It is located on Sumner avenue immediately next Hunt & Clark's curio store, and adjoining the Glenmore Hotel. Mr. Harris expects to open the bank about November 1.

ISLAND BREVITIES.

Mrs. W. G. Sems and Miss Laura May Stewart of San Pedro were taking in the sights of the island today.

Paul W. Moore, editor of the Daily Facts, L. J. Rice teller of the Union Bank, and C. C. Ames, all of Redlands, and E. B Rivers of Los Angeles, came over on the late boat last night.

The big schooner Admiral, which the Banning Company chartered for the month of August to handle any emergency crowds, and which has laid in the bay here for two weeks, went out today at 1:30, carrying all who chose to go at that hour. Comparatively few went, most of the visitors preferring to spend all the time possible here and go out on the 6:30 boat.

Miss Ashley Fraser of the historic town of Winchester, Va., and her mother, now of Opileka, Ala., the wife of Rev. Mr. Shoof, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church of that place, are at the Metropole.

F. G. Ferand and daughter of Redlands are at the Metropole for a few days' stay. Mr. Ferand is with the First National Bank.

Miss Morris of San Francisco and Miss Celia Norton of Los Angeles are at Catalina for a few days, and are guests of Mrs. C. C. Cohn, on Claressa avenue.

The Venus, Commodore Herbert Pease, and a friend on board, dropped into the bay last evening for over Sunday.

Judge B. N. Smith of the Los Angeles Superior Court, and F. W. Meade, a G.A.R. veteran of Elgin, Ill., an old companions-in-arms of the Judge, are spending a few days at Hotel Glenmore.

G. F. Morgan of Los Angeles joined his sister, Miss Pearl Morgan of Riverside, at the Glenmore.

The Meteor excursion and barbecue at the Isthmus today was greatly enjoyed by about seventy persons. The party comprised the following: Helen Witt, Mrs. J. Hyans, Judge B. N. Smith, Nettie Lloyd, Mary Fleming, G. T. Shoder, Miss L. C. Pearson, William Fleming, H. R. Blanchard, O. F. Chapman, Miss E. Stone, Prof. Joseph Fendrey, L. R. Winans and wife, L. R. Winans, Jr., C. F. Walter, wife and son, Miss Maude Elizabeth Richards, J. C. McClure, wife and son, Kenneth, Frank E. Walsh, Frank B. Wells, L. W. Bernhard, George R. Wells, Leonard C. H. D. Stramler and J. C. Grinton were elected delegate and alternate, respectively, to the annual conference which meets September 25. Services are held in Peaslee Hall Sunday afternoons at 2:30 o'clock. Rev. Hugh E. Smith, Los Angeles, preached today.

AZUSA.

NEW DIRECTORS CHOSEN.

AZUSA, Aug. 30.—The annual stockholders' meeting of the Glendora Citrus Association was held yesterday. The new board of directors elected were W. J. Cox, president; G. G. Mathews, vice-president; W. R. Powell, secretary; J. H. Hommell and J. J. West. The association has shipped during the past year 318 carloads of oranges, and the average returns to the growers have been very satisfactory. In anticipation of a large increase in the crop for the coming season plans are under way for an enlargement of the packing house and the addition of new facilities for handling the fruit. A resolution was unanimously adopted indorsing the work of the California fruit agency, and strongly commending the action of the Southern California Fruit Exchange in the formation of the agency.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the Charter Oak Citrus Association was also held yesterday. This organization has just completed its first year's business, having shipped a total of 67 cars of oranges. The new board of directors elected are Messrs. William Bowring, W. Crook, S. A. Stowell, Arthur Bowring and J. Erwin Hoy.

LORDSBURG.

"SPION KOP" SOLD AGAIN.

LORDSBURG, Aug. 30.—"Spion Kop," at La Verne, has again changed hands. W. A. Mauck, who bought this 160-acre property from Elias Finck, sold it to a Los Angeles college professor, and takes in payment for this and his Pomona property a ranch and residence in Phoenix, Ariz.

Trustees elected for the Union High School are L. H. Bixby for La Verne, W. H. McIlmoil for Lordsburg, and Frank J. Johnston for San Dimas.

The rural mail delivery will begin from Lordsburg Tuesday. Few boxes have been put up, and the people apparently do not realize that the carrier will deliver no mail matter unless a box is placed to receive it. The route will be up Lincoln avenue to Mesa avenue and east to San Antonio avenue, then north to Base Line road,

GOVERNMENT BEGINS GREAT DAM WORK.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

PHOENIX (Ariz.) Aug. 28.—Formal notification has not been made by the Interior Department of the acceptance of the Tonto Basin dam site or of the guarantee of the people of the Salt River Valley for the repayment to the government of the dam's $3,000,000 cost, but the government is going ahead, just the same; and it may be stated that construction work is already in progress on this greatest of Southwestern development enterprises.

The latest word from Tonto Basin is that the farms and ranches lying within the area of the proposed reservoir are now being purchased by Charles Mullins, of the staff of the Geological Survey. Mr. Mullins has purchased all but eight claims that are to be covered by water. Only three of the eight are patented land. The average price paid is $30 an acre. The land was very valuable until the construction of the Gila Valley, Globe and Northern Railway brought to Globe the agricultural products of the upper Gila Valley more cheaply than they could be transported overland from the farms of the upper Salt River. The settlers have been given six months in which to vacate the premises. It is believed probable, however, that no objection will be made to their continuance on the ground that they may supply vegetables and fodder to the thousand workmen and hundreds of horses that will be required on construction work. Advertisement has been made already for construction of the mill building in which is to be made all the cement required for the great dam. The advertisement calls for eighty tons of structural steel and iron. Bids will be opened by E. Dargye of the United States Reclamation service in the Chamber of Commerce Building, Denver, Col., September 21.

The principal work in progress at the present time is that of road building, on which a large number of Apache Indians are to be employed. About 100 Indians are already at work on a road into the forest reserve on top of the Sierra Ancha mountains, where lies one of the finest bodies of yellow pine known in the Southwest. It is thought practicable to float much of the timber down Salt River, fully two-thirds of the distance to be traversed. The first timber to be gotten out will be for telephone poles, for the sixty-two mile line between the dam and Phoenix. A costly road is also to be built over the Superstition mountains, to give wagon transportation between the two points. Water transportation for a time will be to Globe, but thereafter will probably be to Mesa. Fifty men are building a road from the dam site to clay beds three miles away. The clay is to be used in making cement.

The next work of importance will probably be the construction of the great water-power canal, heading near the mouth of Pinal creek, a distance of twenty miles from the dam, and ending at a point 255 feet above the bottom of the canyon at the dam site. It is expected that over 1000 men will be employed on these various features of preliminary work within a few months. The work has been placed under the charge of Arthur Powell Davis, who is expected at the dam site within the next few days.

Several of the engineers at work upon the Tonto Basin project are lately from Nevada, where they have been preparing for a great reclamation enterprise that is being put through by the United States for the benefit of the lands lying below the Truckee River. The next point of attack in Arizona would appear to be the Colorado River. Edmund T. Perkins, an engineer of the Geological Survey, on behalf of the United States, has filed in the office of the Secretary of the Territory a notice of the appropriation of 100,000 cubic second-feet of water from the left bank of the Colorado, at a point where a notice has been posted, twenty-two miles and a quarter above Yuma. The water is claimed for irrigation, manufacturing, water power, domestic and other beneficial purposes. The place of the intended use is the "Yuma Valley," and the terminus is the Mexican boundary line. The canal through which the water is to be conveyed is to be sixty-five feet wide on the bottom, seventy-five feet wide on top, and it is to have a depth of ten feet on a grade of thirty feet to the mile. It is intended to construct a reservoir and to store the water in whole or in part in the reservoir, which is described as follows: A strip of land on the Arizona side of the Colorado River from a river elevation of 150 feet above mean sea level, at or near Cocopah Point, to a point 250 feet above mean sea level elevations, as established and marked by the United States Geological Survey; also a strip on the California side of the river, from a river elevation of 150 feet amove mean sea level, at or near Cocopah Point, to a point 250 feet above mean sea level elevations, as established and marked by the survey. The application is dated August 20.

While the geological survey is looking after the possibilities of water storage along the Colorado River, the Agricultural Department is looking after the possibilities for agriculture. Prof. R. H. Forbes, director of the experiment stations in Arizona, and his assistant, W. W. Skinner, have started for Needles, from which point they will go down the river by boat, making careful examination of the character of the land and its advantages for agricultural development. It is believed that the whole Colorado Valley is possessed of the best conditions for the growth of deciduous and citrus fruits, for long stretches of the mesa land save limitation to be absolutely free from frost.

The following-named have been appointed by Gov. Brodie to represent Arizona at the Irrigation Congress, which will be in session in Ogden all of September 15 to 19 inclusive: H. C. Herrick, Fairbank; William John, Thatcher; Terrance O'Brian, Safford; I. E. Solomon, Solomonville; Col. J. W. Dorrington, Yuma; J. E. Ludy, Yuma; W. H. Wallace, Mesa; Miles Arnold, Camp Verde; James Page, Cornville; George H. Hance, Camp Verde; D. P. Orme, Phoenix; C. T. Hirst, Phoenix; Frank Allison, Tucson; C. R. Hakes, Mesa; J. W. Woolf, Tempe; Capt. Henry W. Warner, Holbrook.

Fatal Hours.

Is it a fact that certain hours of the twenty-four which form a day are more fatal to life than the rest? Is the popular belief that deaths occur at any particular moment more than any others founded on fact? A solution of this question has been attempted by a physician who, having set down in writing the exact time of the deaths of 2880 persons of all ages, among a mixed population, and extending over many years, easily perceive that the most fatal hour was between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning. On the other hand, the minimum was between 9 and 11 o'clock, also in the morning. The mortality at the first-named hour was 40 per cent. above the average, in the second 6½ per cent. below it. Between 10 and 2 o'clock during the day the mortality was not high. The most fatal hours were between 3 and 6 o'clock in the morning. The fact is therefore proved there are fatal hours. Why? The explanation is easy. In fact, the statistics of 5000 to 6000 deaths, collected by Mr. Haviland, and laid before the British Medical Association in 1864, showed that in the great majority of cases death supervened between 1 o'clock and 3 o'clock in the morning, and that the minimum number occured between 1 o'clock in the afternoon and midnight. Hence the practical deduction that death most frequently happens at a time when, generally speaking, the sick are neither fed nor looked after. Hence, also, the therapeutic deduction that those who suffer should be watched unceasingly.—(European Edition New York Herald.

No Use for Rat Traps.

A wealthy resident of Philadelphia, who has lately built an expensive log cabin on an island in Penobscot Bay, tells of his experience with the fishing and farming population of the island when he was building his rustic residence. As many workmen were employed for all summer, the owner of the new home opened a small store to supply his help with tobacco and other needful articles, including groceries for those who lived in camps with their families. One of the latter came to the store and told the clerk that his home was overrun with rats, which destroyed every bit of food as fast as he took it from the store. The clerk showed him a wire rat trap and told him he would sell it at cost, and if it did not satisfy him he could bring it back after giving it a fair trial. Grant took the trap home, but brought it back a week later, saying he did not wish to purchase.

"Didn't it catch any rats for you?" asked the clerk.

"Every blamed one of them," was the reply. "There isn't a rat on the premises now, and that's why I brought the trap back, as I do not wish to pay out money for things that I cannot use."—[Philadelphia Ledger.

BOILERS—
LOS ANGELES BOILER WORKS,

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Goes to Stanford.

Miss Ruth Brown, daughter of Mrs. T. W. Brown, matriculated at Stanford University last week.

For Home Buildings.

Within two weeks the street work in Strong & Dickinson's new South Park tract will be completed. About one-half of the tract has already been sold to prospective home builders. Among the purchasers are Mrs. A. M. Burpacker, R. C. Graham, Martin Miretinovich, J. C. Smith, James Lewis and R. G. Roberts.

Civil Service Examination.

The United States Civil Service Commission will hold a stenography and typewriting examination in this city October 19. Stenographers over 20 years old may be examined for the service within the United States, and those from 18 to 40 years of age for the Philippine service. Applications should be directed to the secretary of the local board of examiners at room No. 14 of the postoffice.

Of Ostrich Farm.

At cigar stands on Spring street and Fourth street are on exhibition the two immense colored photographs of the local ostrich farm to be exhibited at the World's Fair at St. Louis next year. These will be admired by millions of people; they give a true forceful picture of Southern California's new ostrich feather industry, which, while now in its inception, will some day place California at the head of the list in the supply of this fashionable feminine adornment.

K. Kipp's Funeral.

N. Kipp, a veteran hackman of Los Angeles, was buried from Turner Hall yesterday with signal honors by his cabmen associates. A band of music preceded the cortège to Evergreen Cemetery, and there were fifteen hacks in line. Services at Turner Hall were attended by a large number of hackmen, and there were numerous beautiful floral tributes. Mr. Kipp has been in the public carriage business in Los Angeles for the past twelve years, and leaves a family.

A Dry Lake.

A noticeable change has been made in the view of the lake at Hollenbeck Park. For the past eight years the high arched bridge near the boathouse has been one of the striking features of the landscape. It has been a favorite shot for the camera hunters, and views of this bridge have gone to all parts of the United States. Last week the structure was cut down, and made to fit the abutments recently placed for a low foot bridge across the narrow neck of the lake a short way south of the band stand. There is still a shortage of water at the park, and the lake has become as dry as the proverbial bone.

Engineer's Peculiar Accident.

By a most peculiar combination of circumstances, William Britton, a young man who operates the engine on the Santa Fé avenue dummy line to the coursing park, suddenly had his grasp loosened from the brake yesterday evening by a bullet which made a hole in his left arm between the hand and elbow. Accompanying the sting in his arm was the report of a discharged cartridge, but no one was in sight who could have fired it. Some figuring as to how the accident occurred was done by Britton and the passengers, and they concluded that the cartridge—a 22-caliber—had been placed on the track by a boy, and the front wheel had exploded it. The missile had by some means been discharged upwards and passed through an aperture in the floor of the dummy between the brake and the border. The injury was not serious, and after treatment at the Receiving Hospital Britton was removed to his home, No. 2255 Edwards street.

Is This Englishman Right?

"I grant you," said an Englishman who knows New York pretty well, to a reporter, "I grant you that your restaurants and cafés are about as swell as anyone can find in the world, but you keep them all too hot, don't you know. You aim at being bright and showy and all that sort of thing, you know, but there is such a fault as having too much glare and ornament.

"You understand, my dear fellow, I'm not saying this in a spirit of insular prejudice, because I like many of your ways awfully, indeed I do; but it's a fact, nevertheless, that you haven't yet discovered the art of dining coolly.

"Look at this place, now. Gorgeous as a fairy grotto and a Louis Quinze saloon combined, but a perfect sweat bath, don't you know, and you can't help it—with hundreds and hundreds of lights—no matter if they are electric; every inch of the wall incrusted with ornamentation, pictures and mirrors all over, and draperies at every aperture and recess. Is it any wonder that it is stuffy here?

"And then there are the boilers, or the pipes, or whatever the deuced things are called that serve to make the place as hot as the infernal regions and make it as much as your precious life is worth to go from one of these places into the open air.

"Now, don't mind my saying so, dear boy, but I think that beautiful and bright as these cafés and restaurants are, they offer a very good illustration of your prevailing characteristic—that of overdoing things. There's too much ornament, too much glitter and, above all things, too much warmth. Really there is, you know."—[New York Herald.

New Car Wheel.

C. W. Hawkins, who is now at work on his division of the Great Northern Railway, with headquarters at Garretson, S. D., has been awarded a patent on an invention which, it is said, promises to make him a millionaire.

The product of his genius is termed a ball-bearing anti-friction car wheel. Its practicability is soon to be tested by several eastern railroads as well as the Great Northern. The car wheel does not differ materially in appearance from an ordinary wheel, and is so constructed that it may be made independent of the journal and run on the ball-bearing attachment if occasion demands.

In the event of a hot journal—often the cause of disastrous wrecks—by the application of a wedge, the journal may be made to remain stationary and the wheel will run on the ball bearings, which are constructed of highly-hardened steel and are oiled automatically.

The arrangement also permits the outside wheel to run faster in traversing a curve than the inside wheel without slipping, thus reducing the possibility of friction minimum and doing away with the wear, which makes it imperative that the steel on sharp curves must be replaced at frequent intervals to avoid derailments and resulting disasters to rolling stock and possible loss of life.

It is also claimed for the new wheel that it will reduce the draught of trains fully 25 per cent, and that it can be manufactured and maintained at a small added cost over the price of the wheels at present in use.—[New York Herald.

Shirtless Rage.

The fellow who stole Bill Spivin's shirt had better be in Floyd Crossing with his back broken than to let Bill catch him.—[Charles City (Iowa) Daily Press.

VENEZUELANS CRY DEATH TO ALIENS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CUMANA (Venezuela) Aug. 31.—[By South American Cable.] A gibbet was erected in a street of this city yesterday, on which was hung an effigy representing a foreigner, and the populace beat the dummy with sticks amid shouts of "Death to the foreigners!"

Two leading traders, M. Palachi, a Frenchman, and Herry Sprick, a German, were recently arrested in Ciudad Bolivar by order of President Castro for refusing to pay their taxes, which had already been collected by the revolutionists during the latter's occupation of the city. Many other persons were also arrested on the same charge. The French and German ministers at Caracas protested, and obtained the immediate release of their fellow-countrymen.

Gen. Rolando and two hundred of the rebel officers who were captured at Ciudad Bolivar, have arrived at Maracaibo. They were incarcerated in the fortress of San Carlos with their feet in irons.

MAN-HUNT IN INTERIOR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WILLEMSTAD (Island of Curacao) Aug. 31.—Harsh justice is being meted out to foreigners residing in the interior of Venezuela, where the local authorities are hunting down all foreigners who dare to present claims against Venezuela, in accordance with the recent protocol.

Near Coros, the local tribunal refused to accept the testimony of five Italians. On the latter insisting in tendering their depositions, three were arrested and thrown into jail. Two of them attempted to escape and were fired upon, one being killed. The Venezuelan government does not deny this occurrence, but is doing all it can to prevent a repetition. It is learned on good authority that letters sent to foreigners from the Italian and other legations, instructing them to send in their claims, were seized in the posts, so as to prevent the claims from arriving at Caracas in due time.

BULGARIANS ADMIT WAR IS IMMINENT.

Formal Declaration of Hostilities May be Waived by Both Sides.

Large Numbers of Insurgents Have Recently Crossed the Frontier—Extensive Outbreak in Northern Macedonia Possible at Any Time—Turkish Troops Spread Destruction Along Their Route.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALONICA, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Turks have occupied Klissura, Albania, without resistance. A number of Bulgarian villages in its vicinity were burned. Inspector-General Hilmi Pasha recently sent a commission composed of five Christians and five Turks to offer amnesty to the insurgents on condition that they lay down their arms before the festivities tomorrow in honor of the Sultan's coronation.

Sarafoff, the revolutionary leader, has arrived in the neighborhood of Salonica for the purpose of directing the movements in this district. Some Turkish officers, August 29, sold 15 cases of Martini rifles and a quantity of ammunition to Bulgarians.

SOFIA, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] In both official and revolutionary circles, the opinion is freely held that war between Bulgaria and Turkey is imminent, and can be averted by nothing short of a miracle. It is not expected that either government will formally declare hostilities, but that the prevailing conditions will force warfare.

There is no question that large numbers of insurgents have recently crossed the frontier. An extensive outbreak in Northern Macedonia is possible at any time. The Autonomy prints a telegram from Constantinople, declaring that the Sultan, influenced by the counsels of Germany, now favors war with Bulgaria. The Turks here, however, take an optimistic view, asserting that there is no danger of a war, as Turkey does not desire one, and Prince Ferdinand and the present Bulgarian government are not in a position to force hostilities.

The Bulgarian agent at Uskub reports that etachments of Turkish troops sent to garrison the small towns in that vilayet have spread destruction along their route; the villagers have been robbed and beaten, the women violated, and the Christian population subjected to every conceivable outrage, while the local authorities appear to be helpless to stop the hostilities. At the village of Drachme, six miles from Uskub, the soldiers attacked all the peasants without the gendarmes interfering on behalf of the latter.

The Bulgarian agent specifies similar excess in many other villages, and the position of the Bulgarian residents is reported to be terrible, as the cruelties committed by the Turkish fiends exceeded all limits.

Up to 6 o'clock this evening, Prince Ferdinand had not arrived in Sofia and the court officials declare that they are without information as to his movements.

TURKS FOMENTING TROUBLE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SOFIA, Aug. 31.—Nine hundred refugees from Malkotirnovo and surrounding villages have arrived at Urumku, Bulgaria. The refugees say the Turkish garrison fired upon the Bulgarian part of Malkotirnovo with the object of creating an impression that a revolution was in porgress.

The prefect summoned the Bulgarian notables of Malkotirnovo, August 21, and endeavored to force them to sign a statement that the insurgents were the aggressors. The notables refused to do so, and the first man who refused was hanged the next day.

The Macedonian leaders here claim that an aggregate of 2000 Bulgarians have crossed the frontier in small parties and joined the insurgents during the last ten days. Gen. Zonte Hoff, president of the Macedonian Committee, and Col. Jankoff, one of the revolutionary leaders, who are now in Macedonia, sent word that the insurgents forces total 12,000 to 15,000 men. They expect that a general insurrection will be proclaimed this week.

UNCLE SAM'S WARSHIPS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

GENOA, Aug. 31.—The United States cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco, which sailed from Genoa yesterday evening, are bound for Beirut and not for Port Said, as previously cabled. The Machias previously sailed for Port Said, where she will coal.

CHEEKY CHEKIB BEY.

WOULD MAKE TURKS O. K.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Chekib Bey, the Turkish Minister, had a long interview today with Secretary Hay. He refused to discuss the interview, stating that he had nothing to communicate further than what appeared in the Associated Press dispatches yesterday morning. After the interview Secretary Hay visited the Navy Department. If the Turkish Minister requested, that the European squadron be kept away from Turkish waters his request probably cannot be granted, even should this government desire to accede to it, as the Navy Department states that it will be impossible to communicate with either the Brooklyn or San Francisco until they arrive at Beirut.

Chekib Bey assured Secretary Hay that the Turkish government had done nothing wrong, and will use every endeavor to protect American citizens residing in Turkey. He also discussed the condition of the insurrection in Turkey, and said that the Turkish government was not responsible for any of the disasters that had occurred.

Secretary Hay's call upon Acting Secretary Darling was for the purpose of ascertaining the whereabouts of the European squadron and also what their orders are. There is no intention of changing any orders at present, especially as the ships cannot be reached until they arrive at Beirut.

HIS STATUS QUESTIONED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Some questions have been raised as to whether Chekib Bey is an actual Minister of Turkey, because his credentials have not been presented, and he has not yet been officially received as Minister by the President. No point is made by the State Department on this account, and Secretary Hay considers Chekib Bey as the Minister of Turkey to the United States. The presenting of the credentials is a mere formality, as the State Department is aware that the Minister has been duly accredited by his country, and has his credentials.

It is said at the Navy Department today that although there are two colliers now in Turkish waters, the Brutus and Alexander, there will probably be no necessity for holding them in order to supply the European squadron with coal. All three of the ships have their bunkers filled, and it was said the supply will last them for some time, but should any emergency arise, requiring the warships to coal quickly, they can do so at a number of Mediterranean ports where the government has contracts with dealers.

ADVICES FROM LEISHMAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Late dispatches from Minister Leishman give in detail the conditions in Turkey, and do not differ materially in tone from those previously sent. Minister Leishman does not, as reported in some quarters, request the withdrawal of the American ships in Turkish waters. While reports by way of London state that no attempt was made upon the life of Vice-Consul Magdissen, official advices so far received show that such an attempt was made.

The Porte's action was known before the ships left Greek, and this government did not decline to change the orders. It is now stated, however, that should there be a calm and peaceful condition at Beirut when the ships arrive there, the matter of sending them to another port will be considered.

PRINCE FERDINAND.

EMBARKS AT KUSTENDJI.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

KUSTENDJI (Roumania) Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria embarked here at midnight on the Bulgarian gunboat Nadejda, and sailed for Burgas, Bulgaria.

ANXIETY AT SOFIA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SOFIA, Aug. 31.—The non-arrival here of Prince Ferdinand and the mystery surrounding his movements, although characteristic, he always having maintained similar reticence and independence regarding his movements, causes anxiety here. One report says the Prince has gone through Roumania to the palace of Euxinograd, near Verna, while according to another report he is at Philoppolis. In Macedonian circles it is believed that he fears to return to Sofia, owing to the receipt of threatening letters.

SAW ROUMANIA'S PREMIER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Times correspondent at Sofia hears that the rising in Northern Macedonia was to be proclaimed last night. Prince Ferdinand, he says, had a long interview at Constanza with the Roumanian Premier, Sefior Sturdza, yesterday, before embarking on the Bulgarian gunboat at Kustendji for Burgas.

VOLUNTEERS FROM BELGRADE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

KING EDWARD IN VIENNA.

He is Met by Emperor Francis Joseph at the Station and Taken to the Hofburg.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VIENNA, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] King Edward arrived in Vienna today. Emperor Francis Joseph, wearing the uniform of the British Dragoon Guards, and accompanied by several archdukes and other notables, received him at the station. The King wore the uniform of a colonel of the Austrian Hussars. After the presentation of the archdukes and others the two sovereigns drove to the Hofburg in a landau drawn by six horses.

At the Hofburg the King was received by the Archduke and Finace Minister Goluchowski, the Austrian and Hunzarian premiers, and the court and state dignitaries. Thereafter the King retired to his apartments, where he was officially visited by the Emperor.

A State dinner in honor of King Edward was given at the Hofburg tonight. The company present included the Emperor, all the archdukes and archduchesses, the ministers, diplomats, and the general staff of the army.

SUBSIDY FOR STEAMSHIPS.

OTTAWA (Ont.) Aug. 31.—Sir Richard Cartwright has given notice in Parliament of a resolution to make provision for a subsidy not exceeding $125,333 a year for a steamship service between Canada and France.

CAPITALISTS ON TRIAL FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Aug. 31.—The seven members of the Executive Committee of the board of directors of the North Jersey Street Railway Company appeared today in the Essex County Court for trial on indictments charging them with manslaughter.

On February 19 last, nine Newark High School students were killed in a collision between a Clifton-avenue trolley car and a Lackawanna express train. Indictments were returned against Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; John D. Crimmins of New York, Edward F. C. Young, president of the North Jersey Railroad Company; Leslie D. Ward, president of the Prudential Insurance Company; Elisha B. Gadd's, wholesale merchant, and director of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; David Young, vice-president and general manager of the North Jersey, and J. Roosevelt Shanley.

In addition to these men, there also appeared as defendants Charles M. Shipman, former general superintendent of the North Jersey; James Smith, Arthur W. Pratt and Richard Eick, division officials of the company.

The indictments of these officials followed a verdict of the Coroner's jury fixing responsibility on the North Jersey Street Railway Company.

WITNESSES EXAMINED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Aug. 31.—The jury was completed at 1:10 p. m. Prosecutor Riker opened for the State, reciting the nature of the accident, the conditions of the track and dangers of the crossing. On the morning of the accident, he said, the crossing was covered with snow and ice, so that the brake shoes of the car were clogged. In consequence the car slipped down the incline, smashed through the gates and collided with the train.

He then named the defendants individually, and stated that they were aware of the condition of the tracks, that they knew about the crossings, and that they had done nothing to avoid the accident. He asked that they be adjudged guilty of the charge in the indictment.

The first witness was Edward G. Kempf, a surveyor, who showed diagrams and measurements he had made on the Clifton avenue crossing and the immediate vicinity.

He was followed by Mrs. Minnie Horte, sister of Ernestine Miller. The defense admitted the death of Miss Miller, and also that she was a passenger on the wrecked car. This was done to relieve Mrs. Horte from the pain of a prolonged examination as to her sister's death.

The last witness of the day was James Kay, a letter carrier, who was at the crossing at the time of the accident. He described the condition of the approach to the crossing, and said that the motorman of the trolley car apparently made every effort to stop the car but could not do so on account of the ice-covered condition of the tracks. Kay was still on the stand when court adjourned for the day.

SOLUTION FOR PEACE.

Judge Gray Favors Common Sense.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WILMINGTON (Del.) Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] If there is one man in the country likely at this moment to speak knowingly and without passion or interest of the outlook for industrial peace in the United States that man is Judge George Gray, president of President Roosevelt's commission which settled the great anthracite coal strike, who has just returned from Alabama, where he succeeded in settling a serious bituminous coal strike.

"I believe that we will find a solution of the question involved in the struggle between capital and labor," said Judge Gray. "We will solve it in our own way along the lines of humanity and common sense. But it will take a long time. Habit changes slowly, when the change is real and permanent. We have got to have some system of arbitration to avoid a settlement of questions by force in civilized states. I am confident that there is at the bottom, in human nature, something in which we can find an opportunity of violence and the strong hand.

"It has been said, Judge Gray, that the importance of President Roosevelt's intervention in the anthracite strike, considering the power and influence of the coal companies, is a manifestation of the power of the President. How does that strike you?"

"I have no hesitation in saying that the President of the United States was confronted in October, 1902, by the existence of a crisis more grave and threatening than any that had occurred since the Civil War. I mean that a cessation of the mining in the anthracite coal country brought about by the dispute between the miners and those who controlled the greatest natural monopoly in this country, and perhaps in the world, had brought upon more than one-half of the American people a condition of deprivation or one of the necessaries of life and a probable continuance of a dispute that threatened not only comfort and health, but the safety and good order of the nation. He was without legal or constitutional power to interfere, but his position as President of the United States gave him an influence and leadership as first citizen of the republic that enabled him to appeal to the patriotism and good sense of the parties to the controversy and to place upon them the moral coercion of public opinion to agree to an arbitration of the strike then existing and threatening consequences so direful to the whole country. He acted promptly and courageously, and in so doing averted the dangers to which I have alluded.

"So far from interfering or infringing upon the property rights, the President's action tended to conserve them. The peculiar situation as regards the anthracite coal interests was that they controlled the natural monopoly of product necessary to comfort and to the very life of a large portion of the people. Prolonged deprivation of this necessary of life would have tended to precipitate an attack upon these property rights.

"I do not thing that any President ever acted more wisely, courageously or promptly in a national crisis. Mr. Roosevelt deserves unstinted praise for what he did."

Must Again Quit Work.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 31.—The electrical workers of this city have decided to stand by the ruling of the Western conference, pending a decision from the international offices regarding their recent action in settling the local strike for themselves and going back to work. It is in accordance with this decision that all the linemen of the telephone company walked out this morning. The ruling of the Western conference was the action in returning to work without the consent of the conference was illegal.

Many Mills Resume Work.

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—There was a general resumption of work today in the numerous mills of the American Woolen Company throughout New England, which have been shut down from one to two weeks. Upwards of 25,000 hands participated in the vacation. Cotton mills, also, in various section resumed after periods of curtailment or idleness on account of the cotton situation.

TEAMSTERS' STRIKE.

NO PROSPECT OF SETTLEMENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Aug. 31.—There is no present prospect of a settlement of the teamsters' strike, and the developments tomorrow may involve all the building trades of the city. Today was spent in conferences between the Draymens' Association the Strike Committee of the teamsters and leading officers of the Western Central Labor Union. The draymen agreed to all demands of the strikers as to higher wages and a shorter working day, but refused absolutely to recognize the union.

The Western Central Labor, held a meeting tonight at which the question was discussed but no action taken.

Millmen Ordered Out.

DENVER (Colo.) Aug. 31.—A special to the Republican from Telluride, Colo., says that notices were posted this afternoon calling on all millmen in Telluride to stop work tomorrow morning. This is the result of the refusal of the mill managers to concede an eight hour day with some reduction in pay. The miners of the district had already been notified of the strike tomorrow, in sympathy with the millmen of Durango.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Justice Seawell, of the Supreme Court today signed an order granting a certificate of reasonable doubt in the case of Samuel Parks, the walking delegate who is now in Sing Sing, having been convicted on a charge of extortion, pending appeal proceedings, and ordered his release in $10,000 bail.

Threatens General Strike.

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) Aug. 31.—Homer D. Call of this city, national secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers' Workmen, and Casha Schmitt of Omaha, fourth vice-president, will leave tonight for Chicago to meet the packers with a view to settling the butchers' lockout at Rochester. CHICAGO POLICE HELD SEVEN SUSPECTS.

CONFESSION SAID TO HAVE BEEN MADE BY ONE OF THEM.

Detectives Sent to Iowa After Three Men Said to Answer Description of Robbers and Murderers Who Looted Railway Company's Safe.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Of eleven suspects arrested by the police, following the murder of Frank Stewart and John B. Johnson, employés of the Chicago City Railway Company, and the looting of the company's safe early Sunday morning, seven are being held.

One arrest, to which some importance is attached, is that of John S Leuder, a former employé of the company, who is known to have been in the vicinity at the time of the shooting.

The fact that the two men who survived the fire of the robbers can give but meager descriptions of their assailants, leads the police to declare that every hour lessens their chances of ever apprehending the guilty men.

AFTER THREE SUSPECTS

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Three detectives were sent to Iowa, tonight by Chief of Police O'Neil to search for the robbers. Information has been received here that three men answering the description of the robbers were put off a passenger train near the Iowa and Illinois boundary line early yesterday morning. The men were riding on the blind baggage, and when ordered to leave the train threatened to shoot the conductor, saying that they had already killed one man during the night. The description of these men corresponds with the men described by Luedor, one of the suspects now held for the crime.

Leuder, it is said, has confessed that he was implicated in the hold-up. He says he was to receive $1000 for his part in it, but that the robbers gave him nothing. The police are inclined to doubt Leuder's confession.

BANKER MURDERED.

Assassin Shoots at Pursuers and Dangerously Wounds Policeman, but is Captured After Severe Struggle.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Vincenzo Tilli, proprietor of an Italian bank, was shot and killed by a fellow-countryman named Giovanni Viola tonight. Viola ran from the bank and as he was pursued by a large crowd, he turned and fired his revolver at his pursuers. One bullet struck Policeman Thomas Conley in the breast, and he was removed to a hospital in a serious condition. Viola was captured after a severe struggle, during which he fired his revolver, but did no further damage. The police have been unable to learn what Viola's motive was in killing Tilli.

CLERGYMEN IN LIBEL SUIT.

Rev. E. J. Harper Sues Elders of Methodist Church for Damages.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—The Rev. E. J. Harper, who has been pastor of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for some time, filed a suit in the Superior Court today for $50,000 damages for alleged libel. The defendants are clergymen of his church—J. E. Moore presiding elder of the district, and J. A. Wailes, W. E. Vaughn, W. O. Waggener and J. J. N. Kennedy, traveling elders.

The alleged libel is averred by the plaintiff to have been committed when the defendants met at the office of the Pacific Methodist Advocate, February 20, and after a conference, issued a circular headed: "A statement of facts in the case of E. J. Harper, charged with immorality."

These charges, Mr. Harper declares, are false and defamatory and malicious, and their publication has injured him to the extent of $50,000, for which sum he sues. The charges are embodied in a long and detailed statement in which Mr. Harper is accused of immorality, for which he was expelled from the building of the Y.M.C.A. in this city.

WASHINGTON.

TO WIPE OUT CHINATOWN.

Marine Hospital Service Has New Sanitary Plans.

San Francisco's Noted Quarter Harbors Bubonic Plague.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Representatives of the Marine Hospital Service are in consultation with leading business and commercial men of San Francisco in regard to the proposition to abolish Chinatown, the famous Chinese quarter of that city. Three years ago the bubonic plague appeared in Chinatown, and although the existence of the scourge was not admitted by the State and municipal authorities until long after the situation had been considered by the Marine Hospital Service, there has been for a year or more most cordial cooperation between the city and Federal officers in their efforts to stamp out the disease.

The attempt has been only partly successful, however, although most rigid sanitary measures have been practiced.

Several months ago Mexico and Ecuador declared a quarantine against San Francisco, and State boards of health all over the United States condemned the hygienic conditions of Chinatown, and publicly deplored the danger of a spread of the plague to other States. The Marine Hospital Service is satisfied that the situation cannot be permanently improved unless Chinatown is abolished.

MACARONI WHEAT.

SEEKING MARKETS FOR IT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Secretary Wilson has asked the Department of Commerce and Labor to ascertain, through the consular service, suitable markets for macaroni wheat, a hard grain, common in European countries, and crops of which are increasing rapidly in the United States. Secretary Wilson says the macaroni wheat yield in this country this year, according to the most commonly-accepted estimates, is 10,000,000 bushels, against 2,000,000 bushels a year ago, and he predicts that next year's crop will be 20,000,000 bushels.

NAVY EMPLOYEES.

GUARANTEE OF LOYALTY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—As a result of an investigation of the question, Acting Secretary Darling of the Navy Department has concluded that there is no occasion for any action by the Navy Department at this time on the proposition that all employés of the Navy Department and navy yards be required to take the oath of allegiance to the United States. He found on inquiry that only citizens of the United States and only such non-citizens as have been honorably discharged from the army, navy or Marine Corps, are eligible for employment in the naval establishment.

These requirements, he considered, give sufficient guarantee of loyalty to the United States of the men in the employ of the civil naval establishment.

WASHINGTON BRIEFS.

St. Louis Bridge Case.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Acting Secretary of War Oliver has extended the time for making answer by the St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Company until December 1 next. Secretary Root made a demand upon the company for it to show cause why the bridge should not be forfeited to the general government, and the company was ordered to make a reply by September 15. The time is extended at the request of the company, some of whose officials are absent.

Geddes Retired from Office.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Andrew Geddes, for some years chief clerk of the Department of Agriculture, has been relieved from office on charges of a personal nature and R. Burch, chief clerk of the Bureau of Animal Industry, has been appointed to succeed him.

Lopez Will Not Return.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Minister Lopez of Salvador, who is absent from this city, has informed the State Department that he will not return to this country. He expects to accept a place in the government office at Salvador.

Seven of the rioters have been convicted during the past two weeks.

CONGRESS OF ACTUARIES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The fourth International Congress of Actuaries met in this city today. The delegates include men from several foreign countries. Secretary of Commerce and Labor George B. Cortelyou, who is an honorary member, was delegated by the President to open the session and deliver an address. The session will continue for the week.

After cordially greeting the delegates, Secretary Cortelyou spoke briefly of the historical aspects of the insurance business, and continued: "I am glad indeed to greet you, not only as the representative of the government, but of the Department of Commerce and Labor, which is fortunate in participating at the beginning of its career in so representative and noteworthy a meeting as this congress. The officials of the new department will watch our proceedings with great interest."

The address of Mr. Lepreux, president of the Permanent Committee, was followed by the election of the following officers of the congress: President of the Permanent Committee, O. L. Lepreux, secretary-general of the Permanent Committee, A. Begaul; honorary president, George B. Cortelyou; president of the congress, Israel Pierson; general secretary, John Tatyou; also vice-presidents for Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Great Britain, Norway and Sweden, Holland, United States, Austria and Italy.

A letter from President Roosevelt, expressing regret at his inability to be present, was read and after a brief address by President Pierson and a discussion of papers on "The Improvement in Longevity," an adjournment was taken.

WORKING FOR UNION OF TWO CHURCHES.

ANGLICAN AND GREEK CATHOLIC SECTS MAY GET TOGETHER.

Rev. Dr. Dawling, Canon of the Former Church at Jerusalem Has Been Laboring for Twelve Years to Secure a Favorable Solution.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 6.—[A. F. Correspondence Wired from Chicago, Aug. 31.] The Novoe Vremya, in its issue of today, contains the following statement regarding the question of the union of the Orthodox and Anglican churches:

"On the 5th of August the Rev. Dr. Dawling, canon of the Anglican Church at Jerusalem, paid a visit to the Rev. Alexi, exarch of Georgia, Caucasus, and stated to him that he had been working for twelve years to secure a favorable solution of the question of a union of the two churches. He said a translation was now being made into Russian of the answers of the Anglican church to the seven confessional questions proposed by the Greek Orthodox church to the Anglicans, at the conference of 1899, at Constantinople. This document will be of an official character. A translation of the Anglican prayer book is also being made into the Greek language.

Dr. Dawling said that in 1893, a great number of Orthodox Greeks were in Melbourne, Australia, without a priest, and that Gherassili, patriarch of Jerusalem, authorized an Anglican priest to perform sacraments for the Greeks, baptism, etc., but that when this became known to the other patriarchs of the East, they blamed the authorization given by Patriarch Gherassili, and a Greek priest arriving later in Melbourne, rebaptized anew those who already had been baptized by the Anglican priests.

"It would be extremely distasteful to us," concluded Dr. Dawling, "if rebaptism should be considered a condition sine qua non of union."

The exarch reassured Dr. Dawling, telling him that such a practice was strange to the Russian church, and that it would not be difficult to agree about it with the Greeks and with them over.

The Rt. Rev. Tikon, Russian Orthodox bishop of North America and the Aleutian islands, who were called to St. Petersburg to attend the Holy Synod, was present at this conversation, and said that on the return of the president of the Holy Synod, the Most Rev. Metropolitan Anthony to St. Petersburg, a special committee would be appointed by the Holy Synod for the study of the question of the union of the Orthodox and Anglican churches.

The Exarch Alexi displayed the greatest interest in Dr. Dawling and his work, and expressed the conviction that with the aid of the Most Rev. Metropolitan Anthony, the question could be brought to a successful issue. But among the obstacles the exarch pointed out the suspiciousness of the lower classes toward the heterodox confessions.

"Between us," said the exarch, "we can easily arrive at an understanding, but will the people understand us? That is the problem with which we must deal in order that union may not be followed by a new disunion."

FOLLIES OF FASHION.

Rev. Dean Richmond Goes After the "Smart-Set" and Sees Much Need for Pointed Preaching.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—In a sermon at the Church of the Epiphany on "The sins and follies of fashion," the Rev. Dean Richmond has made an appeal for Christian earnestness and dignity as a corrective to the abuses of fashion in various circles of society, and criticized severely many of the reported doings of the so-called "smart set in America."

"I am more and more convinced" he said, "that we of the clergy must preach clearly, pointedly, as forcefully as possible, to the sins and follies of the times, dwell less on the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt and more on the exodus of Christian virtue from American life.

"Each of us is the keeper of Christian morals and public opinion to the extent of our social abilities and influence and it is just as necessary for each of us to carry out reforms in ourselves and neighbors, if possible, as it would be to reform the entire nation, which is impossible.

"There are many ways to look at the selfish, wasteful, indecorous, baleful and often inane class of the so-called 'smart set,' who seem to make a crusade to get their peculiar social antics in the newspapers as enthusiasts impale butterflies for exhibition in a museum. The senseless class in the public imitate them, the sober thinking class have a pitying contempt for them, the earnest Christians blush for them, the patriotic American abhors them and the genuine aristocracy of America and Europe laugh at them. Their example is pestilent to democratic America, their antics a violation of all normal sanity, their moral standard reprehensible at the bar of Christian morals, their lives with all their false glitter and brilliant frippery, are a personal degradation to themselves, and make a rapid descent into that avernus of the senses where lie buried all the best and choicest of human aspirations."

Stomach Troubles Can be Cured.

Mr. Joseph Powinville, one of the most prominent business men in Stillwater, Minn., after having spent $2000 with the best doctors for a stomach trouble without relief, was advised to try a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. He did so, and in a well man today. If troubled with indigestion, bilious attacks, lack of appetite or constipation these tablets are just what you need. Price 25 cents; all druggists.—[Adv.

WORK IN EARNEST ON SAN PEDRO LINE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A special dispatch to the Desert News from Callentes says that work commenced on the San Pedro road near that point in great earnest this morning, although some little was done as early as Thursday last. By tomorrow a very large gang, several hundred men in number, will begin work. The Utah Construction Company has established a camp two miles below Callentes, and thither the employment agencies of this city are sending large numbers of men and teams. Owing to the scarcity of cars, there has been some difficulty and not a little delay in getting men to the front, but that trouble is being overcome now, and this work will go on with greater rapidity. Meanwhile, the construction material yards are being enclosed and large shipments of provisions are leaving this city daily.

The intense heat of the desert has been tempered considerably the last week by frequent copious showers. Favorable reports are also coming in regarding the effort to solve the water problem on the long dry wastes south of Callentes. It is stated that prospects are considered very good for striking strong flows through the means of drive wells. As water is struck, grading camps will be established all along the line.

GOULD-BOUND FOR OREGON.

HOT FIGHT ON THE PACIFIC.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It was reported today that the Gould interests have completed all their arrangements to reach the Pacific Coast. The plans adopted are now said to be much more comprehensive than were at one time supposed, and will offer keen competition to the Harriman system at all points now covered by it.

The Goulds, it is now stated, will not be content with reaching San Francisco and being competitors for California traffic. They will have lines reaching up to Coos Bay, Or., and other North Pacific points now touched by the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company and the Oregon Short Line.

Should these reports prove true, the action will, it is believed, create greater antagonism between the Gould and Harriman interests than now exists, though it is reported to be quite keen. The Harriman interests are likely to resent any attempt to invade their territory that may be made, and may show their resentment indirectly by antagonizing the Gould interests in other directions, where they are not themselves so directly interested.

With a big fight on with the Pennsylvania interests at one end of their system and with the Harriman interests at the other, the Gould interests will have their hands full, and it will require all the ability they can command to maintain their ground against such formidable odds.

LUXURY ON WHEELS.

NEW PALACE-CAR PROJECT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Plans are reported to be complete for the incorporation this week of a million-dollar company, having for its object the operation of a train of five rolling palaces between New York and San Francisco, with so many improvements and conveniences that a Fifth-avenue hotel patron will not know he is out of New York if he does not look out of the windows. It will consist of five cars and its patrons will be kept exclusive by the fact that passengers will be booked from the one best hotel of each city through which it passes. It is planned that the train shall have every convenience from a palm garden to a laundry. An endeavor will be made to complete the trip across the continent and return every ten days, and, if successful, the service will be increased.

SAN PEDRO MAIN LINE.

WORKING BEYOND CALIENTES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SALT LAKE (Utah) Aug. 31.—Operations have been commenced on the extension of the main line of the San Pedro-Los Angeles-Salt-Lake road south of Callentes, and by the time cool weather sets in on the desert next month, the work of grading the roadbed toward Los Angeles will be under full headway. Large gangs of man are sent south on every train.

NEW PASS IN CASCADES.

DONOVAN DISCOVERED IT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WHATCOM (Wash.) Aug. 31.—Superintendent Donovan of the Bellingham Bay and British Columbia Railway, who has just returned from a meeting of the directors in San Francisco, confirmed the reported discovery of a pass through the Cascade Mountains between the line of the Great Northern and the international boundary of a lower elevation than anyone at the present time used by a transcontinental railroad. The company's surveying party engaged in the location of their line from here to Spokane, he said, has been taken through the pass by the discoverer, and their report confirms his own.

Donovan said that there is no doubt his road will be built through to Spokane, but he denied that it had been acquired by the Union Pacific, although that road will reach the Sound over it. Other roads, he declared, will have the same privileges.

NEW YORK'S COOLEST SUMMER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—With the last day of the month the summer of 1903 in New York passes into history as the coldest recorded by the weather bureau. June reached the record of 1881. July was just a little bit off normal, but not enough to keep its fellow mnoths of the summer from taking the average temperature a fraction below the figure reached in 1897. Mariners of the old-fashioned school have looked askance at the peculiar conduct of the elements during the last thirty days, but the inhabitants of tenements have enjoyed the unseasonable coolness which brought woe to numerous summer hotel keepers.

PIUS POSTPONES PILGRIMAGE.

ROME, Aug. 31.—A French pilgrimage was announced to arrive in Rome on a visit to the Pope about September 20, on which day the Italians celebrate the aniversary of the taking of Rome; and the fall of the temporal power. Wishing to avoid conflicts between the pilgrim and the Romans, which might easily happen, Pope Pius has directed that the pilgrimage be postponed.

MYSTERIOUS FAIR WILL.

Judge Murasky Finds it in His Mail.

Introduces a Putative in Person of Alleged Son.

Gathering Evidence in Bowers Murder Case—Busy Board of Equalization.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—What purports to be the last will and testament of the late Charles L. Fair has made its way through the United States mail in a mysterious manner to the chambers of Superior Judge F. J. Murasky, and the document is now in the custody of the County Clerk.

On opening it Judge Murasky found what purports to be a will signed by the late millionaire, Charles L. Fair, and witnessed by the late I. W. Lees and W. H. L. Barnes. The document was short and typewritten, Fair's signature and that of the two alleged witnesses being written in ink.

In this alleged will Fair mentions his son, "Charles J.," and to him he bequeaths the sum of $800,000. In addition to this bequest the sum of $750,000 is bequeathed to "The Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum," $500,000 to "Joseph Harry Harvey," and $40,000 "to the city and county of San Francisco for the purpose of founding a hospital." The residue of the testator's estate is left to his wife, who is also named as executrix. The alleged will is dated at San Francisco, April 16, 1901.

It will be remembered that about eleven months ago an heir, Charlie Fair, was brought forward in this city, although he never appeared in person, and the matter was dropped without any investigation. Whether any one will come forward and petition the court to probate the alleged will of Charles L. Fair, which reached Judge Murasky in so mysterious a manner, is a matter of conjecture. Anyway, the document, whether genuine or fictitious, has been brought to light in a most unusual manner.

Attorney Cannon, who stood sponsor for the alleged son, in an interview, said of the alleged will: "I believe it is a fake. I will not father it, nor will I ask that it be admitted for probate. It does not look as though it was a genuine document. As far as the child of Charles L. Fair is concerned, I have nothing further to say at this time."

Attorneys and others interested in the estate of the late Charles L. Fair, in a measure, regard it as a hoax sent by some dull-witted joker.

FORGERY SAYS EXPERT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Handwriting Expert Kytka today filed a written report on the allaged will. He says:

"The three signatures on this document were first traced with a lead pencil; subsequently they were inked over, but this work was done so very poorly that the pencil is noticed in several instances alongside the ink.

"The three signatures are drawn so very badly and patched in so many instances that I did not care to waste plates on genuine signatures to make any comparison."

KNOW NOTHING OF IT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PLAINFIELD (N. J.) Aug. 31.—The heirs of Mrs. Charles L. Fair, living here and in this vicinity, say they know nothing of the Fair will reported filed in San Francisco, except what they have read in the dispatches from that city.

SPRAYS FOR RED SPIDERS.

PROF. VOLCK WRITES OF THEM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Aug. 31.—A bulletin on "Sulphur Sprays for Red Spiders" has just been written by W. H. Volck of the University of California and issued under the auspices of the Agricultural Department. It embodies the results obtained in a long series of investigations made in cooperation with the Los Angeles County Board of Horticulture. It has been discovered that sulphur spraying is many times more efficient than other methods of application. The destructive red spider of the orange in Southern California and the red spider of the almond in Sutter county, although four times as resistant to insecticides as the orange mite, alike succumbed to the deadly effects of the sprayed sulphur.

BOWERS'S MURDER CASE.

POLICE GATHERING EVIDENCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—The application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Mrs. Martha Bowers and her sister, Mrs. Sutton, who are being held at the Hall of Justice on suspicion of having murdered Martin L. Bowers, husband of the former, by administering arsenic, came up for hearing in Superior Judge Cook's court today, but was continued until tomorrow owing to the failure of the attorneys for the two women to file certain papers necessary to properly bring the matter before the court.

The police and the District Attorney state that there is little danger that the women will be released on habeas corpus, but that they will be charged with murder by formal complaint as soon as such action becomes necessary to hold them.

The detectives in charge of the investigation into the suspicious details surrounding the death of Bowers are gathering evidence which they declare will ultimately bring the responsibility for the crime home to one of the two women and perhaps both.

Patrick Leary has confessed to relations of intimacy with Mrs. Martha Bowers, and the police are certain they have at least discovered a motive for the death of Martin Bowers. In obtaining a statement from Mrs. Sutton, her sister, the detectives caught her in a misstatement and all in all very important steps have been taken in unearthing the crime. Whether the man in the case was involved did not develop, as no direct incriminating evidence against him was obtained. It is believed, however, that he has by no means disclosed all he knows.

FLOOD-WATER CANAL.

OBJECTIONS WITHDRAWN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31.—The meeting of the State Board of Examiners, set for noon tomorrow for the purpose of hearing the proponents and objectors to the proposed cut at Daguerre Point, above Marysville, in Yuba county, has been declared off. The army engineers, and nearly every one else interested in the matter were in favor of the cut, as it would relieve the levees in and around Marysville during flood-water season. State Débris Commissioner W. W. Waggoner, however, objected to the contract for the work being approved, upon the ground that to make the excavation for the cut would be a waste of public money.

The Governor and other members of the State Board of Examiners visited the site of the proposed cut on last Saturday, and, after making a thorough inspection, expressed themselves as being in favor of approving the contract.

Since the visit to Daguerre Point, State Débris Commissioner Waggoner has changed his mind, and in a communication to the State Board of Examiners recommends that the contract, calling for an expenditure of $158,000 for the construction of the cut, be approved, which the board, of course, will do.

Edward Malley of San Francisco was the successful bidder.

PUBLIC SURVEYS.

LARGE EXPENDITURES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—There has been a great deal of activity recently in governmental circles in connection with the survey of public lands and United States Surveyor-General W. S. Graham states that the expenditures for contracts upon new work of this character during the fiscal year just closed far exceeds that of any previous year in a decade, at least $60,000 being necessary to meet the demands of the situation, while for some time heretofore not more than one-quarter of that amount was required.

Those in a position to know assert confidently that the field notes of the complete surveys in many townships will reveal an extraordinary state of affairs, and show conclusively that a large area of the public domain is still available for settlement and cultivation.

MRS. CASSERLY'S CLAIM.

VALUABLE LAND INVOLVED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OAKLAND, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Teresa Casserly, widow of former Congressman Eugene Casserly, who was interested in Oakland lands in the early days of the city together with Col. Jack Hays, John Caperton and others, presented to the Board of Supervisors today a claim to 9-324ths of the two blocks of land upon which the Courthouse, Hall of Records, County Jail and Receiving Hospital now stand. Col. Jack Hays presented the land in question to the county many years ago for public building use. Mrs. Casserly claims an interest in the property now by reason of ancient deeds.

TWO HUNDRED MEN FACING STARVATION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two hundred foodless men are attempting to cross the Alsakan divide and make a 500-mile journey through the wilderness on the Nazina River, the Copper River Valley, to the Tanana Valley and the Yukon. These miners jotted the stampede to Nazina last spring, and, finding there only shallow placers, determined to push on to the Yukon. Most of them sold their outfits, understanding supplies could be purchased at the several trading posts in the Tanana Valley.

In this belief they were mistaken. The traders had only a small stock. News of the destitute condition of the men was carried to Fort Egbert, on the Yukon, by Henry Bratnober of San Francisco, a mining expert who represents the Rothschilds and the London Exploration Company.

Bratnober saved three men from starvation, and urgently recommended to Capt. Perkins at Fort Egbert that he send a military relief expedition to the rescue of the foodless miners, who number not less than 200. Capt. Perkins immediately wired to Washington for authority, and is presumed to have by this time dispatched a detachment of soldiers with supplies to the Upper Tanana Valley.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES GIVEN A HEARING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31.—This morning's session of the State Board of Equalization was devoted to the examination of Deputy Assessor J. L. Parker of Santa Barbara county and other representative residents of that county. The return for that county for 1903 shows an assessed valuation of $15,507,105, against $13,480,942 for 1902. Some years ago there was a boom in his county, said Mr. Barker, and later on the county suffered severely from the effects of it. As a matter of pride they did not want to acknowledge it, he said, but they had to admit it, when the panic of 1893 came. A considerable portion of the revenue is derived from the large number of tourists that visit that section of the State. Some wheat and other grains and some of the fruits are grown, and considerable stock is raised in the county, but the drouth of 1898 practically depleted the stock, said Mr. Barker. That industry has not yet recovered from the effects of the drouth. All the crops are fairly good in the southern part of the county. The county has a little over one million acres of assessable land. Last year was a prosperous one, the increase of valuation over the previous year being two million dollars.

The board this afternoon listened to statements from the assessor and other officials of San Luis Obispo, Ventura and Riverside counties, concerning the valuations of their respective counties.

DEFENDANTS CONVICTED. PLAINTIFF EXCORIATED.

SENSATIONAL STEWART BLYTH BIGAMY TRIAL ENDS.

Complainant in Case Was Living in Pasadena When His Wife Got a Divorce in Seattle Which the Canadian Court Refuses to Recognize.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sensational bigamy proceedings in the case of Stewart vs. Stewart and Blyth was concluded here today, when the defendant, Mrs. Blyth, erstwhile Stewart, was sentenced to an hour's imprisonment.

A number of years ago E. W. Stewart was married in Toronto, and came to live in Victoria. They had fifteen children. A year or more ago Mrs. Stewart went to Seattle and secured a divorce, her husband in the meantime being in Pasadena, Cal., where he had taken up his residence. Coming to Vancouver, Mrs. Stewart was married about two months ago to John Blyth, and last week Stewart arrived in the city, and had both arrested for bigamy.

The police magistrate this afternoon declared the Seattle divorce had no effect on marriages made in Canada, and found the woman guilty. The sentence was a nominal one, and in giving it he was very severe on the plaintiff Stewart for his disgraceful treatment of his wife, and his practical desertion of her when he went to California.

Blyth was sentenced to one day's imprisonment.

CASHIER COLE'S DEMURRER.

JUDGE BEATTY OVERRULES IT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Some time ago William K. Cole, cashier of the United States branch mint in this city, filed a demurrer in the suit brought against him by the United States to recover from Cole the $30,000 stolen by Walter N. Dimmick, while Cole was cashier. The ground of the demurrer was that Cole could not be held responsible legally for the money because no such office as cashier was mentioned in the statute prescribing the duties of mint officials.

Judge Beatty today overruled the demurrer and allowed Cole ten days in which to file an answer to the complaint. The court remarked that it was true that the statute did not mention a cashier as one of the officers of the mint, but Cole had been placed in charge of the money that was afterward stolen, and his responsibility would be a matter that could be determined at the trial.

HEGIRA FROM SAN QUENTIN.

AGUIRRE ET AL. REMOVE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN QUINTIN PRISON, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Today saw the end of the connection of a number of officers and guards with San Quentin prison. The removal of trunks, furniture and other belongings of those about to depart continued from morning till night.

At midnight exactly, the term of Martin G. Aguirre as warden expired, and Maj. Tompkins assumed the active responsibilities of that office. However, the latter had considerately absented himself through the day, and the Warden's final hours of authority were undisturbed by the presence of his successor. A friend of Aguirre's offered to have a launch ready to transport him from the premises at the stroke of 12 o'clock, but this he refused, stating he intended to await Tompkins's coming in the morning, and to officially turn over to him the keys of the penitentiary. He says he will take a month of complete rest.

Captain of the Yard Hunter, unlike his chief, had dispatched his family to Los Angeles toward the end of last week and was ready to follow at sundown. Stockman Gunther and Stenographer Reynolds were others of the prescribed to make their exit today. Tomorrow, however, the real hegira will take place, for besides the officers, a number of guards have either been dismissed or resigned.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Insane Convict Pardoned.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31.—Gov. Pardee today granted a pardon to Bernard McQuaid, convicted in Yuba county of robbery a few years ago and sentenced to five years' imprisonment at San Quentin. McQuaid, who is a young man, came to this State from Minnesota several years ago. He fell into bad company and together with another man he committed the crime of robbery near Marysville. Soon after being taken to San Quentin he became insane. He was sent to the State hospital at Mendocino, where he became very troublesome to those in charge on account of his frequent attacks of violence. The pardon was granted upon the condition that the insane prisoner's father should take him back to Minneapolis and there keep and care for him.

Prunes Dropping Slowly.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 31.—Prune growers in the mountain sections report that prunes are dropping very slowly this season. Taking the valley as a whole, now that actual picking has been going on for a week or so, it is readily seen that the crop is much less than the figures placed upon it some weeks ago by even the most conservative. In the orchards that made the best showing the prunes were nearly all on the outer branches, making the actual number of prunes to a tree much less than appeared. As to size and quality, the valley never had so fine a crop; as to quantity, the crop is exceedingly light as compared with the average.

Forest Fire Still Burning.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 31.—The forest fire which was started at Wrights, in the Santa Cruz Mountains, a few days ago, and in which Louis Matty lost his life, is still burning, though it is not believed it can continue long unless it crosses the Los Gatos Creek, in which event it would find almost a continuous forest of redwood, oak, madrone and other trees to feed upon.

VICTORIA (B. C.) Aug. 31.—Unconfirmed rumors are current at Esquimalt that a new fort will shortly be added to the Esquimalt defence, situated at Albert Head, jutting into Royal Roads, ten miles from Victoria. The report says two 6-inch guns will be placed there. A battery of small quick-firing guns is being established in the naval yard covering the entrance of Esquimalt Harbor.

Schnabel; recording secretary, H. F. Budde; treasurer, August Veiter; auditors, L. Kaempfen of San José, Father Franz of Fruitvale and Joseph Becker of this city; spiritual director, Rev. Raphael Fuhr of St. Anthony's Church.

Hunting Her Grandfather.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Mrs. M. R. Randall of Mobile, Ala., has arrived here in search of her grandfather, Jeremy Howland, who became estranged from his family over fifty years ago. He has never communicated with them directly in all these years, but indirectly they have heard of him more than once. From information they have received it is believed that he became a rancher in California and prospered. If still living he would now be about 83 years of age.

ONLY HIS CHILDREN AND A FEW INTIMATE FRIENDS PRESENT.

Casket is Carried to and from Parish Church by Old Retainers—Memorial Service Held in Westminster Abbey in Honor of Dead Statesman.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The remains of Lord Salisbury were interred today beside those of his wife in the burial grounds of the Cecils at Hatfield. The arrangements were of the most private and simple character. All the children of the deceased were present, as were also Premier Balfour, Lord Selborne and a few intimate neighbors. Otherwise the mourners were made up of the dead statesman's tenants, retainers and inhabitants of Hatfield. The coffin was carried to and from the parish church by old retainers. Simultaneously a memorial service was held in Westminster Abbey, which was attended by representatives of King Edward, Emperor William and other members of the royal and imperial families, Cabinet ministers, former Cabinet ministers, diplomats, including Ambassador Choate, and members of the other embassies, and a host of people, members of Parliament and others.

The only floral tribute on Lord Salisbury's coffin was a wreath sent by Queen Alexandra. Other wreaths sent by the King of Portugal and others were used to decorate the grave. The Archbishop of Canterbury officiated at the funeral service.

ANNUAL REUNION, ARMY OF PHILIPPINES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Aug. 31.—The fourth annual convention of the Army of the Philippines began today. The business sessions of the convention are held in the Senate Chamber of the State House. This afternoon's session was devoted largely to organization of committees. Gen. Irving Hale presided.

There is a disposition to introduce a resolution favoring a federation with the Spanish war veterans, not with the intention of abandoning the identity of the Philippine veterans, but to preserve separate identity, yet be closely related in a national sense.

The resolutions committee which was appointed this afternoon will have before it a resolution to establish a uniform ritual for the initiations of the members of the various camps. It is generally expected that Gen. Hale can have the office of president if he will accept it.

Tonight the members and delegates were tendered a reception in the rooms of the Commercial Club.

Tomorrow morning the second session will be held and the most important matter that will come up will be the selection of the next meeting place. Wednesday the election of officers will take place.

ISTHMUS RIPE FOR REVOLUTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The spirit of revolution is gaining in force on the isthmus as the result of the rejection of the canal treaty by the Colombian Congress at Bogota, says a Times dispatch from Panama.

Only vigorous action on the part of the government can prevent an outbreak, the correspondent asserts, and it is doubtful whether such action is possible.

Gen. Huertas, commandant at Fort Chuiriqui, and virtually the commander of all the government forces in and around Panama, is at this time the only officer to whom the government may look with any hope of checking any revolutionary spirit. Even he is a warm sympathizer with the canal project.

As for the naval force, it is practically controlled by Americans or pro-American-Englishmen. They form the gunning, navigating and engineering forces.

IRRIGATION CONGRESS.

France to Have a Representative Support from Depew—Exhibits Promised from California.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OGDEN (Utah) Aug. 31.—The headquarters of the National Irrigation Congress in this city today received a letter from the French embassy at Washington, stating that France would be represented at the congress by M. Max Couppey de La Forrest, secretary of the French Commission of Water Study.

Another letter received at the headquarters was from Senator Depew of New York. The Senator writes that he is a firm believer in governmental assistance for the reclamation of arid lands, and that he hopes to be of practical assistance to the irrigationists at Washington.

The display of irrigation-grown fruits, for which many valuable prizes are offered, promises to be the finest exhibit of the kind ever shown. The latest promises of exhibits came today from Fresno, Cal., and the Sacramento Development Association of Sacramento, Cal.

KING NOT HURT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Some alarm was caused here today by a rumor of an accident to the royal motor car at the maneuvers around Udine. It was stated that the King had been thrown out. The report was inaccurate, the accident occurring was to an automobile occupied by three staff officers, which had run into a mile stone. One of the occupants, Capt. Cautieris, suffered a broken arm.

The King is showing extraordinary interest at the military maneuvers. He is the first sovereign to use a motor car in inspecting, and directing the movements of troops. He is out every morning at 5 o'clock, and travels from point to point, now in the automobile, now in the saddle, with a rapidity that has greatly impressed the troops. The new Marconi apparatus for wireless telegraphic communication is being used with excellent results.

The Duke of Aosta, heir apparent to the throne, left today for Germany where, on the invitation of Emperor William, he will attend the grand maneuvers. The Duke will afterwards go to Munster to pay a visit to the regiment of White Cuirassiers, of which he is the honorary head.

He will present to the regiment three solid silver beakers, artistically ornamented.

Since the commencement of the operations in Somaliland an aggregate of 3,000,000 rounds of Lee Metford rifle ammunition and correspondingly large numbers of Lee Metford and Gras rifles have been shipped by this London firm to Jibutil and Harsar by way of Manchester and Marseilles.

STOLE TO BUY A BIBLE.

London Servant Girl Who Though the End Justified the Means, Finds Its a Mistake.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Decidedly queer objects have led London "hired girls" to rob their mistresses of late, the quaintest being that of a damsel of eighteen who stole $2.50 in order to get a Bible. The girl had "gone in" for the Bible, which was an especially luxurious one issued by a London publisher, on the installment plan. She was to pay $2.50 a month and had done so twice. When the time came to pay the third installment, however, the slavey found herself short, so, rather than lose the book of holy writ, she stole half a sovereign out of her mistress's desk and was arrested in consequence. A police magistrate, however, let the girl off after impressing her with the fact the end does not always justify the means.

Oddly enough, on the same day, another servant girl was arrested for robbing her mistress in order to pay the expenses of a holiday which her "young man" was desirous of taking.

PIOUS COW.

Bovine Goes to Chapel in England, but Enters by the Roof Instead of the Door.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—About the funniest accident reported in this country in a long time had for its victim a cow, which performed the feat of falling into a chapel at West Coker, day before yesterday. The place of worship was that of the Plymouth Brethren, and it is built under the slope of a hill. The cow was browsing on the hillside, when suddenly she lost her balance, plunged down twenty feet or so, "hit" on the chapel roof, and went straight through it. Luckily there was no service going on at the time. Somebody who had seen the affair told the cow's owner what had befallen her, and the latter got the key to the chapel and went in. As soon as the door was opened, the cow—apparently as good as new—quietly walked out.

POTATO INVASION.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—English grown potatoes will soon invade the American markets. A syndicate with J. W. Dennis at its head is in process of formation, and it is proposed to develop about 200 acres of land in Lincolnshire for the purpose of growing potatoes for exportation to the United States. Mr. Dennis is a member of the Westminster City Council, and one of the largest salesmen in Covent garden market, and the firm of which he is the head supplied all the potatoes as a gift to the King's dinner to the poor at the time of the coronation. He is backed up in his present undertaking by Heins & Co., the American firm dealing in food stuffs, as well as by some produce salesmen in New York and Boston. All the capital $400,000 has been subscribed privately and operations will commence almost immediately. It is estimated that the first year's trading will realize to the treasury by way of duty about $70,000. The syndicate made such favorable contracts with the Hamburg-American line, as to enable it to land potatoes in New York as cheaply as they could be sent from Lincolnshire to London. Mr. Dennis will sail for new York in about ten days from now to make final arrangements for the distribution of the cargoes as they arrive in America.

The soil of Lincolnshire is peculiarly adapted to the growth of potatoes and if the first year's trading with America proves satisfactory further capital will be applied for and the undertaking will be pursued on a more enterprising basis.

Heavyweight Patriots.

The biggest officer in the Revolutionary War was Col. Swirz, who weighed 319 pounds. Gen. Washington, always in fine training and without an ounce of superfluous flesh, weighed 200 during his campaigns. Gen. Benjamin Lincoln, who surrendered Charleston to Sir Henry Clinton and afterward accepted the sword of Gen. Cornwallis at Yorktown, was of 224 pounds avoirdupois. Gen. Henry Knox, Washington's mouthpiece on many occasions, and he who said "It is a rule in war never to leave a fort in your rear," weighed 280 pounds and was as light on his feet as a kitten.

Great bulks those! Gen. Jedidiah Huntington weighed 183 pounds, Lieut.-Col. Cobb 182 and Gen. Greaton 166. They were regarded as light weights. Col. Michael Jackson, who had five brothers and five sons in the war, and who at the battle of Bunker Hill killed a British officer in a personal encounter, weighed 253 pounds. His brother, Gen. Henry Jackson, weighed 238 pounds, Col. Huntington 121 and Col. Humphreys 221. Humphreys, the poet and favorite aid-de-camp to Washington. Gen. Winfield Scott, old "Fuss and Feathers," was the most imposing of all the illustrious soldiers of the nineteenth century, possibly of all the centuries. His was a more imposing presence than Washington's. He felt "off his weight" at less than 285. Another great (physically) soldier was Shafter, who flattened Cuba, when he put his foot on the Gem of the Antilles.—[New York Press.

A Metropolitan Tragedy.

There was tragedy in his eyes. You see he was very much in love, was poor but proud.

She looked at him calmly. There was a mild regret in her expression—nothing more.

"You promised me faithfully," he said. Not alone in his words, but in the intensity of his voice she could read a bitter reproach.

"I am sorry," she said simply. "I did not know that you really cared so much. If you would only wait—if you would only give me a little more time——"

"I have been waiting longer than most men could bear. My trust in you was never shaken before. Now, when my hopes have been raised to their highest pitch——"

But lest the reader misunderstand we will explain that the man was not in love with the girl to whom he was talking. She is agent for a laundry, and has promised that his laundry would be done that afternoon. Her promise is unfulfilled and the man will not be able to call on the girl with whom he is in love.

Sadly he leaves the office of the laundry fingering the two dimes which will just pay for a telegram to the girl, saying that he is ill.—[New York Times.

In the Sweet By and By.

Patchoque.—A mosquito bit a cow and three people here yesterday. The cow has been shot and the people sent to New York for treatment.

The community is in a state of terror, as the mosquito is still at large.

The insect is thought to have escaped from some menagerie. Those who claim to have seen it describe it as a large specimen, measuring an eighth of an inch from tip to tip.—[Life.

The Angel Child.

"Martha," said her mamma, "I trust that while you were at your Aunt Martha's you said nothing to offend her."

"Oh, no, mamma," declared the angel child. "I was careful to say things which would make her know that you and papa liked her for herself alone."

"That was proper."

"Why, when she asked me if you folks had named me Martha so that she would leave us her money when she dies, I told her that papa and you had talked about that, and that papa said we mustn't think of such a thing."

"And what did she say?" asked mamma, eagerly.

"Nothing. She just laughed, and said I was a good girl and I'd better run along home, when I told her what papa said about her going to have a pocket made in her shroud."—[Chicago Tribune.

Kaiser Wilhelm's Modesty.

At dinner one night when the Emperor was staying with Lord Lonsdale a guest talking to another across the table quoted a little known passage from Shakespeare, and, that there should be no mistake as to its source, ended with the words, "as the divine William said." There happened to be a lull in the conversation at the time, and the remark was audible to every one, the Emperor included. Turning to his host, the Emperor said, with a puzzled expression: "Curiously, I do not remember that my sainted grandfather ever said that!"—[M. A. P.

SCHOLARSHIP CONTEST.

RIVALRY FOR FIRST PLACE VERY INTENSE.

Bushels of Votes Being Cast as End Draws Near—Betting on Result Becoming Lively—Review of Situation.

The many readers of The Times who have been watching the progress of the scholarship contest for the last two months will be disappointed this morning when they look for the score. Its omission on the morning of the last day, but one, of the contest, is unavoidable. A force of seventeen clerks could not have kept up with the count yesterday, so fast did the votes roll in.

The scholarship man has had his busy day and is likely to have a few more still busier ones before the battle is over. He measured his mail by the bushel yesterday. Basketful after basketful of letters and coupons were dumped upon his desk and he made a brave effort, with the assistance of several clerks, to wade through the pile of coupons and subscription blanks to get it sized up in time to print the score as usual this morning, but before midnight he had to give it up.

Never before in the history of The Times' scholarship contests has such interest been taken in the affair by the general public. The international yacht races, the Jeffries-Corbett prize fight and the contests for the baseball, tennis, golf and bowling championships are no circumstance to the enthusiasm that is manifested in the outcome of the scholarship contest.

PASADENA'S PRIDE.

Who is going to win first prize? That is the all-absorbing question. Jeanette Bower of Pasadena has all along seemed to have the call on it, and in Pasadena bets are being laid at odds of 3 to 1 that she will make the highest score. Miss Bower's prospects are indeed most flattering, but she is not going to have a walkaway by any means. It is true that she lives in a Times town; that is, one in which nearly every family that takes a daily newspaper at all reads The Times. What else could be expected of an enlightened, moral, progressive community in Southern California? The Times always circulates most freely where the standard of morality, refinement, progressiveness, prosperity and enlightenment is highest. Pasadena, as every one knows, is the peer of any other city in the world in these attributes, and Miss Bower therefore is among friends when she is at home in Pasadena. The Pasadenans are loyal to their candidates for any places of honor or emolument when the candidates are worthy. Miss Bower being worthy in every respect, and a representative who will do credit to her home city, is being backed by the best people of the town and they have decreed that she shall be first in the race at the finish as she has been pretty steadily for some weeks past.

But Pasadena is not the only town in Southern California that has "Excelsior" for its motto. There are others, and some of them have representatives in this contest who are just as worthy of winning a scholarship as Miss Bower, and they are being just as loyally supported by the people of their respective communities.

Miss Bower wants a scholarship in the Brownsberger Home School of Shorthand, Book-keeping, etc., and she is going to get it whether she finishes first, second or third in the race. No one need fear that she will fall below third place, but she will not have won first honors before all the votes are in and counted.

WATCH MISS HIBBARD.

A miner from somewhere out in the Mojave Desert was in Los Angeles last night with a pocketful of gold pieces betting that Miss Gertrude Hibbard of Pomona could beat Miss Bower, or any other candidate, out. Now, how is a man from the desert supposed to know anything about it? Well, this horny-handed miner knows a good deal about the contest, for he has been watching it closely, and he and others have been helping Miss Hibbard, because they happen to know what a plucky and deserving sore of girl she is. Manvel and other mining towns this side of the Colorado River have contributed a good deal to Miss Hibbard's support, and from as distant a place as Winslow, Ariz., thousands of "points" have been sent in to add to Miss Hibbard's score. It is rumored that even some of the jackrabbits out in the desert have become subscribers to The Times in order to aid Miss Hibbard. Anyway, the whole population of some of the mining camps has become interested in her campaign and there are more jackrabbits than people in some of those places.

Miss Hibbard is working for a scholarship in Pomona College, and there is no question about her winning it. What she is battling for now is one of the big cash prizes, and she hopes to get the biggest there is. The people of Pomona, Claremont and surrounding villages are loath interested in her campaign and say there is nothing too good for the Pomona candidate.

MISS PEDELTY GETTING THERE.

Then there are the proud, liberal-handed, loyal Santa Anans. They have a candidate, too, in fact, two of them, and both of them prime favorites. Santa Ana has been in the habit of furnishing leaders in the scholarship contest ever since The Times began giving the young folks a chance to distinguish themselves in winning educational prizes. Miss Gertrude Pedelty of Santa Ana set the pace for the other contestants at the very outset of the present contest, and has kept well to the front throughout the struggle. The last summing up of the score showed her to be in third place, and the thousands of points that have come in for her since, make it highly probable that she will be first or very near it at the finish. Miss Pedelty has about half finished the regular course at the Los Angeles State Normal School. She is eager to complete the remaining two years so that she will be able to take her place in the teaching profession, a calling that she seems to be especially adapted to. There is no charge for tuition in the Normal School, but there are incidental and living expenses to meet, and Miss Pedelty wants to win a large enough cash prize to see her through the Normal. As she is entirely dependent on her own resources, she has the best kind of an excuse to try to annex one of the big cash premiums that The Times offers to successful contestants. Miss Pedelty is deserving of the liberal support her friends and neighbors are giving her, and there will be great rejoicing throughout Orange county if she carries off first honors, as many confidently expect her to do.

DARING MISS DARCH.

Of all the hustlers in the contest, there is none who is putting up a pluckier fight, single handed, than Florence Darch, the talented elder sister of the phenomenal singer, Edna Darch. Miss Florence was one of the most successful contestants last year, finishing fifth and winning a scholarship in Throop Polytechnic Institute and $100 in cash. This year she is working for another year at Throop, which she considers the ideal school for one who has chosen a career in the arts and sciences. Miss Darch has no one to help her in her campaign—that is in canvassing or gathering coupons—but she is making a remarkable record just the same. She has hardly ever been below fifth place in the score and has been up to second place on several occasions. Some bets are being made that she will be first at the finish.

DON MANUEL.

Another member of the "High Five," during the greater part of the contest, and who will probably be one of that select coterie at the close, is Manuel E. Saenz. The way this native California boy has kept up his end of the scholarship contest from the very start has been a surprise and a source of great pride and satisfaction to his friends and to a great many people who never heard of him before he entered the contest.

Don Manuel is only 13 years old, and he lives in a very small village, but the boy has merit and the quality of getthereitiveness, else he would never have succeeded in putting up the fight he has. Much of his success is due to his father, Jesus Saenz, a native of Mexico, but a resident of Los Angeles county for twenty-eight years. Señor Saenz numbers his friends by the hundreds. He is a much-respected business man of The Palms, and his word is as good as his bond. The boy is a chip of the old block, and all his father's friends are eager and glad to help Manuel win a scholarship.

Manuel has selected St. Vincent's College as his alma mater, but he wishes to take one more year in High School before he enters college. That he will go to St. Vincent's eventually there is no doubt, and when he does, he will assuredly prove a model student, as he is a boy who does everything he attempts with all his might, and his conduct at all times is all that could be expected of the most obedient and most chivalrous of youths.

PEARL OF WHITTIER.

Miss Pearl Ellis of the good Quaker town of Whittier is another of the probable winners of one of the most valuable prizes The Times has to offer. Miss Ellis is fairly idolized by the people of Whittier and vicinity on account of her character and ability. She has finished the Grammar and High School courses of her home town and aspires to go to Occidental College next. She has the almost unanimous support, not only of the people of Whittier, but of Downey and Rivera as well. Two years ago Miss Carrie Sugg of Rivera finished second in the race, through the support accorded her by the Whittier and Downey people. Last year Miss Gertrude Smith of Downey won fourth prize through cooperation of the Rivera and Whittier people, and this year all three of those communities are turning to to make Miss Ellis one of the chief prize winners. Miss Sugg and Miss Smith each chose a scholarship of the Brownsberger School as their reward, but Miss Ellis wants a general college course, and therefore is partial to Occidental.

GARDENA WONDER.

Porter Blackburn of Gardena is another of the strong factors in the present scholarship contest. Although Gardena and Moneta, the two neighboring colonies that Porter represents, are but sparsely populated and at strong rivalry, they are united on one question, and that is that Porter Blackburn must win one of the best scholarships and one of the big cash prizes. Many a ton of berries, or hay, or cord of wood has been devoted to young Blackburn's support, because he is a boy who commands the admiration of all his neighbors. Porter has decided to take up the study of law, and a scholarship in the Los Angeles College of Law has been procured for his especial benefit. He also intends to take a course in the academic department of the University of Southern California. He is a member of the Methodist Church, a Sunday-school and Epworth League worker, and has never been known to utter a profane word or defile his mouth with whisky or tobacco. He is the eldest of a family of seven children, and has worked to help support himself and his brothers and sisters ever since he has been old enough to earn wages. His support does not all come from the neighborhood of his home, by any means, but from many scattered places. It is gratifying to note that he will, after all, get the points subscribed for him at Ventura under a misapprehension, as the money is being put up for the subscriptions given in his favor there, so as to make the subscriptions count in the contest.

BRILLIANT MISS PITTS.

Miss Georgia A. Pitts of Redlands is one of the most brilliant workers of the "Upper Ten" in the present contest. She has succeeded in arousing unprecedented interest in the contest in Redlands and other towns in San Bernardino and Riverside counties. Miss Pitts will finish with a very high score, a single bunch of 15,000 votes having been cast in her favor yesterday, and she will be able to get almost any scholarship she wants. To be sure, she will want a good one, and no doubt will get it.

LADY CLARE.

Miss Clare Templeton, one of the cleverest and most popular of all the young ladies in the contest, has made an admirable campaign and promises to be among the "Upper Ten" at the finish. Although starting late and being located in a small place like Lamanda Park, she has forged right to the front and endeared herself to hundreds of people who want to see her succeed on her merits. Miss Templeton has just returned from a tour up the coast extending as far as San Luis Obispo. Could she have remained up there awhile longer she would have accomplished wonders. As it is, her score is very handsomely increased through the cooperation of the people of Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties, who fell in love with winsome "Lady Clare." She wants a scholarship in Throop Institute, and will probably get it.

Space forbids further mention or review of the contest this morning, but there will be something interesting to say about the others tomorrow morning.

There will also be a further announcement tomorrow about the jubilee next Saturday. Through the courtesy of the Woodbury Business College, a new feature has been added to the entertainments of the day that will greatly enhance the round of pleasure mapped out for the participants in the contest. Watch for it, and also for the final announcements concerning the closing of the contest.

Remember that all votes must be in by 12 o'clock Wednesday night.

MURDER OF M'KINLEY ANSWER TO PRAYER.

MINISTER'S ASTOUNDING UTTERANCE AROUSES VENTURA.

Rev. Wade Hamilton Charges W.C.T.U. Anti-Canteenists With Praying for President's Removal and Believes Anarchist's Act Was the Result—Rebuked on Platform.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, Aug. 31.—Rev. Wade Hamilton, pastor of the Methodist Church, South, of this city, has brought down about his ears a storm of reproach from the indignant people of Ventura for what they term the unwise language of the minister, and his entirely uncalled-for attack upon the memory of the martyred President McKinley.

Ventura ministers have been holding a series of union meetings. The meeting last night was at the Methodist Church, which is presided over by Rev. Mr. Morrison, a sturdy and outspoken man of God who was a soldier in the late war, and who is also a member of the G.A.R. At the meeting last night it was the Rev. Mr. Hamilton's turn to talk. He took for the subject of his talk, "Symphony," but from the talk on the streets today it had better have been "Discord," for that is what the sermon has created.

Mr. Hamilton got warmed up to his work by the time he got to the subject of the death of the late President, whose taking off he characterized as a visitation of providence. He said in substance that the women of the W.C.T.U. had prayed for the removal of the President because of the stand he had taken, or that they thought he had taken, regarding the canteen and the use of wine at banquets, etc. Prayer, Mr. Hamilton said, was the great power when people were united, and the women of the W.C.T.U. all around the world were united in this prayer for the President's removal, and the outcome, persisted the speaker, was the visitation and the direct answer to these prayers.

The bold statement of the minister stunned the audience. It gasped at Mr. Hamilton's temerity. Then Rev. Mr. Morrison, who occupied the platform, gathered himself together and arose. "What's that you say?" he demanded. Mr. Hamilton repeated his statement, and Mr. Morrison looked at him pityingly and shook his head in anger as he waved Hamilton off with the remark: "Don't believe a word of it; don't believe a word of it."

The incident closed here—in the church—but it will be a long time before it closes to Mr. Hamilton, judging by street talk. The presence assumption that the W.C.T.U. women prayed for the removal of McKinley bids fair also to result in having some indignant temperance women about his ears.

BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

Two prisoners at the Ventura rock pile made a break for liberty this morning soon after Deputy Sheriff Viles had arrived there with them from the County Jail. One of the escapes was Rene Meyer, who was rounded up in Santa Monica with Capitalist Rindge's Sunday shirt on, and who was wanted for stealing a horse and buggy here. At the time of his break for liberty Meyer had on the Rindge shirt, as he considers it his property since the capitalist failed to apply for it. The other escape was A. Burdick, a young chap from Oxnard, who was serving a term of ninety days for vagrancy. Meyer had a 170 days' term before him. Viles was alone with about a dozen other prisoners when these two started to run, so he could no more than shout to them and fire several shots in the air to frighten them. The shooting had no further effect than to hurry the criminals' steps. Burdick headed for the thick willows in the river-bed, while Meyer and Rindge's shirt went toward the mountains. Viles hastened to the jail with his other prisoners and reported his troubles. Sheriff McMartin took a hand and started after Meyer, whom he overhauled on Ventura avenue near the town limits. He was brought back to jail and will likely get a little added to his term for his break. Burdick was not so easy to find, and up to noon nothing had been seen or heard of him.

VENTURA NOTES.

The suit of Caroline Durr vs. the A. O.U.W. Grand Lodge is on trial today before Judge Ewing. Plaintiff is suing to recover $1000 from defendant, the amount her son was insured for in the order. The son, Fred L. Durr, committed suicide in Oxnard in February of last year while laboring under a fit of temporary insanity, leaving the policy in question in favor of his mother.

The net amount realized by the recent minstrel show was $203.20, of which half goes to the clubhouse ladies and the balance to the manager of the affair.

DANISH WEST INDIES.

White Inhabitants Are Said to be Reconciled to the Failure of the Sale Project.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The National Zeitung says the Danish West Indian Commission is said to have reported as follows to Finance Minister Hage.

"The population of the islands is satisfied to remain under Danish rule. The whites hope from the newly awakened interest of Denmark in the islands, an improvement of economic conditions, and the fostering of civilizing influences. The negroes for the greater part are indifferent, and know but little about Denmark. The administration of the islands was found to be unpractical and expensive, and the hygienic conditions entirely unsatisfactory."

It is believed, says the National Zeitung, that the commission will report in favor of reducing the military establishment on the islands, and reorganizing the gendarmerie on modern lines. The report will also suggest that more attention be paid to public instruction, the improvement of hospitals, the tobacco growing industry and the raising of corn. The commission places great weight on the necessity of communication between the islands themselves and Denmark. The hope is expressed that the exports of the islands can be developed, and in this connection hopes are based on the newly formed West Indian Steamship and Land Company.

COMMODORE NICHOLSON OF OUR... ...NAVY

RECOMMENDS PE-RU-NA—OTHER PROMINENT MEN TESTIFY.

Commodore Somerville Nicholson, of the United States Navy, in a letter from 1837 R street, N.W., Washington, D. C., says:

"Your Peruna has been and is now used by so many of my friends and acquaintances as a sure cure for catarrh that I am convinced of its curative qualities and I unhesitatingly recommend it to all persons suffering from that complaint."—S. Nicholson.

Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter, U. S. Minister to Guatemala, ex-member of Congress from Kentucky, in a letter from Washington, D. C., writes:

"I am fully satisfied that your Peruna is an efficacious remedy for catarrh, as I and many of my friends have been benefited by its use."—W. G. Hunter, M.D.

Member of Congress from Virginia Writes.

Hon. G. R. Brown, Martinville, Va., ex-member of Congress, Fifth District, 50th Congress, writes:

"I cheerfully give my endorsement to your Peruna as a cure for catarrh. Its beneficial results have been so fully demonstrated that its use is essential to all persons suffering from that disease."—Hon. G. R. Brown.

The day was when men of prominence hesitated to give their testimonials to proprietary medicines for publication. This remains true today of most proprietary medicines. But Peruna has become so justly famous, its merits are known to so many people of high and low stations, that no one hesitates to see his name in print recommending Peruna.

The highest men in our nation have given Peruna a strong endorsement. Men representing all classes and stations are equally represented.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

WHAT ARE WE COMING TO?

The union labor manager who was recently sentenced to a term in Sing Sing penitentiary is not by any means an exceptional representative of his kind, as some of the union-labor papers and people would have the public believe. On the contrary, to judge from a San Francisco communication recently published in The Times, this individual may more properly be taken to represent an average specimen of his class.

The letter referred to gave a brief and unbiased outline of recent happenings in San Francisco labor circles, involving some of those who have been high in authority and responsibility in the ranks of the labor agitators, showing how many of them have shamefully abused their trusts. The correspondent declares that defaults and embezzlements in labor-union circles in San Francisco have become of such frequent occurrence that they attract but passing attention in labor circles. These defalcations range from $2000 to $2.75, and in every instance the main point of the unions involved seems to be to keep the public ignorant of the thievery. For instance, the "business agent" of the Journeymen Barbers' Union, founder of the labor-union party and the man whom that party nominated for City and County Auditor—the watch dog of the San Francisco treasury—stole $2000 from his union and decamped. The union tried to keep the matter quiet, and when he was arrested and brought back to San Francisco for trial the union refused to prosecute him. The prisoner boasted that they dared not tell on him, for if they did he would involve too many in the crime. Now he is out on bail, is a member in good standing in his union, is a strong factor in union-labor circles, and is devoting his time to doing politics.

One of the presidents of the Porters' and Packers' Union began stealing from his union as soon as possible after being elected, taking to himself money appropriated for the benefit of sick members. He is still an honored member of the union. It was discovered that the trusted business agent of the Bakers' Union was living far beyond his legitimate means, and the union employed an expert to examine his books, which showed a shortage of $300. He is still a member in good standing, a leading agitator, and holds the position of delegate to several central bodies. In the Stablemen's Union the business agent was found short several hundred dollars. He admitted he had taken the money. He is still a member in good standing, and the union recently gave him a certificate of honesty, for him to have printed in the San Francisco papers.

Recently, the secretary of the Coopers' Union was discovered to be a defaulter. He was permitted to remain in office, and is still handling the funds of the union. One of the officers of the Retail Delivery Drivers' Union appropriated all the money in the treasury to his own use. He has not yet returned the money, and it is probable that the vote of the union will wipe out the debt. A trusted officer of the Retail Grocery Clerks' Union recently took a large sum from the treasury, and is now trying to secure the union for its repayment. The Barbers' Union did not profit much by the experience with its thieving treasurer. At a recent picnic one of the members in charge of the funds pocketed all the money taken in and used it for his own benefit. He has promised to make it good.

As shown in this communication, it is not only through direct stealing that the officials of the union line their pockets with the hard-earned money of the foolish members. There are what is called in labor circles "legitimate" methods of getting the money of the dupes. For instance, the recent tanners' strike is a case in point. That strike lasted ten months, and a loud cry went up from the central body to all the councils of labor, setting forth the pitiable condition of the starving strikers. The response was generous. Of the relief fund collected by the committee of the Tanners' Union $18,000 was charged to the expense of collection, and but one-third of that amount was turned over to the strikers. The expense of collection consisted simply in receiving the money and sending receipts for it to the unions which contributed it. The expenses of the Brotherhood of Teamsters for the past year, were $25,000, according to the statement of the treasurer, recently made. Of this amount, he stated that 90 per cent. went to the officers of the brotherhood. He made no explanation of this enormous charge, and not a member of the union dared question it.

So the miserable story of duplicity runs, all along the line. Recently, the messenger boys in the retail stores of San Francisco were organized into a union and they elected a temporary president. Each boy chipped in twenty-five cents, which they gave to the charge of the temporary president. He proved a good custodian of the funds, for he has them yet. The Newsboys' Union was started some months ago. Before it had been in existence a month it developed that the president and treasurer were "shy" in the funds. It has since been shown that the leader in the union has accumulated sufficient funds to enable him to open a saloon and crap joint, which is being run contrary to law, with the connivance of the police, where other newsboys are debauched and robbed of their meager earnings.

This, be it remembered, is the story of only one city and of a few months. The worst feature about this unpleasant condition of affairs is the disposition shown by the members of the unions to connive at and cover up crimes, instead of denouncing the perpetrators and driving them from the associations. In the same way the members of the eastern labor unions have formally endorsed the proposition to pay the jail-bird agitator in Sing Sing penitentiary his big salary during his incarceration, and to arrange that he shall carry on the management of his office while he is wearing prison stripes.

Men and brethren, what are we coming to, in this year of the Lord 1903, in the United States of America, a government "of, for and by the people," to which the oppressed of other nations are looking for a refuge from the tyranny of despots, and sociological reformers for information and instruction? Is it not time for every intelligent and patriotic American to pause and reflect, before we go farther down the toboggan slide? The oath of the Typographical Union contains the following sentence:

"I hereby solemnly and sincerely swear that my fidelity to the Typographical Union and my duty to the members thereof shall in no sense be interfered with by any allegiance that I may now or hereafter owe to any other organization, social, political or religious."

A Catholic priest of Michigan has truly said that no Catholic could consistently take or keep the oath of this and some other labor unions. He might truthfully have added that no patriotic American, of whatever faith or convictions, could properly subscribe to such a declaration, which deprives him of the right of being a free agent, and makes him a mere tool of a gang of irresponsible and selfish men.

Sing ho, the merry rock pile that we are going to have-p. d. q. Greeting to Weary Willie and his pard, with the assurance that they will find a warm welcome and a hammer waiting for them when next they pass through Los Angeles. The rock pile is a thing we long have sought and kicked like blazes because we had it not. But now all is lovely. The money to build a bear garden for hobos, secure rock for them to practice upon and outfit the works with 4-pound striking hammers is in sight. Carry the news to Willie. Willie we have missed you. Come and see us, Willie, and pound the living daylights out of some of our choice rock, and see how you like it.

The Chicago Chronicle goes considerably out of its way to explain why the ladies of the hog and hominy center have large and industrious feet. The fact is attributed to the large importation of foreigners to the place where the pig squeals and welters in his gore. We cannot but admire our esteemed contemporary's ingenuity—it is great. But great as it is, those feet can walk all over it.

Nebraska now wants the Vice-Presidency. We recall the fact without a wrenching of the memory that "twice times" she wanted the Presidency, but alas and alas, she failed to get it. How would it do for Nebraska to give some of the other States a chance to work their aspirations a little bit?

It isn't every man who is so frank as Judge Jeune, who says that man, the miserable wretch, has a capacity for loving two women at once. But we are wondering what Mrs. Jeune thinks about the Judge's ideas on that subject.

NATURALIZATION ABUSES.

The great tide of immigration that has been flowing into the United States of late has served to start a discussion—which is now raging with some violence in the East—as to the advisability, or necessity, of making such changes in our naturalization laws as to prevent these hordes of newcomers from becoming full-fledged voters after a short residence in the United States. There is quite a general concurrence in the opinion that the average immigrant is not fitted for citizenship after so short a probationary period as five years. It is pointed out, also, that the law is perhaps more honored in the breach than in the observance, and that too many immigrants "are naturalized in time to enable them to vote at the first general election after their landing."

Some of the eastern papers are publishing communications from correspondents advocating a policy of extreme "know-nothingism"—the practical exclusion of all foreign-born persons from the privileges of the franchise. A correspondent of the New York Sun declares that, if thousands of the very lowest and most ignorant natives of Southern Europe had been arriving in our harbors at the time our Constitution was written, there would have been in it no provision permitting naturalization. "At that time," he says, "ships navigating the Atlantic Ocean were few and of small tonnage, all the foreigners who came here were of the better classes of their native countries, and they were a desirable acquisition to this. Hence that liberal provision that was pregnant with so much evil. As a matter of fact," he continues, "the immigrants do not need the franchise. They, in common with our citizens, are protected by our laws in all their rights of person and property; and, furthermore, it is not the acquirement of citizenship that led to their immigration. Their motive was twofold—to escape from the oppression of the monarchical countries they were born in, and, far more than that, to find opportunities for their labor at far better compensation than they ever had or ever could have in their native countries. This would be clearly proved if our naturalization laws were to be repealed. The volume of immigration would not decrease. The great steamship lines would keep their agents at work all over Europe gathering up cargoes. The immigrants would be content to labor and accumulate money, as they now do, under the protection of our laws. It would be sufficient for their children, born and reared here, to inherit the great privilege of citizenship."

Another correspondent asks: "Why should a foreigner be allowed to vote in this country at all? He, for the most part, neither knows the spirit of our institutions nor cares about it. He is here to get better living, but in five years' time he is the equal of the intelligent native-born citizen who has built up a home and a business under the protection of a law and of institutions for which the foreigner has little, if any, regard. Why would it be any great hardship for the foreigner, who gets the benefits of an asylum in America, to let the voting power wait until his children can grow up with an intelligence born of the public schools and of touch with the people and an ability to vote with understanding? This would be only fairness to the native born, and to many men it seems that this is only right."

Between these extreme views and the present lax system of naturalization, there is a reasonable mean which should furnish the desired solution of the problem. It is manifestly time for a reform in our naturalization laws and methods. But in the institution of reform the fact should not be lost sight of that many intelligent foreigners come to our shores who are better qualified to exercise the rights and privileges of American citizenship than are many of our illiterate native-born citizens. Any law which should fail to make reasonable discrimination in favor of education and intelligence would certainly be unjust, and would measurably fail of its purpose.

It has long been a fact too patent for successful denial that as a matter of duty to ourselves we should so amend our naturalization laws as to exclude from the franchise privilege unlettered persons of foreign birth. It is not enough that persons of this class shall merely take an oath of allegiance to the Constitution and the laws of the country. This oath is too often taken without any adequate knowledge of its significance. "Every applicant for naturalization," as the New York Journal of Commerce pertinently declares, in discussing this question, "should be required to pass the test of a simple, oral examination upon the essential points of his qualifications for citizenship, and that examination should be in the English language. Knowledge of the language of our Constitution and laws, the language of the social and political environment of the subjects of the government, should be a prime qualification. It would be the key to the rest and a means of becoming something else than a permanent alien. We especially need reform in the spirit and manner of administering the naturalization laws. The present helter-skelter manner of admitting to citizenship in all sorts of courts is a constant violation of the spirit and letter of the law as it now stands and is nothing less than a national scandal. The making of new citizens should be a serious business, and the responsibilities connected with it should be discharged with care and conscience. They should be restricted to Federal courts, and the judges should be held to a close observance of the requirements of the law at the same time that these are made much more exacting than they are now. Then no man should be clothed with the right of suffrage in any State until he has been vested with the privileges and immunities of a citizen of the United States."

From the logic of this position there is no escape. The American people are not prepared to look with favor upon a recrudescence of the "know-nothingism" of half a century ago. But the necessity for a radical reform in our naturalization laws and their interpretation is imperative, and the reform should begin at once.

A MILLION INCREASE.

That is the Record of New Building in Los Angeles for the Month of August.

"One million per month" added to the material wealth of Los Angeles is still the record, as evidenced by the report for August issuing from the office of the Superintendent of Buildings. During the month 602 building permits were granted, with a valuation of $1,127,819. Of this sum $76,643 represents alterations.

Nor is this building boom confined to one section of the city. The distribution by wards is as follows: First Ward, 66 permits, valuation $79,410; Second Ward, 35 permits, valuation $35,510; Third Ward, 45 permits, valuation, $254,455; Fourth Ward, 110 permits, valuation $278,434; Fifth Ward, 89 permits, valuation $131,960; Sixth Ward, 143 permits, valuation $149,810; Seventh Ward, 48 permits, valuation $128,680; Eighth Ward, 14 permits, valuation $18,703; Ninth Ward, 52 permits, valuation $49,825. As compared with the record for the some month last year, there is an increase of 174 permits and $350,097 in valuation. Few cities in the land are able to make such a magnificent showing proportionately.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

BURBANK. "Under Two Flags" is the acceptable presentation of the Neill company at the Burbank Theater this week. The best of the several dramatizations is used by Mr. Neill, the mounting is fair, and the company work into their lines a good deal of the enthusiasm necessary for the proper rendition of this rather melodramatic play.

"Under Two Flags" is so well known that its story would need but the briefest synopsis to any theater-going public. In short, it deals with the adventures of an English gentleman, who, outlawed from his native land by the villainy of a younger brother, seeks refuge in Algiers, where he serves for twelve years under the French colors. He is loved by a half-savage child of the ranks—Cigarette by name, who saves his life on several occasions, and who evinces toward him a jealous and passionate devotion. She finally dies for him, taking in her breast bullets meant for his heart. Meanwhile, he loves another.

As "Cigarette" Edythe Chapman attempts what is for her an entirely new line of work, and in portraying the vivid emotions of the fiery, untamed creature she acts with an enthusiasm and dash good to see. Although the delivery of her lines was at times faulty, Miss Chapman won the honors of the evening at the first performance.

Miss Gertrude Kellar is still making good, and is winning a warm spot for her talents in the hearts of the Burbank audiences. This week she has the role of Princess Venetia Corona, the "lady" of the play, looks the part to perfection, and enacts it with a quiet and charming dignity.

The remaining roles are shadows. Mr. Neill plays the hero, and does the best he can with lines that are nothing but heroics. Character interpretations acceptably given are those of John W. Burton, Donald Bowles, William Bernard and Thomas Sidney. George Bloomquest, in the small part of a faithful valet, shows a good mastery of true, unexaggerated cockney dialect.

The management says that the crowd at the first performance broke all records for some time past. The only matinée will be given Saturday.

ORPHEUM. John Le Clair, juggler, is the cleverest of the new arrivals at the Orpheum. Le Clair does as skillful and graceful feats in the way of slieght-of-hand as have been seen at any theater in the city for a very, very long time. One of his cleverest is the manipulation of two billiard balls between a pair of cues. He causes the balls to roll from the bases of the cues to the tips and then to return to him. There are other things he does which are more sensational and maybe prettier, but nothing that shows such exquisite mastery of the balance of forces as this.

Lew Hawkins is back again, and his welcome last night proved him a popular favorite. He has some new songs, stories and cracks. The Kauffman bicyclists are still favorites, too, and are doing tests of strength and balancing that have never been excelled in that line at the Orpheum. Elfie Fay, as crazy as ever, gives about the liveliest fifteen minutes on the programme. One wonders if she has an air-brake attachment to stop herself when she goes off stage, or if she has to be hung up on a peg and allowed to run down. Sidney Wilmer presents a new sketch entitled "A Strange Baby."

Just as last week, Miss Wynne-Winslow comes out on the vaudeville shadowy curtain into shadowy light and sings dainty songs in her moonlight voice. One of her numbers is the "Violet" song from "The Prince of Pilsen," soon to be given here for the first time by its original producers, the Castle Square Opera Company.

Macart's dogs and monkeys are still clawing up the carpet during their act, and the bill concludes with a horsey "comedy" act by a painful team called Heeley and Meeley.

Street Cleaning.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30, 1903.—[To the Editor of The Times:] "Spectators see most of the game" is the way (or nearly so) The Times real estate man puts it in regard to realty movements in Los Angeles. Your city government man might say the same in regard to municipal management, and he might also add, "the onlooker is keen to see errors." Perhaps, too, some will say it is none of the latter's business, and fearing this criticism I hesitate before proceeding.

It is conceded that the municipal government of Buffalo, N. Y., is more nearly perfect than is that of any other large American city; that its streets are clean and well lighted; its school system highly creditable; its operation of a city-owned water and sewerage system excellent; its department of health a most progressive and intensely effective institution. Having officially investigated these phases (as well as all others) of municipal Buffalo, I insist that Buffalo is entitled to claim the credit of being at the head of the class. This being so, Los Angeles need not be ashamed to study and copy Buffalo's good points.

It is the little things that count in keeping up appearances, such, for instance, as the following:

(1.) The storekeepers in Buffalo are not allowed to sweep the dirt from their storerooms out onto the sidewalk. The sweepings are taken up in the store and deposited in refuse boxes on curb or alley.

(2.) They are not permitted to sweep paper and other refuse from the sidewalk to the gutters, but must deposit same in the receptacles provided therefor.

(3.) Nor are pedestrians allowed to throw litter into the gutters, the rule and practice being that all waste paper and other rubbish be deposited in the boxes at the street corners. This rule is faithfully observed by Buffalo's population, and the remarkably clean appearance of the principal thoroughfares is very largely attributable to this small detail. Indeed, the habit of refraining from deliberately littering up their beautiful streets is so strong with the people there that they are as careful to make use of the street refuse boxes as they are to use waste paper baskets in their nice business offices. There is a pride about it that is no small factor in solving the problem of street cleanliness.

(4.) Refuse boxes are located at all street corners; they are painted, are neat in shape, and properly lettered to indicate their function. At regular intervals the city wagons collect the contents of the boxes and haul the stuff off to the crematory.

(5.) The men behind the brooms are plentifully stationed at the busy points, where they sweep and shovel all day long, their duty being to see that street litter is promptly removed and deposited in the boxes. It is at this work the Buffalo sweepers differ from those of Los Angeles, and in a manner which accounts for some of the notable differences in the streets of these two cities. The methods of the man behind the broom in Los Angeles give one the impression that his highest ambition is to make dust, not remove it. The vigorous indiscriminate stirring up of the street filth by these sweepers certainly keeps the stuff moving, though not in a right direction. Much of the miserable annoyance of encountering inumerable clouds of fine filth could be eliminated by a careful handling of the brooms. This is a small detail of management, but its correct handling would produce better results without increasing its cost to the city.

Religious Freedom.

[To the Editor of The Times: The recent atrocities committed in Macedonia and elsewhere in the Turkish Empire emphasize the experiences of the centuries, that more bloodshed and suffering has been caused throughout the world under the banner of religious intolerance than from all other causes combined. Is it not time for the leading nations of the world, to once and for all assert and maintain the principle of religious freedom the world over in the interests of humanity generally.

If the United States, England, Germany, France, Russia, Austria, Italy and some of the lesser powers would enter into an alliance, for the sole and only purpose of guaranteeing to the people of every clime and nation, absolute freedom of religious opinion, it would be a long step toward the time when—

"The sword and spear shall prune the tree and plow the earth."

Freedom of religious opinion or the agnosticism of the liberal thinker has nothing, or should have nothing, to do with the civil and political status of the people of any country. If the guarantees aforesaid were undertaken, the national guarantors would thus be entering upon a glorious career of religious emancipation, such as has been effected, in a greater or less degree, in all the nations above mentioned. A notice served by these governments on all the nations offending against the law of universal and absolute religious freedom, that summary and swift punishment awaits all who violate said law, would effectively end all these dreadful religious wars and persecutions for opinion's sake, without trenching upon political rights of any, or interfering with the form of any government, unless the same is founded upon the principle of religious intolerance.

What a magnificent and far reaching achievement this would be; and all that could be accomplished, in all probability, without bloodshed, and under the glorious allied banner of religious freedom, never before unfuried to the breeges of any nation or clime.

This may seem to some chimerical, and to others who still harbor the spirit of the Inquisition, Anti-Semitism or Paganism, undesirable; but to one who has risen to an appreciation of the priceless treasure of free and untrammeled religious thought and action, there can be no more inspiring hope and aspiration.

'Twas Somebody's Blunder.

[To the Editor of The Times:] I note with pleasure your efforts to have more trees in Los Angeles. I cannot understand why the four large rubber trees in the Plaza were cut down. I was in your beautiful city last summer and one of the things I photographed was this little gem of a park, with its four large rubber trees.

I showed the picture to my friends in the East, who deem themselves fortunate if they possess a little switch of a rubber tree in a flower pot. They, like myself, were delighted, and one of the things they want to see when they come to California is the rubber trees. One of the stumps of what was last summer a stately tree still has a sign board "Rubber Tree" tacked to it.

Pacific Coast Lumber Trade.

SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) Aug. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The lumber interests on the Pacific Coast are of a magnitude not generally realized. The mechanical equipment there is unequaled by that of any other lumber fleid in the world.

We are informed by the Department of Commerce and Labor, through its Bureau of Statistics, that the Pacific lumbermen have been rapidly enlarging their area and volume of commercial distribution in both the foreign and the domestic markets.

According to figures gathered by the Bureau of Statistics, the redwood shipments in 1902 from upper California, mostly to San Francisco and the southern coast, amounted to (using round numbers for the purposes of this article) 280,000,000 feet. In addition, the California coast alone received in the past three fiscal years pine and fir to the extent of 370,000,000 feet in 1900, 408,000,000 feet in 1901, and 626,000,000 feet in 1902. These figures show an enormous increase, particularly in 1902, over 1900.

The trade on the North Pacific Coast has expanded in equal volume. Shipments, by water alone, from Seattle, show, in 1901, 506,000,000 feet and in 1902, 564,000,000 feet.

A movement of almost equal proportions is taking place to points in the interior of the United States, by rail. These figures show 364,000,000 feet in 1901 and 562,000,000 feet in 1902. In shingles sent east of the Cascade Mountains extending into the territory east of the Missouri River, and, in many cases, as far as the lakes, the records show the shipments to have been in 1901, 4,485,000,000, and in 1902, 5,650,000,000.

The railroads are benefiting largely by these enormous shipments of lumber and shingles. From Seattle alone were sent, in 1900, 3141 carloads; in 1901, 4320 carloads; and in 1902, 6026 carloads. Portland, Or., ranks next to Seattle in rail lumber shipments. The record there is, 1900, 11,966 carloads; 1901, 12,517 carloads; 1902, 15,876 carloads. The heavy increase hereby shown in rail shipments of lumber from the Pacific Coast to points East is a noteworthy contribution to transcontinental tonnage, insuring, as it does, return freights for the freight trains sent to the Pacific. This is as necessary as return cargoes for ships. The opening of the Mississippi Valley to the Pacific Coast lumbermen brings the export trade from the Coast into closer relations with the demands of the domestic consumer. He thus becomes directly interested in the progress of lumbering, both in the Northwestern States and the Southern States, as main sources of supply. The entire East is chiefly dependent for its immense consumption of lumber on these two sources.

The principal mills of the State of Washington reported for 1902 that 385,000,000 feet were sent to coastwise destinations, and 153,000,000 feet to foreign destinations. If this ratio holds good for the Pacific Coast as a whole, it means that as much as 70 per cent. of our Pacific Coast lumber cut is put to domestic uses. The other 30 per cent. of the cut is sent to foreign destinations, and a growing proportion of it to parts in the Orient.

Announcement was recently made by the Bureau of Statistics, of the arrival in the Chinese market of a first cargo of Siberian lumber, by a Russian vessel from Vladivostok. This is important news, as it signalises the entrance of Russia as a competitor in the lumber market of the Orient, particularly in timberless China. At the same time, Russian lumber shipments are projected from the Korean side of the Yalu River. Both in Siberia and on the Yalu enormous resources in lumber are waiting development. It is for us that our Pacific Coast interests are in the fine condition indicated. We can easily meet the immediate competition, but what of the future? Unofficial estimates give the annual cut of lumber and shingles in the three Pacific States as —

California	900,000,000
Oregon	700,000,000
Total	3,900,000,000

At this rate it is calculated that the forests of the Pacific Coast will be exhausted in about forty years.

In this expectation it is also fortunate for us, indeed, more than fortunate that we own the Philippine Islands with their 56,000,000 acres of virgin forests, embracing 665 known varieties of woods. Some of them among the most valuable woods known to commerce.

VENEZUELANS CRY DEATH TO ALIENS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CUMANA (Venezuela) Aug. 31.—[By South American Cable.] A gibbet was erected in a street of this city yesterday, on which was hung an effigy representing a foreigner, and the populace beat the dummy with sticks amid shouts of "Death to the foreigners!"

Two leading traders, M. Palachi, a Frenchman, and Herry Sprick, a German, were recently arrested in Ciudad Bolivar by order of President Castro for refusing to pay their taxes, which had already been collected by the revolutionists during the latter's occupation of the city. Many other persons were also arrested on the same charge. The French and German ministers at Caracas protested, and obtained the immediate release of their fellow-countrymen.

Gen. Rolando and two hundred of the rebel officers who were captured at Ciudad Bolivar, have arrived at Maracaibo. They were incarcerated in the fortress of San Carlos with their feet in irons.

MAN-HUNT IN INTERIOR.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WILLEMSTAD (Island of Curacao) Aug. 31.—Harsh justice is being meted out to foreigners residing in the interior of Venezuela, where the local authorities are hunting down all foreigners who dare to present claims against Venesuela, in accordance with the recent protocol.

Near Coros, the local tribunal refused to accept the testimony of five Italians. On the latter insisting in tendering their depositions, three were arrested and thrown into jail. Two of them attempted to escape and were fired upon, one being killed. The Venezuelan government does not deny this occurrence, but is doing all it can to prevent a repetition. It is learned on good authority that letters sent to foreigners from the Italian and other legations, instructing them to send in their claims, were seized in the posts, so as to prevent the claims from arriving at Caracas in due time.

BULGARIANS ADMIT WAR IS IMMINENT.

Formal Declaration of Hostilities May be Waived by Both Sides.

Large Numbers of Insurgents Have Recently Crossed the Frontier—Extensive Outbreak in Northern Macedonia Possible at Any Time—Turkish Troops Spread Destruction Along Their Route.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SALONICA, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Turks have occupied Klissura, Albania, without resistance. A number of Bulgarian villages in its vicinity were burned. Inspector-General Hilmi Pasha recently sent a commission composed of five Christians and five Turks to offer amnesty to the insurgents on condition that they lay down their arms before the festivities tomorrow in honor of the Sultan's coronation.

Sarafoff, the revolutionary leader, has arrived in the neighborhood of Salonica for the purpose of directing the movements in this district. Some Turkish officers, August 29, sold 15 cases of Martini rifles and a quantity of ammunition to Bulgarians.

SOFIA, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] In both official and revolutionary circles, the opinion is freely held that war between Bulgaria and Turkey is imminent, and can be averted by nothing short of a miracle. It is not expected that either government will formally declare hostilities, but that the prevailing conditions will force warfare.

There is no question that large numbers of insurgents have recently crossed the frontier. An extensive outbreak in Northern Macedonia is possible at any time. The Autonomy prints a telegram from Constantinople, declaring that the Sultan, influenced by the counsels of Germany, now favors war with Bulgaria. The Turks here, however, take an optimistic view, asserting that there is no danger of a war, as Turkey does not desire one, and Prince Ferdinand and the present Bulgarian government are not in a position to force hostilities.

The Bulgarian agent at Uskub reports that etachments of Turkish troops sent to garrison the small towns in that vilayet have spread destruction along their route; the villagers have been robbed and beaten, the women violated, and the Christian population subjected to every conceivable outrage, while the local authorities appear to be helpless to stop the hostilities. At the village of Drachme, six miles from Uskub, the soldiers attacked all the peasants without the gendarmes interfering on behalf of the latter.

The Bulgarian agent specifies similar excess in many other villages, and the position of the Bulgarian residents is reported to be terrible, as the cruelties committed by the Turkish fiends exceeded all limits.

Up to 6 o'clock this evening, Prince Ferdinand had not arrived in Sofia and the court officials declare that they are without information as to his movements.

TURKS FOMENTING TROUBLE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SOFIA, Aug. 31.—Nine hundred refugees from Malkotirnovo and surrounding villages have arrived at Urumku, Bulgaria. The refugees say the Turkish garrison fired upon the Bulgarian part of Malkotirnovo with the object of creating an impression that a revolution was in porgress.

The prefect summoned the Bulgarian notables of Malkotirnovo, August 21, and endeavored to force them to sign a statement that the insurgents were the aggressors. The notables refused to do so, and the first man who refused was hanged the next day.

The Macedonian leaders here claim that an aggregate of 2000 Bulgarians have crossed the frontier in small parties and joined the insurgents during the last ten days. Gen. Zonte Hoff, president of the Macedonian Committee, and Col. Jankoff, one of the revolutionary leaders, who are now in Macedonia, sent word that the insurgents forces total 12,000 to 15,000 men. They expect that a general insurrection will be proclaimed this week.

UNCLE SAM'S WARSHIPS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

GENOA, Aug. 31.—The United States cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco, which sailed from Genoa yesterday evening, are bound for Beirut and not for Port Said, as previously cabled. The Machias previously sailed for Port Said, where she will coal.

CHEEKY CHEKIB BEY.

WOULD MAKE TURKS O. K.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Chekib Bey, the Turkish Minister, had a long interview today with Secretary Hay. He refused to discuss the interview, stating that he had nothing to communicate, further than what appeared in the Associated Press dispatches yesterday morning. After the interview Secretary Hay visited the Navy Department. If the Turkish Minister requested, that the European squadron be kept away from Turkish waters his request probably cannot be granted, even should this government desire to accede to it, as the Navy Department states that it will be impossible to communicate with either the Brooklyn or San Francisco until they arrive at Beirut.

Chekib Bey assured Secretary Hay that the Turkish government had done nothing wrong, and will use every endeavor to protect American citizens residing in Turkey. He also discussed the condition of the insurrection in Turkey, and said that the Turkish government was not responsible for any of the disasters that had occurred.

Secretary Hay's call upon Acting Secretary Darling was for the purpose of ascertaining the whereabouts of the European squadron and also what their orders are. There is no intention of changing any orders at present, especially as the ships cannot be reached until they arrive at Beirut.

HIS STATUS QUESTIONED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Some questions have been raised as to whether Chekib Bey is an actual Minister of Turkey, because his credentials have not been presented, and he has not yet been officially received as Minister by the President. No point is made by the State Department on this account, and Secretary Hay considers Chekib Bey as the Minister of Turkey to the United States. The presenting of the credentials is a mere formality, as the State Department is aware that the Minister has been duly accredited by his country, and has his credentials.

It is said at the Navy Department today that although there are two colliers now in Turkish waters, the Brutus and Alexander, there will probably be no necessity for holding them in order to supply the European squadron with coal. All three of the ships have their bunkers filled, and it was said the supply will last them for some time, but should any emergency arise, requiring the warships to coal quickly, they can do so at a number of Mediterranean ports where the government has contracts with dealers.

ADVICES FROM LEISHMAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Late dispatches from Minister Leishman give in detail the conditions in Turkey, and do not differ materially in tone from those previously sent. Minister Leishman does not, as reported in some quarters, request the withdrawal of the American ships in Turkish waters. While reports by way of London state that no attempt was made upon the life of Vice-Consul Magelssen, official advices so far received show that such an attempt was made.

The present status was known before the ships left Smyrna, and this government did not decide to change the orders. It is now stated, however, that should there be a calm and peaceful condition at Beirut when the ships arrive there, the matter of sending them to another port will be considered.

PRINCE FERDINAND.

EMBARKS AT KUSTENDJI.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

KUSTENDJI (Roumania) Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria embarked here at midnight on the Bulgarian gunboat Nadiejda and sailed for Burgas, Bulgaria.

ANXIETY AT SOFIA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SOFIA, Aug. 31.—The non-arrival here of Prince Ferdinand and the mystery surrounding his movements, although characteristic, he always having maintained similar reticence and independence regarding his movements, causes anxiety here. One report says the Prince has gone through Roumania to the palace of Euxinograd near Verna, while according to another report he is at Philoppolis. In Macedonian circles it is believed that he fears to return to Sofia, owing to the receipt of threatening letters.

SAW ROUMANIA'S PREMIER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—The Times correspondent at Sofia hears that the rising in Northern Macedonia was to be proclaimed last night. Prince Ferdinand, he says, had a long interview at Constanza with the Roumanian Premier, Sador Sturdza, yesterday, before embarking on the Bulgarian gunboat at Kustendji for Burgas.

VOLUNTEERS FROM BELGRADE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

KING EDWARD IN VIENNA.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VIENNA, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] King Edward arrived in Vienna today. Emperor Francis Joseph, wearing the uniform of the British Dragoon Guards, and accompanied by several archdukes and other notables, received him at the station. The King wore the uniform of a colonel of the Austrian Hussars. After the presentation of the archdukes and others the two sovereigns drove to the Hofburg in a landau drawn by six horses.

At the Hofburg the King was received by the Archduke and Finace Minister Goluchowski, the Austrian and Hungarian premiers, and the court and state dignitaries. Thereafter the King retired to his apartments, where he was officially visited by the Emperor.

A State dinner in honor of King Edward was given at the Hofburg tonight. The company present included the Emperor, all the archdukes and archduchesses, the ministers, diplomats, and the general staff of the army.

SUBSIDY FOR STEAMSHIPS.

OTTAWA (Ont.) Aug. 31.—Sir Richard Cartwright has given notice in Parliament of a resolution to make provision for a subsidy not exceeding $133,333 a year for a steamship service between Canada and France.

CAPITALISTS ON TRIAL FOR MANSLAUGHTER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Aug. 31.—The seven members of the Executive Committee of the board of directors of the North Jersey Street Railway Company appeared today in the Essex County Court for trial on indictments charging them with manslaughter.

On February 19 last, nine Newark High School students were killed in a collision between a Clifton-avenue trolley car and a Lackawanna express train. Indictments were returned against Alexander J. Cassatt, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; John D. Crimmins of New York, Edward F. C. Young, president of the North Jersey Railroad Company; Leslie D. Ward, president of the Prudential Insurance Company; Elisha B. Gaddis, wholesale merchant, and director of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company; David Young, vice-president and general manager of the North Jersey, and J. Roosevelt Shanley.

In addition to these men, there also appeared as defendants Charles M. Shipman, former general superintendent of the North Jersey; James Smith, Arthur W. Pratt and Richard Eick, division officials of the company.

WITNESSES EXAMINED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Aug. 31.—The jury was completed at 1:10 p. m. Prosecutor Riker opened for the State, reciting the nature of the accident, the conditions of the track and dangers of the crossing. On the morning of the accident, he said, the crossing was covered with snow and ice, so that the brake shoes of the car were clogged. In consequence the car slipped down the incline, smashed through the gates and collided with the train.

He then named the defendants individually, and stated that they were aware of the condition of the tracks, that they knew about the crossings, and that they had done nothing to avoid the accident. He asked that they be adjudged guilty of the charge in the indictment.

The first witness was Edward G. Kempf, a surveyor, who showed diagrams and measurements he had made on the Clifton avenue crossing and the immediate vicinity.

He was followed by Mrs. Minnie Horte, sister of Ernestine Miller. The defense admitted the death of Miss Miller, and also that she was a passenger on the wrecked car. This was done to relieve Mrs. Horte from the pain of a prolonged examination as to her sister's death.

The last witness of the day was James Kay, a letter carrier, who was at the crossing at the time of the accident. He described the condition of the approach to the crossing, and said that the motorman of the trolley car apparently made every effort to stop the car but could not do so on account of the ice-covered condition of the tracks. Kay was still on the stand when court adjourned for the day.

SOLUTION FOR PEACE.

Judge Gray Favors Common Sense.

Some System of Arbitration Which Would Appeal to Human Nature a Necessity.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WILMINGTON (Del.) Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] If there is one man in the country likely at this moment to speak knowingly and without passion or interest of the outlook for industrial peace in the United States that man is Judge George Gray, president of President Roosevelt's commission which settled the great anthracite coal strike, who has just returned from Alabama, where he succeeded in settling a serious bituminous coal strike.

"I believe that we will find a solution of the question involved in this struggle between capital and labor," said Judge Gray. "We will solve it in our own way along the lines of humanity and common sense. But it will take a long time. Habit changes slowly, when the change is real and permanent. We have got to have some system of arbitration to avoid a settlement of questions by force in civilized States. I am confident that there is at the bottom, in human nature, something in which we can find an alternative of violence and the strong hand."

"It has been said, Judge Gray, that the interference of President Roosevelt in the anthracite strike, considering the power and influence of his office, amounted to a modification of property rights. How does that criticism strike you?"

"I have no hesitation in saying that the President of the United States was confronted in October, 1902, by the existence of a crisis more grave and threatening than any that had occurred since the Civil War. I mean that a cessation of the mining in the anthracite coal country brought about by the dispute between the miners and those who controlled the greatest natural monopoly in this country, and perhaps in the world, had brought upon more than one-half of the American people a condition of deprivation of one of the necessaries of life and a probable continuance of a dispute that threatened not only comfort and health, but the safety and good order of the nation. He was without legal or constitutional power to interfere, but his position as President of the United States gave him an influence and leadership as first citizen of the republic that enabled him to appeal to the patriotism and good sense of the parties to the controversy and to place upon them the moral coercion of public opinion to agree to an arbitration of the strike then existing and threatening consequences so direful to the whole country. He acted promptly and courageously, and in so doing averted the dangers to which I have alluded.

"So far from interfering or infringing upon the property rights, the President's action tended to conserve them. The peculiar situation as regards the anthracite coal interests was that they controlled the natural monopoly of product necessary to comfort and to the very life of a large portion of the people. Prolonged deprivation of this necessary of life would have tended to precipitate an attack upon these property rights.

"I do not thing that any President ever acted more wisely, courageously or promptly in a national crisis. Mr. Roosevelt deserves unstinted praise for what he did."

Must Again Quit Work.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 31.—The electrical workers of this city have decided to stand by the ruling of the Western conference, pending a decision from the international offices regarding their recent action in settling the local strike for themselves and going back to work. It is in accordance with this decision that all the linemen of the telephone company walked out this morning. The ruling of the Western conference was the action in returning to work without the consent of the conference was illegal.

Many Mills Resume Work.

BOSTON, Aug. 31.—There was a general resumption of work today in the numerous mills of the American Woolen Company throughout New England, which have been shut down from one to two weeks. Upwards of 25,000 hands participated in the vacation. Cotton mills, also, in various section resumed after periods of curtailment or idleness on account of the cotton situation.

TEAMSTERS' STRIKE.

NO PROSPECT OF SETTLEMENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SEATTLE (Wash.) Aug. 31.—There is no present prospect of a settlement of the teamsters' strike, and the developments tomorrow may involve all the building trades of the city. Today was spent in conferences between the Draymens' Association the Strike Committee of the teamsters and leading officers of the Western Central Labor Union. The draymen agreed to all demands of the strikers as to higher wages and a shorter working day, but refused absolutely to recognise the union.

The Western Central Labor, held a meeting tonight at which the question was discussed but no action taken.

Millmen Ordered Out.

DENVER (Colo.) Aug. 31.—A special to the Republican from Telluride, Colo., says that notices were posted this afternoon calling on all millmen in Telluride to stop work tomorrow morning. This is the result of the refusal of the mill managers to concede an eight hour day with some reduction in pay. The miners of the district had already been notified of the strike tomorrow, in sympathy with the millmen of Durango.

Parks May Give Bail.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Justice Seawell, of the Supreme Court today signed an order granting a certificate of reasonable doubt in the case of Samuel Parks, the walking delegate who is now in Sing Sing, having been convicted on a charge of extortion, pending appeal proceedings, and ordered his release in $10,000 bail.

Threatens General Strike.

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) Aug. 31.—Homer D. Call of this city, national secretary of the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, and Caabe Schmitt of Omaha, fourth vice-president, will leave tonight for Chicago to meet the packers with a view to settling the butchers' lockout at Rochester. Call says that unless the matter is adjusted the organization will order out 60,000 butchers throughout the country.

CHICAGO POLICE HELD SEVEN SUSPECTS.

CONFESSION SAID TO HAVE BEEN MADE BY ONE OF THEM.

Detectives Sent to Iowa After Three Men Said to Answer Description of Robbers and Murderers Who Looted Railway Company's Safe.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Of eleven suspects arrested by the police, following the murder of Frank Stewart and John B. Johnson, employes of the Chicago City Railway Company, and the looting of the company's safe early Sunday morning, seven are being held.

One arrest, to which some importance is attached, is that of John S Lieuder, a former employe of the company, who is known to have been in the vicinity at the time of the shooting.

The fact that the two men who survived the fire of the robbers can give but meager descriptions of their assailants, leads the police to declare that every hour lessens their chances of ever apprehending the guilty men.

AFTER THREE SUSPECT

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Three detectives were sent to Iowa, tonight by Chief of Police O'Neil to search for the robbers. Information has been received here that three men answering the description of the robbers were put off a passenger train near the Iowa and Illinois boundary line early yesterday morning. The man were riding on the blind baggage, and when ordered to leave the train threatened to shoot the conductor, saying that they had already killed one man during the night. The description of these men corresponds with the men described by Lueder, one of the suspects now held for the crime.

Lueder, it is said, has confessed that he was implicated in the hold-up. He says he was to receive $1000 for his part in it, but that the robbers gave him nothing. The police are inclined to doubt Leuder's confession.

BANKER MURDERED.

Assassin Shoots at Pursuers and Dangerously Wounds Policeman, but is Captured After Severe Struggle.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 31.—Vincenso Tilli, proprietor of an Italian bank, was shot and killed by a fellow-countryman named Giovanni Viola tonight. Viola ran from the bank and as he was pursued by a large crowd, he turned and fired his revolver at his pursuers. One bullet struck Policeman Thomas Conley in the breast, and he was removed to a hospital in a serious condition. Viola was captured after a severe struggle, during which he fired his revolver, but did no further damage. The police have been unable to learn what Viola's motive was in killing Tilli.

CLERGYMEN IN LIBEL SUIT.

Rev. E. J. Harper Sues Elders of Methodist Church for Damages.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—The Rev. E. J. Harper, who has been pastor of the Centenary Methodist Episcopal Church, South, for some time, filed a suit in the Superior Court today for $30,000 damages for alleged libel. The defendants are clergymen of his church—J. E. Moore presiding elder of the district, and J. A. Walles, W. E. Vaughn, W. O. Waggener and J. J. N. Kennedy, traveling elders.

The alleged libel is averred by the plaintiff to have been committed when the defendants met at the office of the Pacific Methodist Advocate, February 20, and after a conference, issued a circular headed: "A statement of facts in the case of E. J. Harper, charged with immorality."

These charges, Mr. Harper declares, are false and defamatory and malicious, and their publication has injured him to the extent of $50,000, for which sum he sues. The charges are embodied in a long and detailed statement in which Mr. Harper is accused of immorality, for which he was expelled from the building of the Y.M.C.A. in this city.

WASHINGTON

TO WIPE OUT CHINATOWN.

Marine Hospital Service Has New Sanitary Plans.

San Francisco's Noted Quarter Harbors Bubonic Plague.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Representatives of the Marine Hospital Service are in consultation with leading business and commercial men of San Francisco in regard to the proposition to abolish Chinatown, the famous Chinese quarter of that city. Three years ago the bubonic plague appeared in Chinatown, and although the existence of the scourge was not admitted by the State and municipal authorities until long after the situation had been considered by the Marine Hospital Service, there has been for a year or more most cordial coöperation between the city and Federal officers in their efforts to stamp out the disease.

The attempt has been only partly successful, however, although most rigid sanitary measures have been practiced.

Several months ago Mexico and Ecuador declared a quarantine against San Francisco, and State boards of health all over the United States condemned the hygienic conditions of Chinatown, and publicly deplored the danger of a spread of the plague to other States. The Marine Hospital Service is satisfied that the situation cannot be permanently improved unless Chinatown is abolished.

MACARONI WHEAT.

SEEKING MARKETS FOR IT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Secretary Wilson has asked the Department of Commerce and Labor to ascertain, through the consular service, suitable markets for macaroni wheat, a hard grain, common in European countries, and crops of which are increasing rapidly in the United States. Secretary Wilson says the macaroni wheat yield in this country this year, according to the most commonly-accepted estimates, is 10,000,000 bushels, against 2,000,000 bushels a year ago, and he predicts that next year's crop will be 20,000,000 bushels.

NAVY EMPLOYEES.

GUARANTEE OF LOYALTY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—As a result of an investigation of the question, Acting Secretary Darling of the Navy Department has concluded that there is no occasion for any action by the Navy Department at this time on the proposition that all employes of the Navy Department and navy yards be required to take the oath of allegiance to the United States. He found on inquiry that only citizens of the United States and only such non-citizens as have been honorably discharged from the army, navy or Marine Corps, are eligible for employment in the naval establishment.

These requirements, he considered, give sufficient guarantee of loyalty to the United States of the men in the employ of the civil naval establishment.

WASHINGTON BRIEFS.

St. Louis Bridge Case.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Acting Secretary of War Oliver has extended the time for making answer by the St. Louis Merchants' Bridge Company until December 1 next. Secretary Root made a demand upon the company for it to show cause why the bridge should not be forfeited to the general government, and the company was ordered to make a reply by September 15. The time is extended at the request of the company, some of whose officials are absent.

Geddes Retired from Office.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Andrew Geddes, for some years chief clerk of the Department of Agriculture, has been relieved from office on charges of a personal nature and R. Burch, chief clerk of the Bureau of Animal Industry, has been appointed to succeed him.

Lopez Will Not Return.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 31.—Minister Lopez of Salvador, who is absent from this city, has informed the State Department that he will not return to this country. He expects to accept a place in the government office at Salvador.

DANVILLE RIOTERS.

Four More of Them Are Placed on Trial, Mrs. Bessie Dodge Among the Number.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DANVILLE (Ill.) Aug. 31.—The trial of four persons on charges of attempting to enter the jail building on the night of July 25, with intent to kill some of the inmates, began in the Circuit Court today. The defendants include Mrs. Bessie Dodge, the woman who was conspicuous in the rioting about the County Jail. But seven jurors had been secured when court adjourned this evening.

Seven of the rioters have been convicted during the past two weeks.

CONGRESS OF ACTUARIES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The fourth International Congress of Actuaries met in this city today. The delegates include men from several foreign countries. Secretary of Commerce and Labor George B. Cortelyou, who is an honorary member, was delegated by the President to open the session and deliver an address. The session will continue for the week.

After cordially greeting the delegates, Secretary Cortelyou spoke briefly of the historical aspects of the insurance business, and continued: "I am glad indeed to greet you, not only as the representative of the government, but of the Department of Commerce and Labor, which is fortunate in participating at the beginning of its career in so representative and noteworthy a meeting as this congress. The officials of the new department will watch our proceedings with great interest."

The address of Mr. Lepreux, president of the Permanent Committee, was followed by the election of the following officers of the congress: President of the Permanent Committee, O. L. Lepreux, secretary-general of the Permanent Committee, A. Begaul; honorary president, George B. Cortelyou; president of the congress, Israel Pierson; general secretary, John Tatyou; also vice-presidents for Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Great Britain, Norway and Sweden, Holland, United States, Austria and Italy.

A letter from President Roosevelt, expressing regret at his inability to be present, was read and after a brief address by President Pierson and a discussion of papers on "The Improvement in Longevity," an adjournment was taken.

WORKING FOR UNION OF TWO CHURCHES.

ANGLICAN AND GREEK CATHOLIC SECTS MAY GET TOGETHER.

Rev. Dr. Dawling, Canon of the Former Church at Jerusalem Has Been Laboring for Twelve Years to Secure a Favorable Solution.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 6.—[A. F. Correspondence Wired from Chicago, Aug. 31.] The Novoe Vremya, in its issue of today, contains the following statement regarding the question of the union of the Orthodox and Anglican churches:

"On the 5th of August the Rev. Dr. Dawling, canon of the Anglican Church at Jerusalem, paid a visit to the Rev. Alexi, exarch of Georgia, Caucasus, and stated to him that he had been working for twelve years to secure a favorable solution of the question of a union of the two churches. He said a translation was now being made into Russian of the answers of the Anglican church to the seven confessional questions proposed by the Greek Orthodox church to the Anglicans, at the conference of 1899, at Constantinople. This document will be of an official character. A translation of the Anglican prayer book is also being made into the Greek language.

Dr. Dawling said that in 1893, a great number of Orthodox Greeks were in Melbourne, Australia, without a priest, and that Gherassili, patriarch of Jerusalem, authorized an Anglican priest to perform sacraments for the Greeks, baptism, etc., but that when this became known to the other patriarchs of the East, they blamed the authorization given by Patriarch Gherassili, and a Greek priest arriving later in Melbourne, rebaptized anew those who already had been baptized by the Anglican priests.

"It would be extremely distasteful to us," concluded Dr. Dawling, "if rebaptism should be considered a condition sine qua non of union."

The exarch, reasured Dr. Dawling, telling him that such a practice was strange to the Russian church, and that it would not be difficult to agree about it with the Greeks and win them over. The Rt. Rev. Tikhon, Russian Orthodox bishop of North America and the Aleutian Islands, who were called to St. Petersburg to attend the Holy Synod, was present at this conversation, and said that on the return of the president of the Holy Synod, the Most Rev. Metropolitan Anthony to St. Petersburg, a special committee would be appointed by the Holy Synod for the study of the question of the union of the Orthodox and Anglican churches.

The Exarch Alexi displayed the greatest interest in Dr. Dawling and his work, and expressed the conviction that with the aid of the Most Rev. Metropolitan Anthony, the question could be brought to a successful issue. But among the obstacles the exarch pointed out the suspicionsness of the lower classes toward the heterodox confessions.

"Between us," said the exarch, "we can easily arrive at an understanding, but will the people understand us? That is the problem with which we must deal in order that union may not be followed by a new disunion."

Dr. Dawling was evidently satisfied with his conference with Exarch Alexi and Bishop Tikhon.

FOLLIES OF FASHION.

Rev. Dean Richmond Goes After the "Smart Set" and Sees Much Need for Pointed Preaching.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—In a sermon at the Church of the Epiphany on "The sins and follies of fashion," the Rev. Dean Richmond has made an appeal for Christian earnestness and dignity as a corrective to the abuses of fashion in various circles of society, and criticised severely many of the reported doings of the so-called "smart set in America."

"I am more and more convinced" he said, "that we of the clergy must preach clearly, pointedly, as forcefully as possible, to the sins and follies of the times, dwell less on the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt and more on the exodus of Christian virtue from American life.

"Each of us is the keeper of Christian morals and public opinion to the extent of our social abilities and influence and it is just as necessary for each of us to carry out reforms in ourselves and neighbors, if possible, as it would be to reform the entire nation, which is impossible.

"There are many ways to look at the selfish, wasteful, indecorous, baleful and often inane class of the so-called 'smart set,' who seem to make a crusade to get their peculiar social antics in the newspapers as enthusiasts impale butterflies for exhibition in a museum. The senseless class in the public imitate them, the sober thinking class have a pitying contempt for them, the earnest Christians blush for them, the patriotic American abhors them and the genuine aristocracy of America and Europe laugh at them. Their example is pestilent to democratic America, their antics a violation of all normal sanity, their moral standard reprehensible at the bar of Christian morals, their lives with all their false glitter and brilliant frippery, are a personal degradation to themselves, and make a rapid descent into that avernus of the senses where lie buried all the best and choicest of human aspirations."

Stomach Troubles Can be Cured.

Mr. Joseph Powinville, one of the most prominent business men in Stillwater, Minn., after having spent $2000 with the best doctors for a stomach trouble without relief, was advised to try a box of Chamberlain's Stomach and Liver Tablets. WORK IN EARNEST ON SAN PEDRO LINE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A special dispatch to the Desert News from Calientes says that work commenced on the San Pedro road near that point in great earnest this morning, although some little was done as early as Thursday last. By tomorrow a very large gang, several hundred men in number, will begin work. The Utah Construction Company has established a camp two miles below Calientes, and thither the employment agencies of this city are sending large numbers of men and teams. Owing to the scarcity of cars, there has been some difficulty and not a little delay in getting men to the front, but that trouble is being overcome now, and this work will go on with greater rapidity. Meanwhile, the construction material yards are being enclosed and large shipments of provisions are leaving this city daily.

The intense heat of the desert has been tempered considerably the last week by frequent copious showers. Favorable reports are also coming in regarding the effort to solve the water problem on the long dry wastes south of Calientes. It is stated that prospects are considered very good for striking strong flows through the means of drive wells. As water is struck, grading camps will be established all along the line.

GOULD-BOUND FOR OREGON.

HOT FIGHT ON THE PACIFIC.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It was reported today that the Gould interests have completed all their arrangements to reach the Pacific Coast. The plans adopted are now said to be much more comprehensive than were at one time supposed, and will offer keen competition to the Harriman system at all points now covered by it.

The Goulds, it is now stated, will not be content with reaching San Francisco and being competitors for California traffic. They will have lines reaching up the Coos Bay, Or., and other North Pacific points now touched by the Oregon Railroad and Navigation Company and the Oregon Short Line.

Should these reports prove true, the action will, it is believed, create greater antagonism between the Gould and Harriman interests than now exists, though it is reported to be quite keen. The Harriman interests are likely to resent any attempt to invade their territory that may be made, and may show their resentment indirectly by antagonizing the Gould interests in other directions, where they are not themselves so directly interested.

With a big fight on with the Pennsylvania interests at one end of their system and with the Harriman interests at the other, the Gould interests will have their hands full, and it will require all the ability they can command to maintain their ground against such formidable odds.

LUXURY ON WHEELS.

NEW PALACE-CAR PROJECT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Plans are reported to be complete for the incorporation this week of a million-dollar company, having for its object the operation of a train of five rolling palaces between New York and San Francisco, with so many improvements and conveniences that a Fifth-avenue hotel patron will not know he is out of New York if he does not look out of the windows. It will consist of five cars and its patrons will be kept exclusive by the fact that passengers will be booked from the one best hotel of each city through which it passes. It is planned that the train shall have every convenience from a palm garden to a laundry. An endeavor will be made to complete the trip across the continent and return every ten days, and, if successful, the service will be increased.

SAN PEDRO MAIN LINE.

WORKING BEYOND CALIENTES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SALT LAKE (Utah) Aug. 31.—Operations have been commenced on the extension of the main line of the San Pedro-Los Angeles-Salt-Lake road south of Calientes, and by the time cool weather sets in on the desert next month, the work of grading the roadbed toward Los Angeles will be under full headway. Large gangs of man are sent south on every train.

NEW PASS IN CASCADES.

DONOVAN DISCOVERED IT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WHATCOM (Wash.) Aug. 31.—Superintendent Donovan of the Bellingham Bay and British Columbia Railway, who has just returned from a meeting of the directors in San Francisco, confirmed the reported discovery of a pass through the Cascade Mountains between the line of the Great Northern and the international boundary of a lower elevation than anyone at the present time used by a transcontinental railroad. The company's surveying party engaged in the location of their line from here to Spokane, he said, has been taken through the pass by the discoverer, and their report confirms his own.

Donovan said that there is no doubt his road will be built through to Spokane, but he denied that it had been acquired by the Union Pacific, although that road will reach the Sound over it. Other roads, he declared, will have the same privileges.

NEW YORK'S COOLEST SUMMER.

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—With the last day of the month the summer of 1903 in New York passes into history as the coldest recorded by the weather bureau. June reached the record of 1881. July was just a little bit off normal, but not enough to keep its fellow months of the summer from taking the average temperature a fraction below the figure reached in 1897. Mariners of the old-fashioned school have looked askance at the peculiar conduct of the elements during the last thirty days, but the inhabitants of tenements have enjoyed the unseasonable coolness which brought woe to numerous summer hotel keepers.

PIUS POSTPONES PILGRIMAGE.

ROME, Aug. 31.—A French pilgrimage was announced to arrive in Rome on a visit to the Pope about September 20, on which day the Italians celebrate the aniversary of the taking of Rome; and the fall of the temporal power. Wishing to avoid conflicts between the pilgrim and the Romans, which might easily happen, Pope Pius has directed that the pilgrimage be postponed.

MYSTERIOUS FAIR WILL.

Judge Murasky Finds it in His Mail.

Introduces a Putative in Person of Alleged Son.

Gathering Evidence in Bowers Murder Case—Busy Board of Equalization.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—What purports to be the last will and testament of the late Charles L. Fair has made its way through the United States mail in a mysterious manner to the chambers of Superior Judge F. J. Murasky, and the document is now in the custody of the County Clerk.

On opening it Judge Murasky found what purports to be a will signed by the late millionaire, Charles L. Fair, and witnessed by the late I. W. Lees and W. H. L. Barnes. The document was short and typewritten, Fair's signature and that of the two alleged witnesses being written in ink.

In this alleged will Fair mentions his son, "Charles J.," and to him he bequeaths the sum of $800,000. In addition to this bequest the sum of $750,000 is bequeathed to "The Roman Catholic Orphan Asylum," $500,000 to "Joseph Harry Harvey," and $40,000 "to the city and county of San Francisco for the purpose of founding a hospital." The residue of the testator's estate is left to his wife, who is also named as executrix. The alleged will is dated at San Francisco, April 16, 1901.

It will be remembered that about eleven months ago an heir, Charlie Fair, was brought forward in this city, although he never appeared in person, and the matter was dropped without any investigation. Whether any one will come forward and petition the court to probate the alleged will of Charles L. Fair, which reached Judge Murasky in so mysterious a manner, is a matter of conjecture. Anyway, the document, whether genuine or fictitious, has been brought to light in a most unusual manner.

Attorney Cannon, who stood sponsor for the alleged son, in an interview, said of the alleged will: "I believe it is a fake. I will not father it, nor will I ask that it be admitted for probate. It does not look as though it was a genuine document. As far as the child of Charles L. Fair is concerned, I have nothing further to say at this time."

Attorneys and others interested in the estate of the late Charles L. Fair, in a measure, regard it as a hoax sent by some dull-witted joker.

FORGERY SAYS EXPERT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Handwriting Expert Kytka today filed a written report on the alleged will. He says:

"The three signatures on this document were first traced with a lead pencil; subsequently they were inked over, but this work was done so very poorly that the pencil is noticed in several instances alongside the ink.

"The three signatures are drawn so very badly and patched in so many instances that I did not care to waste plates on genuine signatures to make any comparison."

KNOW NOTHING OF IT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PLAINFIELD (N. J.) Aug. 31.—The heirs of Mrs. Charles L. Fair, living here and in this vicinity, say they know nothing of the Fair will reported filed in San Francisco, except what they have read in the dispatches from that city.

SPRAYS FOR RED SPIDERS.

PROF. VOLCK WRITES OF THEM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Aug. 31.—A bulletin on "Sulphur Sprays for Red Spiders" has just been written by W. H. Volck of the University of California and issued under the auspices of the Agricultural Department. It embodies the results obtained in a long series of investigations made in coöperation with the Los Angeles County Board of Horticulture. It has been discovered that sulphur spraying is many times more efficient than other methods of application. The destructive red spider of the orange in Southern California and the red spider of the almond in Sutter county, although four times as resistant to insecticides as the orange mite, alike succumbed to the deadly effects of the sprayed sulphur.

BOWERS'S MURDER CASE.

POLICE GATHERING EVIDENCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—The application for a writ of habeas corpus in the case of Mrs. Martha Bowers and her sister, Mrs. Sutton, who are being held at the Hall of Justice on suspicion of having murdered Martin L. Bowers, husband of the former, by administering arsenic, came up for hearing in Superior Judge Cook's court today, but was continued until tomorrow owing to the failure of the attorneys for the two women to file certain papers necessary to properly bring the matter before the court.

The police and the District Attorney state that there is little danger that the women will be released on habeas corpus, but that they will be charged with murder by formal complaint as soon as such action becomes necessary to hold them.

The detectives in charge of the investigation into the suspicious details surrounding the death of Bowers are gathering evidence which they declare will ultimately bring the responsibility for the crime home to one of the two women and perhaps both.

Patrick Leary has confessed to relations of intimacy with Mrs. Martha Bowers, and the police are certain they have at least discovered a motive for the death of Martin Bowers. In obtaining a statement from Mrs. Sutton, her sister, the detectives caught her in a misstatement and all in all very important steps have been taken in unearthing the crime. Whether the man in the case was involved did not develop, as no direct incriminating evidence against him was obtained. It is believed, however, that he has by no means disclosed all he knows.

FLOOD-WATER CANAL.

OBJECTIONS WITHDRAWN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31.—The meeting of the State Board of Examiners, set for noon tomorrow for the purpose of hearing the proponents and objectors to the proposed cut at Daguerre Point, above Marysville, in Yuba county, has been declared off. The army engineers, and nearly every one else interested in the matter were in favor of the cut, as it would relieve the levees in and around Marysville during flood-water season. State Débris Commissioner W. W. Waggoner, however, objected to the contract for the work being approved, upon the ground that to make the excavation for the cut would be a waste of public money.

The Governor and other members of the State Board of Examiners visited the site of the proposed cut on last Saturday, and, after making a thorough inspection, expressed themselves as being in favor of approving the contract.

Since the visit to Daguerre Point, State Débris Commissioner Waggoner has changed his mind, and in a communication to the State Board of Examiners recommends that the contract, calling for an expenditure of $158,000 for the construction of the cut, be approved, which the board, of course, will do.

Edward Malley of San Francisco was the successful bidder.

PUBLIC SURVEYS.

LARGE EXPENDITURES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—There has been a great deal of activity recently in governmental circles in connection with the survey of public lands and United States Surveyor-General W. S. Graham states that the expenditures for contracts upon new work of this character during the fiscal year just closed far exceeds that of any previous year in a decade, at least $60,000 being necessary to meet the demands of the situation, while for some time heretofore not more than one-quarter of that amount was required.

Those in a position to know assert confidently that the field notes of the complete surveys in many townships will reveal an extraordinary state of affairs, and show conclusively that a large area of the public domain is still available for settlement and cultivation.

MRS. CASSERLY'S CLAIM.

VALUABLE LAND INVOLVED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OAKLAND, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Teresa Casserly, widow of former Congressman Eugene Casserly, who was interested in Oakland lands in the early days of the city together with Col. Jack Hays, John Caperton and others, presented to the Board of Supervisors today a claim to 9-324ths of the two blocks of land upon which the Courthouse, Hall of Records, County Jail and Receiving Hospital now stand. Col. Jack Hays presented the land in question to the county many years ago for public building use. Mrs. Casserly claims an interest in the property now by reason of ancient deeds.

DEFENDANTS CONVICTED, PLAINTIFF EXCORIATED.

SENSATIONAL STEWART BLYTH BIGAMY TRIAL ENDS.

Complainant in Case Was Living in Pasadena When His Wife Got a Divorce in Seattle Which the Canadian Court Refuses to Recognize.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sensational bigamy proceedings in the case of Stewart vs. Stewart and Blyth was concluded here today, when the defendant, Mrs. Blyth, erstwhile Stewart, was sentenced to an hour's imprisonment.

A number of years ago E. W. Stewart was married in Toronto, and came to live in Victoria. They had fifteen children. A year or more ago Mrs. Stewart went to Seattle and secured a divorce, her husband in the meantime being in Pasadena, Cal., where he had taken up his residence. Coming to Vancouver, Mrs. Stewart was married about two months ago to John Blyth, and last week Stewart arrived in the city, and had both arrested for bigamy.

The police magistrate this afternoon declared the Seattle divorce had no effect on marriages made in Canada, and found the woman guilty. The sentence was a nominal one, and in giving it he was very severe on the plaintiff Stewart for his disgraceful treatment of his wife, and his practical desertion of her when he went to California.

Blyth was sentenced to one day's imprisonment.

CASHIER COLE'S DEMURRER.

JUDGE BEATTY OVERRULES IT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Some time ago William K. Cole, cashier of the United States branch mint in this city, filed a demurrer in the suit brought against him by the United States to recover from Cole the $30,000 stolen by Walter N. Dimmick, while Cole was cashier. The ground of the demurrer was that Cole could not be held responsible legally for the money because no such office as cashier was mentioned in the statute prescribing the duties of mint officials.

Judge Beatty today overruled the demurrer and allowed Cole ten days in which to file an answer to the complaint. The court remarked that it was true that the statute did not mention a cashier as one of the officers of the mint, but Cole had been placed in charge of the money that was afterward stolen, and his responsibility would be a matter that could be determined at the trial.

HEGIRA FROM SAN QUENTIN.

AGUIRRE ET AL. REMOVE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN QUINTIN PRISON, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Today saw the end of the connection of a number of officers and guards with San Quentin prison. The removal of trunks, furniture and other belongings of those about to depart continued from morning till night.

At midnight exactly, the term of Martin G. Aguirre as warden expired, and Maj. Tompkins assumed the active responsibilities of that office. However, the latter had considerately absented himself through the day, and the Warden's final hours of authority were undisturbed by the presence of his successor. A friend of Aguirre's offered to have a launch ready to transport him from the premises at the stroke of 12 o'clock, but this he refused, stating he intended to await Tompkins's coming in the morning, and to officially turn over to him the keys of the penitentiary. He says he will take a month of complete rest.

Captain of the Yard Hunter, unlike his chief, had dispatched his family to Los Angeles toward the end of last week and was ready to follow at sundown. Stockman Gunther and Stenographer Reynolds were others of the prescribed to make their exit today. Tomorrow, however, the real hegira will take place, for besides the officers, a number of guards have either been dismissed or resigned.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Insane Convict Pardoned.

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31.—Gov. Pardee today granted a pardon to Bernard McQuaid, convicted in Yuba county of robbery a few years ago and sentenced to five years' imprisonment at San Quentin. McQuaid who is a young man, came to this State from Minnesota several years ago. He fell into bad company and together with another man he committed the crime of robbery near Marysville. Soon after being taken to San Quentin he became insane. He was sent to the State hospital at Mendocino, where he became very troublesome to those in charge on account of his frequent attacks of violence. The pardon was granted upon the condition that the insane prisoner's father should take him back to Minneapolis and there keep and care for him.

Prunes Dropping Slowly.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 31.—Prune growers in the mountain sections report that prunes are dropping very slowly this season. Taking the valley as a whole, now that actual picking has been going on for a week or so, it is readily seen that the crop is much less than the figures placed upon it some weeks ago by even the most conservative. In the orchards that made the best showing the prunes were nearly all on the outer branches, making the actual number of prunes to a tree much less than appeared. As to size and quality, the valley never had so fine a crop; as to quantity, the crop is exceedingly light as compared with the average.

Forest Fire Still Burning.

SAN JOSE, Aug. 31.—The forest fire which was started at Wrights, in the Santa Cruz Mountains, a few days ago, and in which Louis Matty lost his life, is still burning, though it is not believed it can continue long unless it crosses the Los Gatos Creek, in which event it would find almost a continuous forest of redwood, oak, madrone and other trees to feed upon.

Hunting Her Grandfather.

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—Mrs. M. E. Randall of Mobile, Ala., has arrived here in search of her grandfather, Jeremy Howland, who became estranged from his family over fifty years ago. From information they have received it is believed that he became a rancher in California and prospered. If still living he would now be about 83 years of age.

REMAINS OF SALISBURY IN LAST RESTING PLACE.

ONLY HIS CHILDREN AND A FEW INTIMATE FRIENDS PRESENT.

Casket is Carried to and from Parish Church by Old Retainers—Memorial Service Held in Westminster Abbey in Honor of Dead Statesman.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The remains of Lord Salisbury were interred today beside those of his wife in the burial grounds of the Cecils at Hatfield. The arrangements were of the most private and simple character. All the children of the deceased were present, as were also Premier Balfour, Lord Selborne and a few intimate neighbors. Otherwise the mourners were made up of the dead statesman's tenants, retainers and inhabitants of Hatfield. The coffin was carried to and from the parish church by old retainers. Simultaneously a memorial service was held in Westminster Abbey, which was attended by representatives of King Edward, Emperor William and other members of the royal and imperial families, Cabinet ministers, former Cabinet ministers, diplomats, including Ambassador Choate, and members of the other embassies, and a host of people, members of Parliament and others.

The only floral tribute on Lord Salisbury's coffin was a wreath sent by Queen Alexandra. Other wreaths sent by the King of Portugal and others were used to decorate the grave. The Archbishop of Canterbury officiated at the funeral service.

TWO HUNDRED MEN FACING STARVATION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TACOMA (Wash.) Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two hundred foodless men are attempting to cross the Alaskan divide and make a 500-mile journey through the wilderness on the Nazina River, the Copper River Valley, to the Tanana Valley and the Yukon. These miners joined the stampede to Nazina last spring, and, finding there only shallow placers, determined to push on to the Yukon. Most of them sold their outfits, understanding supplies could be purchased at the several trading posts in the Tanana Valley.

In this belief they were mistaken. The traders had only a small stock. News of the destitute condition of the men was carried to Fort Egbert, on the Yukon, by Henry Bratnober of San Francisco, a mining expert who represents the Rothschilds and the London Exploration Company.

Bratnober saved three men from starvation, and urgently recommended to Capt. Perkins at Fort Egbert that he send a military relief expedition to the rescue of the foodless miners, who number not less than 200. Capt. Perkins immediately wired to Washington for authority, and is presumed to have by this time dispatched a detachment of soldiers with supplies to the Upper Tanana Valley.

SOUTHERN COUNTIES GIVEN A HEARING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Aug. 31.—This morning's session of the State Board of Equalization was devoted to the examination of Deputy Assessor J. L. Parker of Santa Barbara county and other representative residents of that county. The return for that county for 1903 shows an assessed valuation of $15,507,195, against $13,480,942 for 1902. Some years ago there was a boom in his county, said Mr. Barker, and later on the county suffered severely from the effects of it. As a matter of pride they did not want to acknowledge it, he said, but they had to admit it, when the panic of 1893 came. A considerable portion of the revenue is derived from the large number of tourists that visit that section of the State. Some wheat and other grains and some of the fruits are grown, and considerable stock is raised in the county, but the drouth of 1898 practically depleted the stock, said Mr. Barker. That industry has not yet recovered from the effects of the drouth. All the crops are fairly good in the southern part of the county. The county has a little over one million acres of assessable land. Last year was a prosperous one, the increase of valuation over the previous year being two million dollars.

The board this afternoon listened to statements from the assessor and other officials of San Luis Obispo, Ventura and Riverside counties, concerning the valuations of their respective counties.

OUTDOING THE UNIONS.

The Restaurant-keepers Association has evolved a new scheme to keep their employés loyal and to offset the efforts of the Cooks and Waiters' Unions to induce a general walk-out. The employés have been offered higher wages than are demanded by the unions, and the owners furthermore plan a rival organization to the unions, to be known as the "Reciprocity Club" and to be supported by the employers and housed in comfortable quarters.

He is now in jail.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

The cause was Ignatz Bedwarwacz's plea of guilty to whipping his wife. ANNUAL REUNION, ARMY OF PHILIPPINES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Aug. 31.—The fourth annual convention of the Army of the Philippines began today. The business sessions of the convention are held in the Senate Chamber of the State House. This afternoon's session was devoted largely to organization of committees. Gen. Irving Hale presided.

There is a disposition to introduce a resolution favoring a federation with the Spanish war veterans, not with the intention of abandoning the identity of the Philippine veterans, but to preserve separate identity, yet be closely related in a national sense.

The resolutions committee which was appointed this afternoon will have before it a resolution to establish a uniform ritual for the initiations of the members of the various camps. It is generally expected that Gen. Hale can have the office of president if he will accept it.

Tonight the members and delegates were tendered a reception in the rooms of the Commercial Club.

Tomorrow morning the second session will be held and the most important matter that will come up will be the selection of the next meeting place. Wednesday the election of officers will take place.

ISTHMUS RIPE FOR REVOLUTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The spirit of revolution is gaining in force on the isthmus as the result of the rejection of the canal treaty by the Colombian Congress at Bogota, says a Times dispatch from Panama.

Only vigorous action on the part of the government can prevent an outbreak, the correspondent asserts, and it is doubtful whether such action is possible.

Gen. Huertas, commandant at Fort Chuiriqui, and virtually the commander of all the government forces in and around Panama, is at this time the only officer to whom the government may look with any hope of checking any revolutionary spirit. Even he is a warm sympathizer with the canal project.

As for the naval force, it is practically controlled by Americans or pro-American-Englishmen. They form the gunning, navigating and engineering forces.

The display of irrigation-grown fruits, for which many valuable prizes are offered, promises to be the finest exhibit of the kind ever shown. The latest promises of exhibits came today from Fresno, Cal., and the Sacramento Development Association of Sacramento, Cal.

KING NOT HURT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Some alarm was caused here today by a rumor of an accident to the royal motor car at the maneuvers around Udine. It was stated that the King had been thrown out. The report was inaccurate, the accident occurring was to an automobile occupied by three staff officers, which had run into a mile stone. One of the occupants, Capt. Cantlieris, suffered a broken arm.

The King is showing extraordinary interest in the military maneuvers. He is the first sovereign to use a motor car in inspecting, and directing the movements of troops. He is out every morning at 5 o'clock, and travels from point to point, now in the automobile, now in the saddle, with a rapidity that has greatly impressed the troops. The new Marconi apparatus for wireless telegraphic communication is being used with excellent results.

The Duke of Aosta, heir apparent to the throne, left today for Germany where, on the invitation of Emperor William, he will attend the grand maneuvers. The Duke will afterwards go to Munster to pay a visit to the regiment of White Cuirassiers, of which he is the honorary head.

He will present to the regiment three solid silver beakers, artistically ornamented.

STOLE TO BUY A BIBLE.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—Decidedly queer objects have led London "hired girls" to rob their mistresses of late, the quaintest being that of a damsel of eighteen who stole $2.50 in order to get a Bible. The girl had "gone in" for the Bible, which was an especially luxurious one issued by a London publisher, on the installment plan. She was to pay $2.50 a month and had done so twice. When the time came to pay the third installment, however, the slavey found herself short, so, rather than lose the book of holy writ, she stole half a sovereign out of her mistress's desk and was arrested in consequence. A police magistrate, however, let the girl off after impressing her with the fact the end does not always justify the means.

Oddly enough, on the same day, another servant girl was arrested for robbing her mistress in order to pay the expenses of a holiday which her "young man" was desirous of taking.

PIOUS COW.

Bovine Goes to Chapel in England, but Enters by the Roof Instead of the Door.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—About the funniest accident reported in this country in a long time had for its victim a cow, which performed the feat of falling into a chapel at West Coker, day before yesterday. The place of worship was that of the Plymouth Brethren, and it is built under the slope of a hill. The cow was browsing on the hillside, when suddenly she lost her balance, plunged down twenty feet on to the chapel roof, and went straight through it. Luckily there was no service going on at the time. Somebody who had seen the affair told the cow's owner what had befallen her, and the latter got the key to the chapel and went in. As soon as the door was opened, the cow—apparently as good as new—quietly walked out.

Heavyweight Patriots.

The biggest officer in the Revolutionary War was Col. Swift, who weighed 319 pounds. Gen. Washington, always in fine training and without an ounce of superfluous flesh, weighed 209 during his campaigns. Gen. Benjamin Lincoln, who surrendered Charleston to Sir Henry Clinton and afterward accepted the sword of Gen. Cornwallis at Yorktown, was of 224 pounds avoirdupois. Gen. Henry Knox, Washington's mouthpiece on many occasions, and he who said "It is a rule in war never to leave a fort in your rear," weighed 280 pounds and was as light on his feet as a kitten.

Great bulks those! Gen. Jedidiah Huntington weighed 183 pounds; Lieut.-Col. Cobb 182 and Gen. Greaton 166. They were regarded as light weights. Col. Michael Jackson, who had five brothers and five sons in the war, and who at the battle of Bunker Hill killed a British officer in a personal encounter, weighed 253 pounds. His brother, Gen. Henry Jackson, weighed 228 pounds. Col. Huntingdon 121 and Col. Humphreys 221. Humphreys, the poet, was favorite aid-de-camp to Washington. Gen. Winfield Scott, old "Fuss and Feathers," was the most imposing of all the illustrious soldiers of the nineteenth century, possibly of all the centuries. He was a more imposing presence than Washington's. He felt "off his weight" at less than 285. Another great (physically) soldier was Shafter, who flattened Cuba when he put his foot on the Gem of the Antilles.—[New York Press.

POTATO INVASION.

[STAFF CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Aug. 19.—English grown potatoes will soon invade the American markets. A syndicate with J. W. Dennis at its head is in process of formation, and it is proposed to develop about 200 acres of land in Lincolnshire for the purpose of growing potatoes for exportation to the United States. Mr. Dennis is a member of the Westminster City Council, and one of the largest salesmen in Covent garden market, and the firm of which he is the head supplied all the potatoes as a gift to the King's dinner to the poor at the time of the coronation. He is backed up in his present undertaking by Heins & Co., the American firm dealing in food stuffs, as well as by some produce salesmen in New York and Boston. All the capital $400,000 has been subscribed privately and operations will commence almost immediately. It is estimated that the first year's trading will realize to the treasury by way of duty about $70,000. The syndicate made such favorable contracts with the Hamburg-American line, as to enable it to land potatoes in New York as cheaply as they could be sent from Lincolnshire to London. Mr. Dennis will sail for new York in about ten days from now to make final arrangements for the distribution of the cargoes as they arrive in America.

The soil of Lincolnshire is peculiarly adapted to the growth of potatoes and if the first year's trading with America proves satisfactory further capital will be applied for and the undertaking will be pursued on a more enterprising basis.

A Metropolitan Tragedy.

There was tragedy in his eyes. You see he was very much in love, was poor but proud.

She looked at him calmly. There was a mild regret in her expression—nothing more.

"You promised me faithfully," he said. Not alone in his words, but in the intensity of his voice she could read a bitter reproach.

"I am sorry," she said simply. "I did not know that you really cared so much. If you would only wait—If you would only give me a little more time——"

"I have been waiting longer than most men could bear. My trust in you was never shaken before. Now, when my hopes have been raised to their highest pitch——"

But lest the reader misunderstand we will explain that the man was not in love with the girl to whom he was talking. She is agent for a laundry, and has promised that his laundry would be done that afternoon. Her promise is unfulfilled and the man will not be able to call on the girl with whom he is in love.

Sadly he leaves the office of the laundry fingering the two dimes which will just pay for a telegram to the girl, saying that he is ill.—[New York Times.

In the Sweet By and By.

Patchoque.—A mosquito bit a cow and three people here yesterday. The cow has been shot and the people sent to New York for treatment.

The insect is thought to have escaped from some menagerie. Those who claim to have seen it describe it as a large specimen, measuring an eighth of an inch from tip to tip.—[Life.

The Angel Child.

"Martha," said her mamma, "I trust that while you were at your Aunt Martha's you said nothing to offend her."

"Oh, no, mamma," declared the angel child. "I was careful to say things which would make her know that you and papa liked her for herself alone."

"That was proper."

"Why, when she asked me if you folks had named me Martha so that she would leave us her money when she dies, I told her that papa and you had talked about that, and that papa said we mustn't think of such a thing."

"And what did she say?" asked mamma, eagerly.

"Nothing. She just laughed, and said I was a good girl and I'd better run along home, when I told her what papa said about her going to have a pocket made in her shroud."—[Chicago Tribune.

Kaiser Wilhelm's Modesty.

At dinner one night when the Emperor was staying with Lord Lonsdale, a guest talking to another across the table quoted a little known passage from Shakespeare, and, said there should be no mistakes as to its source, ended with the words, "as the divine William said." There happened to be a lull in the conversation at the time, and the remark was audible to every one, the Emperor included. Turning to his host, the Emperor said, with a puzzled expression: "Curiously, I do not remember that my sainted grandfather ever said that!"—[M. A. P.

SCHOLARSHIP CONTEST.

RIVALRY FOR FIRST PLACE VERY INTENSE.

Bushels of Votes Being Cast as End Draws Near—Betting on Result Becoming Lively—Review of Situation.

The many readers of The Times who have been watching the progress of the scholarship contest for the last two months will be disappointed this morning when they look for the score. Its omission on the morning of the last day, but one, of the contest, is unavoidable. A force of seventeen clerks could not have kept up with the count yesterday, so fast did the votes roll in.

The scholarship man has had his busy day and is likely to have a few more still busier ones before the battle is over. He measured his mail by the bushel yesterday. Basketful after basketful of letters and coupons were dumped upon his desk and he made a brave effort, with the assistance of several clerks, to wade through the pile of coupons and subscription blanks to get it sized up in time to print the score as usual this morning, but before midnight he had to give it up.

Never before in the history of The Times' scholarship contests has such interest been taken in the affair by the general public. The international yacht races, the Jeffries-Corbett prize fight and the contests for the baseball, tennis, golf and bowling championships are no circumstance to the enthusiasm that is manifested in the outcome of the scholarship contest.

PASADENA'S PRIDE.

Who is going to win first prize? That is the all-absorbing question. Jeanette Bower of Pasadena has all along seemed to have the call on it, and in Pasadena bets are being laid at odds of 3 to 1 that she will make the highest score. Miss Bower's prospects are indeed most flattering, but she is not going to have a walkaway by any means. It is true that she lives in a Times town; that is, one in which nearly every family that takes a daily newspaper at all reads The Times. What else could be expected of an enlightened, moral, progressive community in Southern California? The Times always circulates most freely where the standard of morality, refinement, progressiveness, prosperity and enlightenment is highest. Pasadena, as every one knows, is the peer of any other city in the world in these attributes, and Miss Bower therefore is among friends when she is at home in Pasadena. The Pasadenans are loyal to their candidates for any places of honor or emolument when the candidates are worthy. Miss Bower being worthy in every respect, and a representative who will do credit to her home city, is being backed by the best people of the town and they have decreed that she shall be first in the race at the finish as she has been pretty steadily for some weeks past.

But Pasadena is not the only town in Southern California that has "Excelsior" for its motto. There are others, and some of them have representatives in this contest who are just as worthy of winning a scholarship as Miss Bower, and they are being just as loyally supported by the people of their respective communities.

Miss Bower wants a scholarship in the Brownsberger Home School of Shorthand, Book-keeping, etc., and she is going to get it whether she finishes first, second or third in the race. No one need fear that she will fall below third place, but she will not have won first honors before all the votes are in and counted.

WATCH MISS HIBBARD.

A miner from somewhere out in the Mojave Desert was in Los Angeles last night with a pocketful of gold pieces betting that Miss Gertrude Hibbard of Pomona would beat Miss Bower, or any other candidate, out. Now, how is a man from the desert supposed to know anything about it? Well, this horny-handed miner knows a good deal about the contest, for he has been watching it closely, and he and others have been helping Miss Hibbard, because they happen to know what a plucky and deserving sort of girl she is. Manvel and other mining towns this side of the Colorado River have contributed a good deal to Miss Hibbard's support, and from as distant a place as Winslow, Ariz., thousands of "points" have been sent in to add to Miss Hibbard's score. It is rumored that even some of the jackrabbits out in the desert have become subscribers to The Times in order to aid Miss Hibbard. Anyway, the whole population of some of the mining camps has become interested in her campaign and there are more jackrabbits than people in some of those places.

Miss Hibbard is working for a scholarship in Pomona College, and there is no question about her winning it. What she is battling for now is one of the big cash prizes, and she hopes to get the biggest there is. The people of Pomona, Claremont and surrounding villages are much interested in her campaign and say there is nothing too good for the Pomona candidate.

MISS PEDELTY GETTING THERE.

Then there are the proud, liberal-handed, loyal Santa Anans. They have a candidate, too, in fact, two of them, and both of them prime favorites. Santa Ana has been in the habit of furnishing leaders in the scholarship contest ever since The Times began giving the young folks a chance to distinguish themselves in winning educational prizes. Miss Gertrude Pedelty of Santa Ana set the pace for the other contestants at the very outset of the present contest, and has kept well to the front throughout the struggle. The last summing up of the score showed her to be in third place, and the thousands of points that have come in for her since, make it highly probable that she will be first or very near it at the finish. Miss Pedelty has about half finished the regular course at the Los Angeles State Normal School. She is eager to complete the remaining two years so that she will be able to take her place in the teaching profession, a calling that she seems to be especially adapted to. There is no charge for tuition in the Normal School, but there are incidental and living expenses to meet, and Miss Pedelty wants to win a large enough cash prize to see her through the Normal. As she is entirely dependent on her own resources, she has the best kind of an excuse to try to annex one of the big cash premiums that The Times offers to successful contestants. Miss Pedelty is deserving of the liberal support her friends and neighbors are giving her, and there will be great rejoicing throughout Orange county if she carries off first honors, as many confidently expect her to do.

DARING MISS DARCH.

Of all the hustlers in the contest, there is none who is putting up a pluckier fight, single handed, than Florence Darch, the talented elder sister of the phenomenal singer, Edna Darch. Miss Florence was one of the most successful contestants last year, finishing fifth and winning a scholarship in Throop Polytechnic Institute and $100 in cash. This year she is working for another year at Throop, which she considers the ideal school for one who has chosen a career in the arts and sciences. Miss Darch has no one to help her in her campaign—that is in canvassing or gathering coupons—but she is making a remarkable record just the same. She has hardly ever been below fifth place in the score and has been up to second place on several occasions. Some bets are being made that she will be first at the finish.

DON MANUEL.

Another member of the "High Five," during the greater part of the contest, and who will probably be one of that select coterie at the close, is Manuel E. Saenz. The way this native California boy has kept up his end of the scholarship contest from the very start has been a surprise and a source of great pride and satisfaction to his friends and to a great many people who never heard of him before he entered the contest.

Don Manuel is only 13 years old, and he lives in a very small village, but the boy has merit and the quality of getthereitiveness, else he never would have succeeded in putting up the fight he has. Much of his success is due to his father, Jesus Saenz, a native of Mexico, but a resident of Los Angeles county for twenty-eight years. Señor Saenz numbers his friends by the hundreds. He is a much-respected business man of The Palms, and his word is as good as his bond. The boy is a chip of the old block, and all his father's friends are eager and glad to help Manuel win a scholarship.

Manuel has selected St. Vincent's College as his alma mater, but he wishes to take one more year in High School before he enters college. That he will go to St. Vincent's eventually there is no doubt, and when he does, he will assuredly prove a model student, as he is a boy who does everything he attempts with all his might, and his conduct at all times is all that could be expected of the most obedient and most chivalrous of youths.

PEARL OF WHITTIER.

Miss Pearl Ellis of the good Quaker town of Whittier is another of the probable winners of one of the most valuable prizes The Times has to offer. Miss Ellis is fairly idolized by the people of Whittier and vicinity on account of her character and ability. She has finished the Grammar and High School courses of her home town and aspires to go to Occidental College next. She has the almost unanimous support, not only of the people of Whittier, but of Downey and Rivera as well. Two years ago Miss Carrie Sugg of Rivera finished second in the race, through the support accorded her by the Whittier and Downey people. Last year Miss Gertrude Smith of Downey won fourth prize through co-operation of the Rivera and Whittier people, and this year all three of those communities are turning to to make Miss Ellis one of the chief prize winners. Miss Sugg and Miss Smith each chose a scholarship of the Brownsberger School as their reward, but Miss Ellis wants a general college course, and therefore is partial to Occidental.

GARDENA WONDER.

Porter Blackburn of Gardena is another of the strong factors in the present scholarship contest. Although Gardena and Moneta, the two neighboring colonies that Porter represents, are but sparsely populated and at strong rivalry, they are united on one question, and that is that Porter Blackburn must win one of the best scholarships and one of the big cash prizes. Many a ton of berries, or hay, or cord of wood has been devoted to young Blackburn's support, because he is a boy who commands the admiration of all his neighbors. Porter has decided to take up the study of law, and a scholarship in the Los Angeles College of Law has been procured for his especial benefit. He also intends to take a course in the academic department of the University of Southern California. He is a member of the Methodist Church, a Sunday-school and Epworth League worker, and has never been known to utter a profane word or defile his mouth with whisky or tobacco. He is the eldest of a family of seven children, and has worked to help support himself and his brothers and sisters ever since he has been old enough to earn wages. His support does not all come from the neighborhood of his home, by any means, but from many scattered places. It is gratifying to note that he will, after all, get the points subscribed for him at Ventura under a misapprehension, as the money is being put up for the subscriptions given in his favor there, so as to make the subscriptions count in the contest.

BRILLIANT MISS PITTS.

Miss Georgia A. Pitts of Redlands is one of the most brilliant workers of the "Upper Ten" in the present contest. She has succeeded in arousing unprecedented interest in the contest in Redlands and other towns in San Bernardino and Riverside counties. Miss Pitts will finish with a very high score, a single bunch of 15,000 votes having been cast in her favor yesterday, and she will be able to get almost any scholarship she wants. To be sure, she will want a good one, and no doubt will get it.

LADY CLARE.

Miss Clare Templeton, one of the cleverest and most popular of all the young ladies in the contest, has made an admirable campaign and promises to be among the "Upper Ten" at the finish. Although starting late and being located in a small place like Lamanda Park, she has forged right to the front and endeared herself to hundreds of people who want to see her succeed on her merits. Miss Templeton has just returned from a tour up the coast extending as far as San Luis Obispo. Could she have remained up there awhile longer she would have accomplished wonders. As it is, her score is very handsomely increased through the coöperation of the people of Santa Barbara and San Luis Obispo counties, who fell in love with winsome "Lady Clare." She wants a scholarship in Throop Institute, and will probably get it.

Space forbids further mention or review of the contest this morning, but there will be something interesting to say about the others tomorrow morning.

There will also be a further announcement tomorrow about the jubilee next Saturday. Through the courtesy of the Woodbury Business College, a new feature has been added to the entertainments of the day that will greatly enhance the round of pleasure mapped out for the participants in the contest. Watch for it, and also for the final announcements concerning the closing of the contest.

Remember that all votes must be in by 12 o'clock Wednesday night.

MURDER OF M'KINLEY ANSWER TO PRAYER.

MINISTER'S ASTOUNDING UTTERANCE AROUSES VENTURA.

Rev. Wade Hamilton Charges W.C.T.U. Anti-Canteenists With Praying for President's Removal and Believes Anarchist's Act Was the Result—Rebuked on Platform.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

VENTURA, Aug. 31.—Rev. Wade Hamilton, pastor of the Methodist Church, South, of this city, has brought down about his ears a storm of reproach from the indignant people of Ventura for what they term the unwise language of the minister, and his entirely uncalled-for attack upon the memory of the martyred President McKinley.

Ventura ministers have been holding a series of union meetings. The meeting last night was at the Methodist Church, which is presided over by Rev. Mr. Morrison, a sturdy and outspoken man of God who was a soldier in the late war, and who is also a member of the G.A.R. At the meeting last night it was the Rev. Mr. Hamilton's turn to talk. He took for the subject of his talk, "Symphony," but from the talk on the streets today it had better have been "Discord," for that is what the sermon has created.

Mr. Hamilton got warmed up to his work by the time he got to the subject of the death of the late President, whose taking off he characterized as a visitation of providence. He said in substance that the women of the W.C.T.U. had prayed for the removal of the President because of the stand he had taken, or that they thought he had taken, regarding the canteen and the use of wine at banquets, etc. Prayer, Mr. Hamilton said, was the great power when people were united, and the women of the W.C.T.U. all around the world were united in this prayer for the President's removal, and the outcome, persisted the speaker, was the visitation and the direct answer to these prayers.

The bold statement of the minister stunned the audience. It gasped at Mr. Hamilton's temerity. Then Rev. Mr. Morrison, who occupied the platform, gathered himself together and arose. "What's that you say?" he demanded. Mr. Hamilton repeated his statement, and Mr. Morrison looked at him pityingly and shook his head in anger as he waved Hamilton off with the remark: "Don't believe a word of it; don't believe a word of it."

The incident closed here—in the church—but it will be a long time before it closes to Mr. Hamilton, judging by street talk. The preacher's assumption that the W.C.T.U. women prayed for the removal of McKinley bids fair also to result in having some indignant temperance women about his ears.

BREAK FOR LIBERTY.

Two prisoners at the Ventura rock pile made a break for liberty this morning soon after Deputy Sheriff Viles had arrived there with them from the County Jail. One of the escapes was Rene Meyer, who was rounded up in Santa Monica with Capitalist Rindge's Sunday shirt on, and who was wanted for stealing a horse and buggy here. At the time of his break for liberty Meyer had on the Rindge shirt, as he considers it his property since the capitalist failed to apply for it. The other escape was A. Burdick, a young chap from Oxnard, who was serving a term of ninety days for vagrancy. Meyer had a 170 days' term before him. Viles was alone with about a dozen other prisoners when these two started to run, so he could no more than shout to them and fire several shots in the air to frighten them. The shooting had no further effect than to hurry the criminals' steps. Burdick headed for the thick willows in the river-bed, while Meyer and Rindge's shirt went toward the mountains. Viles hastened to the jail with his other prisoners and reported his troubles. Sheriff McMartin took a hand and started after Meyer, whom he overhauled on Ventura avenue near the town limits. He was brought back to jail and will likely get a little added to his term for his break. Burdick was not so easy to find, and up to noon nothing had been seen or heard of him.

VENTURA NOTES.

The suit of Caroline Durr vs. the A. O.U.W. Grand Lodge is on trial today before Judge Ewing. Plaintiff is suing to recover $1000 from defendant, the amount her son was insured for in the order. The son, Fred L. Durr, committed suicide in Oxnard in February of last year while laboring under a fit of temporary insanity, leaving the policy in question in favor of his mother.

The net amount realized by the recent minstrel show was $268.20, of which half goes to the clubhouse ladies and the balance to the manager of the affair.

DANISH WEST INDIES.

White Inhabitants Are Said to be Reconciled to the Failure of the Sale Project.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BERLIN, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The National Zeitung says the Danish West Indian Commission is said to have reported as follows to Finance Minister Hage.

"The population of the islands is satisfied to remain under Danish rule. The whites hope from the newly awakened interest of Denmark in the islands, an improvement of economic conditions, and the fostering of civilizing influences. The negroes for the greater part are indifferent, and know but little about Denmark. The administration of the islands was found to be unpractical and expensive, and the hygienic conditions entirely unsatisfactory."

It is believed, says the National Zeitung, that the commission will report in favor of reducing the military establishment on the islands, and reorganizing the gendarmerie on modern lines. The report will also suggest that more attention be paid to public instruction, the improvement of hospitals, the tobacco growing industry and the raising of corn. The commission places great weight on the necessity of communication between the islands themselves and Denmark. The hope is expressed that the exports of the islands can be developed, and in this connection hopes are based on the newly formed West Indian Steamship and Land Company.

COMMODORE NICHOLSON OF OUR... ...NAVY

Commodore Somerville Nicholson, of the United States Navy, in a letter from 1837 R street, N.W., Washington, D. C., says:

"Your Peruna has been and is now used by so many of my friends and acquaintances as a sure cure for catarrh that I am convinced of its curative qualities and I unhesitatingly recommend it to all persons suffering from that complaint."—S. Nicholson.

United States Minister to Guatemala Endorses Pe-ru-na.

Dr. W. Godfrey Hunter, U. S. Minister to Guatemala, ex-member of Congress from Kentucky, in a letter from Washington, D. C., writes:

"I am fully satisfied that your Peruna is an efficacious remedy for catarrh, as I and many of my friends have been benefited by its use."—W. G. Hunter, M.D.

Member of Congress from Virginia Writes.

Hon. G. R. Brown, Martinville, Va., ex-member of Congress, Fifth District, 50th Congress, writes:

"I cheerfully give my endorsement to your Peruna as a cure for catarrh. Its beneficial results have been so fully demonstrated that its use is essential to all persons suffering from that disease."—Hon. G. R. Brown.

The day was when men of prominence hesitated to give their testimonials to proprietary medicines for publication. This remains true today of most proprietary medicines. But Peruna has become so justly famous, its merits are known to so many people of high and low stations, that no one hesitates to see his name in print recommending Peruna.

The highest men in our nation have given Peruna a strong endorsement. Men representing all classes and stations are equally represented.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.

Bearish factors manifested themselves in the Chicago grain market, and a show of strength in the New York stock market, but later stocks became stagnant and closed heavy. The bond market was firmer.

WHAT ARE WE COMING TO?

The union labor manager who was recently sentenced to a term in Sing Sing penitentiary is not by any means an exceptional representative of his kind, as some of the union-labor papers and people would have the public believe. On the contrary, to judge from a San Francisco communication recently published in The Times, this individual may more properly be taken to represent an average specimen of his class.

The letter referred to gave a brief and unbiased outline of recent happenings in San Francisco labor circles, involving some of those who have been high in authority and responsibility in the ranks of the labor agitators, showing how many of them have shamefully abused their trusts. The correspondent declares that defaults and embezzlements in labor-union circles in San Francisco have become of such frequent occurrence that they attract but passing attention in labor circles. These defalcations range from $2000 to $2.75, and in every instance the main point of the unions involved seems to be to keep the public ignorant of the thievery. For instance, the "business agent" of the Journeymen Barbers' Union, founder of the labor-union party and the man whom that party nominated for City and County Auditor—the watch dog of the San Francisco treasury—stole $2000 from his union and decamped. The union tried to keep the matter quiet, and when he was arrested and brought back to San Francisco for trial the union refused to prosecute him. The prisoner boasted that they dared not tell on him, for if they did he would involve too many in the crime. Now he is out on bail, is a member in good standing in his union, is a strong factor in union-labor circles, and is devoting his time to doing politics.

One of the presidents of the Porters' and Packers' Union began stealing from his union as soon as possible after being elected, taking to himself money appropriated for the benefit of sick members. He is still an honored member of the union. It was discovered that the trusted business agent of the Bakers' Union was living far beyond his legitimate means, and the union employed an expert to examine his books, which showed a shortage of $300. He is still a member in good standing, a leading agitator, and holds the position of delegate to several central bodies. In the Stablemen's Union the business agent was found short several hundred dollars. He admitted he had taken the money. He is still a member in good standing, and the union recently gave him a certificate of honesty, for him to have printed in the San Francisco papers.

Recently, the secretary of the Coopers' Union was discovered to be a defaulter. He was permitted to remain in office, and is still handling the funds of the union. One of the officers of the Retail Delivery Drivers' Union appropriated all the money in the treasury to his own use. He has not yet returned the money, and it is probable that the vote of the union will wipe out the debt. A trusted officer of the Retail Grocery Clerks' Union recently took a large sum from the treasury, and is now trying to secure the union for its repayment. The Barbers' Union did not profit much by the experience with its thieving treasurer. At a recent picnic one of the members in charge of the funds pocketed all the money taken in and used it for his own benefit. He has promised to make it good.

As shown in this communication, it is not only through direct stealing that the officials of the union line their pockets with the hard-earned money of the foolish members. There are what is called in labor circles "legitimate" methods of getting the money of the dupes. For instance, the recent tanners' strike is a case in point. That strike lasted ten months, and a loud cry went up from the central body to all the councils of labor, setting forth the pitiable condition of the starving strikers. The response was generous. Of the relief fund collected by the committee of the Tanners' Union $18,000 was charged to the expense of collection, and but one-third of that amount was turned over to the strikers. The expense of collection consisted simply in receiving the money and sending receipts for it to the unions which contributed it. The expenses of the Brotherhood of Teamsters for the past year, were $25,000, according to the statement of the treasurer, recently made. Of this amount, he stated that 90 per cent. went to the officers of the brotherhood. He made no explanation of this enormous charge, and not a member of the union dared question it.

So the miserable story of duplicity runs, all along the line. Recently, the messenger boys in the retail stores of San Francisco were organized into a union and they elected a temporary president. Each boy chipped in twenty-five cents, which they gave to the charge of the temporary president. He proved a good custodian of the funds, for he has them yet. The Newsboys' Union was started some months ago. Before it had been in existence a month it developed that the president and treasurer were "shy" in the funds. It has since been shown that the leader in the union has accumulated sufficient funds to enable him to open a saloon and crap joint, which is being run contrary to law, with the connivance of the police, where other newsboys are debauched and robbed of their meager earnings.

This, be it remembered, is the story of only one city and of a few months. The worst feature about this unpleasant condition of affairs is the disposition shown by the members of the unions to connive at and cover up crimes, instead of denouncing the perpetrators and driving them from the associations. In the same way the members of the eastern labor unions have formally endorsed the proposition to pay the jail-bird agitator in Sing Sing penitentiary his big salary during his incarceration, and to arrange that he shall carry on the management of his office while he is wearing prison stripes.

Men and brethren, what are we coming to, in this year of the Lord 1903, in the United States of America, a government "of, for and by the people," to which the oppressed of other nations are looking for a refuge from the tyranny of despots, and sociological reformers for information and instruction? Is it not time for every intelligent and patriotic American to pause and reflect, before we go farther down the toboggan slide? The oath of the Typographical Union contains the following sentence:

"I hereby solemnly and sincerely swear that my fidelity to the Typographical Union and my duty to the members thereof shall in no sense be interfered with by my allegiance that I may now or hereafter owe to any other organization, social, political or religious."

A Catholic priest of Michigan has truly said that no Catholic could consistently take or keep the oath of this and some other labor unions. He might truthfully have added that no patriotic American, of whatever faith or convictions, could properly subscribe to such a declaration, which deprives him of the right of being a free agent, and makes him a mere tool of a gang of irresponsible and selfish men.

Sing ho, the merry rock pile that we are going to have, d. q. Greeting to Weary Willie and his pard, with the assurance that they will find a warm welcome and a hammer waiting for them when next they pass through Los Angeles. The rock pile is a thing we long have sought and kicked like blazes because we had it not. But now all is lovely. The money to build a bear garden for hobos, secure rock for them to practice upon and outfit the works with 4-pound striking hammers is in sight. Carry the news to Willie. Willie we have missed you. Come and see us, Willie, and pound the living daylights out of some of our choice rock, and see how you like it.

The Chicago Chronicle goes considerably out of its way to explain why the ladies of the hog and hominy center have large and industrious feet. The fact is attributed to the large importation of foreigners to the place where the pig squeals and welters in his gore. We cannot but admire our esteemed contemporary's ingenuity—it is great. But great as it is, those feet can walk all over it.

Nebraska now wants the Vice-Presidency. We recall the fact without a wrenching of the memory that "twice times" she wanted the Presidency, but alas and alas, she failed to get it. How would it do for Nebraska to give some of the other States a chance to work their aspirations a little bit?

It isn't every man who is so frank as Judge Jeune, who says that man, the miserable wretch, has a capacity for loving two women at once. But we are wondering what Mrs. Jeune thinks about the Judge's ideas on that subject.

NATURALIZATION ABUSES.

The great tide of immigration that has been flowing into the United States of late has served to start a discussion—which is now raging with some violence in the East—as to the advisability, or necessity, of making such changes in our naturalization laws as to prevent these hordes of newcomers from becoming full-fledged voters after a short residence in the United States. There is quite a general concurrence in the opinion that the average immigrant is not fitted for citizenship after so short a probationary period as five years. It is pointed out, also, that the law is perhaps more honored in the breach than in the observance, and that too many immigrants "are naturalized in time to enable them to vote at the first general election after their landing."

Some of the eastern papers are publishing communications from correspondents advocating a policy of extreme "know-nothingism"—the practical exclusion of all foreign-born persons from the privileges of the franchise. A correspondent of the New York Sun declares that, if thousands of the very lowest and most ignorant natives of Southern Europe had been arriving in our harbors at the time our Constitution was written, there would have been in it no provision permitting naturalization. "At that time," he says, "ships navigating the Atlantic Ocean were few and of small tonnage, all the foreigners who came here were of the better classes of their native countries, and they were a desirable acquisition to this. Hence that liberal provision that was pregnant with so much evil. As a matter of fact," he continues, "the immigrants do not need the franchise. They, in common with our citizens, are protected by our laws in all their rights of person and property; and, furthermore, it is not the acquirement of citizenship that led to their immigration. Their motive was twofold—to escape from the oppression of the monarchical countries they were born in, and, far more than that, to find opportunities for their labor at far better compensation than they ever had or ever could have in their native countries. This would be clearly proved if our naturalization laws were to be repealed. The volume of immigration would not decrease. The great steamship lines would keep their agents at work all over Europe gathering up cargoes. The immigrants would be content to labor and accumulate money, as they now do, under the protection of our laws. It would be sufficient for their children, born and reared here, to inherit the great privilege of citizenship."

Another correspondent asks: "Why should a foreigner be allowed to vote in this country at all? He, for the most part, neither knows the spirit of our institutions nor cares about it. He is here to get better living, but in five years' time he is the equal of the intelligent native-born citizen who has built up a home and a business under the protection of a law and of institutions for which the foreigner has little, if any, regard. Why would it be any great hardship for the foreigner, who gets the benefits of an asylum in America, to let the voting power wait until his children can grow up with an intelligence born of the public schools and of touch with the people and an ability to vote with understanding? This would be only fairness to the native born, and to many men it seems that this is only right."

Between these extreme views and the present lax system of naturalization, there is a reasonable mean which should furnish the desired solution of the problem. It is manifestly time for a reform in our naturalization laws and methods. But in the institution of reform the fact should not be lost sight of that many intelligent foreigners come to our shores who are better qualified to exercise the rights and privileges of American citizenship than are many of our illiterate native-born citizens. Any law which should fail to make reasonable discrimination in favor of education and intelligence would certainly be unjust, and would measurably fail of its purpose.

It has long been a fact too patent for successful denial that as a matter of duty to ourselves we should so amend our naturalization laws as to exclude from the franchise privilege unlettered persons of foreign birth. It is not enough that persons of this class shall merely take an oath of allegiance to the Constitution and the laws of the country. This oath is too often taken without any adequate knowledge of its significance. "Every applicant for naturalization," as the New York Journal of Commerce pertinently declares, in discussing this question, "should be required to pass the test of a simple, oral examination upon the essential points of his qualifications for citizenship, and that examination should be in the English language. Knowledge of the language of our Constitution and laws, the language of the social and political environment of the subjects of the government, should be a prime qualification. It would be the key to the rest and a means of becoming something else than a permanent alien. We especially need reform in the spirit and manner of administering the naturalization laws. The present helter-skelter manner of admitting to citizenship in all sorts of courts is a constant violation of the spirit and letter of the law as it now stands and is nothing less than a national scandal. The making of new citizens should be a serious business, and the responsibilities connected with it should be discharged with care and conscience. They should be restricted to Federal courts, and the judges should be held to a close observance of the requirements of the law at the same time that these are made much more exacting than they are now. Then no man should be clothed with the right of suffrage in any State until he has been vested with the privileges and immunities of a citizen of the United States."

From the logic of this position there is no escape. The American people are not prepared to look with favor upon a recrudescence of the "know-nothingism" of half a century ago. But the necessity for a radical reform in our naturalization laws and their interpretation is imperative, and the reform should begin at once.

We are not surprised to learn that Sir Thomas has a large yearn in his bosom to see the agony over. It is most painful to the spectators as well as to the party of the second part who is having it rubbed into him every time there is a race, or an attempt in that direction.

A MILLION INCREASE.

That is the Record of New Building in Los Angeles for the Month of August.

"One million per month" added to the material wealth of Los Angeles is still the record, as evidenced by the report for August issuing from the office of the Superintendent of Buildings. During the month 602 building permits were granted, with a valuation of $1,127,819. Of this sum $76,643 represents alterations.

Nor is this building boom confined to one section of the city. The distribution by wards is as follows: First Ward, 66 permits, valuation $79,410; Second Ward, 35 permits, valuation $35,510; Third Ward, 45 permits, valuation, $254,455; Fourth Ward, 110 permits, valuation $278,484; Fifth Ward, 89 permits, valuation $131,960; Sixth Ward, 143 permits, valuation $149,810; Seventh Ward, 48 permits, valuation $128,630; Eighth Ward, 14 permits, valuation $15,763; Ninth Ward, 53 permits, valuation $49,825. As compared with the record for the some month last year, there is an increase of 174 permits and $350,097 in valuation. Few cities in the land are able to make such a magnificent showing proportionately.

THE PLAYHOUSES.

BURBANK. "Under Two Flags" is the acceptable presentation of the Neill company at the Burbank Theater this week. The best of the several dramatizations is used by Mr. Neill, the mounting is fair, and the company work into their lines a good deal of the enthusiasm necessary for the proper rendition of this rather melodramatic play.

"Under Two Flags" is so well known that its story would need but the briefest synopsis to any theater-going public. In short, it deals with the adventures of an English gentleman, who, outlawed from his native land by the villainy of a younger brother, seeks refuge in Algiers, where he serves for twelve years under the French colors. He is loved by a half-savage child of the ranks—Cigarette by name, who saves his life on several occasions, and who evinces toward him a jealous and passionate devotion. She finally dies for him, taking in her breast bullets meant for his heart. Meanwhile, he loves another.

As "Cigarette" Edythe Chapman attempts what is for her an entirely new line of work, and in portraying the vivid emotions of the fiery, untamed creature she acts with an enthusiasm and dash good to see. Although the delivery of her lines was at times faulty, Miss Chapman won the honors of the evening at the first performance.

Miss Gertrude Keilar is still making good, and is winning a warm spot for her talents in the hearts of the Burbank audiences. This week she has the role of Princess Venetia Corona, the "lady" of the play, looks the part to perfection, and enacts it with a quiet and charming dignity.

The remaining roles are shadows. Mr. Neill plays the hero, and does the best he can with lines that are nothing but heroics. Character interpretations acceptably given are those of John W. Burton, Donald Bowles, William Bernard and Thomas Sidney. George Bloomquest, in the small part of a faithful valet, shows a good mastery of true, unexaggerated cockney dialect.

The management says that the crowd at the first performance broke all records for some time past. The only matinée will be given Saturday.

ORPHEUM. John Le Clair, juggler, is the cleverest of the new arrivals at the Orpheum. Le Clair does as skillful and graceful feats in the way of slight-of-hand as have been seen at any theater in the city for a very, very long time. One of his cleverest is the manipulation of two billiard balls between a pair of cues, which causes the balls to roll from the bases of the cues to the tips and then to return to him. There are other things he does which are more sensational and maybe prettier, but nothing that shows such exquisite mastery of the balance of forces as this.

Lew Hawkins is back again, and his welcome last night proved him a popular favorite. He has some new songs, stories and cracks. The Kauffman bicyclists are still favorites, too, and are doing tests of strength and balancing that have never been excelled in that line at the Orpheum. Elfie Fay, as crasy as ever, gives about the liveliest fifteen minutes on the programme. One wonders if she has an air-brake attachment to stop herself when she goes off stage, or if she has to be hung up on a peg and allowed to run down. Sidney Wilmer presents a new sketch entitled "A Strange Baby."

Just as last week, Miss Wynne-Winslow comes out of her rustling, shadowy curtain into shadowy light and sings dainty songs in her moonlight voice. One of her numbers is the "Violet" song from "The Prince of Pilsen," soon to be given here for the first time by its original producers, the Castle Square Opera Company.

Street Cleaning.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 30, 1903.—[To the Editor of The Times:] "Spectators see most of the game" is the way (or nearly so) The Times real estate man puts it in regard to realty movements in Los Angeles. Your city government man might say the same in regard to municipal management, and he might also add, "the onlooker is keen to see errors." Perhaps, too, some will say it is none of the latter's business, and fearing this criticism I hesitate before proceeding.

It is conceded that the municipal government of Buffalo, N. Y., is more nearly perfect than is that of any other large American city; that its streets are clean and well lighted; its school system highly creditable; its operation of a city-owned water and sewerage system excellent; its department of health a most progressive and intensely effective institution. Having officially investigated these phases (as well as all others) of municipal Buffalo, I insist that Buffalo is entitled to claim the credit of being at the head of the class. This being so, Los Angeles need not be ashamed to study and copy Buffalo's good points.

It is the little things that count in keeping up appearances, such, for instance, as the following:

(1.) The storekeepers in Buffalo are not allowed to sweep the dirt from their storerooms out onto the sidewalk. The sweepings are taken up in the store and deposited in refuse boxes on curb or alley.

(2.) They are not permitted to sweep paper and other refuse from the sidewalk to the gutters, but must deposit same in the receptacles provided therefor.

(3.) Nor are pedestrians allowed to throw litter into the gutters, the rule and practice being that all waste paper and other rubbish be deposited in the boxes at the street corners. This rule is faithfully observed by Buffalo's population, and the remarkably clean appearance of the principal thoroughfares is very largely attributable to this small detail. Indeed, the habit of refraining from deliberately littering up their beautiful streets is so strong with the people there that they are as careful to make use of the street refuse boxes as they are to use waste paper baskets in their nice business offices. There is a pride about it that is no small factor in solving the problem of street cleanliness.

(4.) Refuse boxes are located at all street corners; they are painted, are neat in shape, and properly lettered to indicate their function. At regular intervals the city wagons collect the contents of the boxes and haul the stuff off to the crematory.

(5.) The men behind the brooms are plentifully stationed at the busy points, where they sweep and shovel all day long, their duty being to see that street litter is promptly removed and deposited in the boxes. It is at this work the Buffalo sweepers differ from those of Los Angeles, and in a manner which accounts for some of the notable differences in the streets of these two cities. The methods of the man behind the broom in Los Angeles give one the impression that his highest ambition is to make dust, not remove it. The vigorous indiscriminate stirring up of the street filth by these sweepers certainly keeps the stuff moving, though not in a right direction. Much of the miserable annoyance of encountering innumerable clouds of fine filth could be eliminated by a careful handling of the brooms. This is a small detail of management, but its correct handling would produce better results without increasing its cost to the city.

Religious Freedom.

[To the Editor of The Times: The recent atrocities committed in Macedonia and elsewhere in the Turkish Empire emphasize the experiences of the centuries, that more bloodshed and suffering has been caused throughout the world under the banner of religious intolerance than from all other causes combined. Is it not time for the leading nations of the world, to once and for all assert and maintain the principle of religious freedom the world over in the interests of humanity generally.

If the United States, England, Germany, France, Russia, Austria, Italy and some of the lesser powers would enter into an alliance, for the sole and only purpose of guaranteeing to the people of every clime and nation, absolute freedom of religious opinion, it would be a long step toward the time when—

Freedom of religious opinion or the agnosticism of the liberal thinker has nothing, or should have nothing, to do with the civil and political status of the people of any country. If the guarantees aforesaid were undertaken, the national guarantors would thus be entering upon a glorious career of religious emancipation, such as has been effected, in a greater or less degree, in all the nations above mentioned. A notice served by these governments on all the nations offending against the law of universal and absolute religious freedom, that summary and swift punishment awaits all who violate said law, would effectively end all these dreadful religious wars and persecutions for opinion's sake, without trenching upon political rights of any, or interfering with the form of any government, unless the same is founded upon the principle of religious intolerance.

What a magnificent and far reaching achievement this would be; and all this could be accomplished, in all probability, without bloodshed, and under the glorious allied banner of religious freedom, never before unfuried to the breeses of any nation or clime. To this may seem to some chimerical, and to others who still harbor the spirit of the Inquisition, Anti-Semitism or Paganism, undesirable; but to one who has risen to an appreciation of the priceless treasure of free and untrammeled religious thought and action, there can be no more inspiring hope and aspiration.

'Twas Somebody's Blunder.

[To the Editor of The Times:] I note with pleasure your efforts to have more trees in Los Angeles. I cannot understand why the four large rubber trees in the Plaza were cut down. I was in your beautiful city last summer and one of the things I photographed was this little gem of a park, with its four large rubber trees. I showed the picture to my friends in the East, who deem themselves fortunate if they possess a little switch of a rubber tree in a flower pot. They, like myself, were delighted, and one of the things they want to see when they come to California is the rubber trees. One of the stumps of what was last summer a stately tree still has a sign board "Rubber Tree" tacked to it.

Pacific Coast Lumber Trade.

SCHENECTADY (N. Y.) Aug. 28.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The lumber interests on the Pacific Coast are of a magnitude not generally realized. The mechanical equipment there is unequaled by that of any other lumber field in the world.

We are informed by the Department of Commerce and Labor, through its Bureau of Statistics, that the Pacific lumbermen have been rapidly enlarging their area and volume of commercial distribution in both the foreign and the domestic markets.

According to figures gathered by the Bureau of Statistics, the redwood shipments in 1902 from upper California, mostly to San Francisco and the southern coast, amounted to (using round numbers for the purposes of this article) 260,000,000 feet. In addition, the California coast alone received in the past three fiscal years pine and fir to the extent of 270,000,000 feet in 1900, 405,000,000 feet in 1901, and 600,000,000 feet in 1902. These figures show an enormous increase, particularly in 1902, over 1900.

The trade on the North Pacific Coast has expanded in equal volume. Shipments, by water alone, from Seattle, show, in 1901, 506,000,000 feet and in 1902, 564,000,000 feet.

A movement of almost equal proportions is taking place to points in the interior of the United States, by rail. These figures show 384,000,000 feet in 1901 and 562,000,000 feet in 1902. In shingles sent east of the Cascade Mountains extending into the territory east of the Missouri River, and, in many cases, as far as the lakes, the records show the shipments to have been in 1901, 4,485,000,000, and in 1902, 5,080,000,000.

The railroads are benefiting largely by these enormous shipments of lumber and shingles. From Seattle alone were sent, in 1900, 5141 carloads; in 1901, 6230 carloads; and in 1902, 8026 carloads. Portland, Or., ranks next to Seattle in rail lumber shipments. The record there is, 1900, 11,966 carloads; 1901, 12,317 carloads; 1902, 15,576 carloads. The heavy increase hereby shown in rail shipments of lumber from the Pacific Coast to points East is a noteworthy contribution to transcontinental tonnage, insuring, as it does, return freights for the freight trains sent to the Pacific. This is as necessary as return cargoes for ships. The opening of the Mississippi Valley to the Pacific Coast lumbermen brings the export trade from the Coast into closer relations with the demands of the domestic consumer. He thus becomes directly interested in the progress of lumbering, both in the Northwestern States and the Southern States, as main sources of supply. The entire East is chiefly dependent for its immense consumption of lumber on these two sources.

The principal mills of the State of Washington reported for 1902 that 386,000,000 feet were sent to coastwise destinations, and 153,000,000 feet to foreign destinations. If this ratio holds good for the Pacific Coast as a whole, it means that as much as 70 per cent. of our Pacific Coast lumber cut is put to domestic uses. The other 30 per cent. of the cut is sent to foreign destinations, and a growing proportion of it to ports in the Orient.

Announcement was recently made by the Bureau of Statistics, of the arrival in the Chinese market of a first cargo of Siberian lumber, by a Russian vessel from Vladivostok. This is important news, as it signalizes the entrance of Russia as a competitor in the lumber market of the Orient, particularly in timberless China. At the same time, Russian lumber shipments are projected from the Korean side of the Yalu River. Both in Siberia and on the Yalu enormous resources in lumber are waiting development. It is fortunate for us that our Pacific Coast lumber interests are in the fine condition above indicated. We can easily meet the immediate competition, but what of the future? Unofficial estimates give the annual cut of lumber and shingles of the three Pacific States as —

	Feet.
Washington	2,200,000,000
California	800,000,000
Oregon	740,000,000

At this rate it is calculated that the forests of the Pacific Coast will be exhausted in about forty years.

In this expectation it is also fortunate for us, indeed, more than fortunate, that we own the Philippine Islands, with their 52,000,000 acres of virgin forests, embracing 665 known varieties of woods. Some of them among the most valuable woods known to commerce.

"All right, but keep it mum," answered the other. "I'm running a railroad lunch counter. See?"—[Chicago News.

DEMURE WAITRESS HELD FOR MURDER.

UTAH CRIME CHARGED TO PRETTY LOS ANGELES GIRL.

Was Wife of Animal Who Abused Her, It is Said, and Who Forced Her to Become a Tramp—Very Mysterious Case.

A waiter girl, formerly of this city, known as Mrs. Aurora Hodge, is now held in Utah on a charge of murder. She is alleged to have brutally butchered a peddler named Ryan while traveling through the country there last summer. She was a demure, timid little thing, and all her friends are surprised at the enormity of the accusation, and believe it almost impossible. Quiet and of kindly disposition, the charge of murder seems shockingly out of place against her name.

From here she went to Clifton, Ariz., engaging as a waitress in the Clifton Hotel. She was there less than a week when she mysteriously disapeared. She took nothing from her room but her violin, and was afterward seen at Guthrie, walking out of the country with a man supposed to be her husband. Somehow the report got into circulation that she had deserted him and that he had followed her and made her walk back for meanness' sake.

Her husband—if he is such—is one Cornelius Hodge, at Riverside. He claims that she deserted him immediately after their marriage and ran away to Los Angeles with two other men. After that she was sent out to her Arizona position by Hummel Bros., employment agents.

Finally she sent for her husband to come and buy her out of the contract. He went and bought her out, and they went to El Paso. There she deserted him about the middle of February. He worked his way back to California as a hobo, and has been at Highgrove since the early part of March.

It is said that in Clifton he made a tramp out of the poor woman in the cold winter months, and even would not permit her to carry away any of her clothing.

She claims self-defense as a reason why she shot the peddler, admitting, it is said, that she did so. But as he was shot in the top of the head the self-defense plea looks very shaky.

PRICE OF MILK IS ADVANCED TODAY.

NEW RATE AN INCREASE OF FIFTEEN PER CENT.

Dealers Assert that Rise is Due to High Price of Cow Feed and Drivers Confess that New Prices Are Caused by Dope Milk Men.

Beginning today, the price of milk will be raised 10 to 15 per cent.

Housewives have been expecting this rise every since the crusade was commenced by the city against the milk dealers who doctor their product with embalming fluid to keep it sweet for a day or two in hot weather. The fine of $100 has had much to do with scaring the unscrupulous dealers from pouring their poisons into the milk, but none of the milk men or maids will go so far as to admit this.

They do say that they have just cause for the new prices; but whether or not they have, really makes little difference, for it seems to be a case of what are you going to do about it? In order to understand just what the rise will amount to, the following table is given, with the old and new figures for thirty and thirty-one days:

Quantity—	Old.	New.	Old.	New.
One pint measured	$1.25	$1.35	$1.35	$1.40
Two pints "	2.50	2.70	2.60	2.80
One quart "	2.50	2.70	2.60	2.80
One pint bottle	2.25	2.60	2.35	2.40
Two pints "	1.50	1.65	1.60	1.70
One quart "	2.00	2.20	2.25	2.40
	2.25	2.70	2.60	2.80

On tickets for measured milk eleven pints will now be given for 50 cents, instead of twelve as in the past, and nine pint tickets for bottled milk instead of ten. On measured quarts there will be thirteen instead of fourteen tickets for $1 and on bottled eleven instead of twelve for $1. The only advance in the price of cream is on quarter-pint lots, which will cost 5 instead of 5 cents.

This rise in price is announced by the Los Angeles Milk Board of Trade, which is composed of about forty of the eighty dairies supplying milk to this city. As the small dealers generally follow the lead of the combine there is no reason to hope that the small fry will not charge the trust rates.

In discussing the increased prices last night, one of the dairymen stated that the prices were not elevated because the city authorities had been catching some of the embalming fluid dealers. The rise was just due to prosperous times—that is, rather to the increased cost of feed, you know. "Feed has been so high this year and cows go dry so quickly even if there has been plenty of rain and bran is so expensive, because so much of it is put into bread by the millers and bakers," and for various other reasons.

There are hundreds of people in this city, however, who will have to be shown to the contrary in view of the frank statements of a number of the drivers of milk wagons. They very blandly declare that if the people want pure milk they must pay for it, and that the new prices are not fixed by the "pure-milk men,—anyway, but by the "dope milk men," who have raised a big howl. In any event, you will have to pay more for your milk after today and you won't get any more guarantee as to its purity than you got last month for less money.

NORMAL SCHOOL'S ENTRANCE DAY.

MATRICULATION OF WOULD-BE TEACHERS IS LARGE.

Excellent Promise for Successful Year, With a Start of More Than Four Hundred Students—Buildings Entirely Renovated.

President Pierce and his assistants enrolled about 135 new students, which, with the return of 300 pupils who have not finished their training, will make a showing of more than 400 for the first day's work. This is considered excellent, and as students come in every day during the first week or so, it is considered probable that the total attendance at the institution the coming term will be nearly half a thousand.

The largest number of new students, of course, are from the high schools of the State. More than eighty entered the instructors' lists from this source. About forty come from the grammar grades, and nine advanced pupils entered for special training. The admission is larger than at the beginning of any term. The year does not promise to break the records, though, as this would be hard to do now, since the great attendance from the public schools has been discouraged. In addition, the establishment of many country high schools has done away with the necessity of ninth-grade pupils entering the normal institutions.

There are to be a few slight changes in the faculty list. Miss DeVine is out, with no one in her place. Mrs. Pierce, preceptress and wife of the principal, leaves today, and her work will be distributed among the other members of the faculty. Profs. Davis and Chamberlain are on leave of absence for further study, which leave may be extended one year. Prof. Davis is writing a work on biology, while Prof. Chamberlain is getting up a geographical text-book. Mrs. Hazard, instructor in domestic science, is sick in San Francisco, and her leave has been extended to February.

Extensive improvements have been made at the Normal building during vacation, and are, in fact, going on at the present time. The woodwork of the building has been painted, and in the halls a new hardwood floor—long needed—is being laid. The plumbing of the whole building has been carefully renovated, and many new additions made. In the gymnasium special work is being done in the way of new shower baths and other like conveniences. Further additions to the "gym" will be made later.

Prof. Pierce, who has just returned from the north, says that there are far more applications for teachers than there are teachers to fill them. Young men are especially scarce, and the male enrollment this year looks sparse. Five of the six young men graduates of last term have been placed in good-paying principalships.

No important changes are contemplated in the Normal curriculum this season. Prof. Pierce states that in the new series of State text-books the new school history—modeled on McMaster's work—with thirty pages additional of California history, will be sold to children this year at 15 cents less than the publisher's price, making it only 95 cents. It will be ready for the children by the opening of the schools.

Our Los Angeles gas concern is doing two things that we all want to know about:

(1) making a show of selected tools for burning gas for our comfort and profit;

(2) selling these tools at cost on terms that enable us all to buy them.

The company's object is to sell us more gas; our gas is said to be better now than then.

It is a good town to live in; we all know that.

MINES CLOSED BY LABORITES.

Big Bag District in Arizona Blighted by Unions.

All of the Larger Mines Closed. Business at Lowest Ebb.

No Present Prospect of Settlement of Strike—Assessments in Various Counties.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

PRESCOTT (Ariz.) Aug. 29.—Practically all the larger mines of the Big Bug district, the most important mining section of Yavapai county, are closed down pending settlement of the difficulties between employers and employed. Business is at the lowest ebb and Prescott seroiusly feels the backset to her industries that has come through the enactment by the last Legislature of the eight-hour law. The miners of this vicinity, with the exception of a few Italians, are mainly intelligent men, English-speaking and skilled in their work. Perhaps the majority of them are Cornish. But they are stubborn and determined and have met the overtures of the Mine Owners' Association, with a flat demand for concessions that can hardly be given. In this the local miners' associations are backed by the Western Federation of Miners, which is paying strike benefits and which is maintaining a free eating-house in the Walker vicinity.

According to T. J. Tomlinson, one of the mine operators, about twenty men are making all the trouble in Yavapai county. As a rule, the miners would be willing to return to work on a wage scale which the operators are willing and able to pay, were it not for the rules of the union. He says:

"The time has come when a halt must be called in the arbitrary actions of some of the labor unions, which are unreasonable and preventing the development of the county. Those who own the mines are determined that they will no longer submit to the arbitrary dictation of the union. Most of the important mines are now closed and they will remain closed until men can be secured to work them on an individual basis and without dictation from any union."

Territorial Secretary I. T. Stoddard, lately returned from the East, states that the strike has had a bad effect on the eastern financial end of Arizona mining. The Morenci strike was very alarming to intending investors in Arizona properties and they have not been reassured by the troubles in Yavapai county. It can hardly be expected, Mr. Stoddard believes, that there will be any heavy investments in this Territory until the present labor troubles have been adjusted.

Mayor D. A. Burke of Prescott has been working to act as mediator in the troubles. A call was lately issued by him for a conference between the mine operators and the representatives of the miners' unions. The meeting was held, but absolutely with no good results. The miners stood out for the last pound of flesh and refused all overtures made by the owners. The latter submitted a schedule which varied, on an eight-hour basis, from $3 to $4 a day, according to the nature of the employment, the proposition continuing:

"In submitting the above schedule of wages the mine operators do not wish to be understood as being arbitrary; realizing that conditions may arise where, in justice to all, changes can and should be made, and if the miners will meet the operators in the spirit that prompts this communication, there would seem to be little left to cause friction or misunderstanding and the development of the vast mineral resources of the county should proceed uninterrupted and with great advantage directly or indirectly, to every citizen in the county. It is the desire of the operators as unanimously expressed to pay all miners as good wages as possible without seriously jeopardizing the interests and properties they represent."

The union men said they had no authority to further consider the matter; that the union was simply trying to establish a uniform scale for the entire district, and that they would endeavor to do all in their power to lawfully carry out their principles. Frank Murphy, for the mine owners, then announced that the operators would go ahead and try to get men to run their mines independent of the union, and would treat all fairly, justly and honestly, and that no animosity would be entertained toward the union or its members, and all they asked was that the unions do not interfere with the operations of their properties.

The course of the Yavapai unions has been sustained by the annual convention of the Arizona Labor Federation, lately held in Phoenix. The Yavapai unions were voted a donation of $500 to their strike fund. Incidentally, the same general federation instructed its executive board to carry on an active campaign against the Los Angeles Times within Arizona and formulated plans whereby it was hoped to entirely shut The Times out of Arizona because of its attitude on the subject of organized labor. Just what the plans are has not been divulged. They appear to be a deep and dank secret. Possibly they are not material enough for publicity. One of the plans was the issuance of a Territorial labor journal, which, no doubt, will "paralyze" The Times editorially. Its first issue will be September 1. Prescott being the place of publication.

Judge R. E. Sloan of the District Court has enjoined the miners' unions and their membership against violence or interference in any manner with the peaceful operation of the mines. The defendants enjoined include the following-named: Yavapai District Union, of the Western Federation of Miners; McCabe Miners' Union, No. 18, Walker Miners' Union, No. 65; Groom Creek Miners' Union, No. 154; Alfred Pain, Hugh Burns, E. P. Starr, S. D. Murray, M. W. Moore, John Larson, Tom Caldwell, James O'Connell, R. McCormick, Roy O. Jones, Henry Pitts, Pat Sullivan, John Rusk, E. T. Donnelly, James McLaughlin, Tom Connors.

The injunction had for its base a number of affairs of voilence, including an attempt to assassinate a watchman at the Poland tunnel, and the stoppage of a number of individuals believed to be on their way to work in the mines. A force of Arizona Rangers is being maintained in the vicinity of Prescott. Two members of the miners' union, M. J. O'Connell and Henry Pitts, have been brought before the District Court, charged with contempt in violating the court order, in that they made violent and riotous speeches, and tried to excite violence against non-union miners.

Col. J. F. Wilson, Territorial Delegate to Congress, has been retained by the unions as their attorney. He says he has informed his clients that they must respect the law, and not attempt to interfere with the lawful operation of the mines nor prevent non-union men from working. He said that the unions had agreed to this, and said they would expel any man or men from the union who disregarded this advice. He believed the union men would treat fairly in the matter, and that they had informed him that they would assist as a police in the protection of property and life.

Public proclamation has been made by Gov. Brodie, calling for the celebration of September 7 as Labor Day. The main celebration will be at McCabe, one of the main strongholds of the miners' union south of Prescott. There will be a great barbecue, drilling contests and a long programme especially designed for the edification of the miners.

SHAMROCK BEATEN, BUT IT IS NO RACE.

Reliance Leads by a Mile and a Half When the Wind Fails.

Storm That Held Sway Along the Coast Abated, but the Shifting of the Breeze Made Necessary the Shifting of the Starting-line—Exciting Contest to Get Advantage at the Start—Yachts Cross the Line Together.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Today's race between the Reliance and the Shamrock III resulted in another fluke. The wind died out, making it impossible for the Reliance, which led the Shamrock by a mile and a half, to finish within the limit of five and a half hours. She was almost a mile from the home mark when the limit expired. The race will be resailed tomorrow under conditions that governed today, fifteen miles to windward and return.

The race today was a slow one. The storm that had held sway along the coast since last Thursday had abated, but in the early morning the sea was so rough off the Hook that a race seemed impossible. But the wind died away rapidly, and it was decided by all those concerned to take the big sloops out and finish the cup races if possible. The wind was blowing about eight miles an hour out of the northeast, which rendered it necessary to shift the starting line five miles to the south. This caused a delay of half an hour.

Jockeying for the start was an exciting contest between Barr and Wringe, and the Shamrock's skipper showed himself much more clever than last Thursday, when he handicapped himself by over a minute. The two boats crossed the line together to a second but Barr had done better in the windward berth. The wind kept falling, and slowly and surely Herreshoff's wonder drew away from the Irish knight's boat. But for the heavy swell of the south sea, which the boats pounded heartily, the race seemed but a repetition of Thursday's fiasco. There was plenty of sea room for the big sloops. The observation fleet was reduced to comparative insignificance.

The official time of the start was: Reliance, 11:45:26 o'clock; Shamrock, 11:45:38 o'clock.

Immediately after crossing the line both yachts went on the port tack. For five minutes they sailed on this tack. The Reliance was pointing magnificently to windward, but smashing seas badly. She was the first to break tack, and the Shamrock followed promptly. During the first half hour after the start, the yachts made three tacks, but the wind being light at 12:15 o'clock they had scarcely covered more than two miles of the course. The Reliance, as usual, seemed to gain steadily, and at 12:30 o'clock was apparently leading by an eighth of a mile. The wind seemed to have little life, and at 12:30 o'clock was blowing not more than six miles an hour. As the yachts beat slowly to windward, the heavy ground swell lifted the bows of the Reliance so that her fins could be seen. The sea seemed to suit the Shamrock better, and she made easier work of the long swell, though the Reliance was pointing higher. The yachts were making slow time of it, and were being greatly retarded by the flood tide.

At 1 o'clock, the hope that the yachts would finish within the time limit began to disappear, and it was again to be a race against time. Soon after 1 o'clock, the Reliance went on the starboard tack, but Wringe declined to follow this lead, and two minutes later the Reliance went back on the port tack. The yachts were still crawling along though the Reliance was slowly eating out to windward. The Shamrock, however, was footing equally as fast. The yachts held this tack for nearly half an hour, the Shamrock being the first to go about, when the yachts were five miles from the outer mark. At 1:34 o'clock, the Reliance went on the starboard tack. The Reliance soon made another tack, but the wind shifting somewhat to the northeast, the Reliance again went on the starboard tack, and at 1:50 o'clock the yachts were both heading in shore, the Reliance's distance to windward having been considerably increased by a change in the direction of the wind.

RELIANCE'S GREAT ADVANTAGE.

When both boats straightened out for the run toward Long Beach, it was easy to see what great advantage the Reliance had established because of her ability to go windward. When the short hitches had been completed, Barr was over a mile to windward of the Lipton boat. The Reliance caught a bad slack of wind when she made her last tack, and for two minutes the challenger traveled three points higher. But the Shamrock received the same slack later, so that this slight advantage was soon overcome. The wind hauled a little more to the north and headed off slightly, until, at 1:57 o'clock, Barr shot the Reliance about on the port tack, followed one minute later by the Shamrock.

When the yachts straightened out on the port tack, the Reliance seemed to have a lead of a about a mile and a half. As the wind still further softened, the Reliance rapidly pulled away from her adversary, so that when they were three and one-half miles from the outer mark, the Reliance had a lead of about two miles.

When Barr learned that the Shamrock sailed better in the heavy ground swell, he led his rival close to the Long Island shore, where the Reliance had better sailing, and continually increased her lead. The Reliance had the better of all the short hitches in shore, where Barr pinched his boat to windward in every puff and clamp of the wind.

The wind continued to drop until it was blowing not more than four or five miles an hour. Within one mile of the mark, the Reliance made two short hitches to fetch it. She left the mark on the starboard hand, gibing over as she went around. The wind had backed so far around to the north that the Reliance was unable to set her spinnaker, and she carried balloon jib topsail, mainsail and club topsail, as she headed away straight for the finish, fifteen miles away, with just 2 hrs. 15 min. within which to reach the finish line in order that there should be a race. When the Reliance turned, the Shamrock was still over two miles from the mark. At 3:15, the Shamrock was on the starboard tack, holding in toward the Long Island shore and about three-fourths of a mile from the mark. Shortly after, she crossed the wake of the Reliance, who was homeward bound. She did not stand in very far, and at 3:16 o'clock took the port tack. The Shamrock pointed for the mark, and at 3:21 slowly gibed around. She immediately set her balloon jibsail, broke out her spinnaker and started her long stern chase. The Reliance was nearly three miles away. Time of turning: Reliance, 3:00:37 o'clock; Shamrock, 3:21:00 o'clock.

Just before rounding the mark, the Reliance took in her jib-topsail. Two sailors dragged her big balloon jib, which had been brought on deck, out on the bowsprit and snapped it on the stay, after which it was run up in stops. Turning the stake, the sheets were paid out to port, and the ballooner was broken out. A few minutes later the wind hauled to east-northeast again, Barr dropped his spinnaker boom to starboard, ran up the spinnaker in stops and broke it out. The Shamrock also broke out her balloon jib and set her spinnaker as she turned for home and put after the defender. Under this vast spread of canvas the giant single stickers skimmed the waters rapidly, but it was a moral certainty that unless the breeze freshened to ten or twelve knots, the Reliance could not finish within the time limit. She had fifteen miles to travel in two hours and fifteen minutes, and with the wind so yacht can travel faster than the breeze. As it was then blowing only five knots, it was evident that under those conditions the defender could not travel much further than ten or eleven miles. Besides, there was a strong ebb tide to buck. The yachts were able to cling to their spinnakers for only a few minutes.

At 3:30 o'clock p.m. the wind backed to the northeast again. The Shamrock felt the change first, and doused her spinnaker at 3:32 o'clock. The Reliance took hers on board two minutes later. On both yachts ballooners were drawing splendidly, pulling the boats ahead at a two-mile clip, considering adverse conditions. Just as all hope of finishing the race had been abandoned, the breeze freshened to eight knots, and the yachts bounded toward the home mark with increased speed.

HALF WAY HOME.

At 4:10 o'clock the Reliance had covered half of the run home, and the sharps figured that if the wind continued to stiffen she would have a fair chance to finish within the time. As on Thursday, the race had developed into a battle between the defender and Father Time, with the Shamrock, which had picked up a little with the freshening wind, a good mile and a half astern, beaten hopelessly.

On the excursion boats watches were pulled out and the flight of the minute hands was eagerly watched. So close was the situation, that many wagers were made on the possibility of the Reliance beating time. As the breeze freshened, it veered to eastward, and at 4:35 o'clock the Shamrock gibed her boom to starboard and broke out her spinnaker to port. Barr also gibed and had his big off-wind canvas out almost as soon as the challenger. The Reliance was then only three miles from the home mark, and it was a toss-up if she would finish.

At 4:52 o'clock Barr took in his spinnaker again and made for the line under mainsail, club topsail and balloon jib. He was nursing the big 90-footer like a 30-footer, and trying by every easy trick, of which he is master, to slip her over in time. At 5:05 o'clock Barr again broke out his spinnaker. The Reliance, however, had still nearly a mile and a half to go, and the outlook for beating the time limit seemed hopeless. And so it proved. Squeeze as he would, the wily Scotch skipper could not win against time, and when the limit expired the Reliance was still four minutes from the finish.

She doused her spinnaker when the gun from the Navigator announced the expiration of the time limit, and, hauling to the wind, stood for Sandy Hook. She soon picked up the Guiding Star, which towed her to her moorings in the Horseshoe.

When the race ended, the Shamrock was a mile and a half astern of the defender, and more than twenty minutes from the finish. She, too, doused her spinnaker and headsails, and, taking a tow, made for her moorings.

As soon as the Regatta Committee declared the race officially off by flying the code letter "M" from the Navigator, they ran up to the Reliance and hoisted the letter "N.". This was to ask if the defender would race tomorrow. The Reliance answered "Yes." After asking the Shamrock the same question and receiving the same reply, the letter "L" was sent aloft on the Navigator's tri-staysail, signifying that the race would be resailed tomorrow.

ANOTHER VIEW OF IT.

FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS BOAT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—Again today the beautiful cup-defender Reliance failed to register her third victory over the Lipton challenger, because the wind died to nothing and the time limit of five and one-half hours expired before she could reach the finish line.

Her margin was approximately the same as Thursday last. She was less than half a mile from the finish when the gun sounded. The Shamrock III was a faint blur on the horizon, fully two and one-half miles astern. The Reliance's failure to score the race was the more exasperating because her ultimate triumph is now conceded, even by Sir Thomas himself, to be simply a formality. The superiority of the Herreshoff boat in any kind of weather is acknowledged by the yachting critics on both sides of the Atlantic, and today's fluke only prolonged the agony of the contest that has already been decided.

The waning interest in the cup races was strikingly illustrated by the size of the observation fleet, if the ships which went down to the ocean race course today could be dignified by such a title. Outside of the revenue cutters which patrolled the course, it consisted of half a dozen tugs and a score of steam yachts.

The easterly wind and rain last night had served to knock down the sea somewhat, although it was rough enough the first two hours of the race to make the excursion boats tumble about a good deal, and the yachts plunge and stagger on their way to the outer mark. But as the day wore on, the wind hauled to the north and fell to a mere zephyr, hardly blowing strong enough to round out the enormous canvasses of the sloops, and the sea subsided to a smooth surface.

SHAMROCK'S WORST BEATING.

The race was spiritless from the beginning. It was laid fifteen miles to windward up the Long Island shore and return. Its saving feature was the start, in which Capt. Wringe, by a pretty piece of maneuvering, neatly turned the tables on the Yankee skipper, and captured the windward berth. Even so, the yachts crossed the line abreast, like a harnessed team of horses. But within fifteen minutes the defender was showing her heels to the challenger, and when the float at the outer mark was reached, she rounded it twenty minutes and twenty-three seconds ahead of her rival. In the five times the boats have met, this was by far the worst beating the Shamrock III has sustained in windward work. The only interest which remained after that was whether the Reliance would be able to reach the finish line in time to score the race.

AT THE START.

The racers waited about Sandy Hook lightship until 10:45 o'clock, when the Navigator signalled that the starting line would be shifted and the races postponed until later in the day. After running five miles south from the lightship the navigator signaled a windward and leeward course, east, northeast, from which direction a five-knot wind was blowing. The easterly gale had left a long, heavy sea running, and as the yachts jockeyed about the starting line they lifted their long bows high out of the water on top of the swell and pounded the sea into a froth.

This is the first time in the series, Capt. Wringe of the Shamrock III cleverly outgeneraled the redoubtable Capt. Barr in the preliminary jockeying. Until five minutes before the start Capt. Barr held the windward berth. Then both ran away from the line, the Shamrock leading. Two minutes before the starting gun the Shamrock headed up into the wind, tacked, forcing the Reliance to do the same, and both ran for the line, the Reliance leading. They reached it before the starting gun, and the Reliance had to run along the lee side of it to await the gun. The Shamrock reached the line as the gun sounded, and not having to sheer off, secured the weather position. It was a trick which Capt. Barr had worked often, but never with better finesse or more satisfactory results. The official starting time of both yachts was 11:45:26 o'clock.

The first tack, five minutes after crossing the line, put the Shamrock III ahead, but under the lee bow of the Reliance. Here Wringe gave his boat a good full, and the way she began to walk away from the defender made it look as though she had found herself at last, but this was for only a few minutes. When he began to pinch her into the wind it was apparent that the Reliance was outpointing the challenger, and altogether making better work of it. They held on one tack east-southeast for nearly an hour. During that time the defender worked up to windward a good quarter of a mile. When the Reliance tacked, the Shamrock III refused to follow suit, so Barr put his craft on the port tack again. This placed the Reliance a mile north of the Shamrock III. Fifteen minutes later, the wind suddenly shifted to the northeast and placed the American boat that distance dead to the windward, not half of which she had actually earned. From that time the Reliance gained steadily. The yachts could head within a few points of their course. They held the tack for twenty minutes, and then made short hitches, in which the Reliance steadily got the better of it.

When off Long Beach, at 1:45 o'clock, the defender was two miles ahead, having added the second mile by literally outpointing the challenger, and at the same time maintaining equal speed. The mark was then in plain view and the wind was softening. After a long board off shore, the Reliance made short hitches which brought her to the turn. The challenger's cause was absolutely hopeless when the defender rounded the mark. The British boat was more than two miles alee and coming slowly. The time at the outer mark was: Reliance, 3:00:37 o'clock; Shamrock III, 3:21:00 o'clock. The Reliance led by 20 min. 23 sec., barring time allowance.

The Reliance at first reached homeward under balloon jib topsail, and then carried her spinnaker for a mile, only to resort to the ballooner again. With the wind aft of the beam, the main sheet well in and ballooner belying, she made good time and drew away from the challenger until the wind softened, when the speed of both slackened. The Shamrock III caught a freshening wind first and cut down the Reliance's lead half a mile before the leader caught it. Then the Reliance steadily gained until she had made good her two-mile lead and added another half-mile to it. In trying to hold the wind in their jib topsails, both yachts had run off their course, but at 4:20 o'clock both set spinnakers and headed straight for the finish. The wind was dying away and the spinnakers drew poorly. The Reliance was moving not more than four miles an hour, and the Shamrock was 2¼ miles astern of her when the committee boat signaled that the race was off. Both immediately took in sail and were taken in tow for Sandy Hook. The Regatta Committee of the New York Yacht Club announced tonight that the yachts would go again tomorrow.

TESTIMONIAL FOR LIPTON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—The initial step toward the presentation to Sir Thomas Lipton of a memento from the American people, probably in the form of a silver service, was taken today when the following resolution was adopted at a meeting held at the Waldorf-Astoria:

"The undersigned committee, named to arrange a memento for Sir Thomas Lipton, feel assured that they represent universal sentiment of appreciation among all classes of Americans who love sport and admire a sportsman, and acting upon that assurance, they suggest to the general public a popular subscription to meet the foregoing view. The Western National Bank of New York has consented to receive subscriptions. It is desired that this shall be national in its character, as there is no section where the pluck and good temper of our late antagonist, ever our friend and now our guest, have not won all hearts."

The resolution is signed by Gen. Joseph Wheeler, as chairman; Henry Watterson, Louisville; Patrick Collins, Mayor of Boston; Thomas F. Walsh, Washington, D. C.; George C. Wilson, Washington; Commodore Robert C. Todd, New York; V. P. Snyder, New York; Lindsay Russell, New York; Senator Kearns, Utah; Timothy D. Woodruff, New York.

The following telegram was received from Mayor Patrick H. Collins: "Will serve on committee with greatest pleasure, for gold as well as silver, as nothing is too good for the best 'sport' in the world."

HAMBURG BELLE LAME.

MAY NOT RACE AGAIN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Hamburg Belle paid dearly for her head victory in the Futurity Stakes Saturday. She was so lame today that she could scarcely put her foot to the ground. She may not be able to race again this season. During the skirmishing at the post for the start Saturday, Minute Man, a fractious colt, lashed out with his heels and kicked Hamburg Belle on the hock of the left hind leg. It cut the flesh open, but fortunately struck a bone and did not sever any sinews.

It was at the start, in the first few strides, that Jockey Fuller discovered that there was something the matter with Hamburg Belle. The great filly was slow to "break," and Fuller had to hit her with a whip to rouse her lagging steps. This was something unusual for her, because heretofore she has always rushed away from the barrier like a rocket. He had to ride her hard with his hands and kick her with his heels to keep her in the front rank. She responded well to every call he made and stood his whipping finish with great courage. It was only after the race that Fuller knew that her leg was cut wide open and that she had covered six furlongs with blood trickling from a deep gash and while suffering intense pain.

Grand Circuit Slows up.

PROVIDENCE (R. I.) Aug. 31.—Today's grand-circuit races at Narragansett Pier were postponed owing to the wet condition of the track.

SEATTLE YET HERE TO PLAY.

Los Angeles' Standing in the Race Called Lucky.

W. H. Lucas Outlines Future of Pacific Coast League.

Minors Kicking up a Fuss Over an Old Cause of Trouble.

Whether the Seattle band of pitcher-killers will repeat its good showing of last week at Chutes Park in the six games more that are to come, beginning today, is at present the chief source of solicitude of the fans.

Last week the inability of Dr. Judson Smith to play third base weakened the team considerably. The San Francisco Bulletin, which takes a fiendish delight in hammering all things southern, delivers the following "knock" on the Looloos' standing through the mouth of Henry Harris:

"I wonder where that Los Angeles team would be if they had as many sick and crippled men as our team has had. Here they have one man, a third baseman, out of the game, and they are losing to Seattle. What if they had two of their best pitchers, a catcher, a first baseman and a shortstop crippled, more or less? How far would Los Angeles be in front? Los Angeles has been the luckiest team in this league."

Before this could be answered successfully it would be necessary to know how many "more or less" than those mentioned, were crippled. It is true Los Angeles has been lucky in the baseball world, but its luck has mostly been due to the hustling of Mr. Morley, who has secured good ball players at a considerable expense, and has left no measures untaken to win the flag. It is proverbial in baseball that pennant winners are always "lucky."

Before going much farther it might be mentioned that the same Los Angeles team has been playing a pitcher in the infield and an amateur in the outfield nearly all season; at least since the defections of some of the rubber-legged gentry who "got theirs" so effectively and so satisfactorily to the fan body in the recent breaking up of the opposition league. At the same time Mr. Harris has had decidedly more hard luck than is coming to him, and no one sympathizes with him more sincerely than the local baseball backers. Morley hopes there will be no "look of condition" or "crippled" taint on the championship which he is going to win this fall.

The loss of Smith weakens the Los Angeles team in many more ways than would the loss of Toman, or an average infielder. If Jimmy was sick, a brilliant fielding star would be the chief loss. Dr. Smith is not only that, but he is a splendid hitter and a sensational performer on the bases. The superb team work of the Looloos, which is their chief claim to honor this year, suffers severely from the introduction of unfamiliar talent.

Smith will surely be back this week, if not this afternoon.

W. H. Lucas, erstwhile manager of the "busted league," having returned from the land of baseball conventions, has given tongue again in the Northwest. The subject of Mr. Lucas's latest discourse is "How the Pacific Coast League may obtain national protection." Being the leading baseball man in the country (per Lucas) he doubtless feels qualified to testify, and the Coast League magnates, who were so unkind as to outgeneral him in the recent unpleasantness, will be glad to obtain these scraps from the Lucas table of mental refreshment.

"I have been pretty closely informed on the doings of the association, and believe that the Pacific Coast League will be given protection next year. This can be given them in every city but Seattle. Dugdale still holds the franchise there, and as long as the P.N.L. has a team in Seattle the P.C.L. cannot get admittance. I have just wired Secretary Farrell a communication on that score, and it is my opinion that the Seattle franchise of the Coast League may be shifted to Tacoma next year, giving us full control in Seattle."

Of course that settles it. Harris, Morley and Parke Wright are softening. Although others have different opinions, but they cut little ice in the baseball world which shelters that great magnate and star promoter of unsuccessful baseball wars, W. H. Lucas.

Hollingsworth is still playing with the Portland team. He should be thrown out of the league. Here is a ball player who was given every opportunity to do the right thing, and repeatedly expressed satisfaction with his treatment at the hands of the Los Angeles management. Instead of meeting his employers half-way, he developed a perennial thirst, tried to create a booze famine, and finally added to failure to keep the condition the cardinal offense of contract jumping. Hollingsworth's loss was a benefit to the team.

Bill Devereaux still complains some of a sore hand, but will not take another bench vacation in consequence.

One large baseball row with minor league trimmings is in Pat Powers has been dished up in New York. The National Association does not seem the best satisfied in the world with the new agreement, and some strenuous "kicking" relative to the government of the game is being heard. A meeting was to be held yesterday or today at the Hotel Victoria in New York, and it is possible everything will be smoothed over without further trouble. Any deal between the associated minors and the big leagues must be in the nature of a give-and-take compromise, partly unsatisfactory to both parties.

A remarkable game was played in the New York State League a week ago Saturday, when Syracuse beat Albany in the nineteenth inning. Pitcher Jack Haslem held Albany to six hits in the nineteen innings.

Pitcher Walker and Outfielder Kerwin of the Louisville American Association team have graduated into fast company, having been sold to the Cincinnati Reds. Harry Clark, third-baseman of the Dallas club has been bought of Comiskey for his Chicago White Sox.

Rube Waddell who has been "fired" by Mack is going into the show business, taking a leading part in the "Stain of Guilt" company. Rube slugs the villain and enjoys the taking of similar parts. What a hit it would be for some manager to put him on the stage, pitching with a fan in the wings (hired by Connie Mack) to yell "He's quitting, the big stiff," at half-minute intervals. This stimulus never failed to deliver the Reuben goods, and the act would have the merit of being natural, though possibly a chestnut.

RACE IN MID-AIR.

TIMES' BULLETINS AGAIN.

Owing to the postponement of yesterday's race and its resailing today, The Times' mid-air miniature yachts will "sail" again this morning. Yesterday the unique bulletins attracted the usual crowds. They tell the whole story of the race.

TENNIS UP NORTH.

LOCAL CRACKS ON HAND.

The best tennis talent of the South is represented in the North this week. Champion Bell is at Del Monte, as are the Suttons. A. C. Way, Miss Seymour, Bob Variel, Claude Wayne and several others are on hand. Way and Variel mean to make a spirited bid for the men's doubles honors. They will eventually run up against plenty of hard game. Drummond McGavin and Grant Smith are one pair they must meet; Percy Muldock and Willie Collier another, and Robert Whitney and Joe Tobin a third. Some good matches should result.

Bell will have plenty of work to do to win the California championship. He will have another whack at his inveterate court enemy, Lew Freeman. His programme in the singles figures a match with C. Gooding first, then McGavin, Grant Smith or Willie Collier will be likely to come through to the semi-finals. Bell can beat any of these. He will probably run up against Freeman at the finish. If need surprise no one to see him win the San Rafael tournament. In his Santa Monica form Bell was invincible.

The ladies' events figure all May Sutton. She cannot be beaten on the court by any lady player.

BOXING BITS.

PUGILISTIC DOINGS.

Local sports have considerable trouble picking the winner of the De Coursey-Nell contest. A well-defined belief exists that Nell is underrating his opponent.

Big Jim Jeffords lost a decision to Fred Cooley of Chicago at Philadelphia last Thursday, having hurt his arm by uncanny swing. One arm was broken. Jeffords would not continue with the injury, and cannot be blamed, though he was getting the worst of it at the time.

Sam Fitzpatrick of New York has dug up another Irish champion to put against Jeffries. If they ever meet, which is improbable, the Los Angeles lad, who has proved himself about the only good giant the fighting business has produced, is a prohibitive favorite. Con Coughlin is the new man's name, and he is 6 feet, 1 inches high, fighting at 220 pounds.

UNUSUAL FISHING.

CAMPBELL TELLS OF IT.

"I have fished at Brighton Beach ever since the wharf was built, but I never saw so many surf fish around it as were there Sunday," said President Robert Campbell of the Investerates yesterday.

"If we had put on small hooks sooner, we would have got forty apiece. As it was, we caught about twenty each on No. 2 Pennells mostly; late in the day we changed. I lost more than I caught, and so did the rest."

One fisherman got 32 surf of small size Saturday. The run averages under a pound. Brighton and Terminal are equally good, and both will be well patronized this week.

Strange to say, surf fishing on the west coast was nothing at all extraordinary; in fact, it was poorer than usual.

AUTOMOBILE BOAT RACE.

NOVELTY AT PARIS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Aug. 31.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Great public interest has been aroused in an automobile boat race, which started today from Paris to the sea, a distance of 220½ miles. Fifty-seven boats started, representing the principal makers of automobiles. There will be six stages, Paris to Nantes, Elbeuf, Rouen, Caudebec, Havre and Deauville. The journey will take six days, owing to the numerous locks on the Seine, the finish taking place next Friday.

The contest takes place under the patronage of the Minister of Marine and three other members of the Cabinet. A great crowd, including many notables, witnessed the start of the race this morning, the boats starting at intervals from 10 until 11 o'clock.

The boats carry motors, of from thirty to sixty horse-power and are capable of making twenty-two knots an hour. The Mercedes arrived first at Nantes, at 6:45 o'clock this evening, and the Flora arrived second. All the towns along the Seine are making preparations to enthusiastically greet the competing motor boats.

CHESS BY WIRELESS.

THREE-DAY GAME AFLOAT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The American line steamer Zealand, Capt. Hill, which arrived from Antwerp, was in daily communication by wireless telegraphy from the time she left the English Channel until reaching Sandy Hook.

Wednesday noon, a chess team from the saloon passengers of the Atlantic transport liner Minnehaha, from London for New York, played a game of chess with those on the Zealand. The match lasted until Saturday night, when the Minnehaha's team requested a draw, which was agreed to by the team of the Zealand.

PACIFIC COAST TENNIS.

PLAY AT SAN RAFAEL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN RAFAEL, Aug. 31.—The tennis tournament for the championship of the Pacific Coast commenced today. Collier and Murdock beat Herbert Smidt and Harry Boite, 8-4, 7-5, 6-4. Grant Smith and McGavin won from Gayness and Lyleton, 6-1, 6-1, 6-3. C. Smith and McGavin beat Robert Whitney and J. Brady, 6-2, 6-3, 6-4. Variel and A. Way won from Hindemann and Paul Jones, 6-1, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4.

REILLY COMING HOME.

HE GOT NO SALARIES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charlie Reilly left for the south tonight without having fixed on the person or persons liable for the debts of the defunct Los Angeles National club. It is his intention to bring suit against the stockholders in the corporation, and have the courts decide as to the ones who owe back salaries to the players.

Race of Motor Boats.

PARIS, Aug. 31.—Twenty-one motor boats out of the fifty-seven boats which started yesterday in the race on the Seine from Paris to the sea, completed the second stage of the race and arrived at Elbeuf this afternoon. The Mercedes and Flora, which finished first and second, respectively, in the first stage of the race, were again first to arrive at Elbeuf, the former finishing at 4:33 p.m., and the Flora at 5:02 p.m. The next stage of the race, which will be continued tomorrow, is from Elbeuf to Rouen.

BASEBALL CONFUSION.

Buffalo Agreement Rejected By the National Association of Clubs.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The new national agreement drawn up at Buffalo last week has been rejected by the National Association of Baseball Clubs. The action was unanimous, and was arrived at today, after a conference in the Victoria Hotel.

The new national agreement deals with the classification and salaries of players. Under its provisions, the bigger leagues might buy any minor leagues for a fixed sum. Rejection of the agreement by the National Association of Baseball Clubs means that the minor leagues will go it alone, or it is possible that an agreement will be framed up with the National League, and that the American League will not be consulted. That was the inference gained after the meeting, when President Harry Pulliam and Pat Powers, president of the National Association, had left the conference, the proceedings of which both refused to divulge.

Action of the minor leagues was an evident slap at the American League, because Ban Johnson was blamed for all the trouble to which the little fellows were put when the American leagues were raiding them.

Train's Close Call.

Southern Pacific Overland No. 8, east-bound, which left Los Angeles Sunday morning, had a very narrow escape just before reaching Indio. One of the cars swung about sufficiently to show that something was wrong, and the train was stopped. The trucks from the front of the day coach had jumped the track, going entirely from under the car, while the front of the car was resting on the bumper of the car ahead, thus preventing it plunging down to the ground and causing a serious wreck. The injured car was left on a sidetrack.

They secured food at the houses which they passed, and were having a fine time when the attention of the officer was called to them. They readily admitted where they had secured the horse and buggy. If they are prosecuted at all it will be in the Juvenile Court.

"Yes," answered Mr. Cumrox.

"Did you have a good time?

"Fine. Stayed home, smoked a pipe in the parlor, ate onions whenever I wanted them and played ragtime tunes on the music box. But I wouldn't have mother and the girls hear a word of all this for the world."—Washington Star.

FAMED ARTIST PUZZLES 'EM.

Montgomery is Here With His Pigs and His Corn.

Old Fellow Thought He Stuck the Kernels on With Glue.

Amusing Scene at Local Hotel. Painter and Wife on a Long Tour.

Perhaps the most "cussed and discussed" painter in American art is staying at the Westminster—A. Montgomery, "the farmer painter," so called in derision because he loves pigsties and bins of yellow corn and has spent his time in painting them.

Sneered at because he dared to put a sixteenth of an inch of pigment on the canvas for each kernel; flouted because he refused to follow the close lines of modern art, today A. Montgomery stands at the head of an American school of art and dares to take his sties and barrels of corn to the Old World and exhibit them at Paris.

This stocky little Irishman is a man of strong convictions. With most dramatic gestures and almost impossible contortions of face he tells of his love of art and his intentions. His manner has acquired for him the term of "the evangelist of American art." He thinks art, talks art, preaches art. "The masterpieces of art have been coming this way long enough," he says. "It is time that we were shipping some back. I want to be modest, but after the St. Louis Fair I am going abroad, bag and baggage, corn and pigs, and place myself in front of the guns of foreign criticism."

Wherever he goes, Montgomery places some of his work on exhibition in the lobby of the hotel. "I learn from hearing people talk and then it gives me a chance to preach," he said. Hanging from the wainscoting about the office of the Westminster were several specimens of his work, untramed and unmarked. One of the best, just to the left of the clerk's counter, depicted a barrel of corn tipped over on the floor, and the picture had been so hung that its floor blended in with the office floor upon which were thrown a half-dozen real ears of corn. The blending of the real and the painted was wonderful.

An old man, with long gray beard, came in from the parlor yesterday afternoon and, adjusting his glasses, looked long and carefully at this picture, gradually drawing a little closer. Stepping up to the clerk he said:

"Pardon me, but I have been wondering what sort of an exhibition this is."

"Oh," said the clerk, "that is the work of A. Montgomery, the farmer painter. He makes pictures different from other people and sticks on the kernels of his corn."

"The farmer painter? Sticks on the kernels of the corn?" said the old gentleman in wonder as he adjusted his glasses once more and almost got down on his knees in his endeavor to scrutinize the work more closely. "And, pardon me, but what kind of stuff does he use to stick on the kernels?" asked the tourist as he arose again. Montgomery, who is as quick as a cat, was at the side of the old man in a jump and said with serious face: "Le Page's glue, sir, and that is the reason I do not like to have spectators go too close: I am afraid they will pick the kernels off."

Later an endeavor was made to convince the gentleman that it was paint and that the artist had only intended to joke him a little. "No you don't. I know that they are real kernels now," and he chuckled to himself as he walked away.

Montgomery was born on a farm, bound on a farm because his parents were too poor to pay for his keep, and now he says: "I still have sense enough to live and die on a farm. It is farm life he paints; pumpkins, old barrels and milk pails, corn bins and pigsties. The work is true to life and would make many an old farmer homesick, but the principal feature of his art is the method, which is that of the "old and the new school," as he terms it. The pigment is mixed very thick and put on thick and he works only in oils. Perhaps some may question his taste in the choice of his subjects; but he paints those things which he knows and among which he was brought up, and leaves the rest for the other fellow. He has been a painter for thirty-four years and is accompanied by his wife on a 7000-mile tour of the cities of the West and Middle West.

Montgomery's first appearance on the lecture platform was some years ago in Chicago, in the church of Dr. Robert McIntyre, now pastor of the First Methodist Church in this city. Montgomery was pitted against the noted Gunsaulus, who argued that there was no art in America, while Montgomery thinks it is as much a native product as the pumpkins and the corn.

He has with him one canvas, about 4x8 feet, of his favorite subject which was on exhibition at the Paris Exposition and is valued at $20,000.

STREET CAR CRASHES INTO FIRE ENGINE.

MACHINE UPSET ON FIRST STREET GOING TO FIRE.

Engine is Badly Damaged and Will be Out of Commission Some Time. Blame Placed on the Car as Department Has Right of Way.

Car No. 49 of the depot line of the Los Angeles Railway Company crashed into No. 5 fire engine at First and Vine streets yesterday afternoon, overturning the machine, throwing it bodily to the other track and delaying traffic for half an hour. The engine was so badly damaged that it had to be taken to the shop for repairs and another placed in its quarters. The driver of the engine narrowly escaped serious injury.

At 5:46 o'clock there was an alarm from box 24 at Buena Vista and Alpine streets and the No. 5 engine company had to move up to the quarters of the No. 4 company on Aliso street to protect that district. The hose wagon was ahead of the engine and crossed First street as a car was approaching from the west, bound for the Santa Fé depot. The motorman saw the hose wagon, but failed to look in the direction of the approaching steamer and did not see it until it was upon the track a car length ahead of the car. The engine bell was ringing all the time, the firemen assert, and had the motorman watched his track instead of looking at the hose wagon the accident would not have happened. Even if he had seen the engine it was his duty to stop, because under the city ordinances fire companies have right of way over all other vehicles even including street cars.

The force of the collision was terrific. The big engine was knocked over on its side and turned over so as to blockade the other track. Engine Driver Balser, who was strapped to his seat, had a narrow escape from serious injury. He was thrown over with the engine and hung by the strap until one of the other firemen released him. He was able later to drive the wrecked engine to the shops. The engine was righted with the assistance of a score of men by placing heavy timbers under it and lifting them. The No. 12 engine was sent to the quarters on Fourth street and Towne avenue and will be kept there until the No. 5 machine is repaired.

MONTGOMERY AND HIS WORK.

BOOK CONCERN DIFFICULTIES.

Excitement Among Methodists Over Revelations.

How Shrinkage of Half Million Dollars Has Come About.

Concern on Solid Standing in Spite of Reduction in Its Assets.

There has been considerable excitement among Methodists since the publication in The Times on Saturday morning of the reduction of the capital of the New York Methodist Book Concern by more than half a million dollars.

It was at first understood to be a decrease in business that caused the decrease in the capital, but it is now learned that the main item is obtained by a revaluation of books on the shelves, showing a great shrinkage. The other items are obtained from an annual parallel reduction of 10 per cent. on all open accounts on the books of the establishment, in order to be certain that the capital is on an absolute cash basis. The capital is so large and the Book Concern so sound financially, that it is not worth while attempting to unravel the process by which the figures are arrived at.

"There can be no doubt," said one of the Methodist authorities spoken to yesterday, "that there are other items hidden in these enormous aggregate figures, of which only the members of the Book Concern and Eaton & Mains have knowledge."

It is learned that the New York Book Concern last year paid all its running expenses, paid $100,000 on its new building, set aside $75,000 into its fire reserve fund, and declared a dividend of $35,000 for the superannuate fund.

The Western Methodist Book Concern, with a capital of $1,691,889.30, under Jennings & Pye as agents, has also had great prosperity, and in the past three years has paid $150,000 into the superannuate fund.

The statement ascribing to O. P. Miller of the General Book Committee the effort to have the shrinkage deducted from the capital of 1900 may not be strictly correct, though it can positively be stated that the effort was made in the committee and deferred at the urgent request of Dr. Eaton, who feared that he might be deposed as agent, because the shrinkage would be hard to explain to the satisfaction of everybody.

BOVARD DECLINES TO TALK.

For the third time, an effort was made to interview Rev. George F. Bovard, who is the only member of the General Book Committee on the Pacific Coast.

Dr. Bovard says that he absolutely declines to be drawn into the controversy, saying:

"There have been no charges of dishonesty made against anyone, and the Methodist Book Concern is big enough and strong enough to take care of itself. I can say that the entire Book Committee is highly pleased with the present status of our publishing interests."

EATON'S DENIAL.

Since the first statement of the trouble in the San Francisco book house in which it is alleged that Dr. J. D. Hammond, the former manager of the house, had been favored by Eaton & Mains after the business had been taken from them and handed over to a local committee, by the sale to him of accounts aggregating $1,000 for $2000, Dr. Homer Eaton has come out in the following denial:

"The statement that I sold to Dr. Hammond $11,000 worth of accounts for $2000 is entirely wrong," said Dr. Eaton. "The $11,000 had been reduced to $3400 by collections, and we then discounted the rest of the accounts to Dr. Hammond for $2000."

Said a well-informed Methodist, when he read that statement: "That is not true. The accounts had been estimated to be worth but $2400, and under those circumstances they were actually sold to Dr. Hammond for $2000. The accounts should, of course, have gone to the local committee for collection; but instead of that, Dr. Eaton ignored the desire of the Chicago conference and put them in the hands of the deposed agent, afterwards selling them to him for a pittance."

Much interest is shown in Los Angeles as to whether or not Dr. Hammond will succeed in being elected as one of the delegates to the General Conference which meets here next May. It is urged that the affairs of the San Francisco and New York houses should be looked into by the conference and the presence in that body of Dr. Hammond may tend to block such proceedings.

DR. EATON'S STATEMENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Rev. Dr. Homer Eaton, senior partner of Eaton & Mains, eastern agents of the Methodist Book Concern, made the following statement today:

"The dispatch from Los Angeles, Cal., alleging a shortage of $634,000 in the New York Book Concern, is utterly and maliciously false. The statement that Eaton & Mains have made to the General Book Committee a report that does not reach the public is also utterly and maliciously false. There is not a shortage of one cent in the New York Book Concern."

pense account of October 31, 1899, $54,-148.57; over 10 per cent. deducted off accounts of October 31, 1900, $28,100.22; $28,048.45; deduction from capital, $605,-249.90."

To the layman all this is as "clear as mud," but it is explained by persons who know that the main item is obtained by a revaluation of books on the shelves, showing a great shrinkage. The other items are obtained from an annual parallel reduction of 10 per cent. on all open accounts on the books of the establishment, in order to be certain that the capital is on an absolute cash basis. The capital is so large and the Book Concern so sound financially, that it is not worth while attempting to unravel the process by which the figures are arrived at.

"There can be no doubt," said one of the Methodist authorities spoken to yesterday, "that there are other items hidden in these enormous aggregate figures, of which only the members of the Book Concern and Eaton & Mains have knowledge."

It is learned that the New York Book Concern last year paid all its running expenses, paid $100,000 on its new building, set aside $75,000 into its fire reserve fund, and declared a dividend of $35,000 for the superannuate fund.

The Western Methodist Book Concern, with a capital of $1,691,889.30, under Jennings & Pye as agents, has also had great prosperity, and in the past three years has paid $150,000 into the superannuate fund.

The statement ascribing to O. P. Miller of the General Book Committee the effort to have the shrinkage deducted from the capital of 1900 may not be strictly correct, though it can positively be stated that the effort was made in the committee and deferred at the urgent request of Dr. Eaton, who feared that he might be deposed as agent, because the shrinkage would be hard to explain to the satisfaction of everybody.

BOVARD DECLINES TO TALK.

For the third time, an effort was made to interview Rev. George F. Bovard, who is the only member of the General Book Committee on the Pacific Coast.

Dr. Bovard says that he absolutely declines to be drawn into the controversy, saying:

"There have been no charges of dishonesty made against anyone, and the Methodist Book Concern is big enough and strong enough to take care of itself. I can say that the entire Book Committee is highly pleased with the present status of our publishing interests."

EATON'S DENIAL.

Since the first statement of the trouble in the San Francisco book house in which it is alleged that Dr. J. D. Hammond, the former manager of the house, had been favored by Eaton & Mains after the business had been taken from them and handed over to a local committee, by the sale to him of accounts aggregating $1,000 for $2000, Dr. Homer Eaton has come out in the following denial:

"The statement that I sold to Dr. Hammond $11,000 worth of accounts for $2000 is entirely wrong," said Dr. Eaton. "The $11,000 had been reduced to $3400 by collections, and we then discounted the rest of the accounts to Dr. Hammond for $2000."

Said a well-informed Methodist, when he read that statement: "That is not true. The accounts had been estimated to be worth but $2400, and under those circumstances they were actually sold to Dr. Hammond for $2000. The accounts should, of course, have gone to the local committee for collection; but instead of that, Dr. Eaton ignored the desire of the Chicago conference and put them in the hands of the deposed agent, afterwards selling them to him for a pittance."

Much interest is shown in Los Angeles as to whether or not Dr. Hammond will succeed in being elected as one of the delegates to the General Conference which meets here next May. It is urged that the affairs of the San Francisco and New York houses should be looked into by the conference and the presence in that body of Dr. Hammond may tend to block such proceedings.

DR. EATON'S STATEMENT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Rev. Dr. Homer Eaton, senior partner of Eaton & Mains, eastern agents of the Methodist Book Concern, made the following statement today:

"The dispatch from Los Angeles, Cal., alleging a shortage of $634,000 in the New York Book Concern, is utterly and maliciously false. The statement that Eaton & Mains have made to the General Book Committee a report that does not reach the public is also utterly and maliciously false. There is not a shortage of one cent in the New York Book Concern."

MASK OUT OF SWEATER.

Queer Contrivance Worn by Suspect Corralled at the Police Station.

Patrolman Walsh made what is considered an important capture before daylight yesterday morning, when he took into custody a young man who gave the name of John Baros. As yet the police have been unable to ascertain much about the prisoner; but what makes them suspect him is the manner in which he was attired. He was roughly dressed, and beneath his vest was found a section of sweater so arranged that he would draw it up over his face, fasten it behind with hooks and eyes and thus have a complete mask covering every portion of his face except his eyes. Baros could give no satisfactory explanation of his possession of the contrivance, nor would he tell where he came from or what he has been doing in Los Angeles. He has been shown to all the members of the police force and will be held until his record can be investigated. He is not suspected of having taken part in any of the recent hold-ups for the reason that he is not as large as either of the highwaymen as described. The police believe that no man, unless he intended to commit a crime, would wear a useless piece of clothing which might so easily be converted into a mask.

COULDN'T LIVE ON LOVE TALE.

Groom in Jail and Girl-Bride in Distress.

Queer Honeymoon Followed by Flight and Arrest.

Young F. Howard Reed Caught in Texas and Charged With Living on Deceptions.

Jail for the groom and destitution for the girl-bride is the wretched ending of the honeymoon of Mr. and Mrs. F. Howard Reed, New Yorkers.

Reed was arrested at Beaumont, Tex., yesterday, on complaint of E. M. Durant of this city. Application was made to the District Attorney's office for a requisition for his return here, and the matter is now under advisement. It is a question whether his alleged offenses will justify bringing him back for trial.

It is said that young Reed not only deceived a 17-year-old girl into eloping with him, but that he has spent his honeymoon here in perpetrating petty swindles.

The particular charge on which it is proposed to make him suffer is filching the trustful Mr. Durant out of about $200, just by plain lying.

According to the mourners, of whom there is a host, Reed was a very facile cuss. He told everybody he met a different kind of a touching story about himself and wife, but the moral of all of them was that he should be loaned some money. From the multitude of stories about the young fellow it is difficult to confirm any positive fact, except that he came, borrowed, and levanted.

Reed and the girl blew into Los Angeles fresh from Gotham about a month ago, and took apartments at a first-rate Broadway house. There were several things about the young couple to attract attention. Reed looked like a young man with consumption beyond the first stage, being tall and very thin, but he was immaculately dressed and seemed well supplied with ready money. The wife was a pretty little slip of a maid, who scarcely looked the 17 years she claimed.

It is said that Reed's sole capital was the love that all the world is reported to have for a lover. It was a tear-inducing tale that the pale youth told. It was introduced with the reluctant admission that he was a scion of one of the chosen families of the nation's metropolis, and that his mother had money stacked away in bales. His had succumbed to the draggings at his soul-strings, put station behind him, and married a poor girl just for true love. His mother was proud and stern, and had punished him by cutting off his allowance. He is said to have presented recommendations that appeared as good as government bonds. On the strength of these he claimed to have secured a lucrative position as superintendent of a large ranch in Bear Valley.

Among others, E. M. Durant accommodated the lover in distress to the extent of loaning him about $200, taking as security a watch and ring. After the transaction was a few days old Reed returned and said he had found a mining man who would purchase the watch alone for the sum advanced. Durrant trustfully allowed him to take the article to sell. Reed immediately skipped out of town, and before leaving tried to pawn the watch to another victim.

The truth about Reed is that he is the wild son of a humble widow of New York. His mother and sister are women of perfect respectability, but no wealth. His sister has worked as cashier of a business place for years to support herself and mother. The son is said to have induced the young girl to come West with him by misrepresentations. It is believed that his wind-up in jail will leave the disillusioned girl penniless and friendless in a strange city.

Since his hasty departure numerous persons have reported having loaned the fellow money, the amounts in most cases being but $5 or $10. From the number of these it looks as if Reed and his wife subsisted entirely on money he borrowed by his fanciful tales of rich relatives and a hungry bride. The family of Reed was known by Paul de Longpré, the eminent painter, during his ten years' residence in New York. Reed and his wife journeyed out to Hollywood and called at the De Longpré mansion, but the youth carefully omitted his tales of wealth, and made no attempt to borrow. It is said that afterward he made unwarranted use of M. De Longpré's name on several occasions.

It is expected that the necessary extradition papers will be issued by the District Attorney's office today, and the brash bridegroom returned to the scene of his misused honeymoon.

Ready for Summer Boarders.

"While I was up North last spring," said a Detroit land speculator, "I ran across a pioneer's cabin situated in the woods and three miles from any other house. He got his water from a frog pond, his baking powder and molasses from a store six miles away, and the two rooms in his cabin had to accommodate a family of eight. I told him I was from Detroit, and after talking with him for half an hour, I was ready to move on, when he said:

"'Look here, mister, a good many Detroit people come up north in the summer, don't they?'

"'Yes, a good many.'

"'They spend lots of money, and have a good time?'

"'Yes.'

"'I've heard that they wasn't very particular about what they had to put up with, so long's they got away from home.'

"'That may be true.'

"'Then, lemme tell you sumthin',' he went on, as he dropped his voice to a confidential tone; 'my wife and me have bin talkin' the thing over and we have decided that we can take three boarders next summer by sleepin' the children under the house, and if you can send 'em to us at $7 a week apiece we'll make you a present of at least $2 in cash.'

"He was so earnest about it," said the speculator, "that I couldn't bear to dash his hopes, and I suppose he has been looking for those three boarders for a month past. I had got forty rods away after leaving him when he called out at the top of his voice:

"'Tell them they shall have the best the State of Michigan affords, even if I don't make a durned cent out of it.'"—Detroit Free Press.

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Council yesterday made a concession to the garbage contractors in allowing fewer collections of garbage in the downtown business district.

Row over mistake in improvement work on West Adams street may result in a suit against the city.

If the Council has the authority it will pass an ordinance making the cost of cleaning weeds off vacant lots a lien on the property.

Bingham, the creamery man who sold doped milk at Terminal Island, was fined $150 yesterday.

The Journal was awarded the contract for county printing yesterday.

AT THE CITY HALL.

GARBAGE CONTRACTORS GIVEN A CONCESSION.

TRIPS IN BUSINESS CENTER TO BE TRI-WEEKLY.

Davenport Wants the Contract Annulled — Council Objects to Being Roasted to Its Face—Street Work Rows—Weeds Are in Danger.

If any citizens expected that the Council would throw off its figurative coat yesterday, roll up its sleeves, as it were, and dispose of the garbage business, they deceived themselves, for nothing like that happened. This proposition stands now just as it has stood for months, and nothing will be done apparently for months more unless the conditions become worse than they are now.

Garbage was not even one of the features of a dull routine session of the Council; nothing startling developed during the day on any subject. It was a sort of a blue Monday and aside from a revolutionary little speech by Councilman Davenport on the theory that the city should declare the bond of the garbage contractors forfeited, the meeting was sleepy.

What little talk there was on the garbage grew out of a petition from the contractors, Franklin & Alexander, in which they asked permission to subdivide district No. 1 in such a manner that part of its garbage should be collected on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, and the other part on Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday. This petition had the sanction of Health Officer Powers, and he also recommended a similar petition filed at the same time, that district No. 2 have but two collections per week instead of three, as at present.

None of the Councilmen appeared very anxious to discuss the subject, preferring to grant the requests so long as the Health Officer was satisfied. This did not suit Councilman Davenport a little bit, and he proposed that the Council should deny the petition and proceed at once to declare the contractors' bond forfeited. He declared that Franklin & Alexander went into their contract with their eyes open and should have known what they had to contend with. They had no right to ask for any modification of their contract; if the Council or the Health Board could not enforce their garbage collections a week, they could not compel even two, and he stated that the contract should be declared forfeited and the bond collected.

None of the other Councilmen agreed with him, however, and all except Davenport voted to refer the matter to the Committee of the Whole. At the afternoon session when this committee reported back to the Council that the petition should be granted, Davenport was again the only member who opposed such action. Accordingly the contractors get another concession from the Council and conditions will be no better than before.

CITY ROCK PILE.

AS CURE FOR CRIMINALS.

The Council has finally taken practical action toward providing a suitable place for the toughs, petty criminals and hard citizens who do nothing but lay around low joints and plan some crime. By unanimous vote yesterday the sum of $250 was appropriated for the establishment of a rock pile yard and the purchase of the necessary rock on which to set the toughs to work. This hard proposition will be located down where Fifth street crosses the river, or near some point which can be reached by a spur track from the railroad. It is the intention to enclose a plat of ground with a high board fence and keep the enclosure well supplied with hard formations from both the granite quarries and the Police Station rakings. It will be the workshop for vags, suspects and hold-up men, and it is expected that enough money will be realized from the sale of the pounded rock to contractors, to pay the expense of keeping up the "rock pile" as one of the criminal institutions of the city.

Eddy's Fare Fixed.

The franchise of Col. J. W. Eddy for an electric railroad in Griffith Park was recalled yesterday in the Council and amended to read so that no fare of over 5 cents should be collected, within the city limits.

TICKLISH COUNCILMEN.

WON'T STAND A ROAST.

The habit of going into the Council chamber, getting the floor and roasting the members of the Council, will not be tolerated by that august body hereafter. One man tried it yesterday and was called down so hard by President Bowen that he will probably never forget the occurrence as long as he lives.

He is William Van Loenan, who lives on Lawrence street near Pico street, and he was the head and front of a large delegation of men and women that descended on the Council to protest against the acceptance of the street work done on Lawrence street between Ninth and Fourteenth streets. The contractor was not present, and the matter was called up out of the regular order because Councilman Davenport had told the citizens to appear yesterday. Mr. Van Loenan, as spokesman of the party, stepped inside the railing and began reading a set of resolutions himself and his people had passed at an indignation meeting they held last week. He opened up with a lot of whereases and resolves and when he reached the point where "we strongly censure the Council and the Street Superintendent," President Bowen's gavel came down with a bang and Mr. Van turned red and white with fright.

"We'll have no more of this business," said President Bowen sternly, "of people coming into this room and censuring the Council and the Street Superintendent. I'm tired of it. What's your pleasure, gentlemen?" he asked, addressing the Council. The gentlemanly Council was very glad of the chance to sit down on Van Loenan and his co-taxpayers, and the matter was quickly passed up to some more convenient time.

IRATE SCOTCHMAN.

OBJECTS TO STREET WORK.

During the dry session yesterday the Councilmen had a lot of fun with W. Henderson, a Scotchman, living on West Adams street, and as a result he proposes to make the Council hear some more of him in a different way if he carries out his threats. He came to protest against a $45 bill for assessment work for the improvement of the intersection of Adams street and Magnolia avenue. It seems that the City Engineer or the property owners themselves had made a mistake in the plans for the work, and as a result Magnolia avenue was improved only to the curb line of Adams street, and consequently a piece about ten feet square was left unimproved on the corner.

Henderson paid his part of the proposed improvement, but has been roaring for months because the work was not done as it should have been, owing to someone's mistake in leaving out that ten feet in the petition or advertisement. The job was a relic of the old Council, and this one has had to bear the brunt of Henderson's assaults. After the mistake or omission was discovered some months ago, Mr. Henderson charged on the City Hall looking for trouble, but he was told that to re-advertise for the work would cost him about five times the cost of having the work done by private contract. As he had paid for his share of the work, he wants someone to either do the work without additional cost to him or give him a rebate. He made considerable fuss at the afternoon session, but the Council turned him down by denying his petition. He left finally with covert threats that the city should hear of him if something was not done.

Weeds in Danger.

The question of weeds on vacant lots will probably be attended to very soon by the Council; if the City Attorney gives a favorable opinion on a point submitted to him a weed ordinance will be passed. The Vernon Improvement Association has applied to the Council to have the cost of removing weeds from vacant lots made a lien on the property, if the owners refuse to clean the lots. Such action would doubtless have been taken yesterday, if the Council had been sure that it could be done legally. Accordingly the City Attorney has been asked to decide the matter.

Must be Approved.

The Council yesterday put a stop to the wild-cat opening of new streets or tracts of land by making an order that hereafter all parties improving streets previous to their dedication must get a permit from the Street Superintendent to the effect that he has approved the grades, and after that the applicant must have the Council approve the general plan.

School House Bids.

Bids for the building of the Twenty-eighth-street school were opened in the Council yesterday, and referred to the Building Committee. The bids were as follows: J. H. Mathis, $17,300; Ed Arnoldstein, $18,900; L. M. Grant, $19,447; W. J. Kingswell, $20,100; Dean & Farlee, $21,995.

AT THE COURT HOUSE

NEWSPAPERS WAR AGAIN FOR PUBLIC PRINTING.

JOURNAL WINS THE PRIZE AWAY FROM THE EXPRESS.

The Supervisors Were Cautious Enough to Vote on it by Ballot—Supervisors Take Action in Regard to Unhealthy Water Troughs.

About the fiftieth round of the fight between the Express and the Journal for the public printing took place yesterday before the Board of Supervisors. The round was decided in favor of the Journal, which got the contract for the county printing for the next year.

The bids were as follows: Santa Monica Outlook, 15 cents for first insertion and 10 cents for subsequent insertions; Journal, 27 cents an inch; Express, 40 cents an inch; Times-Mirror Company, 62.3 cents an inch.

On the basis of circulation, the bid of the Times-Mirror Company was much lower than the others.

The Express countered on the Journal by offering to set the advertisements in either agate or nonpareil. The Journal begged for time and frantic telephone messages were sent flying around the town until Warren Wilson, proprietor of the Journal, could be located. Then he capped the offer.

DEATH TRAPS.

ARE WATER TROUGHS.

The deadly peril of the dirty, frothy watering troughs for stock on the country roads and even in the city was pointed out to the Supervisors yesterday by County Stock Inspector Rowland.

Dr. Rowland claims that a great percentage of the dreadful scourges that carry off the stock are spread by means of these watering troughs.

At first the board considered the advisability of altogether abolishing the watering troughs. It was finally decided, however, to authorize the stock inspector to begin criminal prosecutions against all persons maintaining dirty troughs on the public roads.

HAD TO PAY

FOR THE BONDS.

The Adams Phillips Company, bond buyers, had to pay $1329 yesterday for something that might as well have been had for $50.

Some time ago the company bid $1329 premium on an issue of $6,000 Monrovia school bonds. Before the bidding they tried to find out how many bidders there were, but could not do so. When the bids were opened, they were the sole and only bidders.

They protested loud and long against having to pay the heavy premium under the circumstances, but the Supervisors held their certified check for the amount. Yesterday they came in and gracefully accepted the bonds.

Sued for Damages.

Andrew Dumller, who was put in jail on the supicion that he was going to Mexico without paying his creditors, brought suit for $2000 damages yesterday against A. E. Vespers, who caused his arrest.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

SOLD DOPED MILK; PAID STIFF FINE.

MAN WHO LAID OUT TERMINAL ISLAND DULY PUNISHED.

Claims that the Impure Milk Was Doctored by Those Who Sold it to Him—Inspector Says that the Milk Was Pure When Sold to Retailer.

Attorney T. E. Gibbon has lifted the scalp of the man who sold his father-in-law "doped" cream and made the whole of Terminal Island sore on its insides. As a result, many dealers have resolved to make a chemical test of milk before placing it on sale.

Yesterday H. A. Bingham, the offending dealer, was fined $150 in Justice Chambers's court for selling the adulterated cream in question.

Bingham runs a big creamery at Seventh and San Pedro streets, where tons of milk are handled every day. He claims that the milk was not adulterated at his creamery but by some of the milk men from whom he was obliged to buy extra supplies during the hot spell.

He pleaded not guilty to the charge of adulterating the milk, but offered to plead guilty to selling adulterated milk. The first charge was accordingly withdrawn yesterday and the charge of selling "doctored" cream was substituted.

Bingham was represented by Attorney Cates, who said in his behalf that he was sure the milk must have been doctored before it got to the creamery. He promised that his client would hereafter make chemical tests of milk before selling it to customers.

Bingham was not allowed to pose as a martyr, however.

Inspector Pierce went on the witness stand and swore that he had tested great quantities of the milk that came to Bingham's creamery, and found it pure.

Attorney Oscar Lawler, who appeared for the prosecution, called the court's attention to the singular coincidence that the "doctored" milk which Bingham said some villain sold him happened to get into the Terminal Island milk cans on three successive days. He also mentioned it as very curious that the day following Bingham's arrest, all the milk became suddenly pure.

Health Officer Powers testified that the milk was so "doped" that the poison could be smelled when the can was opened. He said that the amount of "dope" was so excessive that it would injure a dog.

KATIE'S DEFENSE.

BOTTLES NOT ROCKS.

Miss Kate Gold was accused in the Police Court yesterday of throwing rocks at her neighbor's children down in Sonora town.

She indignantly denied it.

"What did you throw?" asked the court, cynically.

"Bottles," said Katie, demurely.

She said she was innocent, only she couldn't prove it. She said another woman threw the things. "Where is she?" asked the court.

"Ach," said Katie; "she go to bet and she says she don't vill come if day have to drag her here."

Katie was fined $20.

Mostly Jags.

Frank Wall, a young boy who was found drunk on the streets Sunday, was fined $5 in the Police Court yesterday.

J. Waters, who got him a demijohn full of dago red to last over Sunday and carried it around on the streets with him, was fined $5, too.

Joe Williams looked deeply injured and insulted yesterday when he was brought up in the Police Court for drunk. He said he was a hard-working man.

"Where do you work?" asked the court.

"Why—um—Pasadena; oh, no, not Pasadena; why—er, I guess it must be Santa Monica." He was fined $5.

Heavy Police Business.

Justice Austin broke all police records in Los Angeles for the month of August. The figures yesterday compiled by Clery Stockwell shows 790 cases tried and $3425 collected as fines.

NATIVE SONS INITIATE.

Record-breaking Gathering of All the Local Parlors at Foresters' Hall Last Evening.

The three local parlors of the Native Sons of the Golden West celebrated in grand style last evening, nearly a hundred candidates, all from the city, being initiated at Foresters' Hall, First and Spring streets. The three parlors participating were Ramona, No. 109; Los Angeles, No. 45, and Corona, No. 196. Ramona Parlor alone at its last regular session received forty-two applications for initiation with the bunch last night.

The celebration was a joint affair, and was in charge of President Harry J. Lelande, Junior Past President Fred A. Stephenson, First Vice-President G. M. Giffen, Second Vice-President William Durrn, Third Vice-President Calvert Wilson and Marshal S. S. Williams.

There were visitors from all the lodges around, and some as well from San Francisco. There was a big crowd, and the group of candidates was the largest ever gathered together in the history of this order in Southern California. At 8 o'clock the ceremonies commenced, and continued without abatement until about 11 o'clock, when there was a stop for refreshments, which were served in the banquet-rooms of Foresters' Hall. Impromptu speeches and merry toasts enlivened the spread.

On the platform, as guests of honor, were Past Presidents R. F. Del Valle, J. C. Foy, H. C. Lichtenberger, E. A. Meserve W. J. Variel, Isidore B. Dockweiler, Julius W. Krause, Robert A. Todd, Henry E. Carter, F. A. Stephenson, George B. Beebe, Leo V. Youngworth, Charles Stansbury, A. C. Bittel and Calvert Wilson.

Arrangements are being made for a grand time at the Admission Day celebration, which will be held at San Bernardino September 9. There will be a barbecue and exercises at Urbita Springs, and all the parlors in Southern California will attend, a special train being run from Los Angeles. Isidore B. Dockweiler will be the orator of the day.

The northern celebration will be held at San José.

SEVENTY-SIX FIXED SINCE JANUARY.

MANY CONVICTIONS SECURED BY LOCAL POLICE DEPARTMENT.

Twelve Highway Robbers Sent Over the Road Since the Beginning of the Year—Last Footpads Can't be Indentified by Passengers.

Because the police have not been successful in capturing the bandits who robbed the Traction car last Friday night, when in the nature of things such a capture is practically impossible, some people are asserting that the department has done nothing since the present year began. These statements, which have emanated from persons actuated by personal spite, not only have been untrue, but are known to be untrue by those making them. The officers of the police department regret more than any other citizen can that they have not been so fortunate as to capture the robbers; but they are burdened with a handicap which no police department could successfully overcome except by accident.

If the men who held up the two cars robbed in or near this city within the past three weeks were actually in jail, unless they confessed, there would be hardly a possibility of convicting them for the reason that not one of their victims would be able to identify them. The extent to which the department has been handicapped may be appreciated when it is stated that some of the passengers on the last car held up assert that the foremost robber wore a black, soft, flat-crowned hat, while others on the same car assert with equal emphasis that the man's hat was white. All agree that the faces of the three robbers were so completely covered that the only way they knew the men were white was by seeing a small section of white skin around their eyes, the holes in the masks being larger than the eyes. The remainder of their faces were completely covered with black cloth, and the ends of the masks were even tucked under their coats, covering their shirts, if they were any. Even the color of the robbers' hair was concealed, for the masks covered their ears and the backs of their heads.

"Would you know either of the robbers if you saw them here or elsewhere?" is a question which has been put to every victim of that hold-up, and without exception they have replied that it would be impossible for them to identify the robbers. Some of them have stated that if they again met the men on the car under similar circumstances they might know them; but even this statement has been qualified by the admission that they would not be able to swear that they were the same men. If brought into court or into the City Jail to face some of the numerous suspects the persons who are robbed candidly admit that it would be impossible for them to point out the guilty persons and swear to that identification.

With a view, it would seem, to rendering the capture of the desperadoes more difficult, one irresponsible publication has stated that the one hope of the police department was that the thieves would pawn or sell the watches taken from the passengers. This is true, but after such a statement has been published it is hardly within the range of possibilities that the robbers will attempt to dispose of their plunder here and that possible chance being removed, the officers admit that it will be next to impossible for them to apprehend the bandits.

An examination of the police records for the current year will show the falsity of the statement that the department has done practically nothing, and these records are open to inspection.

It is of record that since January 1, 76 felony convictions have been secured by the police department and of these 11 were for highway robbery, the penalties imposed ranging from five years to life imprisonment. Eight felony cases have been reduced to lesser charges in the Superior Court. There are now 18 felony cases pending in that court and two persons have been held to the United States court for felonies. During the same period, there have been 113 convictions for petty larceny.

These Vacations.

"Poor Gillets!"

AFTER MANY YEARS

Of suffering from kidney disease, Miss Minnie Ryan, of St. Louis, Mo., found a complete cure result from the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It is such cures as this which establish the soundness of Dr. Pierce's theory: "Diseases which originate in the stomach must be cured through the stomach." Every other organ depends on the stomach for its vitality and vigor. For by the stomach and its associated organs of digestion and nutrition the food which is eaten is converted into nutriment, which, in the form of blood, is the sustaining power of the body and each organ of it. When the stomach is diseased the food supply of the body is cut down, the organs are starved, and the weakness of starvation shows itself in lungs, heart, liver, kidneys or some other organ.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition, and so cures disease of other organs which have originated through deficient nutrition or impure blood.

"I had been suffering with kidney trouble twenty years," writes Miss Minnie Ryan, of 1537 Louisiana Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., "and I had doctored with a number of the best physicians. Two years ago I commenced taking your 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Favorite Prescription' and took also several vials of Doctor Pierce's Pellets. I took eight bottles (four of each), and I feel now perfectly cured."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness.

DIET QUESTION DISCUSSED.

CAUSES OF FORMATION OF LOW GRADE FATTY TISSUE—MODE OF TREATMENT, DANGER IN CANDY AND PASTRY—TWO MEALS DAILY—WHAT TO EAT—EXERCISE—MASSAGE.

BY W. R. C. LATSON, M.D.
[Editor Health Culture Magazine, New York.]

THERE are perhaps few conditions more misunderstood than obesity. People say "fat and healthy," as if the terms were logically associated. Few seem to appreciate the fact that obesity is a disease—that the fat person is never well, and that in many cases he is in a dangerous condition. The words "fat and rosy" are often applied to a person whom the expert will recognize at a glance as a typhoid subject.

Obesity is not only unsightly and uncomfortable. It is dangerous, even before the extreme condition is reached. People who are fat owe it to themselves to see that they are restored to normal conditions, while those who are inclined to obesity should take means to prevent further accumulation of adipose tissue.

THE CAUSES OF OBESITY.

In general terms obesity may be defined as the result of the formation of an excess of low-grade tissue, which, owing to deficiency of the eliminating organs, is not removed from the body as it should be. The formation of this low-grade tissue may be due to any one or more of a number of conditions, among which may be mentioned: (a) The taking of food in excess of the digestive powers. The digestive fluids are poured out in proportion, not to the amount of food taken, but to the needs of the body, being governed by the general activity of the circulation and the nerve impulses transmitted to the glands that filter the digestive juices out of the blood in which they are bathed. (b) The same condition of incomplete digestion resulting from too frequent eating. (c) The taking of any fluid or solid substance that alters or interferes with the digestive process—candy, tea, coffee, alcohol and pastry all acting in this way. (d) The taking of an undue amount of fluids with food, in which case the digestive juices, weakened by dilution, are unable to convert the food mass into assimilable material. Lastly (e,) general constitutional inactivity, the result of which is insufficiency of secretion of digestive fluids, elimination of waste and tissue change. This may be taken as a very crude and "unscientific" but, it is hoped, clear and correct statement of the general causes of obesity. Now we find that fat people may be divided into several classes; some are strong, some weak; some have soft, mushy tissue, while the tissue of others is firm and solid. Furthermore, the location of the deposit varies considerably, as the adipose tissue is usually deposited in those portions of the body where there is least motion. The woman who carries herself well, but who sits a good deal, will find the fat settling around the hips and thighs. Why not upon the abdomen? Because the mere act of standing erect means active work for the muscles of the abdomen and prevents deposit (or, at any rate, accumulation) of adipose in that region. On the other hand, the man who stands incorrectly as ninety-nine out of one hundred do—allowing the abdominal muscles to remain flaccid, there is very little activity in that region, and so the fat settles there. The same is true of the back. It may be observed that the arms are very rarely the principal seat of excessive adipose deposit, the ordinary movements being sufficient, usually, to prevent undue accumulation.

REMEDIAL TREATMENT.

The measures forming the treatment of obesity may be divided into two classes—general or constitutional, and local. The general treatment should embrace, in the first place, such change in the habits and conditions of the patient as would correct the causes producing the disorder. The amount of food should be reduced to a quantity commensurate with the assimilative capacity of the individual. This will often necessitate also increase in the amount of physical exercise taken. In other words, the man or woman who would reduce to symmetrical proportions an obese body must first establish a physiologic balance between the food taken and the work done. In many mild cases no treatment further than this will be necessary. "Halve the food; double the work," as dry old Dr. Abernethy used to say.

REGULATION OF FLUIDS.

There are other cases, however, where more is necessary. Perhaps there is a habit of taking with meals an excess of fluids, which not only, as remarked above, dilutes and weakens the digestive fluids, but interferes with proper mastication and insalivation, and causes the food to be thrust into the stomach before it is properly prepared to undergo gastric digestion. In no case, we believe, will obesity be fully cured in which the habit of excessive drinking at meal times is not corrected. By this it is not meant to imply that a half-pint or even a pint (one or two tumblers) during a meal will do injury; for, in spite of the vociferations of uninformed enthusiasts, there seems no physiologic reason why the small quantity of fluid mentioned should do harm. When we realize that to digest one meal the stomach alone will pour forth from six to twelve pints of gastric juice it will be seen that one-half pint, or even one pint, does not mean a very heavy dilution. The safest rule on this matter is perhaps the following: Take not more than one pint of fluids with a meal, and never take fluid into the mouth while it contains food. In other words, the food should be swallowed without the taking of fluid to assist in that act.

CANDIES AND PASTRIES.

The eating of pastry and candy is a common cause of obesity. Such substances are injurious in many ways. A pie is symbolic in many ways of the entire trend of modern civilization. Wheat, in its natural state, is a natural and valuable food for man. Even more adapted to his use is fruit. Proper oil and fats are essential to his life. When these ingredients, however, are subjected to the processes necessary to make a pie or pudding they are not only quite impoverished from a dietetic standpoint but are an actual injury to the system, affecting it in many ways. One of these is to produce obesity. The taste for sweets is natural to man, and such taste may be gratified without injury or difficulty by the free use of sweet fruits, whose sugar, levulose, is both chemically and physiologically an entirely different substance from the cane sugar used in the manufacture of candy and cookery.

In the treatment of obesity diet is most important. And just here many mistakes have been made. The old plan of eliminating from the dietary the carbohydrates — that is, the starches and sugars—is absurd and pernicious. The essential point in arranging a dietary is that the system shall obtain a sufficient supply of plain, simple food, which is free from excessive waste-producing matters.

JUDICIOUS DIET.

As a general rule, two meals a day are advisable. The first meal may consist of fruit alone, or of fruit with whole wheat bread, or fruit and cereal with milk or cream. A small quantity of sugar will not do particular harm, but for the reasons mentioned above excess of sweets should be avoided.

The second meal may be made up of three or four simple articles of food, selected in accordance with taste and convenience. Peas or beans, baked potatoes, salad, fruit or cereal with cream or milk and fruit—either of these make a perfect meal for the purpose we have in mind, that is, proper nourishment of the body without overloading it. Meat, if desired, can be taken in place of the beans or peas, but is rather less desirable for several reasons.

Mustard, peppers, vinegar, spices, sauces and condiments should be avoided. Tea, coffee and tobacco should be used sparingly, if at all. Alcohol is a dangerous poison at all times, and is especially to be let alone if one would maintain or regain normal condition of the digestive apparatus. While an excess of fluids with meals is to be avoided, yet the free use of water between meals and on rising and retiring is helpful in obesity, since it increases elimination.

The amount of water taken daily should not be less than two quarts. This will cause a marked increase in the activity of all the secretive organs. But free water drinking, while necessary to proper elimination, is not of itself enough to insure such a result. The four organs of elimination, the skin, lungs, bowels and kidneys, must often receive special attention. As to the skin, the daily bath is the first essential. This should consist of a warm scrub, a rapid cold sponging and vigorous friction with a Turkish towel. The sweat, or Turkish bath, is an important institution in the correction of obesity. Two or three times a week is not too frequent a repetition of this most valuable measure of health and cleanliness.

The bowels also will often require attention, and a proper course of living, such as herein outlined, together with "colon flushings" occasionally, will give all conditions necessary for proper performance of this function.

EXERCISE FOR REDUCTION.

The main point here is to get the exercise. Exactly what kind is of less importance. Very often vigorous exercise alone without any other measures is sufficient to reduce the obese body to symmetry.

Running, swimming, boxing, riding, golf, tennis, boating—all are good. Exactly which one or ones are chosen should depend upon the circumstances and the strength of the individual. In any case, these exercises should be supplemented by a certain amount of time devoted to practice of the stretching, breathing and relaxing exercises described in earlier papers of this series. Always before finishing the period of exercise a few moments should be devoted to some of the relaxing exercises.

Where the adipose deposit is excessive in some special region of the body, as, for instance, large hips and thighs, pendulous abdomen or superabundant bust, local exercises and other measures are valuable. For these cases we mention a few simple exercises. These should be taken in combination with the other measures mentioned herein, according to the nature of the case.

Exercise No. 1—For enlarged thighs and hips:

Stand with feet together. Take in breath at the same time raising the arms and clasping the hands together over the head. Now, holding the breath, bend first forward, then to the right, then to the left, then forward again, and so on until compelled to stop for lack of breath. Then lower the arms, relax the muscles and breathe deeply, slowly and easily for a few moments. Then repeat.

Exercise No. 2—Especially for enlarged abdomen.

Lie upon the floor on the back. Place hands upon abdomen. Take full breath, and, holding same, lift right leg slowly up until it is extended toward the ceiling. Then lower and do the same with the left leg. Finally raise both together, and lower in the same manner. Pause occasionally to relax and take breath. As you lift the legs you will feel the muscles of the abdomen harden under your clasped hands.

Exercise No. 3—This also is valuable for the reduction of the large abdomen:

Stand firmly on the two feet, take breath and extend the hands straight up toward the ceiling, bend forward, and without bending the knees, try to touch the floor with the finger tips. Then sweep the arms up again and bend backward. Then swing down toward floor again, repeating the movement until breath gives out. Then rest and repeat.

In removing these local deposits of adipose massage is often of value. This may be applied by hand or by means of instruments constructed for that purpose, the muscle beater, the massage roller and the massage vibrator. These excellent devices have the advantage of securing at once the benefits of massage plus the exercise of applying the massage.

Joe Jefferson Retires.

Joseph Jefferson, the actor, is very sensitive on the subject of his retirement from the stage. He has been before the footlights since a small child, and he has never shown any desire to leave it. The interviewer who puts the question of farewell to him gets a rather sharp but pleasant reply, but a reporter in the South recently got the best of him. The actor came downstairs at the hotel and was much disturbed to find a long but mysteriously-worded article, in which the word retired was closely connected with his name. He knew the managing editor, and made a half-hearted complaint. The reporter was called in and asked where he got the story.

"The city editor told me to see Mr. Jefferson," said the young man, "and ask him if he was going to retire."

"Well, did you see him?" said the editor.

"No, sir," said the reporter. "I sent up my card to his room and it was sent back with this written on it:

"'Mr. Jefferson has retired.'"

And then the actor who sleeps twenty years in every performance took the reporter out and bought him a $5 hat.—[Chicago Tribune.

Childish Amusement in Boston.

"Are you playing horse?" asked the benevolent gentleman who takes an interest in children.

"Certainly not," answered the little Boston boy. "We are amusing outselves by the assumption that brother Waldo is an ichthyosaurus and that I am a prehistoric man in pursuit of him."—[Washington Star.

Another club woman, Mrs. Haule, of Edgerton, Wis., tells how she was cured of irregularities and uterine trouble, terrible pains and backache, by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—A while ago my health began to fail because of female troubles. The doctor did not help me. I remembered that my mother had used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound on many occasions for irregularities and uterine troubles, and I felt sure that it could not harm me at any rate to give it a trial.

"I was certainly glad to find that within a week I felt much better, the terrible pains in the back and side were beginning to cease, and at the time of menstruation I did not have nearly as serious a time as heretofore, so I continued its use for two months, and at the end of that time I was like a new woman. I really have never felt better in my life, have not had a sick headache since, and weigh 20 pounds more than I ever did, so I unhesitatingly recommend your medicine."—MRS. MAY HAULE, Edgerton, Wis., Pres. Household Economics Club.

When women are troubled with irregularities, suppressed or painful menstruation, weakness, indigestion, leucorrhœa, displacement or ulceration of the womb, inflammation of the ovaries, general debility, and nervous prostration, or are beset with such symptoms as dizziness, faintness, lassitude, excitability, irritability, nervousness, sleeplessness, melancholy, "all-gone" and "want-to-be-left-alone" feelings, blues, and hopelessness, they should remember there is one tried and true remedy. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound at once removes such troubles. Refuse to buy any other medicine, for you need the best.

Frances Cook, Box 670, Kane, Pa., says:

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—I suffered for ten years with leucorrhœa, but am glad to say that through the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her Sanative Wash I am cured, for which I am very thankful."

THE OIL INDUSTRY

STRONG CORPORATION ENTERS SANTA MARIA.

THE "CALIFORNIA COAST" SECURES VALUABLE PROPERTIES.

Is Backed by Pacific Oil and Transportation Company Interests—Forecast of Important Report on Last Year's Petroleum Output—Sunset Operations.

One of the strongest corporations to enter the Santa Maria oil field is the California Coast Oil Company, a Los Angeles concern, which has also the backing of northern capital. The company has acquired control of a thousand acres of land in the heart of the district, the bulk of it lying between the Western Union, the Pinal and Loma properties.

This concern was launched by Capt. William Matson, president of the Pacific Oil & Transportation Company of San Francisco, one of the biggest oil transportation organizations in the State. It will be remembered that several months ago Capt. Matson secured an option on the property of the Western Union Oil Company, and also on that of the Los Flores Land & Oil Company. Both of these properties are controlled by local capitalists, who at that time were willing to part with their interests for something like $1,500,000. Though this deal fell through, Capt. Matson was still determined to secure a large slice of territory in the wonderful Santa Maria district and he has since been on the lookout for an opening.

With him in the new venture are R. H. Herron, Irwin Herron of this city, L. A. Crandall and T. D. Wood of San Francisco and others. The new concern is exclusive, having no stock for sale, but ample capital to carry on important developments. Already lumber has been ordered for the erection of a long string of derricks, and it is stated that drilling will be started as soon as the machinery has been installed. The first well will be put down on the Drumm property, and, after the drill is started there operations will be begun on the Bradley and Tunnell tracts, which are included in the company's holdings.

The Santa Maria field is especially suited for extensive operations by the Pacific Oil & Transportation Company, or the interests that work in harmony with that corporation, for the reason of its close proximity to the coast. The Pacific Transportation Company already has a pipe line thirty-nine miles long, tapping the oil fields and terminating at the Alcatraz Landing. With this it has well equipped to handle the output, when it has been secured. It has large contracts with the Hawaiian Islands and other seaports and is almost daily increasing the traffic along similar lines. This new operator will be an important addition to an already thriving district.

YEAR'S OIL PRODUCTION.

According to F. H. Oliphant, of the United States Geological Survey, the production of crude petroleum in 1902 was 86,984,890 barrels, as against 69,389,154 barrels in 1901, and an increase of 17 per cent. over that of 1900.

In his report to the department on the production of petroleum in 1902, now in press, some very interesting facts on this important industry are given. The following extract has been issued in a bulletin just out:

"The greatest portion of the increase in 1902 came from Texas and California, the gain being 6,836,252 barrels, or 122.7 per cent, for Texas, and 5,187,518 barrels, or 59 per cent. for California, as compared with their respective productions in 1901. The increase in Indiana in 1902 was 1,723,810 barrels, or about 30 per cent. over that of 1901. Louisiana produced for the first time in 1902, the production being 546,000 barrels. The increase in the production of Kansas was 153,598 barrels, or about 85 per cent over 1901. Kentucky and Tennessee increased their production in 1902 by 47,799 barrels, or nearly 35 per cent. Indian Territory increased 27,000 barrels and Wyoming 850 barrels as compared with 1901.

"The largest decrease in production in 1902, as compared with 1901, was in West Virginia, where it amounted to 562,761 barrels, or about 4.5 per cent.; and Ohio, in its two fields, showed a decrease of 251,333 barrels, or nearly 2 per cent. The decrease in Pennsylvania was 561,498 barrels, or 4.5 per cent; in New York, 86,838 barrels, or about 7 per cent., in Colorado, 66,218 barrels, or about 14 per cent.

"The percentages of production by fields show a remarkable change from 1900 to 1902. In 1900 the percentages were: Appalachian field, 45; Lima-Indiana field, 24; all other fields, nearly 9. In 1902 the respective percentages were: Appalachian field, 39; Lima-Indiana field, 29; all other fields, about 32.

"The value of the crude petroleum produced in 1902, was $69,410,284, or 80 cents per barrel, that for 1901 having been $66,417,226, or 95.7 cents per barrel, a decrease of 15.7 cents per barrel, or 16 per cent., in 1902. The gross amount received for the total product in 1902 was only $3,193,013 greater than that in 1901, although the increase in output was about 16.5 per cent. greater. The average price paid for what is known as Pennsylvania petroleum, which comprises nearly 35 per cent. of the production of the Appalachian field, was $1.2278 per barrel in 1902, that for 1901, having been $1.21, a gain of nearly 2 cents per barrel. There was also a gain of nearly 4 cents per barrel in the price of the Lima-Indiana petroleum in 1902, over 1901. California petroleum decreased 11.8 cents per barrel in 1902, as compared with 1901, and Texas petroleum decreased 4.55 cents per barrel.

"The total number of productive wells in the Appalachian and the Lima-Indiana fields in 1902, was 31,236, the number in 1901, having been 29912. The total number of wells completed in the United States in 1902 was about 15,500. At an average cost of $1500 each these well represent an investment of $23,700,000, or about 34 per cent of the gross receipts for all the petroleum produced in 1902.

"The exports of petroleum and its products exceeded 1,000,000,000 gallons in 1902, for the second time in the history of the industry, the number of gallons exported being 1,064,233,501, a smaller total exportation by nearly 15,000,000 gallons than in 1901."

NEW SUNSET OPERATIONS.

The new well of the Dayton Oil Company, recently brought in on section 9, 32, 23, at Sunset, is proving a good one. Stockholders of the company recently inspected the work.

The well of the Maricopa is spouting so much oil that the workmen are having trouble in putting in the casing. This will probably develop into a good one.

Two rigs are being installed by the Monarch company.

MINES AND MINING ON THE PACIFIC COAST.

REPORT OF FIELD WORK BY THE STATE BUREAU.

Quicksilver Resources of California. Conditions in Yavapai County, Ariz. Dale District — Havajo Reservation May be Thrown Open.

The State Mineralogist reports that the field work of the State Mining Bureau on the "Quicksilver Resources of California" (Bulletin No. 27.) has been completed and the manuscript is in the hands of the State Printer. It is expected that the Bulletin will be ready for distribution during the first week of September. The field covered in this work embraces a description of the quicksilver mines in the States and of new properties that are being opened, with the names of the owners and other information. Maps have been made of the various districts and underground maps of some of the more prominent mines will accompany the Bulletin. The work will be profusely illustrated, and will give more information about the quicksilver industry of California than any work heretofore published. As California produces three-fourths of all the quicksilver produced in the United States, this coming work should be one of value. The report of the United States Geological Survey, recently issued, gives the total production of quicksilver in the United States during the year 1902, at 34,451 flasks of 76½ pounds each. Of this total California contributed 29,199 flasks, Texas coming second with 3252.

EIGHT-HOUR LAW, AND OTHER THINGS.

The Prescott (Arizona) correspondent of The Times writes:

The last Legislature passed an eight hour law and its provisions applied specifically to one class of laborers —the underground miner. On June 1, that law went into effect. A general demand was then made by union miners that the rate of pay prevailing under the ten-hour system of work be given them, with the result that many companies operating in this vicinity refused to comply with the demand. As a consequence some mines were closed down, and in other instances where the old rate of pay prevailed, and which was below the demand made by union labor, they continued to operate. A conference was called, in which the miner, the operator and the merchant endeavored to adjust the differences, but harmonious action was out of the question, and nothing was accomplished, the union miner standing by the scale originally demanded. The operators submitted a rate of pay early in the trouble to the union organizations, but for the sake of the mining and commercial interests of the communities affected, this was withdrawn, and in conference they resubmitted a scale higher than the first one; in other words, the mine owners met the laborer more than half-way. Under union organization the rate of miner's pay in one camp was $3 per day, while in another but twenty miles distant $3.50 was the rate. The contention is now over the feature of working in wet shafts, and 50 cents a day is the bone of contention. There is not a mine affected by this new law that is a dividend payer; on the other hand, it is altogether a proposition of development work. The pay demanded by union labor disregards the principle of encouraging work and there is no spirit of codperation entertained between the employé and the employer. Agitation is at the bottom of the question and this is today followed by open expressions of blocking the securing of men. The sentiment of the community is in favor of the mine owners, and from the fact that they have met the union miners on middle ground and more than half-way, and are spending capital in development work only, and are willing to pay a scale higher for eight hours' work than prevailed under that of ten hours' work, they are to be commended. The sentiment prevails that labor will cinch itself, and by its own weapons.

Four mining sales have taken place recently in this city in which the aggregate sum paid will run over $200,000. Three of these sales are for properties located on Groom Creek, but seven miles from Prescott, and include the Home Run mine, the Nevada group and the Monte Christo. The other is the Catectin mine, located but twelve miles from this city. The Home Run goes to Douglas Lacey & Co. of New York, and is well opened and enjoys an excellent rating. The other claims are likewise developed with deep workings and have machinery with which to facilitate operation. All of the above are now being worked by the new owners.

The construction of the Poland tunnel, one of the greatest mining and railroad projects in the West, continues uninterruptedly, barring an occasional labor dispute. This tunnel is to be over 8000 feet in length, of which distance 5000 feet has been completed. It starts at the Poland mine and terminates at the Mud Hole mine on the opposite side of the range of mountains. Its opening to traffic is set for June, 1904. It will be utilized for transportation purposes of mining products of the Big Bug and Walker districts, and in addition to this feature of ready means in handling ores and commercial goods, will afford miners a direct channel to have their returns made from near-by smelters and at a comparatively small expense. As a result of the building of this tunnel mining on both sides of the mountain it cuts through is greatly stimulated and new discoveries also have taken place that create some excitement. This tunnel is also being driven to explore the ground of the Poland Mining Company, and as a result of its underground depth, which in many places is 1600 feet, the Chalcedony and Jasper claims are given development that otherwise would have incurred heavy expense. In addition to this many leads that were blind on the surface have been struck, making this project one of great importance. This tunnel will be linked to the Prescott and Eastern Railroad of the Santa Fé, Prescott and Phoenix system.

The building of the Bradshaw Railroad, of the Santa Fé, Prescott and Phoenix system, continues, although a difficult feature is met with in the securing of labor. The road starts from Mayer and terminates at the Crowned King mine, twenty-five miles distant. It travels through a region of mountainous country that is exceedingly difficult to build a trail over, and has an average grade of 4 per cent. in addition to which are four switchbacks in as many miles, also on a 4 per cent. grade. This road is being built to afford the mining interests of the Bradshaw districts transportation facilities that heretofore have retarded the development and investment of capital in its mines. As this thoroughfare nears its destination, this industry is already receiving the consideration due it, and many properties are under option, following which are several sales and many strikes. The road is expected to be ready for service in about six months, and in addition to its commercial importance, is one of the most picturesque in the West.

THE DALE DISTRICT.

Writing from Dale, San Bernardino county, Cal., a correspondent says: "The Ivanhoe mine in the Dale district has been sold and men have been put to work building a road over which to haul in machinery, to be installed at the property. A pumping plant will be put in at Ferguson's well to furnish the necessary water for the reduction of the ore.

"In the O. K. mine a vein of good ore 16 inches in width, was recently struck on the 100-foot level north, and a 6-foot body of ore has been opened up on the 250-foot level north. They have also a fine body of ore on the 200 level north, the extent of which has not yet been determined. In the 300 level south they have a breast of high-grade ore. The former owners of the O. K. had a round of holes drilled in the 250 level north, but, owing to lack of powder never fired them, as they never found the good ore in that drift.

"Work on the Capitola group will be resumed on September 1."

NAVAJO RESERVATION.

According to reports from New Mexico, it is probable that a movement will be inaugurated during the next session of Congress for the removal of the Navajo Indians from the reservation in the northwestern portion of that Territory, that the land may be thrown open to mining men. In respect to this, the Enterprise of Silver City prints the following:

"For years men who wish to make fortunes in mining have been looking with longing toward the lands held by this tribe, and it is now hoped to interest President Roosevelt in a plan to set aside certain valleys in partition to the Indians and throw open the mountains to the prospectors. There has always been resentment among the whites because one of the richest parts of the country was set apart for the red men. The chief men of the Navajo tribe exhibit at the settlement at times bridles and clothing worked down with gold and silver which came from the mines on the reservation."

SEARCHLIGHT DISTRICT.

The labor unions are still in possession of Searchlight camp, in the southern part of Nevada, and all the large mines remain closed down. Reports from there state that contract work is in progress in the Cyrus Noble; the Ione is working a small force; the New Era people are at work on their mill; water has been struck in the Cyrus Noble at 300 feet in the incline shaft.

MINING NOTES.

The Lancaster, Cal., Gazette says: "E. M. Hamilton's mine, the Lida, is looking better than ever, and from recent development work proves that the ore in this district goes down. At a depth of 325 feet, the ledge has the crosscut, and shows sixteen feet of ore, with both walls intact."

A controlling interest in the Portland mine, Cripple Creek, Colo., has been sold to the Guggenheims and the Whitney-Ryan syndicate of New York. The sale was made on the basis of $5,000,000 for the entire property.

The Dominion government has decided to grant a bounty of $15 per ton on lead produced in Canada. Provision is made that not more than $5,000,000 shall be devoted to the purpose in any one year.

Logic Without Fault.

Of Miss Bee Drew, John Drew's daughter, it is said that one day in her childhood she asked her father how often a certain paper, the Daily —, appeared.

"The paper is called the 'daily,' isn't it?" Mr. Drew asked.

"Yes," said the young girl.

"Then mustn't it, of necessity, appear every day?"

"I don't quite see that," said Miss Drew.

"It is plain enough. Why don't you see it?" her father asked.

"Because," she answered, "if the 'daily' must appear every day, then the Century must appear every century."—[Boston Post.

MONEY FOR CROPS. This is the season of the year when many New York bankers have been wont to assure their Wall street clients that the West was all right; that the West would need no help from New York to move the crops; that the West was independently rich, and so on. The fact that year after year such easy predictions were invariably disproved seemed to have no effect upon these prophets until now. But last year's experience in Wall street, with call money at 30 per cent. and time money at a "commission" above the legal rate, appears to have made a deep impression upon the banking community, and now borrowers are advised to trim sail, and the banks themselves, in their anxious preparations for a possible squall, have kept call money for months at the unremunerative rate of 3 per cent, in the face of a heavy demand for funds from mercantile borrowers at 6 per cent. or higher. There is just a suspicion that in some instances this extreme conservatism is the result not so much of caution as of cupidity. Last year's abnormal call money market, averaging as it did something like 12 per cent. for five weeks or more, was a very "good thing" indeed for banks who had resources well in hand, and it is likely that some lenders who then had their surplus capital tied up in long loans are hoping to get a slice of such cake this season. In general, however, the current policy of New York banks in keeping an unusually large surplus on call, at nominal rates instead of placing it on time, can be attributed to an actual fear that last season's troubles in the money market may be repeated. It is a pretty safe position to take that the West will, this year, and for many years to come, need to call upon New York during the crop-moving season. But there is reason to believe that the western demand this season will be lighter than usual. Aside from the natural increase in banking resources in the interior and the very heavy addition to the country's supply of currency during the year, of which a fair proportion is held by western banks, there are evidences that western bankers have themselves been making special preparations for the autumn drain. Rates of interest to borrowers throughout the summer ruled at a relatively high level, thus tending to restrict borrowing, while it is generally thought that the recent acute liquidation in the stock market brought some relief to the loan accounts of western banks. The theory is entertained in some quarters that interior banks have themselves parted with some of their investments in securities, thus getting their active capital into still more liquid form. Without placing too much stress on this theory, there are indications that the western banks are in fairly good shape. An interesting sidelight in this connection is found in the fact that while New York bankers turn a deaf ear to dealers in commercial paper, with the quotation from 6 to 7 per cent., these notes are steadily being placed for New York account in the very heart of the grain belt.—[New York Journal of Commerce.

DRY GOODS MARKET. It is difficult to detect any material variation in market conditions at first hands from those prevailing last week, but in most directions jobbers are reporting a gain in volume of business in progress, and trade with them is generally of satisfactory proportions. The impression grows that fuller operations cannot be avoided much longer. Nevertheless, first-hand business is still almost entirely confined to limited purchases to meet current requirements only, with few buyers showing practical interest beyond them. Stocks here are small in the aggregate, but the quiet demand prevents this condition from becoming obstructive, but with any increase in buying it would speedily make itself felt to an acute degree. Production is steadily decreasing, with no prospect of relief for weeks, to come, and sellers are decidedly shy in catering for forward business. There have been no prices changed this week of any moment, but the market continues strong and in favor of sellers on both staple and fancy lines of cotton goods with hardly an exception. The woolen goods division shows a fair amount of business in both men's wear fabrics and dress goods.

AMERICAN INVASION. "Americanising Edinburgh's Industries" is the caption of an article in the daily Dispatch of that city, which says: "In many British engineering shops and other establishments American system and methods of employment and pay have been adopted, during the past two or three years. One of the latest of these is a premium or bonus arrangement, which has been already introduced into Edinburgh and is at present in use in one of the departments of our greatest engineering establishments.

"The 'one-break' system is another American idea, which has gained a footing in this country and is rapidly growing in favor. By this arrangement the breakfast hour is done away with, and the men start work at 7 or 8 o'clock in the morning, having had a good meal; there being only one break during the rest of the day for dinner. It is contended that this is a much better method, both for men and masters."

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Aug. 31.—There was a considerable growth in the volume of business in stocks today, and a show of strength which was quite imposing, but neither the activity nor the strength lasted the day through. The aggregate transactions rose to that of the million-share mark, but the largest part of this was done in the two hours before noon. During the active period of the market advances over Saturday of one to two points had become quite numerous, but the last prices of the day show very few gains in excess of a point. The demonstration of strength was evidently due largely to concerted action by preferential traders. Uncovered bears became discouraged by the dull resistance of last week's market to any attack and the bullish traders became correspondingly encouraged. Professional sentiment was more cheerful on account of improved matters in the general outlook, but there was nothing to show that considerable outside demand for stocks played part in the day's movement. There is no doubt that confidence over the money situation has been greatly increased since the January crisis of the readiness on the part of Secretary Shaw to deposit $40,000,000 of money now felt to be needed in the country banks. This threatened violent stringency in the money market and money traders are decidedly less exacting in their conditions for time loans. Quoted rates are only slightly lower, but the stringent conditions which have attached to the making of loans for some time past are relaxed. These conditions were prohibitive except to favorite borrowers on the part of some of the banks. The limits of the available supplies have been considerably extended, and with the present surplus reserves held by the banks confidence is pretty firm and established in the ability of the money market to meet requirements upon it. Encouraging reports of railroad traffic today, last week's cheerful tone of the mercantile agencies, and the belief that a small proportion of the securities by investors, both foreign and domestic, has been going on, had to do with the stronger feeling in the stock market. This morning, much was made of the transfer of the holdings of the underwriting syndicate for Metropolitan security tending to consolidate the control. Very free inferences were drawn by the traders from this transaction of a coming connection of all the traction and lighting interests in Greater New York and its outlying territories. A considerable stimulation to the speculation is a result, but heavy realising in the afternoon, mainly Copper and the inference drawn from that of the attiture toward the market of the controlling interest checked the advance, with the result that followed. The market became almost stagnant in the later stages, but closed heavy. Some buying for London account, which was large in Erie, helped the early advance. Reading hung back on account of utterances attributed to the executive head of the system, pointing to an accumulation of steam-size anthracite and a possible curtailment of the production in consequence. St. Paul was a leader in the railroad list, and enjoyed an extreme advance of two points. The strength in the corn market and reports of unseasonable temperature had their influence on the reaction in stocks, owing to the importance now placed to the outcome of the corn crop. The bond market was firmer. Total sales, par value, $1,325,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKETS.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Aug. 31.—Foreign news, increased receipts, increased visible supply and favorable weather were the bearish factors in wheat. Selling became general during the early part of the session, carrying the price of September down at the opening at 70@70½ 69¾, with December off half a cent. The demand improved later, the buying being mostly by commission houses, and a rally to 69¾ for September and 71¾ for December followed. The advance did not hold, however, prices declining causing a break in the nearer month to 70¾. The close being at a loss of ¾ to 1 at 69¾@69¾, with December 70¾ to 71¼. Corn lost a net loss of half a cent. Light offerings in corn gave a comparatively strong market early, September closed 1c to ¼ lower, December was a shade lower, as 39¾, having sold up during the session to 41½@41¾. Oats ruled steady, with free buying by local traders and from commission houses, counteracting the effect of the scattered selling. September closed at 28¾, after ranging between that figure and 29¼, with December a shade lower at 29¼. Scattered liquidation and lower prices at the yards caused a weaker tone in provisions. Trade was of a good volume, but without feature. Brokers and packers were credited with doing the selling which resulted in a decline of 27½ cents in September pork; of 2½ cents in lard, and 12½c in ribs.

The leading futures ranged as follows:

Wheat, No. 2—

REDLANDS.

BURGLAR CAUGHT.

REDLANDS, Aug. 31.—Last night a burglar entered the W. L. Spoor drug store, securing $15 and goods worth twice that much, and the California Jewelry Company's store, where articles worth about $100 were taken. The two stores are at Orange and State streets. Entrance was effected by tearing the screen from the skylight and sliding down the vent pipe, over fifty feet, and the thief got out by climbing. He must have been an active chap. P. W. Adamson was suspected of the crime and was arrested on a warrant. His house was searched but only drug goods were found. The investigation will be continued tomorrow.

SANTA ANA.

SCHOOL BONDS DEFEATED.

SANTA ANA, Aug. 31.—Owing to a complication of causes, principally internal dissensions over the location of the school building, the electors of the new Union High School district west of the river defeated the $15,000 bond election for the purchase of a site, and the erection of a building by a vote of 90 to 54. With the failure of the people to vote the necessary bonds, the trustees of the district met this afternoon at the office of the Superintendent of Schools in this city and proceeded to furnish an estimate of $10,000 as the amount necessary to be raised by special tax levy this year for the site and building, and an additional $3700 for the running expenses of the school this year. In this manner the district will raise the entire amount this year by tax levy for the initial cost of starting the school, instead of going through the usual process of voting bonds.

The trustees voted to hold temporary sessions this winter in the Bolsa schoolhouse. The appointment of S. A. Crookshanks as principal of the school was confirmed, and Miss Lena Sprague was chosen assistant.

GUN CLUB TROUBLES.

Ranchers of the Bolsa Chica district have renewed the fight with the Gun Club, by causing the arrest of a gang of men employed in repairing the dam on the charge of "obstructing the navigation of a navigable stream, to wit: Bolsa Creek." The arrested men are J. H. Cole and five Japanese laborers, who were making repairs on the dam Saturday afternoon, when Constable Smith-Dick served papers upon them. Cole appeared for trial Saturday evening, but owing to the lateness of the hour arraignment was postponed to this morning. A continuance was then granted to September 16, when the case will be heard in Justice Smithwick's court. H. J. Forgy and J. Howard Bell have been retained to represent the gun club. This outbreak is the first move on the part of the ranchers since the decision of the War Department last winter in favor of the club to the effect that the Bolsa Creek was not navigable and that the dam is therefore not an obstruction.

RIVERSIDE.

STRIKING GANG FIRED.

RIVERSIDE, Aug. 31.—A gang of Mexican laborers, who have been employed in carrying out the proposed extensive improvements on Mr. Huntington's electric lines here, struck for higher wages when the hour was called for work this morning, and were promptly turned down, to their surprise and chagrin. The strikers were sixty strong. They had voluntarily sought employment from the electric road people from time to time, drifting in from more strenuous work elsewhere in the line of railroad building, and entirely satisfied with the day's wages offered, $1.75. Saturday night they were paid off as usual and manifested no signs of discontent. Some walking delegate, it is believed, got in his work yesterday, and this morning the hitherto contented men being misled into the belief that they would thus tie up work on the road, precipitated a little strike, refusing to work longer, unless paid $2 for nine hours work. The whole gang was promptly discharged, and other workmen engaged.

Superintendent Grofthoidt showed his backbone by stating that not one of the strikers will be taken back to work. He has so many applications for jobs that the force will be increased to 150 by tomorrow night. The construction gang in the employ of the Fairchild Wilton Pavine Company was not involved in the strike, and remained at work.

FALSE IMPRISONMENT.

J. Harrington has filed suit against J. F. Tibbet for $5000 damages for alleged false imprisonment. The complaint states that on August 20, Tibbet, without cause and to willfully injure plaintiff, caused Harrington to be arrested, brought into court and put in jail. The case was subsequently dismissed on motion of Tibbet, who loaned Harrington $150 to wind up a live-stock deal. Harrington failed to come to Riverside and give the chattel mortgage on the date promised, hence the suit charging him with a felony which was afterward seen to have been an error, but not until after Harrington had spent some six hours in jail.

RIVERSIDE RIPPLES.

Most of the principal streets leading east and west, and, north and south, have been well oiled, and, generally speaking, are in good condition. But the railroad crossings on East Seventh and East Eighth streets remain in the same abominable condition as heretofore, and the people wonder why.

F. M. Heath returned last night from a two weeks' outing on horseback through the southern counties of the State.

Extensive improvements at the postoffice are nearing completion. The interior and exterior have been repainted, new flooring has been laid, and additional cement sidewalk is being laid on Sixth street for the convenience of the carriers, who deliver mail in wagons.

Work is well under way on the foundation walls of H. T. Hays's handsome new bungalow on Rubidoux Heights.

S. D. Pelton returned from Ocean Park today. Mrs. Pelton and children will remain there another two weeks.

KERN COUNTY.

HULSE WANTS CHANGE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BAKERSFIELD, Aug. 31.—Al Hulse, the alleged slayer of Officers Tibbitt and Packard, will demand a change of venue from Kern county when the case is called. That was stated this evening by his attorney, Bowen Irwin, former District Attorney of Kings county. The case is set for trial before the Superior Court on September 23. The alleged murderer is still in jail here and takes his confinement coolly, declaring he is confident of an acquittal. Fox, his consort, who has told several stories in regard to the case, is detained at the jail as the main prosecuting witness.

A Discreet Indiscretion.

An example that can never be overlooked when the right of an ambassador to exercise his own discretion is in question is that which occurred in the career of Lord Lyons, when he was our Ambassador to the United States. He was a persona grata there. "All I can say," Lord Lyons, is, 'Go thou and do likewise,'" was Abraham Lincoln's genial method of receiving the British Ambassador's announcement of King Edward's marriage. Lord Lyons did not take the advice, but he remained a very effective Ambassador in spite of his bachelorhood. When the grave difficulty over the Mason and Slidell case arose, Lord Lyons was instructed from home to present an ultimatum, afford twelve hours for its acceptance, and, the latter not being forthcoming, he was to break off relations and leave the country. The twelfth hour expired, Mason and Slidell were not surrendered, and there remained, apparently, only the dire prospect of war. "Give me another twelve hours," said Seward, the Secretary of State. It was an entire contradiction of official orders, but, nevertheless, "I will," said Lyons. From 6 o'clock that night until 6 the next morning Seward battled with the recalcitrants. Then Lyons received an intimation that the Confederate envoys would be given up. So by the insubordination of an Ambassador war was saved.—[St. James Gazette.

Our exports to China and Hongkong for the fiscal year 1903 were about $27,000,000, against $8,000,000 in 1893.

HAVE been treated by Dr. Schiffman for years. I have tried all his different methods and can say unhesitatingly no dentist or physician has ever operated with such success or skill. In extracting my teeth he did it without any pain to me. It is a great pleasure to me to recommend him and his method of treatment. MILO M. POTTER, Prop. Van Nuys Hotel and Hotel Potter, Santa Barbara.

Ten years ago a reputable D. D. S. of Va, told me that a certain molar tooth could not be satisfactorily saved and that it would probably not be of service for one year. It has not only served me for ten years, as Dr. Schiffman saved and crowned it, and comparatively speaking without pain. I sing his praise.
I. M. ANDREWS, Pastor M. E. Church, South, Cor. 6th and Mateo Streets.

On account of some unfortunate experience I had in the extraction of my teeth I became a great coward in this respect. Today Dr. Schiffman extracted one of my very refractory teeth without causing me one particle of pain. D. K. TRASK, Judge Superior Court, Los Angeles.

Dr. Schiffman extracted a tooth for me absolutely without pain. His advertising phrase, "Didn't Hurt a Bit," is literally true.

EVERAL years ago Dr. Schiffman did some crown and bridge work for me which has proved entirely satisfactory. The work was done painlessly and with great skill. It gives me great pleasure to recommend him.
IRVING R. SMITH, L. A. Times.

Dr. Schiffman has put in almost an entire upper bridge for me. The bridge is perfect in every respect, and I can use it as well as my natural teeth. The work was promptly and painlessly done. J. F. WILL, 901 West Twelfth.

Dr. Schiffman pulled two of my wisdom teeth, and it didn't hurt a bit; on the contrary, the sensation was pleasant. GUY L. HARRISON, Vice-Pres. Bagdad Pub. Co.

It is with pleasure that I state that I have had several teeth filled by Dr. Schiffman, and that he killed and extracted the nerve and filled the root of one of my teeth and put on a porcelain crown, which cannot be distinguished from a natural tooth, all of which was done without pain. JUDSON R. RUSH, Of Davis & Rush, Attorneys, 3 Rogers Blk.

I have had porcelain crown work and some filling done, also had ten teeth and roots extracted by Dr. Schiffman, and take great pleasure in recommending his method to anyone wishing dental work done without pain. MRS. G. T. W. SCHRAMM, Mother of Paloma Schramm, Cor. Aurelia and Wadsworth.

Dr. Schiffman has put in a very satisfactory piece of bridge work for me and I cheerfully recommend him to anyone in need of dentistry. F. FLORENTINE, 1357 North Main St. Country and City Criminal Photographer.

About a year ago I had a solid gold bridge put in by Dr. Schiffman. The work was absolutely painless, and has proved entirely satisfactory, and I cannot say too much in praise of the doctor. GUS BASLER, 218 W. First St.

Dr. Schiffman extracted my teeth and replaced same by bridge work. He also treated and filled two teeth, which I thought were too far gone to save. The above work was all done painlessly and is perfectly satisfactory. R. A. FOLLARD, 737 Central Ave.

This is to certify that Dr. Schiffman did some crown work for me seven years ago and the work is as good today as it was when he finished the job. S. J. McKENZIE, Po tos Office, 1412 Essex St.

I have had fourteen teeth extracted positively without pain by Dr. Schiffman. L. M. OSBORN, Ocean Park Postmaster.

Have just had a large back tooth extracted by Dr. Schiffman; had been hesitating, but it was only a stride and gave no pain. FRED A. DAY, Deputy City Assessor.

STRONG FOR DIVISION AT OCEAN PARK.

PETITION WILL BE PRESENTED MONDAY EVENING.

Indications that from Eighty to Ninety Per Cent. of Electors There Want Separation, and Considerable Number on North Side Also.

OCEAN PARK, Aug. 31.—It is planned to present to the Board of City Trustees next Monday night the petition for the calling of a special election to vote on the proposed exclusion of Ocean Park from the municipality of Santa Monica, with Strand street as the line of division. The circulators of the petition say they could have presented the petition at tonight's meeting of the board, but they prefer to delay the presentation a week in order to give opportunity for a thorough discussion of the project.

Careful inquiry warrants the opinion that from 85 to 90 per cent. of the electors of Ocean Park will vote in favor of division, and that a considerable percentage of Santa Monica electors will support the measure. It cannot be said at this time, that the North Side will give a majority for or against division, but the present indication is that division will win by a moderate majority, the deciding vote being cast on the North Side.

As already noticed in this column, the plan is, in case division is defeated at the polls, to incorporate a new Ocean Park by petition to the Board of County Supervisors, the incorporating territory extending from Marine avenue on the north to beyond Short Line Beach on the south.

SOUTH SIDE ITEMS.

GLENDORA.

ORANGES AND LEMONS.

GLENDORA, Aug. 31.—The orange-packing-houses of this place were closed last week, the entire crop for this season having been marketed. It consisted of 400 carloads. The prices as a rule were satisfactory. There were a few instances in which growers received "red ink" returns.

At a meeting of the stockholders of the Lemon Growers' Association of Glendora it was decided by unanimous vote of those present to close the packing-house for the present, and that the members of this association take stock in the San Dimas Lemon Association. Hereafter the lemon crop of this section will be packed and handled at San Dimas.

For the past few years the lemon growers of Glendora have been cutting back their trees and budding them to oranges, and as a consequence the lemon output has been greatly diminished, not more than thirty carloads having been shipped this season. The stockholders say they cannot handle this small output to advantage.

MELONS AND BERRIES.

This section is making quite a reputation in melon growing. The crop for this season assumed such proportions that it could not be handled by home dealers and the peddlers, who hauled hundreds of tons to Los Angeles and smaller towns so as to relieve the congested condition of the market. Several growers combined and have been shipping carload lots to Arizona and New Mexico.

Berry growing is also a popular and profitable industry in and around Glendora. The season has not closed, but the shipments from this locality exceeds 7000 crates, not counting that handled by local dealers and peddlers, which, added to the above amount, would swell the number to at least 10,000 crates. The favorite berries grown here are the strawberry, blackberry, dewberry and loganberry.

IN BRIEF.

Work on building two brick blocks will be commenced this week. J. L. Foote will build a one-story brick north of the Glendora Bank, and the proprietor of the Gleaner will build another in the same block.

An overflow from the G.A.R. excursion to the Coast has reached this town and a number of the "old boys" are the shaking hands with resident comrades.

J. E. Daley, Esq., has disposed of his residence in town to Mr. Bidwell of Los Angeles, who has associated himself with Mr. Daly in legal work and will become a resident. Mr. Daly will reside in Long Beach after September 1.

D. C. Hay, who has made his home here a number of years, will go to his old home in the East to take charge of a public school in which he taught in former years.

The new lemon house recently opened near the Santa Fé depot by Dr. McNair shipped the first carload today.

MONROVIA.

WOMAN OF NOTE DEAD.

MONROVIA, Aug. 31.—Mrs. Jeannie Kendall Stickney of this city died at Hotel Julian, Long Beach, Saturday at 11:45 p. m. from a stroke of paralysis. Hobart of Pasadena. Interment will be at Oak Hill Cemetery, Washington, D. C., where services will be conducted by Rev. Dr. Samuel H. Greene, assisted by Rev. Arthur Leonard Wadsworth of Monrovia. Mrs. Stickney was in the 78th year of her age. She leaves a sister, Mrs. F. Kendall Fox of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Stickney was a daughter of the late Hon. Amos Kendall of Washington, D. C., Postmaster-General under President Andrew Jackson and Martin Van Buren, promoter of the Morse electric telegraph and founder of the Deaf Mute College, Washington, and a Washington journalist. He was a leader in politics and a power behind the throne while in the government's service. Mrs. Stickney was prominent in society and church circles. For thirteen years she was president of the Young Women's Christian Association, and she was founder of the Baptist Home for aged women in Georgetown. She was personally acquainted with many Presidents, Vice-Presidents, Justices of the Supreme Bench, Senators, Representatives and diplomats. William K. Butts of Monrovia was Mrs. Stickney's California agent.

THRILLING DESCENT OF A BALLOONIST.

PARACHUTE DIDN'T OPEN UNTIL NEAR THE FINISH.

Santa Monica Beach Crowds Behold Exciting Spectacle in the Sky—"Shot" Man Shoots from One of Abolished Saloons to Police Court.

SANTA MONICA, Aug. 31.—A bit of exciting entertainment was provided for the Sunday-afternoon beach crowd yesterday by the Chamber of Commerce Amusement Committee, and for a few seconds it seemed to the populace that the fun would terminate in a tragedy. The cause of the excitement was a balloon ascension by "Prof." Bert Addis, who in return for $75 of the committee's money had agreed to amuse the public by making a 1000-foot parachute dive to earth. Upon reaching that height the aeronaut cut loose. The whole population of the town had taken to the middle of the streets, and cries of alarm escaped from open, upturned mouths, as the performer dropped from the sky with great velocity. When within about 300 feet of the earth the umbrella-shaped parachute was caught by wind currents. Addis was thrashed about in mid-air in long, pendulum sweeps, and the horrified verdict of the women watchers was that he would be dashed to pieces inside of ten seconds.

But the balloonist, though unable to control the drunken parachute, succeeded in getting himself deposited among the friendly boughs of a cypress tree, whence he climbed to earth and resumed the business of breathing. "One of the most successful ascensions I ever made," he explained to the gaping throng. The spectators thought it one of the most thrilling, at least.

FINED THE LIMIT.

Julius Hagen, a young man locally employed, is willing to admit (today) that "wine is a mocker, and strong drink is raging; and whoso is deceived thereby is not wise." Hagen dallied with the cup last night in one of those North Side saloons, which recently are abolished by an eminent Board of City Trustees; and today he found the "mockery" in the form of a $10 Police Court fine. The "raging" he found in his head.

On his way home last night from one of those Santa Monica saloons, which have front doors where the Board of City Trustees said there should be no doors, Hagen pulled out a revolver and fired four bullets into the night. Perhaps he was shooting at the ghost of a saloon door. His own recollection is that he doesn't know why he shot. Probably it seemed logical to him, in his stimulated frame of mind, that a man who is already "shot" has a right to shoot back. Fortunately no body was hurt, but Hagen, He was painfully hurt, when Recorder Guidinger said, "$10 or ten days." Hagen said he preferred not to meditate.

LONG BEACH, Aug. 31.—Everything is in readiness for the opening of the sixteenth annual encampment of the Veterans' Association tomorrow morning. The camp is made, all the preliminaries arranged, and it only remains for the veterans to move in. According to time-honored custom, a flag-raising will be the first formality. All of the veterans in town are expected to participate in this, and the Sons of Veterans will form the escort. When raised, "Old Glory" will be greeted by a national salute of twenty-one guns, fired by the Sons of Veterans' battery, and by appropriate music from the Marine Band. In the evening there will be the usual opening reception, with an address of welcome from Mayor Townsend, and responses by Justice H. A. Pierce for the veterans, Mary E. Hattery for the Ladies' Auxiliary and Judge Curtis D. Wilbur for the Sons of Veterans.

VANDAL ON LAUNCHES.

Rev. J. B. Holley discovered yesterday that some miscreant visited the Puritan, Ivy and Evangel, all power launches belonging to his fleet, and disabled their engines. The greatest damage was done the Puritan, the large tank built into the bow having been cut into ribbons, the connections torn out and the engine wrecked. It will cost him $400 to repair this boat, as the bow will have to be torn out and rebuilt. The other boats were not so much damaged, but another $100 will be required to put them in good condition. Only one, the Evangel, could be patched up so as to run today. All of this must have been done after 2 o'clock, as there was a watch on the wharf until that time. Mr. Holley intends to find the perpetrator of the outrage if money and work will do it.

EL MONTE.

WATER AND PROSPERITY.

EL MONTE, Aug. 31.—The amount of water developed in this neighborhood is worthy of notice. Among the larger plants, that of J. S. Killian is conspicuous. It is running about five hundred inches, and the water is used on Killian's 200-acre walnut ranch and sold to surrounding orchardists. The East Whittier Land and Water Company, which has on of the largest water plants in Southern California, is pumping between 500 and 600 inches at Station No. 1, two miles east of El Monte. The Peck Land and Water Company pumps 150 inches and wells furnishing in the neighborhood of 100 inches are legion. This vast amount of water-bearing land is of great value, and adds much to the prosperity of this place.

A great scow came along with the huge dredging machine, and will be used in carting the dirt that is removed from the harbor bottom out to sea, where it will be dumped.

The new dredge is one of the largest of its kind in existence, and has a capacity for removing about 3000 cubic yards of dirt a day. It is claimed by the officials in charge of the harbor improvements that the present contract with the North American Dredging Company will be completed in from two to three months.

CIRCUS IN PORTO RICO.

Tony Lowande Tells Us How His Show Followed the Constitution. There Trouble to Spare.

[New York Sun:] The Tony Lowande circus got into port yesterday on the steamship Ponce, from Porto Rico, with the talent all battered up and the elephant fidgety, and with a story of a fight in the mountains that didn't need any tinkering by the press agent.

Tony has a press agent, even if the circus does hail from Mexico, and the agent has a real Broadway touch. For instance when the show first struck the United States island of Porto Rico, and pitched tents at San Juan, the press agent let it be known all over the island that the young daughter of Gov. Hunt of Porto Rico had fed the lions with her own hands.

But when the show struck Cosmo, on the great military road, where it goes over the mountain, the press agent did not have time to pipe anything. He had to fight shoulder to shoulder with the lion tamer to save the show.

This explanation process
Chills me through and through
For I've been up against it hard
Since I met you.

That was what Tony hummed yesterday as he came ashore from the Ponce and greeted a friend on the pier over in Brooklyn.

"You see, the Constitution followed the flag all right," he explained, "and the circus followed the Constitution. That's where we made the mistake of our lives. The circus was too soon. It should have waited politely and let a few New York cops go down right on the heels of the Constitution, and then after the cops had got used to the climate and located all the side doors, it would have been time for my great, superbcosmic and dazzling outfit to have ventured along the military pike.

"Why, I'd have given a week's gate receipts to have had a few of the Broadway squad along when we struck Cosmo. But 'twas our own fault. We billed the show as the great American educational institution, and the natives who have got the little red-school-on-the-hill notion hard and fast, thought we had a free graft for them, and that my $1000-an-hour acrobats and fearless lion tamer were walking over their damn old mountain for their health.

"Three hundred people, men, women and children, came into Cosmo from all the little mountain villages near by to see the show, and the riot began the minute we asked the first native for 50 cents to go through the gate. We explained, through the only living Alaskan ice-eater, who was born down in Porto Rico and knew the language, that that 50 cents entitled a spectator to a box seat, but that didn't seem to mean anything to them, and the row was on for fair.

"The ticket taker, who sometimes does a turn at eating glass, was down and out on the first rush of the natives, and he had the best chance in the world to bite pieces out of that mountain, while our country's new wards swarmed along his back and over his head barefooted.

"The first part of the mob got through the flap of the tent without ripping anything, but the whole wasn't big enough for all Cosmo to get in at the same minute. They seemed to be afraid they'd lose some education if they didn't get in early, so they tore out the sides of the tent and went in all together.

"José Jeffries of Curacoa, my contortionist wonder, and Rufino Bustamente, the lion tamer from Avenue A, New York, got back to back and tried to fight the crowd both ways. But that didn't do much good. I yelled to Bustamente to make the lions roar, and he yelled back:

"'Can't. Damn things are asleep.'

"They are the best lions inthe world. A lady can tame them. Why, while we were in San Juan, Gov. Hunt's daughter—but that's another story. As I was saying, the lion wouldn't roar to scare the crowd, and when the elephant trumpeted, the natives yelled with delight and thought that their free education had begun for sure.

"My cake-walk musical mules couldn't stand the racket, broke away and ran over the mountains, and the trained goats followed, but, of course, leaped properly from crag to crag. Everything is regular in my show, no matter what the hardships are.

"The crowd was everywhere. They got into the ring, mussed the sawdust and climbed into the acrobat's life-saving net to rest.

"I asked the Coamo police to do something, and he seemed surprised. He wanted to know when the school would begin.

"Finally, Ellena Eugenia and Pablo Tejo, my aerial wonders, got up into a trapese without anybody seeing them and dropped together into the net. That did some business for us. When the wonders struck the net it sagged in the middle, and a row of Porto Rican babies that had been laid along the edges for a nap bounced up into the air and fell on the sawdust. Their mothers grabbed them and streaked for the open.

"That helped a lot, for, with the women out of the way, I turned all the help loose and the crushed the mob away from the wreck of our great and dazzling educational show. The Great Dane did a lot of good, too. He got samples of about twenty natives, and Jacinto Romanot, the glass-ball crack-shot man, helped some by shooting into the air. He filled the top of the tent full of holes, but that didn't matter much, because the canvas was ruined anyhow, and from Coamo on the circus traveled under bare poles.

"Xenia Ohio, the only living siren, went out on the mountain that evening and charmed back the musical mules with her voice ,so we didn't really lose anything but the tent."

Honest Workingmen Hate Liars.

Every honest workingman hangs his head; every wife of these workingmen knows that it is a lie when the "sub" liar of the Liar in Chief says: Hamburgers' printed statements in newspapers referring to working women as Doves from Soiled Nests. $10.00 reward for every copy of a published newspaper wherein such a statement was printed by us. Bring your papers; get your reward. What good can lying of this sort do? Will honest workingmen rub shoulders with a liar? Can a liar be trusted? Verily no; Honesty is the best policy. A workingman who has been our patron for 20 years wrote to us, saying: "Don't judge all workingmen by the agitators and jawsmiths. We are plain men not given to speech; these oily smooth talkers often win us over, but in our hearts we know it's wrong."

This simple letter lifted a load off our hearts; we have friends who, if they only dare, would flock to us.

CONTRACTORS ARE MULCTED.

Forced to Accede to Union's Extortionate Demand.

Surrender but Temporary, Say Employing Plasterers.

Workmen to be Brought from the East and Given Preference.

Caught "between the devil and the deep sea," contracting plasterers were yesterday forced to accede to the demand of the Plasterers' Union for a flat wage of $5 per day—a rise of 20 per cent.

In other words, contractors were given no alternative but to submit to a "hold-up" that means, in nearly every instance, the loss of several hundreds of dollars upon work now in hand.

The contracts now in process of completion were figured on a $5 basis, and it cannot but be evident to any journeyman that a $1 increase means not only the absorption of prospective profit, but actual loss.

Employers, however, do not purpose letting the matter end here. Being unable to secure an extension of time, they were forced to yield by the general contractors, who declared that in the event of subcontractors holding out against the union they would step in and finish all uncompleted work at any price the men demanded.

This makes action imperative on the part of contracting plasterers, and during the week steps will be taken to secure men from the East, and in such numbers as to make it possible to displace every striker.

BLAME GENERAL CONTRACTORS.

The fact that general contractors have refused to cooperate, and the manner in which the "hold-up" deal was effected is deeply resented by the contracting plasterers, and they feel that protective and retaliatory measures are more than justified. In one instance a contractor was given no notice at all, the first knowledge of the union's action being when the men reported for work Monday morning. Others were notified Saturday when paying their men. Many owners were willing to give time, but general contractors would not do it.

One of the heaviest losers by the unjust demands of the union is S. McLeod, who is employing fourteen men. He has the contract for the plastering of the addition to St. Vincent's College, Grand avenue and Jefferson street. In order to accommodate students entering for the fall term the building must be completed by September 15. "Under the circumstances what could I do but give in?" said Mr. McLeod last evening. "The owners would gladly help me out, but they cannot. And even if they could the general contractor would finish at my expense. They have us pinched, sure. But it won't last. We can get all the men we want in the East, and when we get them here we will give them the preference. This 'hold-up' has been most carefully planned and with the assistance of a union contractor. He had a few days' work, requiring but three or four men. As men were scarce he could only secure help by hiring from others at an advance of wages. Then the union took up the matter on the ground that if this man could pay $7 per day other employers should be forced to an advance. The fact is there are but few men worth that wage. There are none of us who can stand the advance asked. We figured on a $5 basis, and to meet the increase demanded we will be forced to forego all profits and go down into our pockets to make up losses. Forced to do so by union regulations, we have been paying $5 per day to men worth but $3 and $4, and we have had enough of it. Before a month passes the situation will be revolutionized and we will be in a position to pay men what they are worth.

"This is not the first time we have been mulcted. Last year the same thing happened, and I was a loser in the sum of $800. Others lost accordingly. We don't propose to again submit to such extortion. If we could only contract for our work directly with the owners of buildings we would be in a position to better control matters. There will be any amount of work this winter, and we will be able to hold out fair inducements to eastern workmen so that an easy solution of the present trouble is assured."

ANOTHER HEAVY LOSER.

Another heavy loser by the action of the Plasterers' Union is Robert H. Jones, who is at present employing twenty men. "Some of my buildings must be completed by September 15," said Mr. Jones last night. "The general contractors have refused to grant an extension of time, and if I don't complete my contracts they will, and charge it up to me. I have no alternative. But I can assure you we are having our last experience with union extortionists. They are welcome to crow over their present successes. But when it comes to new work the situation will be different. These men are standing in their own light. This agitation will result in an influx of workmen from the East and we will be able to get all the help we want at our own terms. While we have been paying $5 per day here, throughout the East the wage has been $3 and $4. Men have been scarce and there is plenty of work. Content with $5 per day plasterers here had a good thing.

"Nothing was said to me about an advance in wages until last Saturday, when I was paying off my men. I went to the owners and asked for time, and in many instances it was granted. But the general contractors would not stand for it. So I had to surrender. To continue means a loss of $20 per day to me. You can easily figure out where I will land."

FOUND DEAD IN A KITCHEN.

Body of Unknown Negro Discovered by Workmen in New House Four Miles West of Whittier.

Lying face downward on the floor of a kitchen of an uncompleted house at Newmark, four miles west of Whittier, and with every evidence of having been dead several days, the body of a man as yet unidentified was discovered yesterday afternoon by a rancher and several workmen who were engaged in building another house across the road.

The body appeared to be that of a negro workingman, but it may be the remains of a Mexican. Henry Warren of No. 1018 Austin street, this city, was one of the workmen engaged on the new buildings, both of which belong to J. W. Collins of this city. Sunday, a farmer who lives near the place saw a man in the kitchen of one of the houses, but thinking he was asleep did not disturb him. Yesterday he again visited the place and found that the position of the man had not been changed. He then called to Collins and the other workmen and they made an investigation, which showed that the man was dead. Warren came to Los Angeles last night and reported the matter to the police, who notified the Coroner.

MINES AND MINING.

YELLOW ASTER PAY ROLL INCREASING RAPIDLY.

COMPANY RESUMES OPERATIONS WITH SIXTY-SIX MEN.

Miners' Union Strikers Trying to Win Over the Workers—Prominent Mining Man Coming—Nevada-Keystone Will Resume Work at Mill.

With a force of nearly seventy men the Yellow Aster Mining and Milling Company of Randsburg is once more actively engaged in the development of its great property. News received from the camp yesterday stated that Sunday thirty men were on the pay roll, and that yesterday thirty-six were added to the list.

The strikers have been making efforts to interview the men at the mine, but as far as possible they are kept from communicating with them. Although apparently orderly, the members of the union are watched, and while no outbreak is anticipated, no chances are taken. Sheriff Kelly, with a staff of deputies, is guarding the property of the Yellow Aster, and should any attempt be made to injure the mill buildings or to tap the company's pipe line, there will probably be a lively time in the town of many fires.

It is the intention of the Yellow Aster management to increase the force from time to time, and it is hoped that within a week or ten days the total pay roll will reach the point attained before the shut-down three months ago. At that time the company had in its employ 180 men. The men are going to work on the old schedule.

The thirty-stamp mill is being put in shape as fast as possible and Superintendent Barton expects to have it in operations before the end of the week.

PROMINENT MINER COMING.

E. A. Willsee, a prominent mining man well known in this country and England, is expected here in a few days. Mr. Willsee was recently appointed manager for the Venture Corporation (Limited) of London. This concern is one of the largest aggregations of capital that is seeking investment in mines on the western continent.

Mr. Willsee will have charge of the Venture's mines in the United States and Mexico. Recently the company acquired possession of important properties in the State of Chihuahua, including the Esperanza and El Oro mines. The company paid about $1,750,000 in gold for the El Oro, so it is reported. The mine is one of the greatest producers in the southern republic. Mr. Willsee is now in San Francisco.

NEVADA-KEYSTONE TO RESUME.

Arrangements are being made by the Nevada-Keystone Mining Company of this city to start its mill, which has been closed down for several weeks, on the 5th inst. Carl Andersen, the well-known mining engineer who has charge of the company's property in Southern Nevada, left for the plant Sunday.

The company, which is a local corporation, has opened one of the most promising properties in that part of the country, and already it holds an important place among the dividend payers. It is estimated that ore to the value of $400,000 has been blocked out, and work is in progress on the 500-foot level, where each stroke exposes more ore.

GOOD STRIKE REPORTED.

According to the Yuma Sentinel the strike recently made in the Castle Dome Mountains, Arizona, is a promising proposition. The strike was made about half a mile from the Oregonian mine, on a mesa at the summit of the pass through the range. Specimens show considerable gold, and while the property is but a prospect at best, indications point to a good body of high-grade ore being found with depth.

The strike was made by George W. Norton, who will shortly begin development.

ARIZONA CAMPS.

Work on the Benson smelter is progressing favorably. Masons are engaged night and day in putting in fire bricks in the furnace and making other improvements on the plant.

One of the best-known mines in the McCabe district, the Gladstone, is shipping a carload of ore daily. A force of thirty-five men is employed on the property.

IRON DEPOSITS OF MEXICO.

Mexican iron ore compares favorably with that of any other country in quality and quantity, says the Mexican Herald. Much of it is high grade and easily worked. That the majority of pig iron ore turned out is charcoal iron is due to the fact that the coal deposits are not developed, and this leaves charcoal as the only available fuel. Coal is imported for some of the commercial steel, but its cost at the point of using is practically prohibitive. This, however, is now being remedied in two ways, by the extension of railroad lines, and the utilization of local coal fields. The Rockefeller project includes a steel and iron plant on the west coast, to be at least as large as the Monterery iron and steel foundry, which is now turning out native iron and steel in every way equal to any imported material.

FALL MAY CAUSE DEATH.

G. A. Campbell Received Probably Fatal Injuries While at Work Near Fourth and Spring Streets.

G. A. Campbell, a brick mason, whose home is at No. 4 Bernard Park, yesterday received injuries which will probably result in his death by the collapse of a scaffold on a building in the course of construction adjoining the Hellman building at Fourth and Spring streets. With William Boegemar he was at work on the scaffold twenty feet from the ground, when a piece of 6 by 2 timber, the main support of the scaffold, broke and both men fell to the ground, Campbell underneath the other. He struck the side of his head on some hard substance and when assistance reached him he was unconscious. He was conveyed to the Receiving Hospital, where it was discovered that he had sustained a compound fracture of the skull, several pieces of bone protruding from the wound and the brain oozing therefrom. Police Surgeon Smith, assisted by other physicians, removed the fragments of skull from the wound and dressed the injury, and then had the injured man taken to the California Hospital. He is a man of robust constitution, and to that fact the doctors attribute his one chance of recovery. He stood the operation well, but it will not be known before today or tomorrow what his chances of recovery are.

His fellow workman was shaken up considerably but was not seriously injured. The accident is believed to have ben due to an unnoticed defect in the timbers of the scaffold.

LOS ANGELES PROOF.

E. S. Faucher, retired, of 118 S. 18th street, says: "I had attacks of kidney complaint for several years, and every time I caught a cold it settled in these organs and I suffered severely. When the spells were at their worst I could hardly stoop, or bend, or get up and down from a chair. On such occasions trouble with the kidney secretions existed and when last annoyed I noticed Doan's Kidney Pills advertised at Doan's Drug Store at Second and Spring streets and got a box. I found that the remedy did all that was claimed for it. In a very short time I was completely cured of the attack. I have taken a barrel of medicine during my life, but I never found anything which suited my case as Doan's Kidney Pills have."

TALKS WITH TRAVELERS.

"I do not want to criticize," said a prominent ornithologist who is staying at one of the smaller hotels of this city, "but on a trip to your Eastlake Park this afternoon, I noticed that only one bird in all the collection was correctly named.

"There were some nuns there who had with them about 150 little girls and they were showing the birds and animals to the children. 'This is a chicken hawk,' said one of them, pointing to the cage which contains four specimens of the gorgeous plumed, red-breasted hawk. The cage was marked chicken hawk, but incorrectly, for the species does not eat chickens or birds of any kind except on the very rarest of occasions. In the examination of the stomachs of 220 of this species of hawk, only two had any indications of chickens and only eleven showed the bones of birds of any kind. The red-breasted hawk lives on rats, moles and insects, and is a very beneficial bird.

"I take it that the parks are a wonderful field of education for the young and it would be just as easy for these birds to be correctly named as not. It would not take a bit more paint. The burrowing owl is marked 'ground owl;' the California screech owl is labeled 'dwarf-eared owl;' the barn owl is called by the name of 'pearl owl,' which is wrong and signifies nothing, as the bird is not even of a pearl color. In the cage marked 'wild doves' are several ring doves, which are the tamest to be found and are known as cot doves. A young bald eagle is marked 'gray eagle,' and in the adjoining cage is an eagle which might have been the father of the other, and this is marked 'bald eagle,' being the only bird that is correctly termed."

Knew Her Danger.

Smythe—You say she had the burglar covered with her revolver while her maid went to call the police; then how did it happen that he escaped?

Browne—Well, you see, the burglar was a foxy chap, so he said, suddenly: "Look out, there's a mouse!" While she was getting on a chair, he got out.—[Baltimore American.

TO STRANGLE THE TURNKEY.

Fierce Attempt of Prisoners in County Jail.

Plot to Repeat the Dark Crime of Folsom Prison.

Bold Scheme Was Foiled by the Prompt Rush of a Loyal Trusty.

Two desperate prisoners tried to overpower the guards and break out of the Los Angeles County Jail last Sunday night.

At the crucial moment, when the turnkey was nearly strangled and the door leading into the tank where most of the prisoners are confined stood wide open, Vieto Linares, a husky prisoner trusty, rushed to the rescue of the officers and prevented a repetition of the tragedy at Folsom Penitentiary.

As a result of the attempt to break jail, "Bull" White, a tough young ruffian convicted of highway robbery, and Charley Wilson, waiting trial for burglary, are confined in the dungeons under the jail where it is black as hades.

"Bull" White was the ringleader, although it is doubtful if he has sense enough to have planned the outbreak.

It took place about 6 o'clock Sunday night, when the blankets were being changed. It is the custom to take out the soiled blankets and bring in fresh ones at this time. "Bull" White, as a trusty of the inner tank, had the job of carrying the blankets in and out.

Turnkey Charles Gilbert had opened the door and stood at the top of the stairs leading to the middle tank. His key was in the lock. The door stood ajar and he had hold of the end of the key chain.

"Bull" White dumped his load of blankets down on the floor of the corridor and suddenly leaped on the unsuspecting turnkey. He threw one arm around his neck and gave him what is known among thugs as the "strong arm," a terrible strangle-grip which crushes the life out of the victim.

The burglar, Wilson, was evidently waiting for the signal. He slipped out of the door of the tank and grabbed the struggling turnkey by the feet and tried to upset him.

They were evidently trying to get the keys away from him, thinking that the bunch he carried would fit the outside doors as well as the doors of the tanks.

LINARES TO THE RESCUE.

Gilbert is strong and active and was making a great fight against the two of them, but would have inevitably succumbed but for the gallantry of Vieto Linares.

Linares is a handsome young Mexican of gigantic proportions and as lithe as Bagheera, the black panther. His strength, which is enormous, he wields with the sinuous quickness of his race.

He was somewhere below in the trusty tank. The door of it stands open, affording the inmates the freedom of the inner jail. Hearing the sounds, Linares came bounding up the stairs like a tiger and hurled the villains right and left from their half-strangled victim as though they were children.

At the same time Jailer White came to the outer door of the corridor with a sawed-off shotgun which would have mown the first man who came down the steps.

Either on account of this move or because of the suddenness of the whole thing, not another prisoner attempted to leave the tank. In a jiffy the tank door banged to and the great key turned in the lock. The insurrection was over.

White and Wilson, with terror in their hearts, were led down stairs into the two black dungeons. About an hour and a half in the hideous blackness of these places will bring the hardest and most desperate man to his knees, bellowing for mercy.

White and Wilson have been there since Sunday night, and by the time they get out they will be duly humbled.

The officers believe that there were more in the plot, but none have been uncovered as yet.

A vigorous effort was made to keep the attempted outbreak a profound secret, but it leaked out yesterday.

White's sisters came to the jail yesterday, and after an interview with the jailer, went out weeping. As it was the regular visiting day they probably came to the jail to see him and learned for the first time of his escapade.

FIENDISH "BULL" WHITE.

White is a thorough-paced scoundrel and brute. He is under sentence of twenty-five years for one of the most beastly crimes on record here.

He stopped an elderly woman in the shade of a signboard in East Los Angeles and robbed her of her purse, beating her until he almost killed her. The beating was sheer devilry, for she was willing enough, in her fright, to give him her money.

During the trial White's mother, who was half dead with a cancer, and one of his sisters were nearly heartbroken over him. His heartless indifference to them at that time disgusted every one in the courtroom. White is one of the tough youths who go to make up the "gangs" known to every city.

His case is now on appeal to the Supreme Court.

Wilson is a gentleman with several other names when the wearing of one too long causes him ennui.

His act is in direct violation of the etiquette of the underworld, which holds that the man yet to be tried should conduct himself with the utmost piety.

As for Vieto Linares—Vieto Linares is of the elect. Yesterday Linares fed on watermelon. Linares is lit.

Yesterday, when The Times artist drew a picture of him, he posed himself with the unconscious grace of a big jungle animal. "Only," he said, as pleased as a little child, "please do not make it look too desperate."

Know Their Tricks.

A certain cornchandler of London has just engaged an assistant who hailed from a little village near Leeds. This youth was remarkably "green," and apparently it had been impressed upon him by his friends in the village that the sharp London people would try and take rises out of him. A customer entered the shop, and when the youth appeared said:

"I want some bird seed, please."

"It's noa use, lad, tha kno's," answered the verdant one knowingly; "tha cannot hev me. Birds groas from eggs, not seed.—[London Answers.

THE ATTEMPT TO STRANGLE THE TURNKEY.

BARRETT AND THE ORIENT.

Diplomat Talks About the Expansion of Trade.

Some of His Experiences in Work for St. Louis Fair.

The Chinese Interpreter Who Answered Queries a Little Too Rapidly.

Hon. John Barrett, World's Fair Commissioner-General to Asia and recently appointed Minister to Argentina, spent yesterday in this city, arriving on the Owl from San Francisco in the morning and leaving on the Overland, via the Santa Fé, for St. Louis in the evening. He lunched with Gen. Otis at the Bivouac, and later went over to Pasadena, where he was entertained at dinner by Mr. and Mrs. Charles D. Daggett.

Perhaps on this Coast Commissioner Barrett is best known as former Minister to Siam, he having distinguished himself at that post. Nine years ago he said that America's trade with the Orient would double up in ten years and some Eastern publications scoffed at the idea. Today, by new statistics at hand, it is proven that for the last nine years the increase has been 112 per cent., the amount of business at the close of this year being $357,000,000, as against $124,000,000 at the close of 1894. "And now," said Mr. Barrett yesterday, "I have confidence in predicting that the trade at the close of 1913 will be over $500,000,000. It is absolutely necessary that the people of this western coast awake to the full realization of the importance of this rapidly growing Oriental trade. There are three unanswerable reasons why you people should take more than average interest in the coming World's Fair. First, because of the remarkable development of this coast itself and the increasing interest in that development which is being taken by Eastern capital, for the advertisement, if nothing else.

"Secondly, and perhaps even more emphatically, because of the unprecedented growth of the Oriental trade. The participation of the countries of Asia at the St. Louis exhibition will be the beginning of a new era of trade on the Pacific. The meaning of this to California and the Coast needs no exploitation.

"Closely allied with the second reason comes the third—because the Isthmian Canal is to be built. Men may doubt, but it is the destiny of the world that it be built, and that accomplishment will be the turning point of the growth and development of this continent. The East is packed with humanity and wealth waiting to overflow. The West will receive it and the thousands upon thousands of acres unopened, almost unpopulated hills and valleys of this great coast will spring with life and industry."

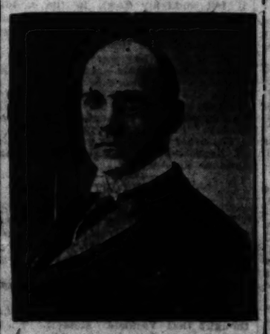
BARRETT'S DREAM.

The development of the Orient, the oldest and most backward section of the world today, and yet with perhaps the most adequate means for development, has been the dream, the ambition of John Barrett since he graduated from college and came to this Coast in 1889. His knowledge of the conditions existing today is commanding, and his hopes for the future of the western shore and the Far East are inspiring. The youngest diplomat in the service of the United States, and yet one of the most systematic and conscientious; a self-made man in every respect, having almost swept his way through Dartmouth College, where he even did janitor work for his board; one who works for distinction rather than money, he is a man with an ambition no lower than the highest.

He speaks of the scope of his work as Commissioner-General in modest terms. "On April 3, 1902," he said, "I left on my mission to the Orient and on April 3, 1903, I arrived back in St. Louis within two hours of my starting time, having covered 45,000 miles and having visited twenty countries representing two-thirds of the population of the world." He had not only visited these countries, but did business with all of them, and in no case were his advances turned down. "It was hardest of all," he says, "to make the Orientals realize the importance of the World's Fair. For example, the leading paper in Shanghai announced that I had come over for the purpose of inviting the Dowager Empress to attend a tea garden in St. Louis."

RATHER EMBARRASSING.

Another detail of his mission to China, which proved most amusing and yet very difficult to straighten out, was the interpreter's definition of the meaning of the "Louisiana Purchase" phrase in the name of the exhibition. A large meeting of merchants had been called by Sheng, the Pierpont Morgan of China, to hear of the American "tea garden." Over 500 moneyed men were present, and Commissioner Barrett stood on the platform and through an interpreter explained to them the importance of their cooperation in the exhibition. Questions were asked from time to time, and often the interpreter was so sure of the answer that he would rattle it off in Chinese without making the query to the Commissioner. Barrett rather feared that this course would lead to trouble, and suddenly noticing a remarkable awakening of interest in response to a question which had been answered by the interpreter, he inquired what the question and answer were. They wished to know what was the meaning of Louisiana Purchase, and were told by the interpreter that Louisiana was the name of the State in which the exhibition was to be held and that "Purchase" meant that all goods sent over to the fair would be bought. It took hard work to disabuse their minds of this impression, and much more to revive their disappointed interest.



HON. JOHN BARRETT.

Mr. Barrett regretted the necessity of leaving Southern California so soon, but he is called upon to be present at the ground breaking at St. Louis for the Imperial Chinese Pavilion, which is to take place next Saturday, and in which he is to take a conspicuous part. Shortly afterward he is to leave for Europe, where he will remain until the following December. He expects to spend the last two months at the World's Fair in St. Louis.

AN EXPRESS SLUR.

The statement was made in the Evening Express that Mr. Barrett was appointed as Minister to the court of the Mikado, but "the Japanese government objected, and Mr. Barrett was shifted to Buenos Ayres." This statement Mr. Barrett emphatically denies, stating that the appointment to Japan came to him in the middle of his work as Commissioner-General to foreign countries and he declined the Japanese appointment in order to complete his work as Commissioner-General. He would not have been able to accept his recent appointment to Argentina, except that President Roosevelt asked for his release from the Board of World's Fair Commissioners, which was granted, and his duties as Commissioner-General will come to an end upon his arrival in St. Louis.

LAWYER'S BLOOD SPILLED ON WALK.

OUTBURST OF LEGAL GORE IN FRONT OF HOLLENBECK.

Two Local Attorneys in a Fist Fight Over the Possession of a Contract. Separated by the Steward of the Cafe.

Just at the hungry hour of noon yesterday an appetizer was served up on the sidewalk in front of the Hollenbeck Café on Second street that wasn't inscribed on the bill of fare within. It was a fist fight between two Los Angeles attorneys, with dashes of blood as a zestful sauce. The blood stains resulting from the encounter could be distinguished on the sidewalk throughout the afternoon.

The "difficulty" occurred between H. G. Pound and John C. Calhain, the trouble arising over a contract just signed between them, pertaining to certain remuneration in a case now pending in the Superior Courts. According to Pound Calhain picked up both his own and Pound's copies of the contract and was unwilling to give either one up, saying that he wished to make some changes in the documents later. This procedure Pound objected to, and caught his fellow professional by the lapel of the coat, refusing to allow him to depart. Calhain, it is said, used force to break the restraint, and a brief but effectual battle began. During the melee a large stream of blood took flight down Calhain's face from a blow received just over the eye. The steward of the Hollenbeck Cafe made a sortie just then and, gently but firmly, persuaded the combatants to part, not, however, before Pound regained possession of the disputed document.

PERSONAL.

Dr. and Mrs. Kretchham have returned from an eastern trip.

E. E. Stone, a railroad contractor of Oakland, is at the Van Nuys.

Judge L. W. Collins of St. Cloud, Minn., is registered at the Westminster.

J. Reynolds, a stock broker and mining man of Salt Lake, is at the Angelus.

Lieut.-Col. A. P. Hodges of San Francisco, one of the staff of Gov. Pardee, is at the Nadeau.

A. E. Kalchein has returned from Philadelphia with his wife, formerly Miss Anna Wohlfield of the Quaker City.

Judge R. Carter Scott, a prominent jurist of Richmond, Va., and Fenton Cocke, also of Richmond, are guests at the Westminster. They are accompanied by their wives.

H. P. Wood, secretary of the San Diego Chamber of Commerce, was in the city yesterday on business pertaining to the San Diego exhibit to the St. Louis World's Fair.

Rev. Henry Blanchard, D.D., of Portland, Me., a New England pulpit orator of repute, lately called to take charge of a new Universalist church in this city, arrived yesterday and took quarters at the Westminster.

M. J. Kenna, Alderman from the First Ward of New York City, the politician of extremely small stature but large political power in his sphere, sometimes known as "Hinky Dinky," arrived at the Van Nuys yesterday with his wife and son. Rest and recreation form the avowed purpose of the New Yorkers' visit to the Pacific Coast.

BIGGEST PUZZLE YET IS THE HIGH SCHOOL.

IN THE vexing question now before the Los Angeles school authorities, how to teach a thousand more pupils than there are rooms for, the High School looms up as a paramount puzzle. There will be pupils enrolled at this institution for the term opening September 14 to the number of two roomsful more than can be accommodated. Last year two rooms were occupied by pupils of the High School proper in the Commercial High School building across the street, but this year the growth of the latter school will necessitate the withdrawal of the interlopers who have found shelter within its walls.

Arrangements have been made for a room in the California-street grammar school in which to place a few of the High School beginners. The grammar school pupils thus ousted will have to be scattered among the neighboring school buildings. What to do with the remaining overflow of the higher institution is a nut yet to be cracked.

The High School library room has been considerably improved during the vacation season through the removal of the regular school desks that encumbered it and the substitution of reading tables. This room cannot be used for regular classes, as it is the only available space in which students may study between recitations.

SUGAR JUMPS TEN CENTS A HUNDRED.

SUGAR, "all grades and all lists," advanced 10 cents a hundred pounds yesterday, without any apparent cause other than that the Western Sugar Refining Company says so, and its telegrams to that effect went out to all parts of the western coast and Arizona, like relentless hailstones from the trust cloud, beating down the poor merchant's profit.

"Sugar is very high now, and yet it looks as if a scheme was on foot to force it still higher," said a prominent jobber yesterday. "Perhaps the cause of this rise is that the refining company is oversold and cannot fill its orders on time. On its duplicates in the clause, 'Subject to delayed shipment,' showing an oversold condition. It is a phrase almost never used. The increased demand is undoubtedly caused by the fear that the Spreckels interests are about to control the sugar situation on this Coast by gaining control of the output of the W. A. Clark refinery at Alamitos. Although this has not been accomplished as yet, it is a significant fact that the Clark sugar is sold at exactly the same list as the trust sugar.

"There is very little Alamitos sugar being placed on the local markets, and as yet no orders for sugar from the Western Sugar Refining Company has been filled with other than the stamped output of either the Oxnard or Chino factories. I do not believe that Clark will sell his factory, but I do believe that when sugar has been forced up a little higher Claus Spreckels will offer him a set price for his output, and then the trust will be complete. It is now $5.85 a hundred, and there is nothing in it for the jobber or the retailer, and yet it represents one of our largest cash investments."

THE PUBLIC SERVICE.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

Chief Elton yesterday submitted to the Police Commission facts which show that the present City Jail is too small to accommodate prisoners, and recommended the erection of a larger building. The commissioners referred the matter to the Council.

The threat made by Eugene Reese against Patrolman Sherman Baker for alleged abuse at battery were filed with the Police Commission, and the hearing set for next Tuesday morning.

Four little horse thieves were arrested yesterday.

Walter Harvey was held over on a charge of highway robbery.

AT THE CITY HALL.

CHIEF ELTON WANTS BIGGER CITY JAIL.

IT SHOULD HAVE CAPACITY OF FIVE HUNDRED PRISONERS.

Present Quarters so Glaringly Inadequate—Felons May Hatch Plots Together — Police Commission Passes Matter up to Council—Reese's Charges Against Patrolman Baker.

Chief Elton wants the city to build a new jail. He submitted some facts to the Police Commission yesterday morning about the inadequacy of the City Jail, and recommended that an ample structure be erected, the present building to be turned over to some other city department. The Police Commission, not being empowered to act in the matter, referred it to the Council.

Felons may hold levees in their quarters now and discuss the best way of shielding a pal or how to get evidence out of the way, and plot new crimes.

To show the absolute necessity for larger accommodations for prisoners Chief Elton gives the following facts:

To house the overflow of inmates twenty-three cots have been put in the larger room on the lower floor and ten in the women's department.

There are seventy-six hammocks in the tanks and fifteen in the felony cells. This gives sleeping accommodations for 135 prisoners.

"This is the limit," says the report, "and necessities an unreasonable and unsanitary crowding, as for instance, there are at present in each of the tank cells, which are 6½x7½ feet, four prisoners.

"The total of 135 cots and hammocks also includes four in each felony cell. It frequently happens that the prisoners communicate with each other.

"In April, May, June and July, the months of lightest police business, there was a daily average of 145 prisoners in the jail, and frequently there are from 175 to 200. These numbers will be increased from 50 to 100 per cent during the winter months. On the day following last Christmas there were 275 prisoners and many of these were obliged to stand up all night.

"It would be a waste of money to try to make the present building suitable for the needs of the department," Chief Elton recommends that one be built capable of accommodating at least 500 prisoners.

MANY WANT TO PREACH.

SALVATION ARMY CARED FOR.

The Salvation Army yesterday asked permission of the Police Commission to hold street meetings in various parts of the city. Permission was granted without any discussion.

But other street preachers did not fare so well, their requests being referred to Chief Elton, who will see that the street locations are so divided that no two organizations will occupy the same place at the same time.

Will C. Trotter, superintendent of the Union Rescue Mission, asked permission to hold wagon meetings at Seventh and Los Angeles streets and on Fifth street between Hill street and Broadway. Archie F. Miller wants to instruct the citizenship of First and Los Angeles streets on socialism and the labor question, and S. A. Templeton of the Christian Family Church asked leave to hold meetings on the streets and lanes of the city. He did not mention the byways and hedges. I. H. McCormick of the Training School for Children also asked for a permit to use the streets.

OFFICER FOR CHURCH ROWDIES.

The Police Commission yesterday appointed N. B. Norfolk a special officer to quell the boisterous kids and hoodlums who have been disturbing the meetings of the Pico Heights Congregational Church. The church trustees asked for the officer, stating in the petition that church meetings have been all but broken up by young rowdies who stand outside and make a commotion especially designed to tantalize the worshipers within.

FOR TESTING MILK.

SIMPLE MEANS OF DOING IT.

The milkman needn't fool any more people with doctored milk, but housewives may foil the milkman, if they buy a bottle of amidol. This should not be construed as an advertisement. Health Officer Powers searched several years for some agency that would indicate with little expense and loss of time the presence of formalin in milk.

He stumbled onto a bottle of amidol six months ago, and now all he has to do to find whether there is a preservative in milk or cream or anything that is made from them is to throw in a few grains of amidol. The milk, if doctored, will turn a butter yellow within a minute. If it is not, the amidol will change it to a pinkish brown. Amidol is a gray powder and comes in bottles.

REPAIR'S CHARGES.

HEARING NEXT TUESDAY.

Eugene Reese, the painter, who accused Patrolman Sherman Baker of having kicked him Saturday night in the redlight district, submitted charges against that officer before the Police Commission yesterday morning.

Baker arrested Reese for being drunk, the charge standing against him on the Police Station blotter. Reese says that Baker used undue violence in making the arrest; that the officer drew his revolver, employed vile epithets and kicked him (Reese) on the legs, ankles and other more delicate parts of his body, so that it took the Police Surgeon an hour to staunch the flow of blood.

Reese was before the Police Commission yesterday, but had no witnesses, although he says that several persons saw the officer abusing and kicking him. A witness, who he claims made out a list of other spectators, has failed to show up yet, and it would appear that without confirmation Reese will hardly be able to substantiate his charges. There will be a hearing at the meeting of the commissioners next Tuesday morning, when Reese will appear with a pair of bloody trousers, the mute witnesses, he claims, to wounded legs.

Mormons Want to Picnic.

The Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, otherwise the Mormons, have petitioned the Park Commission for leave to hold a picnic at Eastlake Park next Wednesday, Admission Day.

AT THE COURT HOUSE.

LITTLE HORSE THIEVES WERE ARRESTED.

STOLE TWO HORSES AND TWO BUGGIES.

Nearly Killed One Horse and Hitched Another Stolen Beast on for a Tow. They Landed Way Over the Other Side of the Mountains.

Four wicked horse thieves, so little that they would be afraid in the dark, were locked up in the County Jail yesterday.

They not only stole one horse, but two.

One prisoner is a little boy, 14 years old, named Wulff.

He says that the other little fellows asked him to go out with them to look for a job. They landed at the Chutes, which he thought a funny place to look for a job. By an by, a couple of the boys drove up with a horse and buggy. They said it had been loaned to them.

They drove and drove until the horse was completely exhausted.

When pounding it would not make this horse go any further, they found another horse and buggy and appropriated it. They hitched this in front of the tired horse and made a tow. But the first horse was so weary that it fell suddenly down in the middle of the road; they left it and drove on.

They finally landed at Newhall on the other side of the mountains.

At Newhall they were arrested by a suspicious constable. As he was taking them to jail, one of them made a break and got away. This little fellow walked all the way to his home in Los Angeles and was caught here yesterday.

The other youngsters gave the names of Raymond Alvis, Ralph Mosquiras, Ignacio Botello.

JAP EXTORTION.

ONE WAS POMMELED.

Three squat-faced Japs walked sheepishly into jail yesterday because of the hurt feelings of Mr. T. Yamada, who claims that they extorted $13 from him.

Yama Saki lost a watch, and he thought that Yamada stole it. They wrangled over it for a while. Two days ago the section hands were paid off. Yama Saki got five of his friends together and they went to the tent of Yamada, dragged him out and demanded that he pay $13 to Yama Saki to make up for the watch. As a preliminary they pounded him around some, so that he might know how it was going to feel in case he refused to pungle. He pungled.

A German official will bring Masterson to New York if he is extradited.

THE INFERIOR COURTS.

IS LUSCIOUS HAMBURGER DOOMED TO GO?

BUTCHER ON TRIAL FOR FIXING MEAT WITH FREEZINE.

Meat Men Have Joined Issues in this Fight—Sixteen to One—They Claim that Sulphite of Soda Is Not Injurious to the Human System.

Beloved of tamale wagons, the hamburger steak wages its tall and barks with excitement, awaiting its fate in the outcome of the butchers' case in the Police Court.

The tragedy is being enacted in the trial of John Woolenslager, proprietor of the Chicago Market, charged with putting sulphite of soda (freezine) in his meat.

Woolenslager's lawyers contend that the sulphite of soda is not injurious and cannot come under the law punishing adulteration of food.

Fifteen other butchers are charged. They have agreed to abide by the decision of Justice Chambers in Woolenslager's case.

You get a confused idea of the virtues of freezine from this case. The prosecution's witnesses give you the idea that you sink into a decline after a dose or two. The idea the defense gives is that no decent Christian family should be without a quart or two in the house.

The city chemist, Julius Koebig, swore that about forty grains were found in half a pound of hamburger steak taken from the Chicago Market. This is equivalent to 1 per cent.

He says that the best medical authorities say that one-tenth of 1 per cent is injurious to the system.

On cross-examination, the defense attempted to show that freezine is beneficial in that it arrests decay and tends to prevent ptomaine poisoning.

Dr. Powers and Attorney Thomas Thornton had a long argument as to whether the United States government experiments showed sulphite of soda to be injurious to the human system or not.

"Isn't it a fact that the students at the United States Dispensary are growing fat on it?"

"I don't know whether they are growing fat or poor on it. I know I shouldn't like to eat any of it."

Dr. Powers said that he never allowed any hamburger steak to be used in his family unless it was chopped in the house.

Dr. Koebig went on the stand afterward and swore that so far as published, there has been nothing in the government reports to indicate that sulphite of soda is not injurious. He said the newspaper reports said the chemists had found all food adulterations to be more or less injurious.

The case will be continued this morning, when it will be shown that all the babies cry for sulphite of soda.

The butchers are being defended by Attorneys Thornton and Paul Schenck; Deputy District Attorney Beebe appears for the prosecution.

ROBBED EMPLOYER'S SAFE.

YOUNG CULPRIT CONFESSES.

"I don't know; I don't know why I did it."

That was the only excuse that young Frank Barber could think of yesterday for robbing his employer's safe under the most peculiar circumstances.

Barber is 20 years old and until this theft has been a trusted employé of the C. E. Bireley Printing House.

Yesterday morning Mr. Bireley came downtown to find his safe door open, the papers scattered all over the floor, the money missing.

Suspicion naturally fell on Barber.

Being put in the sweat box, he confessed to the detectives. He took them to where he had hidden the money. The cash was in an envelope mixed with a lot of old letters on a shelf. Several checks had been torn up and thrown into a garbage basket. In all the theft amounts to something like $69.

The queer thing about it was that Barber was not in need of money. He had cash in his pocket. His wanton destruction of the checks showed that he was not hard pressed.

When he was brought up in the Police Court yesterday, the boy sat and stared gloomily at the floor in front of him.

His brother-in-law stated to Justice Chambers that Barber is not quite right mentally.

The court postponed the passing of sentence until today, to give a chance to the relatives to produce medical testimony to this effect.

TOUGH YOUTH.

HIGHWAY ROBBER.

Walter Harvey, a tough youth who professes the most abject penitence now, was held over on another charge yesterday—highway robbery this time.

Harvey is alleged to have batted a man over the head with a bottle to get $1.10 he was carrying around.

Harvey met this man, Casper Schants, in the Tenderloin and persuaded him to go down the line of the red-light district with him. As they came out of one of the houses Harvey stole a bottle. When they went around a corner into the darkness, the youth cracked Schants over the head and went through his pockets. When Schants came to a little later, he was covered with blood and his friend, guide and philosopher had disappeared.

Harvey has several other charges against him.

WALTER HARVEY.

DIAMOND THIEF CAUGHT.

Negro Who Occupied Position of Trust Jailed for Theft of Valuable Ring and Confesses.

John Gates, one of the best-known colored men in the city, who, for a long time, has been chief porter in Cooksey's barber shop, was arrested last night by Detectives Hawley and Murphy, and will be prosecuted on a charge of grand larceny. He is accused of having stolen a diamond ring valued at $150, the property of Garret Wicks, an employé of the barber shop, who came here recently from San Antonio, Tex.

The theft was committed several days ago, and the two officers have devoted much time and labor to the case, which was rewarded last night by the recovery of the ring and the capture of the thief, for the accused is said to have acknowledge dhis guilt. Wicks had the ring in his vest pocket and left the garment hanging in the barber shop. Gates knew it was there. An hour later the ring was missed, and Wicks at once notified all the employés of the place of the theft. He then reported the matter to the detectives, who for a time were unable to find any trace of the missing property. They finally learned where Gates disposed of the ring, and at once accused him.

NO POLITICS IN MERGING BUSINESS.

CITY COUNCILS AND TRUSTEES WILL NOT HAVE SAY.

Voters Will Decide Whether Provisions of Consolidation Bill Shall be Adopted or Rejected Was the Verdict of Legislative Committee.

In providing for the merging of various county and city offices, politics are to be precluded by the Consolidation Commission. The Legislative Committee of this body met last night and discussed a roughly-drawn bill prepared by E. W. Camp, providing for the ways and means of merging the offices under consideration.

The distinctions between various classes of cities and towns as to their methods of adopting the provisions were at once manifest, it being apparent that a city with a freeholders' charter, like Los Angeles, would necessarily have to pursue a course different to a city under the general law in determining its action.

It was also deemed inadvisable to place the power of adoption or repeal in the hands of any city's legislative body, lest politics creep in. Mr. Camp's bill did not provide against such an outcome.

It was the consensus of opinion in the committee that the voters should decide at election the matters of the adoption and rejection of the provisions submitted, and the committee adjourned to meet Friday night without taking any action.

Although the offices of city and county treasurers have been proposed to be merged, it is likely they will remain as at present, it being known last night that the City Treasurer has to handle many funds peculiar to his office which could not well be placed in the hands of a general treasurer.

A Woman's Nagging Did It.

The persistent "nagging" of a woman has rooned Jeffersonville, Ind., of one of its oldest industries—the Julius Louis oilstone works. The factory was at one time one or two in the United States. It was built by Felix Louis about seventy years ago, and later passed into the hands of his nephew, Julius Lewis, who has amassed a fortune and has retired from active business.

Whetstone factories are common, but factories for the manufacture of oilstones are scarce. The genuine oilstone is made from a rouge stone found in the quarries of Arkansas. It is an exceedingly hard stone and scarce. The big, rough blocks were sawed up in stones of the required size. These stones would then be put through a process of polishing until the six surfaces became as smooth as glass and so hard they could not possibly be scratched. The oilstone is used in sharpening needles and fine steel instruments, where a delicate edge is required.

In sawing up the big stone blocks into stones of the required size, a liberal amount of sand and water was used, which, after passing through the saws, resolved itself into a thick yellow mud. This mud was carried by a constant stream of water from the factory into the gutter in front of the residence occupied by Mrs. George Coleman. She considered it a nuisance, and members of the City Council were appealed to. The factory was operated by H. H. Kent, for the Deer Lick Oilstone Company, which had leased the plant from Mr. Louis. Kent was notified that the mud nuisance must be abated, and he detailed a man to look after the cleaning of the gutter once a week. This did not satisfy Mrs. Coleman, who again appealed to the City Council. A second visit was made to Kent, who promised to clean the gutter twice a week. This failed to satisfy, and every morning at an early hour Mrs. Coleman would go out with her hoe and rake the gutter in front of her residence until the neighbors took notice and all spoke in unison against the mud nuisance.

This was more than Kent could endure, and he notified the company that he could stand the "nagging" no longer. As a result, the company purchased the machinery from Mr. Louis, and is moving it to Chagrin Falls, O., where a new factory will be built.—[Indianapolis News.

SAGE COUNSEL.

The lion is the beast to fight,
He leaps along the plain.
And if you run with all your might,
He runs with all his mane.
I'm glad I'm not a Hottentot.
But if I were, with outward calm,
I'd either faint upon the spot
Or bid me up a leafy psalm.

The chamois is the beast to hunt:
He's fleeter than the wind,
And when the chamois is in front,
The hunter is behind.
The Tyrolese make famous cheese
And hunt the chamois o'er the chasmsums;
I'd choose the former, if you please,
For precipices give me spasmsums.

Stay home and learn your catechismsum.

ADVERTISING FAKERS TO BE SUPPRESSED

MERCHANTS COMBINE TO MAKE "AD." GRAFT DIFFICULT.

Solicitors Must in Future Obtain the Indorsement of Secretary F. J. Zeehandelaar of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association.

So persistent have been advertising fakers in the launching of fraudulent schemes protective measures have become imperative on the part of the merchants.

In response to an appeal made Secretary Zeehandelaar of the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association, business men have agreed that no request for donations or subscriptions will in future be entertained, that advertisements placed in any but established publications unless with the indorsement from the Merchants' and Manufacturers' Association has been obtained. Notices to this effect are to be displayed in every place of business, which solicitors will be referred.

In taking the matter up with the merchants of Los Angeles, Secretary Zeehandelaar has sent out the following circular, accompanied by an official card setting forth the adopted rules governing donations, subscriptions and the giving out of advertising:

MERCHANTS' AND MANUFACTURERS' ASSOCIATION.

Los Angeles (Cal.) Aug. 29, 1903.

Your attention is again called to the many fraudulent schemes that have of late been perpetrated on the mercantile community and exposed through the efforts of this association.

A man named F. A. Cook collected many thousands of dollars from the merchants on an alleged convention to be held here next month of an organization of railroad employés that has no existence. Unfortunately, the matter was brought to the attention of this office, after a large amount of money had been collected. Many merchants were duped by him.

The publisher of the "Industrial and Picturesque Los Angeles" has been arrested, as it was clearly shown upon investigation that he had obtained many contracts through forged orders. It is claimed that since the case was dismissed, at the request of the District Attorney's office, he has again gone into the field trying to obtain advertisements.

Notwithstanding the circular sent to you some time ago in regard to a booklet to be known as a "Fire Department Souvenir," the promoter, claiming that one-half of the proceeds will be donated to the firemen's relief fund, is still in the field soliciting advertisements, under the guise of aiding a worthy object.

It is estimated that in these three schemes alone, not less than $15,000 of the good money of the merchants has been wasted.

How long will you continue to throw away money for fraudulent and worthless schemes that only benefit the promoters and frauds?

We have asked you repeatedly to inform the secretary of this association if such appeals are made to you and to insist upon the production of a letter of indorsement before contributing to any project or scheme of this character. He Wanted to Know.

"Will you tell me why it is that women always crowd into the three back seats of an open car?" asked the man with the bone milk-can charm on his watch-chain. "There may be seats to burn in the rest of the car, but they've got to butt in on the smokers' seats and keep some poor suffering man from his cigarette.

"If it was an arrangement of the street car company's I could understand it. Take a train of cars and you'll see a crowd on the rear platform of one smoking up to beat the band, and the fellows on the car behind getting their second-hand whiffs, but not daring to smoke themselves, because it's against the rules. Then on some lines you've got to go in front to smoke. Oh, they're dandies!

"But when it comes to women getting into the smokers' seats there's no exception. They'll take 'em for choice every time. They make men already there feel uncomfortable because they know they ought to be polite and stop smoking, and then they keep the other smokers out. Maybe they do it in the interest of reform. They must know. There's some reason for it. They—"

"Beg pardon," said the conductor, touching the man on the shoulder. "You can't smoke in these seats. Last three behind for smoking."

The man started. "Eh?" he said. "What! Why—er—blamed if that ain't so! Well, that's one on me."

He was in a fourth seat.—[Chicago News.

Mr. Barrett's Reputation.

Here is a story that is told on Hon. John Barrett and is beyond question true. He was taken by a friend to call upon some people one evening and had occasion to relate to them some incidents of his life in Siam and Japan. They became very much interested in his stories, and, as there were children in the party, he told several stirring tales of the Indian jungles. Among those who listened with evident pleasure was a lady who delighted in the official society of the capital and in her descent from Scotch lords and Irish kings.

Some months later when Mr. Barrett was in Washington he again met this lady.

"Oh," she exclaimed after a moment. "I remember you now. You are the man who told those charming tales. I'm going to invite a lot of my friends some evening and get you to come and tell those jungle stories."

And he actually did receive a note from her a few days later saying she had asked about fifty people to come, and listen to his jungle stories. "And," she added, "you will be quite the lion of the evening."

Mr. Barrett can stand for a great deal, but this was too much, and he fled the town after writing a hearty note, explaining that an important business matter called him to New York that day.—[Washington Post.

A Shrewd Diagnosis.

A number of children in Geneva who partook in one hour of meat pies, jam tarts, ham, cherries, green apples, coffee, iced beer, iced water, red wine, raspberries, fruit ices and chocolates were suddenly overtaken by a mysterious illness, which the doctors are inclined to think must have been due to something they had eaten or drunk.—[Punch.

Southern California Veterans Raise the Flag.

Camp Roosevelt, Long Beach, Impressively Opened.

Every Tent in White City on the Sands Already Taken. Warm Welcome.

Camp Roosevelt, Long Beach, the scene of the sixteenth annual gathering of the Southern California Veterans' Encampment Association, was formally opened yesterday morning. The exercises were simple, consisting of a flag raising, but they were made to be very impressive.

Shortly after 9 o'clock the veterans began to gather on West Second street and prepare for the march to the grounds. They were delayed somewhat waiting for the train which took the Los Angeles Drum Corps, but it was the first time any considerable number had been brought together and they proceeded to make a reunion of it. When the procession was finally formed it consisted of the Long Beach Marine Band; H. W. Lawton Camp, Sons of Veterans, as guard of honor; Veterans' Fife and Drum Corps of Los Angeles; and then several hundred of the veterans, escorted by the members of the Long Beach post, carrying the department and post banners from the camp. As they marched through the gaily decorated streets the visitors were everywhere given a cordial reception, showing how welcome they were as the guests of the city by the sea once more.

Arriving on the ground, the veterans and other organizations formed about the flagstaff and the ceremony of raising the flag was impressively carried through, as the folds of Old Glory swung in the breeze the band struck up "The Star Spangled Banner" and the Sons of Veterans Battery fired the national salute of twenty-one guns. Past Commander Ed Seymour of Highland made an eloquent and patriotic talk, peculiarly adapted to the occasion and to his audience. He was followed by Commander Brady, who briefly declared the camp open, and named it "Roosevelt."

For some time all the officers of the association have been predicting that this would be its most successful meeting, and the prediction has already been gulfilled. Late Monday night the last tent of the original order was taken, and more were sent for at once. The attendance is already far beyond what it usually is at this time, and they apparently have only commenced to come. One of the reasons for this unusual measure of success is to be found in the location of the camp. This year it was taken from the high ground and placed on the sand at the foot of American avenue and next to the ocean. When leveled and swept by two or three high tides the sand made an excellent foundation for the camp, and a most delightful home for the visitors. The fact that all the tents were taken before the encampment opened was the best possible evidence of the popularity of the site. In addition the fact that so many of the visiting veterans have been planning to attend this encampment has assisted in calling out the crowds from all parts of Southern California to meet them.

Having plenty of room, the camp ground has been better planned and the tents have been more comfortably placed than in the past. The large assembly tent has been erected at the east end, near the steps down the bluff from American avenue and the headquarters tents are in a semicircle at the western limit. Between the two stretch the rows of living tents with plank walks in the streets like a sure-enough city. Everything has been well planned and it is undoubtedly the most comfortable as well as the most sightly camp the association has had.

Last night Long Beach extended a formal welcome to her guests at the first meeting in the big tent. S. Townsend, Mayor of the city, gave the ex-soldiers and their wives assurances that they are always welcome in Long Beach and that it is one of the ambitions of the people he represents to make that city the permanent home of the association.

Responses were made by Justice H. A. Pierce for the veterans, Mary E. Hattery for the Ladies' Auxiliary, and Judge Curtis D. Wilbur. The remainder of the programme was purely informal, several of the well-known speakers in the audience being called upon to contribute to the general entertainment. On the whole this encampment may be said to be most auspiciously started.

UNIDENTIFIED DEAD.

Body of an Unknown Man Found in an Unfinished House at Newmark.

Buried in Potters' Field.

The body of the man found Monday in an unfinished house at Newmark, four miles west of Whittier, has not been identified, and decomposition had advanced to such a stage that the Coroner ordered immediate burial. The Coroner's investigation yesterday established the fact that the man had committed suicide. A partly-filled bottle of strychnia was found on the floor near the body, and the evidences of struggle before death convinced the Coroner that the victim ended his life by taking the drug.

A witness has been found who saw the man lying in the kitchen of the house last Saturday, but thinking he was asleep, no thought was given to the circumstance. On Monday this same witness went to the house again and seeing that the man had not moved, made an investigation and found him dead.

At first it was reported that the unknown was a negro or dark-skinned Mexican; but yesterday the Coroner found the body was that of a white man. This mistake was caused by the fact that the face and neck of the deceased had been exposed to the air and were blackened from decomposition.

Deceased was nearly or quite 6 feet in height, and appeared to have been about 40 years of age. He wore a black coat and vest and light striped trousers. His hair was dark in color, as was his heavy mustache. The body was shipped to Los Angeles for burial.

A Tardy Reward.

A gallant act performed 45 years ago was at last rewarded a few days ago in the Gates-avenue Police Court, Brooklyn. A grizzled old Irishman named Graham was arraigned before Magistrate Naumer, charged with intoxication.

"Were you drunk?" asked the court.

"Sure, your worship," answered the prisoner. "I did have a drop or two."

"Ever arrested before?"

"Onct," returned Graham. "It wur about 45 years ago, whin I wur but two days in the counthry."

"And what was the trouble?"

"Sure, I wur walking down the strate when I saw a big broth of a spalpeen batin' the life out of a poor sick devil of a lad, an' I sailed in an' gave the big one a lickin' which I'm thinkin' he hasn't forgot yet."

"Graham," said the court, impressively, a gallant deed like that should not go unrewarded, even after 45 years. Sentence suspended."—[New York Times.

Wicks: Yes; he was grumbling about the weather, as usual.

Hicks: I wonder what sort of weather he likes, anyway?

Wicks: The sort of weather he likes best, it seems, is the sort we don't happen to be having at the moment.—[Philadelphia Public Ledger.

LEARINGS. The credits exBANK at the Los Angeles clearing-changday were $1,107,350.52. For the housending date last year they were cor008.18. Same date in 1901, $656,-$%. For the month of August clear-s amounted to $22,906,577.05, against 3,147,324.13 in 1902.

TO PREVENT STRINGENCY. The statement is made at the Treasury Department that Secretary Shaw, in anticipation of a possible money stringency this fall when the movement of the crops begins, has set aside $40,000,-000 which will be immediately available in case of emergency for the relief of the market. This amount or any part of it, can be at any moment placed in national-bank depositories and will afford immediate relief in case of necessity. The Secretary, of course, will be the judge of the situation and will only make use of these funds when he has become convinced that the financial interests of the country demand their employment.

Under the law, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to deposit the receipts of the internal revenue and miscellaneous receipts in the national-bank depositories, although he is debarred from so using the customs receipts. After these receipts are once covered into the Treasury he cannot remove them except to pay appropriations. Last autumn, when the condition of the money market was such as to make action by the Treasury Department imperative, the Secretary following precedents, diverted the internal-revenue receipts into the national banks at the rate of about $500,-000 a day. It would take two months under this system to pay out $40,000,000 and the relief afforded was slight. Profiting by this experience Secretary Shaw early last spring began to take precautions to prevent the recurrence of such conditions. Since that time he has been segregating the receipts from internal revenue from those of customs until he has accumulated at the present time $60,000,000. This money is held on deposit with the Treasurer of the United States and technically has not been covered into the Treasury. The importance of this action can scarcely be overestimated. It removes all possibility of a panic, or financial stringency, in the money market this autumn.—[Wall Street Summary.

COMMERCIAL.

PIG STICKING. The Cincinnati Price Current of August 27 says there has been a light marketing of hogs the past week. Total western packing 290,-000, compared with 270,000 the preceding week, and 355,000 two weeks ago. For corresponding time last year the number was 295,000, and two years ago 275,000. From March 1 the total is 5,878,-000, against 9,180,000 a year ago—an increase of 690,000. Quality running from fair to good. Prices are higher, prominent markets at the close averaging $5.85 per 100 pounds, compared with $5.45 the preceding week, $5.50 two weeks ago, $7.65 a year ago, and $6.95 two years ago.

The speculative provision market was rather quiet the past week. There were no important features developed in the trade to influence prices. The slight gain in values shown by this comparison with the closing figures a week ago was credited to short interests covering their outstanding contracts. There was an advance in hog prices, but this did not seem to have any appreciable effect on the market. There was a lack of interest in the trade, and the sales were small. The export clearances of product were fair, but show a decrease as compared with the preceding week, but an increase over the corresponding week last year.

The following shows the lowest, highest and closing prices of leading articles at Chicago for the week, for deliveries indicated, and also the closing a week ago and a year ago:

GENERAL BUSINESS TOPICS.

CITRUS-FRUIT SHIPMENTS. Shipments of citrus fruits from Southern California on Monday were 4 carloads of oranges and 2 of lemons. The total shipments for the season, from November 1, 1902, to date, are 21,769 carloads, of which number 2558 carloads are lemons.

CANNED FRUITS. Local canners report an increased demand for canned fruits. The pack of ... pears seems to have been unequal to the demand and some grades of peaches are well sold out. Freestone peaches are now sought by the packers, but not many are to be had.

LOCAL PRODUCE MARKETS.

Business is somewhat less active in produce lines, but is still large, the season considered. Not many changes in price can be quoted. Local "Salinas seed" potatoes are favorites in the markets. They sell at $1.85. In spite of the heavy supply of inferior goods the bottom on good sound potatoes is about $1.25. Earlier shipments from Salinas have not "stood up" well, but as they become riper the quality improves. Sweet potatoes remain firm at 2½@3 cents. Cabbage is weaker, going at 1½@75 cents per sack. Onions unchanged.

NEW YORK MARKETS.

SHARES AND MONEY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Yesterday's increase in the volume of trading was cut in two today, the aggregate sales falling to below a quarter of a million shares. A fair share of this was done in the first two hours of trading. Prices of a number of the principal market leaders ran off in time a point or more, but there was no important recovery after that, but the market fell into profound dullness and prices remained almost stationary. The dullness was lifeless and heavy. There was nothing in the news of the day bearing on the prevailing tendency of the prices of stocks. It was accepted simply as a demonstration of the futility of the efforts of professional traders to move prices upward to any large extent. A part of these efforts had consisted in conveying the impression that the large financial interests were in sympathy with the movement. There were operations in today's market which were understood as intended to show that the large banking and railroad interests felt no approval of these professional efforts to advance stocks. Brokers who have supported the market while professional bears were attempting to force declines during the past week and who were supposed to act for great financial leaders, held openly today in different stocks around the room. This led to the presumption that it was intended to discourage efforts to lift the prices. An attempt to stimulate speculation on account of the emergency relief held in readiness by the Secretary of the Treasury is felt to be unwise, and there is a feeling of disapproval of any course which would tend to create an emergency in the money market on account of the proportion of an available fund in the treasury ready for deposit in the banks to be largely undisturbed. The time-money market has become almost wholly nominal, owing to lightness of the demand, but bankers are not disposed to urge their funds upon borrowers. Interior exchanges are beginning to move again, New York discount at Chicago falling to 40c today, compared with 20c per thousand yesterday. Interior banks which have been recipients of internal revenue payments, in covering these receipts into the treasury are doing so through the New York subtreasury on orders on their New York correspondent. This is an indirect manner of currency shipment to the interior. Yesterday's vhary of the transfer of the underwriting syndicates' holdings to Metropolitan securities, to other inside interests was decidedly modified today. The rise in the local tractions shaped the advance elsewhere, and today's sharp reaction in those stocks was the corresponding sympathy. Wall street was inclined today to regard the operations rather the working of important interests to the end of liquidating parts of the holdings for consolidation. The Weather Bureau's weekly report was not considered reassuring, either as to cotton and corn, and the wheat market also reflected bullish sentiment. The very favorable July statement of the Reading system was made the occasion for profit-taking in the same that other recent good showings have been. The continued realizing in Amalgamated Copper also had some unfavorable effect. There was a further advance in sterling exchange on demand for remittance by tomorrow's steamer, but the market reacted slightly when this demand was satisfied. The bond market was dull and irregular. Total sales, par value, $1,350,000. United States 2s, new 4's and 5's advanced ¼ per cent, on the last call.

GENERAL EASTERN MARKETS.

GRAIN AND PRODUCE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Continued good weather in the Northwest, together with good cash sales, gave an easy start to wheat, December opening ¼ to ⅜ lower, at 71¼. There was a better feeling locally, with a fair demand from shorts, but free offerings by pit traders kept prices down until the government report was received, and the market became firm. There was little interest in the trading, which was the lightest experienced for several weeks. The close was at the top, 69⅞ for December, a net gain of ⅝ to ¾. The feature in the corn pit was the covering in the September option by shorts on predictions of cold weather West and the bush.ss government bulletin, which declared only warm weather urgently needed. There was but little corn in the market, and that was quickly absorbed. December closed strong at an advance of ⅝ to ¾ at the high point of the day, 49½, having sold up with few breaks from 50⅝@⅞. Oats were quiet, but firm. The strength in corn with unfavorable crop reports helped the market, and the close showed a gain in December of ¼, at 34⅝, after ranging between 34 and 34⅝@34⅞. Provisions were dull and without showing considerable strength. Hogs were steady, and there was fairly good support throughout the day by packers and commission men. Short ribs were 7½@10c higher, at 7.35. January closing at 6.65.

SAN BERNARDINO, Sept. 1.—The police took into custody yesterday a man who seemed to be crazy on lines somewhat out of the ordinary. SANTA ANA.

ALMOST A BLAZE.

SANTA ANA, Sept. 1.—J. A. Hankey's bicycle and automobile repository had a narrow escape from destruction by fire last night through someone throwing a smouldering cigar stub in a box of sawdust. When an employé opened the store this morning it was filled with smoke. The box of sawdust had been burned, while the fire was just commencing to make inroads upon the floor. A few minutes more and the building would have been a mass of flames.

FULLERTON.

SCHOOL BONDS DEFEATED.

FULLERTON, Sept. 1.—An election was held in the new Randolph school district Monday afternoon on the proposition of issuing $3000 in bonds for a new schoolhouse, but it was defeated 16 to 1. The district takes in the Brea Cañon Oil Company, the Union Oil Company and Menges Oil Company districts and comes south a short distance into La Habra Valley from the mouth of the cañon. The children of the cañon have been attending La Habra school, and some of the voters opposed the bond proposition on the grounds that the new site selected, near the townsite of Randolph, is too far away from the oil wells and that the children would have to come down in private conveyance, in the same manner as they have been attending La Habra school. Another reason why the bond question was opposed was that some voters believed $3000 too much to invest in a school building for a small district. The district will not suffer for lack of a building, as the Union and Brea Cañon Oil companies will erect a temporary building which will probably be used the remainder of this year.

ON THE SIDE.

A meeting was to have been held at Anaheim last night to decide whether or not the mother colony would give a street fair, but the attendance was so small no action was taken.

"TOM PAINE" METHODISTS.

Movement to Dislodge the Heterodox Professors.

Another Hot Pot Bubbling for Big World Conference.

Los Angeles Center for Newly Organized Movement Against "Higher Criticism."

"Tom Paine Methodists!" This is the very latest phrase in the vocabulary of the followers of John Wesley; and it is the outcome of a bitter controversy that is bound to have a hearing at the session of the General Conference to be held in Los Angeles next May.

The "higher critics" have been the cause of all this trouble, which the exponents of "orthodox Methodism" say has permeated many parts of the church and has infected both clergy and bishops. The opposition to the "higher criticism" hopes to bring up its advocates with a sharp turn and make them step back into the traces or get out.

The seat of the troubles lies in the two main theological schools of the church, the Garrett Biblical Institute at Chicago, and the Boston Theological Seminary. These schools, the opposition claims, are in existence by the suffrance of the Methodist Church, and yet are teaching the students attending them doctrines that attempt to undermine the very foundation of the Christian religion, destroying their belief in the authenticity of the Bible and the divinity of Christ.

As usual, when there is any important movement on hand, Los Angeles figures in the controversy. This city has been selected as the headquarters from which the movement to squelch the "higher criticism" in the church's schools is to be carried on; and a thoroughly organized work on this line is well in hand.

The movement has the backing of many of the prominent clergy and laymen of the church, and a periodical entitled "The Methodist Outlook" is published to disseminate news of the controversy, and to show the general body of Methodists the "grave danger" to which the church is exposed in the teachings of the two theological schools.

Rev. Harcourt W. Peck, S.T.D., of Covina, is the editor; R. C. Powers, a well-known layman, who resides at No. 720 Beacon street, Los Angeles, is the manager and treasurer; and Rev. George W. Coultas of South Pasadena is the secretary of the movement to check the present teachings. The first and last of these men, by the way, were students at the Boston school, and were among the leaders there who made a stand against accepting the instructions of Prof. H. G. Mitchell. Sixteen divinity students at that institution left the school when those in authority sustained the professor, and from that time the controversy has raged until it is now in a fair way to be settled at the coming General Conference.

The August issue of the Methodist Outlook has just come out here, and it dishes up hot stuff for the edification of the general church, and especially for the enlightenment of the delegates to the General Conference. An edition of 6000 copies has been printed, and more will be forthcoming if this does not supply the demand. It is the intention of the publishers to place the issue in the hands of the delegates as rapidly as they are elected, so that they may be thoroughly familiar with the facts before coming to Los Angeles next May.

The present number of the Outlook starts out with a comparison of the teachings of Tom Paine to the instruction given by the church's theological professors. It says:

"It is an opportune time at this 200th anniversary of the birth of the human founder of Methodism, to lay before you the real character of what is now being taught our sons and daughters in Methodist schools.

"Methodism was born in a university and has always been a firm friend to educational institutions. She is noted for her toleration, but she has never tolerated those who attack the Bible and the Christ.

"The following pages set forth in an unanswerable way, by quoting their own language, the fact that Dr. Milton S. Terrey, Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill., and Dr. Hinckley G. Mitchell, Boston University School of Theology, Boston, Mass., are teaching in many ways the same things against the authority of the Bible and the Christ that Tom Paine did in the latter part of the eighteenth century.

"Whatever the motive, the fact remains that what was at that time and has been ever since recognized as Deism and Infidelity is now taught our young ministry as 'devout criticism' and 'reverent investigation' of the Bible.

"Wesley and his coadjutors saved England and America from the results of Paine's teachings. Shall we now tolerate men teaching Paine's views in our very theological schools?

"Dr. Terry, Dr. Mitchell, and their friends of the higher criticism attack the foundations of the Bible, and do not hesitate to even attack the Deity of Jesus Christ. . . . If we allow our sons and daughters to be taught the agnosticism of rationalists and infidels, for most of them there can be but one result, viz., they will become infidels. . . . There is but one conclusion to draw, viz., that they (the professors) believe that Paine was right in most of his assaults upon the Old Testament in particular.

"If so, then we have the marvelous fact that one of the most inveterate haters of God and His Book really leads the way by nearly a hundred years in what is now called 'scientific,' 'devout,' 'scholarly' criticism of God's Book.

"The question, 'What can we do about it?' forces itself upon every Methodist. Do not send your sons and daughters to any school where such teachers are allowed to remain on the faculty. Do not support such schools. Send delegates to the coming General Conference in Los Angeles who will unflinchingly insist that such teachings must be stopped, and if any school does not heed the voice of the church that it shall cease to be known as 'Methodist,' and have Methodist patronage withdrawn.

"It is fully unutterable to sit with folded hands and say, 'It will come out all right.' No, it will not. Paine, Voltaire, Terry, Mitchell, etc., cannot destroy the Bible, nor even affect it; but our higher critics are now making infidels out of our sons and daughters who are taught by them."

PROFESSORS CENSURED.

At the last session of the General Conference this matter was brought up and a mild resolution of censure was passed; but the same faculty was retained at each school. It is said the professors paid no attention to the resolution, and have continued their objectionable teachings. The matter will now be vigorously presented before the General Educational Committee, and it is said the sentiment against the two schools has grown to such strength that in order to save them to Methodism a change in the faculties will be demanded.

Twelve of the annual conferences have already passed resolutions demanding of the General Conference action on this line; and among them was the annual conference of Southern California, which declared that "The Southern California Conference does hereby express its emphatic disapproval of such teachings, and that we withdraw from the Boston Theological Seminary our indorsement as a conference, and that we advise our young men to attend some other theological school."

BISHOPS ARE MIXED.

It is said that the reason prompt action has not been taken in deposing the professors who are alleged to be teaching false doctrine is that they have the support of some of the bishops of the church in their contention for "higher criticism." Several of the bishops have come out with strong condemnation of this movement, among them being Bishops Mallalieu, McCabe and Joyce. It is said that among the men in high places who have given aid and comfort to the "higher critics," and have sustained the unpopular professors, are Bishops Warren and Hamilton.

In each local conference from now on until the meeting of the General Conference, the matter will be taken up, and the projectors of the movement declare that in the face of such strong resolutions as are being passed the General Conference can take no other course than to purge the theological schools of the unorthodox teachers.

Sport Costs Money.

With a crew of fifty-five on the Reliance and a crew on the tender Sunbeam there are many men to be looked after daily. The yacht's sailors are paid $35 a month or more, and there is a scale of prize money, arranged by Mr. Iselin, so liberal that a Reliance man, if he is saving, will end the season with a tidy amount to his credit. The nine men who own the defender will bear the burden of that vessel's expenses, but the syndicate does not meet the personal bills of Mr. Iselin, the managing owner.—[New York Evening World.

THE OIL INDUSTRY

STRIKE AT LAST FOR THE LA GRACIOSA.

SANTA BARBARA PROVED FIELDS ARE EXTENDED.

Heavy Flow Appears at Depth of Three Thousand Feet of Excellent Quality. Maricopa Well the Wonder of Sunset. Exhibit Almost Ready.

After having expended over $60,000 and drilled to a depth of about 3000 feet, the La Graciosa Oil Company has just struck a heavy flow of oil on its property, the Harris Rancho, near the Western Union Company's field, west of Los Alamos, in the northern part of Santa Barbara county.

Experts report the gravity the lightest of any from wells in the West.

The flow of gas was so strong that one of the employés, who was moving about the premises after dark with a lantern, was seriously injured by an explosion caused by the light coming in contact with the fumes of the well. For several seconds the atmosphere in the vicinity of the well was a mass of flame. The damage to property, however, was very slight, as all employés on the premises responded quickly to the alarm.

The discovery of oil in this section of Santa Barbara county is declared by experts to be of great importance, as it demonstrates the fertility of a field hitherto thought to be unproductive, and adds to the proved oil lands of the county many square miles.

MARICOPA A WONDER.

One of the biggest wonders in the Sunset oil field is the new well of the Maricopa Oil Company, which is making a record as a producer. According to word received from the field yesterday, at times it produces oil at the rate of 1000 barrels a day.

The drillers never have been able to land the casing in the hole, or even come within a hundred feet of it. The gas pressure is immense, and notwithstanding the failure to land the casing the oil continues to spout day and night. All rods have been taken out, and operators are now attempting to get control of the immense stream of oil.

Sunset has produced many big wells, but the new one is probably the biggest that has ever broken loose in that corner of the territory. A special excursion party went out from Bakersfield yesterday to view the wonder.

PLENTY OF SUNSET OIL.

Reports from the Sunset and Midway fields say that there will be plenty of oil ready for transportation as soon as the pipe line is completed. There are now large quantities on hand in the sump holes of various companies which have long been waiting for an opportunity to market their product. It is impossible to form accurate estimates of the amount which several companies have on hand, but it is large.

The pipe for the line has not yet been received, but the trenches are being made ready for it, and when it comes a large force of men will be put to work immediately laying it. The owners hope to have the line ready for operation by some time in November if no unforeseen delays arise.

OIL EXHIBIT ALMOST READY.

The work of collecting the oil exhibit for the St. Louis Exposition is almost completed, and that California's important industry is to be well presented is now evident. The fields in this end of the State have been canvassed by a representative of the State Mining Bureau, and the northern districts are now coming in for attention.

The matter of collecting exhibits from the refining companies will be taken up later. Already several of the prominent operators have agreed to send samples of their product.

SAN FRANCISCO MARKET.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—At the morning session of the California Stock & Oil Exchange sales were made at the following figures: 100 Monte Cristo, .70; £25 Sterling, 2.80.

NOISY FAITH HEALERS ROUSE NEIGHBORHOOD.

PEOPLE DRAWN IN FROM STREET BY THE UPROAR.

Young Negro Paralytic Said to Have Leaped and Ran After Prayers for His Restoration—Conversions and Crowds at All Meetings.

The excitement and shouting and noise at the "faith-healing" meetings in the Temperance Temple became so great yesterday afternoon that people rushed in from the street to see what was going on; and the managers of the building came down and requested the leaders to close the meeting, as it was disturbing their tenants.

The afternoon meeting filled the auditorium, and several testified to having been divinely healed. Dr. Yoakum last night stated that about ten cases were known as the results of this meeting, and that the climax was reached when a young colored man, who has been paralyzed in both left arm and leg for the past four months, was anointed with oil, and during the prayers for his restoration he jumped up, threw his crutch away, and leaped across the room, then ran out of the building and home to tell the news of his healing. This brought an uproar of shouts and songs of praise until the meeting was closed.

Last night another large crowd was in attendance, and several conversions were reported, while several more persons testified to having been healed. Dr. Yoakum states that during the day there were probably twenty cases reported of faith-healing.

The doctor explains the difference in the stories of the Sunday-afternoon healing of Miss Nash by saying that in his excitement he did not make himself understood and that he intended to state that Miss Nash there testified as to her healing, and he did not intend to say that she was healed at that meeting.

The Pisgah Faith Home workers are being assisted in the meetings by several of the city clergy. Among those who participated last night were Rev. Mr. Ostrom, Swedish Baptist minister; Evangelist Ellis, a preacher from the Nazarene church; Dr. Osley of Chicago and Dr. Chaffin of Boston, who is now staying at Santa Monica.

I HAVE been treated by Dr. Schiffman for years. I have tried all his different methods and can say unhesitatingly no dentist or physician has ever operated with such success or skill. In extracting my teeth he did it without any pain to me. It is a great pleasure to me to recommend him and his method of treatment. MILO M. POTTER, Prop. Van Nuys Hotel and Hotel Potter, Santa Barbara.

Ten years ago a reputable D. D. S. of Va. told me that a certain molar tooth could not be satisfactorily saved and that it would probably not be of service for one year. It has not only served me for ten years, as Dr. Schiffman saved and crowned it, and comparatively speaking without pain. I sing his praise. I. M. ANDREWS, Pastor M. E. Church, South, Cor. 6th and Mateo Streets.

On account of some unfortunate experience I had in the extraction of my teeth I became a great coward in this respect. Today Dr. Schiffman extracted one of my very refractory teeth without causing me one particle of pain. D. K. TRASK, Judge Superior Court, Los Angeles.

Dr. Schiffman extracted a tooth for me absolutely without pain. His advertising phrase, "Didn't Hurt a Bit," is literally true. R. D. HOLABIRD, Pacific Electrical Works, Under Nadeau, First St.

EVERAL years ago Dr. Schiffman did some crown and bridge work for me which has proved entirely satisfactory. The work was done painlessly and with great skill. It gives me great pleasure to recommend him. IRVING R. SMITH, L. A. Times.

Dr. Schiffman has put in almost an entire upper bridge for me. The bridge is perfect in every respect, and I can use it as well as my natural teeth. The work was promptly and painlessly done. J. F. WILL, 601 West Twelfth.

Dr. Schiffman pulled two of my wisdom teeth, and it didn't hurt a bit; on the contrary, the sensation was pleasant. GUY L. HARDISON, Vice-Pres. Herald Pub. Co.

It is with pleasure that I state that I have had several teeth filled by Dr. Schiffman, and that he killed and extracted the nerve and filled the root of one of my teeth, and put on a porcelain crown, which cannot be distinguished from a natural tooth, all of which was done without pain. JUDSON R. RUSH, Of Davis & Rush, Attorneys, 9 Rogers Bldg.

I have had porcelain crown work and some filling done, also had ten teeth and roots extracted by Dr. Schiffman, and take great pleasure in recommending his method to anyone wishing dental work done without pain. MRS. G. T. W. SCHRAMM, Member of Paloma Schramm, Cor. Austin and Wadsworth.

Dr. Schiffman has put in a very satisfactory piece of bridge work for me and I cheerfully recommend him to anyone in need of dentistry. F. FLORENTINE, 1520 North Main St. County and City Criminal Photographer.

About a year ago I had a solid gold bridge put in by Dr. Schiffman. The work was absolutely painless, and has proved entirely satisfactory, and I cannot say too much in praise of the doctor. GUS BASLER, 218 W. First St.

Dr. Schiffman extracted my teeth and replaced same by bridge work. He also treated and filled two teeth, which I thought were too far gone to save. The above work was all done painlessly and is perfectly satisfactory. E. A. POLLARD, 727 Central Ave.

This is to certify that Dr. Schiffman did some crown work for me seven years ago and the work is as good today as it was when he finished the job. S. J. McKENZIE, Police Officer, 1427 Essex St.

I have had fourteen teeth extracted positively without pain by Dr. Schiffman. He is a wonder. CARL OTTO, Park Policeman.

Have just had a large back tooth extracted by Dr. Schiffman; had been bothering, but it was only a trifle and gave no pain. FRED A. DAY, Deputy City Assessor.

The recent visit of Bi Conaty had much to do with set the controversy, though Father relly has all along been reasonable the deal, while still claiming co rights.

The cemetery was to have placed between Fair Oaks and mond avenues south of Montana, on a tract of land which Father relly, acting for the Catholic Ch purchased for $2000. As soon as neighbors learned that it was to used as a burial place, there w loud outcry, and the priest was upon and pleaded with and abo other sites that seemed just as for the purpose. PASADENA CEMETERY CONTROVERSY SETTLED.

CATHOLICS AGREE NOT TO BURY IN PRO ESTED GROUND.

Bishop Conaty Induced Arbitration. M. E. Weight Honored—Mayor Has City Hall Keys—Capt. A. C. Drake's Death—Austin Police Captain.

PASADENA, Office of The Times, No. 28 South Raymond Avenue, Sept. 2.—North Pasadena will not have a Catholic cemetery in her midst. What began as a little war between the residents of the suburbs and Father Farrelly, the Catholic priest, has been settled by arbitration in the true modern style. The recent visit of Bishop Conaty had much to do with settling the controversy, though Father Farrelly has all along been reasonable in the deal, while still claiming certain rights.

The cemetery was to have been placed between Fair Oaks and Raymond avenues south of Montana street on a tract of land which Father Farrelly, acting for the Catholic Church, purchased for $5000. As soon as the neighbors learned that it was to be used as a burial place, there was a loud outcry, and the priest was waited upon, and pleaded with and showed other sites that seemed just as good for the purpose. It was to no avail. Then the residents endeavored to raise money enough to buy him out, but this scheme did not meet with enough support at first.

The matter was finally settled, at the suggestion of Bishop Conaty, by three arbitrators were chosen, J. E. King of North Pasadena representing that section and the protestants, and Walter Wetkyns of the Catholics, W. G. Benedict being chosen as a non-partisan member. Through their influence the church was induced to declare it would not erect a cemetery upon the west, at any rate. Now the North Pasadenans are confident they can purchase the land from Father Farrelly at little more than he paid for it.

It is likely that the cemetery will be located on the Belt property, to the north and west of the Montana street site.

EX-MAYOR HONORED.

Mayor Vedder, who won a hot contest from Ex-Mayor Weight at last election, yesterday showed there is no hard feeling by appointing Weight, who is at Salt Lake City, delegate to the Eleventh National Irrigation Congress, which takes place at Ogden, Utah, from the 15th to the 19th inst. The Mayor thought the ex-Mayor just the man to represent this city, and took cognizance of the fact that he is nearly on the ground. The city bears the expense.

The Council received an invitation to attend the seventh annual convention of the League of American Municipalities, to be held at Baltimore, October 7-10. Chief Freeman got a bid to be present at the Pacific Coast Associations of Chiefs at Olympia, Wash., the latter part of this month. Both invitations were filed.

CITY HALL READY.

The Mayor and Councilmen and heads of departments of this municipal ship are very happy now. Monday evening the troubles about the new City Hall, that have kept them awake o' nights and perspiring by day, were all settled up amicably. It was about 8 o'clock that the architect, C. H. Dewey, and Contractors Dawson & Erickson turned over to the Mayor the certificates to the effect that the hall is finished, and also the keys to the different rooms.

Things had been strenuous up to that time. City Treasurer James H. Campbell had become so tired of waiting to move to more commodious quarters that he had completely lost patience and had packed up his furniture and was ready to move in, willy nilly. The Mayor had to get out an injunction, pretty nearly, to prevent the move. It took lots of explaining to prove to the Treasurer that the time was not yet.

Tuesday night, said Mayor Vedder last night, "the City Treasurer, the Engineer, the Chief of Police, and all the rest can begin to move, if they like. But the Council can't move in for a week yet." The necessary ordinance was read today for the first time, accepting the hall, and must be passed at the next meeting. Then we, too, may move in.

"The window cleaners have been busy today. At once the Bronson Desk Company of Los Angeles will send out the carpenters and place them. Next the furniture which has been waiting for us in Los Angeles will be placed. There have been misunderstandings as to the situation. The fact is there has been something of a conflict between the contractors and architect. I've had to coax and pull and haul and pat people on the back in order to keep things moving along as they should. Fennel & Son will lay the linoleum as soon as possible, and Leavens & Co. have promised to deliver and put up the curtains immediately.

"As to any general celebration of the opening of the new City Hall, it is up to the members of the Council. What-ever they desire in the matter I will assist in. We will sound the public sentiment on the question and endeavor to act accordingly."

CAPT. DRAKE'S DEATH.

Capt. Alexander Coover Drake, one of Pasadena's oldest and best-known residents, died Monday morning at 8 o'clock at his home, No. 225 State street, where he has resided for over twenty years. He had been suffering for a long time with kidney trouble, but was not regarded as in imminent danger, as he had entertained friends at his home on Sunday. Capt. Drake was seized with pain early Monday morning, and Dr. Sherry attended him. A little later M. E. Wood, who has resided in the house for years, heard him groan and found him dying.

Capt. Drake was born in Plymouth, Me., sixty-three years ago. His mother, nearly 90 years of age, still live at Detroit, Me., and three sisters and two brothers survive him. Capt. Drake learned the tanner's trade, but left it to enlist in the Civil War at the age of 21. He was mustered in at Augusta as a private in Co. D, Eighth Maine Infantry. In 1864 he joined the army of the James, and was in the battles of Drury's Bluff, Cold Harbor and the siege of Petersburg. He saw the surrender of Lee. In 1865 he was commissioned lieutenant of his old company, and his captain's commission came in 1865. He was twice wounded.

He married Miss Georgiana Andrews at the close of the war, and went into the grocery business at Bangor, Me., later settling at Detroit. Later he was a contractor in Boston. He and Mrs. Drake, who survived him, came to this city in 1892. He built a number of houses here, but retired from active work in 1900. He was prominent in the Universalist Church, Masons and G.A.R.

The funeral will be held under the auspices of the G.A.R. Wednesday at 3 p.m., at the Universalist Church.

CAPTAIN OF POLICE.

Policemen now salute Officer Walter C. Austin as "captain of police." On Monday the City Commissioners approved Chief Freeman's appointment of Austin to that honor and discussed raising his salary from $75 to $90 per month. There was an opinion that a split of the difference might be the right thing, but there is a likelihood that the increased hours and responsibility which Austin will have to bear up under may get him the bigger pay.

Austin, though one of the youngest men on the force, has distinguished himself as an officer, for his hard and painstaking work and clever handling of several important cases. His duties will be heavier from now on. He will relieve the Chief of many details that have hitherto worried the latter and in the absence of Freeman will act as Chief. He will have full authority over the force, under the Chief. The promotion is a very popular one.

THAT BIG GARDEN.

Prof. P. H. Dorsett, representing the government in the matter of finding a location for a large experimental garden in Southern California, has informed the Board of Trade's committee that he thinks the garden may likely be divided into two tracts, on foothill and on mesa lands. Among Pasadena's rivals for the plum are Santa Ana and Ventura, both of which places offer goodly sites and inducements. It will take two months to go over the ground and prepare the needful report in the matter to the government. In the meantime the local committee will keep working. Sam Hall's ranch in La Canada has been selected as a good available site.

LESSER WHIFFS.

Hugh Matson, a public carriage driver, was gathered in by Constable Wallis yesterday charged with inhumanly beating his horses. Humane Officer A. H. Beal swore to the complaint. It is alleged that Matson deliberately tried to "larrup sense" into the beasts because they had been obstinate, timing the beating so long after the offense that the nags didn't know what they were being punished for.

SANTA MONICA LIBRARY MAY OVERLOOK OCEAN.

COSTLY "WAY-BACK" SITE NOT IN POPULAR FAVOR.

Plans of Los Angeles Architects Adopted for the New Carnegie Institution, for Which Money is on Deposit—Home Sunday-school.

SANTA MONICA, Sept. 1.—The Board of Library Commissioners at noon today selected and adopted the plans for the new Carnegie library building, submitted by Marsh & Russell of Los Angeles. The accompanying illustration shows the Santa Monica public library as it will appear when finished.

Of the five commissioners—President W. I. Hull, Secretary D. G. Holt, A. M. Jamison, Dr. C. M. Lindsey and Capt. Henry D. Field—all but one voted in favor of the Marsh & Russell plans, the negative vote being cast by President Hull, who preferred the plans by J. H. Clark.

The Board of Library Commissioners was appointed last May by the City Trustees. The board at once placed itself in communication with Andrew Carnegie, and the latter's gift of $12,500 is now on deposit in a New York bank subject to draft upon presentation of certificate of contract by the president of the board and the supervising architect.

But the Carnegie library building may never adorn the northeast corner of Oregon avenue and Fifth street, notwithstanding that is the site selected and paid for, $4000—a very liberal price, indeed—having been raised by popular subscription and paid over to the three owners of the plot of ground facing 150 feet on Oregon avenue and 100 feet on Fifth street.

Since the purchase of this site the question has been raised: "What is the good of being a city by the sea unless we profit by that advantage? Why should we spend $3700 for a library site a block east of the City Hall, when, without the expenditure of a dollar, we could have an ideal site on the Bluff at the foot of Ocean avenue?—a site surrounded by the trees of Linda Vista Park and overlooking the sea." The asking of this question, within the last few days has started the guns of discussion rumbling. The result may be nil, or the result may be the selling of the $3700 site and the building of the Carnegie library on Santa Monica's famous bluff. The question of whether there exists a prohibitive restriction against the erection of a public park in Linda Vista Park has not been officially passed upon.

The library building will have a face width of 70 feet and a depth of 70 feet, with wide lawns surrounding. The building will face on Oregon avenue (assuming no substitution of site.) The style of architecture is Grecian and Roman combined. The walls are to be constructed of white pressed brick, and the interior finish will be part natural oak and part stained Oregon pine. The exact center of the one-story building will be occupied by the rotunda; light will flood in through art-glass windows in the dome. Provision will be made for the subsequent building of galleries to double the capacity. Under the whole of the building will be an unfinished cellar.

Following is the arrangement of floor space: Reading-room to occupy corner of building facing on Oregon avenue and Fifth street, 31 by 25 feet; immediately in the rear of the reading-room the children's room, 22 by 25 feet; in the southeast corner, facing Oregon avenue, the stockroom, 31 by 25 feet; in the rear of the stockroom the reference room, 24 by 21 feet; in the center of the floor, occupying the main area of the domed rotunda, the general delivery-room; off the rotunda a small-poise-protected room for reading aloud to and by blind people; elsewhere, offices for the librarian and assistants, women's parlor, toilet-rooms, etc. Several of the main rooms will open into the rotunda.

The building will cost $12,500, and four months will be occupied in construction.

NEED THE MONEY.

President W. I. Hull of the Board of Library Commissioners reported to the Board of City Trustees that $3425 will be required for the expenses of the new public library for the ensuing year, estimated as follows: Salaries, $900; books, $600; newspapers and periodicals, $100; binding, $100; insurance, $150; fuel and lights, $100; printing, $25; incidentals, $50; janitor, $200; maintenance and improvement of grounds, $200; furniture for new building, $1700; total, $3425.

The board authorized the Committee on Streets to order the placing of the streets in repair for the winter season.

SAN PEDRO.

STRIKING POSTAL INCREASE.

SAN PEDRO, Sept. 1.—That this city is fast making its way to the front as commercial seaport needs no better evidence than the remarkable increase in postal receipts during the past year. Information furnished by Postmaster Edward H. Bautzer shows that while the receipts in August, 1902, amounted to but $238, they increased to $415 during the same period of this year, a gain of 74 per cent. From April 1 to August 1, 1902, the receipts were $1062, and during the same months of this year they reached $2304, an increase of 45 per cent. This record surpasses that of any other town in Southern California, and only goes to show what may be expected from San Pedro in the future.

CITY VALUATIONS.

The City Trustees have concluded as a board of equalization. Following are the figures of the assessor, together with the changes after equalization: Value of land in San Pedro, $991,540; value of improvements, $191,895; value of personal property, $154,815; amount of taxable money on hand, $500; value of franchises, $2480; deductions on account of mortgages, etc., $5525; total value of all property after deductions, $1,337,655; total value after equalization, $1,398,115; regular tax, $10,476.79; special tax, $1395.47; total, $11,868.26. The rate of regular taxation will probably be 75 cents on $100; special, 10 cents.

THUS AND SO.

The thirteen employés of the Crescent Wharf and Warehouse Company, who were arrested Saturday charged with using force and violence in entering upon possessions of the Pacific Coast Dredging and Reclamation Company at East San Pedro, appeared before Justice Downing in the local township court this morning. Upon motion of L. R. Garrett, Esq., who appeared for the firm of Gibbon, Thomas, & Halstead, of Los Angeles, the case was postponed one week. It is probable that a settlement will be reached between Capt. Hackett, president of the Pacific Coast Dredging and Reclamation Company, and the Crescent people, relative to the property in dispute along the water front.

Tom Olsen and a negro sailor were arrested yesterday on a warrant issued from the Justices' Court in Los Angeles, charging them with selling liquors without license. They were taken to the county seat for trial. It is claimed that Olsen has been selling liquors at East San Pedro for ten years without ever applying for a license. The negro has been running a small booze shop for several months.

F. D. McMillen and W. L. Wright of San Francisco are here promoting a street fair, which it is aimed to get started by the end of this month. It is their intention to have an elaborate display at Dead Man's Island, with nightly "reproductions of Mont Pelee in eruption."

ATHLETIC DEPARTMENT FOR POMONA COLLEGE.

WALTER HEMPEL, FROM CHICAGO, ITS CHOSEN HEAD.

Step Regarded as an Important Advance by Trustees, Students and Constituents—New Man Has Wide Experience and High Indorsements.

CLAREMONT, Sept. 1.—After months of diligent search on the part of the authorities of Pomona College to find and secure a thoroughly able man to be the head of the department of athletics which is being established this year, he has been engaged. Walter Hempel, originally of Chicago, is the man on whom the choice has fallen, and he will begin his duties the 23d inst. He is 28 years of age and a graduate of Harvard University Summer School of Physical Training. In athletics, he has a splendid record as a Chicago club football player, and holds medals won in most of the track and field athletic events. Even this summer he has been playing baseball in a professional team.

As an athletic trainer and physical instructor his experience ranges over a period of seven years. He has served one year as physical instructor in the Y.M.C.A. at Menominee, Mich.; two and a half years as director of athletic instruction and coach of all athletic teams in the University School of Chicago; one season as head coach of track and baseball at Knox College, Galesburg, Ill.; as director of gymnasium instruction in Culver Military Academy at Culver, Ind.; as track coach and assistant football coach at Northwestern University, and finally during the past year as head of all athletic work for men and women in the University of North Dakota. Mr. Hempel's recommendations come from sources which command confidence. Prof. T. B. Willard, dean of the faculty of Knox College, President Webster Merrifield of the University of North Dakota, and others.

"On the initiative of the student body last spring athletics have been put under the direction of one man, who will be known as head of the department of physical culture," said President Gates of Pomona College. "We regard this movement as one of far-reaching importance to this institution. It places athletic sports and physical culture on a dignified basis, where they deservedly belong. Through all the past years we have been hampered by a multiplicity of coaches with varied ideals and methods, athletic and otherwise. But now the establishment of a formal department of athletics removes these difficulties and enables us to attain a unity in the realm of our athletics which has never before been possible. Hereafter athletic work will have a more harmonious and wholesome relation to the other departments of instruction than ever before. We shall be enabled, too, to build it up as never before.

"As quickly as the carpenters complete the extension of summer hall, work will commence on the new $1200 building just northeast of Renwick gymnasium, which we expect will be completed for the use of the young men at the very beginning of the football season in October.

"In Mr. Hempel we are confident that we have a person of strong Christian manhood. It is just because we have insisted upon this as one qualification that we have found such difficulty in securing the right man. We realize that the head of this new department will mingle with the students in a way that no other member of the faculty can. His position gives him that opportunity and with it comes a very great influence upon the characters of the students with whom he deals. We are determined that this influence shall be of the Christian type and that all athletics shall be held to the Christian standard of absolute honesty and cleanness. This, we believe, will be one of the most beneficent results of establishing athletics as one of the permanent educational departments of our college life and work."

SANTA CATALINA ISLAND.

FISHES HOOKED BY "OHIO."

AVALON, Sept. 1.—H. Alexander of Sandusky, O., was a passenger to Moonstone Beach on the Lady Lou the other morning, and found some fishing lines and hooks aboard which were not working because of no bait. Mr. Alexander is a G.A.R. veteran, and wore a white ribbon badge marked "Ohio." Being somewhat ingenious, he took the badge from his lapel, put it on the hook, and threw it overboard. In a few minutes he had two fine rock bass flopping in the fish box, the "Ohio" bait working like a charm.

OCEAN PARK.

WIDEN THE SPEEDWAY.

OCEAN PARK, Sept. 1.—An effort is being made to set the tide of public sentiment in favor of widening the speedway to forty feet before the work of making that thoroughfare a first-class driveway is completed. The present width is twenty feet. As the speedway is the only street giving easy access from north to south to the entire ocean front residence of the South Side, the advisability of making it adequate to the future needs of Ocean Park at this time is apparent. It would cost less money and involve less effort to change the speedway from an alley to a boulevard at this time than at some later day.

A GAME OF HEARTS.

At the Country Club this afternoon two score of Los Angeles and Ocean Park society folk were entertained at hearts by Mrs. Richard Heimann, Jr., of Los Angeles, who is spending a season here as the guest of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Fraser. The afternoon was in honor of Mrs. Edward Custer, one of Los Angeles' newest brides. The first floor of the Country Club was charmingly decorated, papyrus and white marguerites being used in profusion. The prizes were quite handsome. Mrs. Heimann was assisted in receiving by her mother.

The guests invited to meet Mrs. Custer were Mrs. H. H. Hammond, Mrs. Charles Van Loan, Mrs. E. Cobler, Mrs. William Oliver, Mrs. George Reed, Mrs. R. Hartwell, Mrs. Thomas Darcy, Mrs. Gustave Heimann, Mrs. Ella Mitchell, Mrs. E. Carr and Mrs. M. G. Eshelmans of Los Angeles; Mrs. Herbert Holt and Mrs. Henry Newby of Pasadena; Mrs. F. Yale Adams and Mrs. A. M. Tuttle of Arizona; the Misses Florence Dyer, Marie Dyer, Grace Snow, Nonie Adams, Nina Adams, Elsie Holliday, Ruth French, Edna French, Mabel McKenzie, Gertrude McKenzie, Hazel Tomlin, Bess Lillian and Carrie Shemwell of Ocean Park; the Misses Bertha Ducommun, Mary Phelps, Nanna Kane, Edna Waterman, Ethel Cobler, Irene Buell, Jo Widney, Laura Dickey, Helen Day, Kate Henderson, Flora Wallace, Grace Dening, Alice Healy, Paulina and Fritzie Heimann, Melanie Kane, Helen King, Edna King, Grace Whitsell, Florence Mitchell and Charlotte Pinkham.

ONLY A BRANCH.

YACHT CLUB AND ALAMITOS.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

TERMINAL ISLAND, Sept. 1.—Much comment has been occasioned here over the reports in the newspapers that the South Coast Yacht Club is preparing to remove its quarters to Alamitos Beach. Many of the club members express surprise at the rumor. The South Coast organization has been offered a proposition, but not with the idea of abandoning its present location. It is altogether likely that a branch clubhouse will be built at Alamitos, but the large new one that has been under consideration for some time will be built on the high bluff overlooking the outer harbor at San Pedro. It is not known how yachtsmen are opposed to Alamitos that if they will not accept it as a permanent location for the club, but the advantages at San Pedro are considered superior in almost every way, inasmuch as the harbor affords such excellent shelter winter and summer.

SAN DIMAS.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the San Dimas Citrus Union will be held Friday. A chicken dinner will be served and a good time had.

At the annual meeting of the Charter Oak Citrus Association, the report showed that although this is a very young organization, the year just closed was more successful than to the average association, having netted the grower a good price for all their fruit. The manager, Bryce M. Green, was highly complimented, William Bowring, William Crook, Arthur Bowring, S. A. Stowell and J. E. Hoy were elected directors.

LONG BEACH.

STEAM VS. TROLLEY.

LONG BEACH, Sept. 1.—Attorney T. E. Gibbon of the Salt Lake Railroad appeared before the City Trustees last night to urge that the Pacific Electric ticket office be moved from the Pavilion depot erected by the Salt Lake near Ocean Park and Pine avenues. Some time ago the Pacific Electric secured from the Council a lease on one corner of this building, and that same night built a ticket office on the leased territory. Judging by the tenor of his remarks, Mr. Gibbon regarded this as sharp practice, and he told the Trustees the offending office must go or there will be war. At the close he agreed to submit the issues to any three of the Superior Court judges, or any three reputable Los Angeles attorneys for them to arbitrate between the city and the Salt Lake road.

BEACH NOTES.

The chain gang ordinance was passed last night and may be expected to go into operation any day.

Ed Farwell was arraigned before Justice Drayton this morning charged with criminal assault on Miss Anna Thomas. Most of the day was taken in hearing the evidence. The defense undertook to establish an alibi, but the court held him to answer to the Superior Court in the sum of $500.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoskins, who went to San Diego some time since, intending to remain, have returned and are now content to stay in Long Beach.

Roy Taylor, who has been visiting for the Southern Pacific out of Bakersfield, is home to spend his vacation.

H. E. Shaw came from the Newhall country and spent Sunday at his home. He has been surveying in the iron fields and speaks highly of the quantity and quality of the ore found.

"To be or not to be" may very properly be called a question, but advertising in the Los Angeles Times is no question; results are sure. Telephone your wants to Central Office, and our Long Beach Agency will take your ad. and send it to the main office.

That $25,000.00 Versus Hard Work.

The Boss liar we had thought had left town, but his "sub" seems to have gone his chief one better, in the lying trade, he says we call working-men "degenerates and curs"; this is a base lie, for the man whom the sub had in mind, never was a working-man: never did a day's work while in town. If he calls distributing the $25,000.00 work, or watching our bundles to get addresses, or following our wagons on bicycles, hard work and entitling him to be called a working-man, then it's different; but the hardest work he did was to distribute the $25,000.00—pleasant work. How many of you would like the job? Hands up!

Laws to Protect Birds.

MOST STATES HAVE THEM.

ILLEGAL TO POSSESS NATIVE AMERICAN SONGSTERS—WORK OF TRAPPERS—HOT FIGHT AGAINST THEM—DEVICES FOR ILLEGAL SHIPPING OF DEAD GAME BIRDS—"CORPSE" OF 1500 DEAD QUAILS.

BY EDWARD B. CLARK.
[Associate Member American Ornithologists' Union.]

IN a majority of the States of the Union it is now a misdemeanor to have in possession a living native American song bird. It doubtless will be a revelation to many people who have caged cardinal or mocking birds as pets to know that they are law breakers. But such is the case, and instances are not rare where owners of feathered prisoners have been summoned to court and fined.

Probably it may seem to the pet bird owner that the law is drastic and one which should be repealed, but when he learns the real facts in the case he may be willing to admit that the law makers knew what they were about. Until within a few years scores of species of native birds were trapped, caged and sold with impunity. Today, the traffic is largely confined to mocking birds (Mimus polyglottus,) and to cardinal grosbeaks (Cardinalis cardinalis,) or, as they are called more frequently, redbirds.

FIGHT AGAINST BIRD TRAPPERS.

The fight of the bird protectors against the dealers and trappers of mocking birds and redbirds is now at its hottest. Within six months the tide of the battle will turn probably in favor of the protectors. Many of the Northern States have laws against caging wild birds which are extremely faulty in the wording. If the bird is brought from another State the owner of it cannot be convicted in the State in which the suit is brought. This is true, however, in comparatively few States. In others, the possession of any living bird, no matter where it was trapped, is made an offense.

The recently enacted Lacy law, which is a part of the inter-State commerce statute, makes it illegal to transport birds from one State into another, if they have been illegally trapped. The great source of supply of redbirds and mocking birds for the market is Louisiana. The Legislature of that State this winter will pass a law making the trapping of the birds illegal, and then the Northern dealers in birds shipped from Louisiana will be prosecuted under the Federal statutes and by Federal officers. The violators of Uncle Sam's rules usually fare hardly, and it is believed that within a year the day of caged mocking birds and redbirds will have passed.

Bird protectors were confronted by a hard task when they started the work of preventing the traffic in native American song birds. Hundreds of men, the majority of them Germans and Italians, who had been engaged in the same kind of work in the old country, made their living trapping birds in the nesting season, in the suburbs of the great cities. In the North, the birds captured most frequently were the goldfinch, of which something has been written in previous articles, the bobolink (Dolichonyx oryzivorous,) and the indigo bunting (Passerina cyanea.) The capture of birds of these three species is one of the easiest matters in the world, the victims actually seeming "to fall over one another" in their anxiety to get into the trap. The device used for their capture looks like an ordinary bird cage, save that between the top and bottom it is divided into two parts. In the lower section a decoy bird is placed. The upper section has a swing door in the roof, which opens and lies back flat on the top of the cage. Within is a perch upon which the victim, lured by the notes of the decoy bird, alights. Its weight upon the perch frees a spring, and the door in the roof closes with a snap.

FRAUD ON PURCHASERS.

The men who sold bobolinks, indigo birds and goldfinches, after having purchased them from the trappers, were guilty of a petty deception, which certainly had its humorous side. There are no more beautiful birds in the springtime in the whole range of feathered life than the three species named. In addition to their beauty, the gladness of the early year stirs them to song. As the summer wanes, however, the birds lose their beauty, dropping their gay attire for a garb of dun color.

It is doubtless unnecessary to say that the dealers, in selling the tuneful spring beauties, made no mention of the fact that with the coming of fall their plumage would be dulled and their sweet voices changed to a dismal creak. The purchaser bought and learned later that he was "sold." The ends to which a dealer would go to make a sale are illustrated by an experience I once had with a sidewalk merchant, who was offering caged bobolinks to the passers. I said to the man that someone had told me that the bird would lose its voice and its beauty in the fall. He assured me with never a change of countenance nor even the suspicion of a twinkle in his eye that all bobolinks came from a certain county in the Hoosier State where the quality of the food and water was such that the birds never moulted and never lost their springtime song.

TRAPPER LOSES TEST CASE.

Members of the Audubon Society caused the arrest of a man who had trapped goldfinches in a city suburb. The trapper was one who supplied the great city dealers with native songsters. The case was a test one. The man who was arrested had little money, but the bird dealers rallied to his defense. The case was in court fourteen times before a decision was given. The bird dealers, many of them rich men, had employed the best counsel that money and the local profession could supply. All the means known to the technicalities of the law were taken to secure continuances in order to tire out the bird protectors, who were working for nothing except principle and who had to suspend business in order to attend the case.

Finally the bird trapper was convicted in the Superior Court and fined $5 for each bird found in his possession. The case was appealed, and was finally passed upon by the Supreme Court of the State, which upheld the lower court and gave the victory to the members of the Audubon Society. The goldfinches at the then current market rates were worth 50 cents apiece, or $2.50 for the five which figured in the case. It was estimated that these five birds cost the dealers in fines, lawyers' fees and expenses $2500 before the final decision was given by the Supreme Court.

The dealers in live birds practically are unable to violate the provisions of the Lacy act because of the difficulty which confronts them in the matter of shipping their merchandise secretly. Live birds must have air, and then they are apt to sing, thus betraying their presence to the ear of the searching officers. When it comes to transporting dead game birds, however, the problem is an easier one to solve. All kinds of subterfuges are employed to get game to the city market from States out of which its shipment is illegal.

THE MOCKING BIRD, A COMMON CAGE PET WHICH IT WILL SOON BE ILLEGAL TO HAVE IN POSSESSION.

ILLEGAL SHIPPING EXPEDIENTS.

The old scheme was to ship ruffed grouse, quail, woodcock and the rest of the game birds in boxes marked poultry. This little deception was enough in the days when few people cared whether the game laws were kept or not. In the present day of an awakened conscience it is a different matter, and shippers are put to it to get their game to the cities without having it discovered and seized by the watchful officials.

I recently saw several dozen quail, which had been taken from the mattress in a folding bed, the bed and the mattress having been shipped to the city as a harmless bit of household furniture. Many a barrel of apples has a core of grouse, and below the upper layer of eggs in the ordinary shipping box frequently are found woodcock and quail.

It was left for a Minnesota man to outdo all others in ingenuity when it came to a question of an attempt to deceive the game warden. Not long ago a pine box of the regulation commissioning size and marked on the outside "Corpse" was delivered to a city commission-house. The box came through on a passenger ticket, as is usual when a body is shipped. The railroad people treated the package with respect and doubted not that the person to whom it was addressed was an undertaker. At the depot in the city a man appeared and took charge of the "remains." There was a suspicious game warden, however, who had received some information from the North. He approached the man who had charge of the box and asked what was in it.

The man hesitated a second and then said it was a corpse. It was the hesitation that made him lose. The game warden opened the box with a blow of a hammer, and, looking in, said: "If you had made corpse plural you would have told the truth."

There were 1500 dead quail in the box.

Not long ago a member of the Audubon Society found a box of snow buntings in front of a commission-house. "What are these?" he asked of the dealer.

"Reed birds," said the man.

"Rats," muttered the questioner.

That word cost him his case, for when twenty minutes later the game warden appeared at the store on information lodged by the bird protector, the snow buntings had disappeared as completely as though they had come to life and had fled to their summer home within the Arctic circle.

EDWARD B. CLARK.

Tomorrow's article by Christine Terhune Herrick deals with "Women and allowances."

CARDINAL GROSBEAK (REDBIRD.) THE AUDUBON SOCIETIES ARE ENGAGED IN A LEGAL FIGHT WITH THE BIRD DEALERS TO PREVENT THE TRAPPING AND CAGING OF THIS BIRD.

How Mozart Died.

Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart was born at Salsburg in 1756 and died in 1791 near Vienna. In July of that year he (indirectly) received a commission from Count Walsegg, an amateur who was anxious to be thought a great composer, to write a requiem. Mozart set about the work at once, but was interrupted by other tasks. He fell ill in November and never recovered. "On December 4 he had the score of his requiem brought to him in bed, and tried a passage, singing the alto himself, while his brother-in-law, Hofer, took the tenor, and Schack and Gerl from the theater the soprano and bass. When they got to the first few bars of the 'Lacrimosa' it suddenly came home to him that he should never finish it, and he burst out crying and put away the score. In the evening Sussmayer came in and Mozart gave him some directions about the requiem, with which his thoughts seemed constantly occupied, for even while dosing he puffed out his cheeks as if trying to imitate the drums. Towards midnight he suddenly sat up with his eyes fixed; then he turned his head on one side and appeared to fall asleep. By 1 o'clock in the morning of December 5, 1791, his spirit had fled.—[The Sphere.

King, Kaiser and Czar to Recomend United Action by Europe.

Turkey Has Shown Incapability for Reform and the Dissolution of the Empire Can Alone Ensure Peace in the Balkans—Remarkable Opinion Ascribed to a Friend of the British Ambassador at Vienna.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALONICA, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] According to the latest Turkish estimate, about fifteen hundred Bulgarians were killed in the recent fighting at Smilovo, Neveska and Klissura. The Turkish losses are not stated. This estimate does not include further losses in the Smilovo district, where fighting was renewed about August 30 and continued until yesterday. It is reported that 630 Bulgarians were killed in this two-days battle.

VIENNA, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In conversation this morning, a well-known politician, one of the men who enjoy the confidence of Sir Francis Plunkett, British Ambassador to the court of Vienna, expressed the opinion that King Edward's visit to Emperor Francis Joseph, with similar visits on the part of the Czar and Kaiser in September, may lead to the final dissolution of the Turkish Empire in Europe.

"England," said the diplomat, "believes the time has come when the union between the Turk and his Christian subjects of the Aryan race should be ended. Such action might involve war, but if Europe proceeds unitedly the struggle will be short. Apparently in no other way can peace and prosperity be conferred on the Balkans. Everybody willing to see perceives that Turkey is incapable of introducing reforms."

Serious measures looking toward intervention are undoubtedly being discussed in the highest quarters, but are unlikely to assume a final form for several weeks, unless unexpected and extraordinary events in Macedonia disturb the orderly deliberations of the powers. Should Turkey make substantial headway toward restoring order it is believed the powers will hold plans in abeyance and again take up the policy of maintaining the status quo.

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

HAPPENINGS IN THE BALKANS.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Porte has notified Minister Leishman that five arrests have been made at Beirut in connection with the shooting which led to the report that William C. Magelssen, the United States Vice and Deputy Consul there, had been assassinated. The Turkish officials continue to insist that no attempt was made on the Vice-Consul's life, and they reassert that the whole story originated in a feu-de-joie fired on the occasion of a native marriage and in accordance with the custom. Minister Leishman however, refuses to accept such an explanation without conclusive proof that the judicial investigation continues.

The attempt to burn the American College at Kharput occurred five weeks ago, and apparently was the work of an individual who considered that he had a grievance against the college authorities. When Leishman was informed of the attempt, he demanded that the Porte protect the American institution, and in consequence of his representations, instructions were sent to the authorities at Kharput to try to press the charges against fifty Armenians charged with trafficking in arms and engaging in other seditious acts. Among the accused is Prof. Tenekedjian of the American College, whose treatment in prison pending his trial was also ordered to be improved.

Minister Leishman is pressing for a definite settlement of a number of matters on which agreements were reached with the Turkish authorities last year, but which, in spite of frequent promises on the part of the Porte, have never been executed. For instance, a naturalized American is still in prison at Tripoli, Syria, although the Porte has frequently informed Mr. Leishman that the authorities at Beirut, who have jurisdiction over Tripoli, had been ordered to liberate him.

Yesterday, Mr. Leishman received a telegram from Rear-Admiral Cotton, dated Genoa, Italy, Saturday evening, announcing that the warships Brooklyn and San Francisco would arrive off Beirut at the end of the week.

The American officials here attribute the dispatch of the warships to Turkish waters not solely to the Magelssen affair, but to the general dissatisfaction of the authorities at Washington at the non-fulfillment of the Porte's promises in relation to the pending questions and to the determination of President Roosevelt to show Turkey that she cannot trifle with American representatives. Diplomatic circles here generally approve of the energetic action of the United States, which, it is pointed out, is amply justified by the bad faith of Turkey, and it is felt here that the appearance of the United States warships in Turkish waters will lead to the immediate settlement of the pending disputes. Nothing so impresses the Porte as a naval demonstration, and the diplomats claim that this will be especially noticeable in the present case, as the Americans are not fettered, like other powers, by agreements regulating the international political affairs of Turkey.

FIVE HUNDRED KILLED.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—Official reports say that 500 insurgents were killed or wounded during the fighting which occurred last week in the vilayet of Monastir.

The Porte has sent a memorandum to the Austrian and Russian Ambassadors here, pointing out that at the recent mass meeting of Macedonians in Sofia, Bulgaria, it was decided to send fresh bands into Macedonia, and also calling attention to the fact that committees in Bulgaria were supplying the insurgents with arms and ammunition by means of ships which land their cargoes on the coast in the vicinity of Indjai.

Consular dispatches from Prishtina, near the Servian frontier, confirm the reports that nearly all the Christian villages in the districts of Dibra, fifty-four miles from Monastir and Cicevo, have been pillaged and burned and that the inhabitants have fled. It is not stated whether Albanians or Bulgarians were the perpetrators of the outrage.

In spite of the apparent gravity of the general situation, optimism prevails in Turkish official circles. In the course of the audiences which the German Ambassador, Baron Von Bieberstein, and the Russian Ambassador, M. Zinovieff, who have been with the Sultan for the purpose of recommending more energetic action and entrusting to the Turkish Commander-in-Chief full direction over the military operations, the Sultan replied that he preferred to retain control at Constantinople.

The government has imposed a personal or land tax on the entire population of the empire over the age of 18. The tax ranges from about 80 cents to $85 each annually. This is regarded in some quarters as being in the nature of a provision for war.

NEWS FROM SOFIA.

NEW INSURRECTION ANNOUNCED
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SOFIA (Bulgaria) September 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria has arrived at Euxinograde, Bulgaria, where he was joined by Premier Petroff. The Prince is expected to remain there for some time.

A local newspaper announced today that a general insurrection was proclaimed today in new districts of Turkey, across the southern frontier of Bulgaria. The rising is headed by the famous Macedonian leaders, Gen. Zontcheff, president of the Macedonian Council, and Col. Jankoff, who was wounded in the rising of 1902. The new territory covers the districts in the valley of the Struma, at the base of the Rhodope Mountain chain and to the north of the River Vardar. Col. Jankoff is directing the movements of the bands in the southern part.

News of severe fighting is still coming in. At the village of Armensi, after a day's fighting, the Turkish troops in the night time massacred the entire population of 180 men and 200 women. The Turks have also massacred the inhabitants of the village of Velego.

It is reported that Hilmi Pasha, the Inspector-General for Macedonia, refuses to leave his headquarters in the Konak at Monastir. The insurgent leader, Grueff, in a letter to Hilmi Pasha, demanded that he prevent the barbarous acts of the Turkish soldiers and Bash-Bazouks, otherwise the revolutionists would massacre all the Turkish inhabitants. The insurgents have occupied the mountain pass of Gergele, on the main line from Salonica to Uskub, and Turkish troops have been sent to dislodge them.

The town of Malkotirnovo is reported to be in a state of anarchy, the Turks plundering the houses and committing unspeakable atrocities on the women.

SULTAN'S LITTLE TIME.

Celebration in Honor of His Accession Goes Off Successfully.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The celebration here in honor of the Sultan's accession passed off without any untoward incident. The Sultan held the customary reception, and received the congratulations of the representatives of the powers and the State dignitaries. This evening the city is brilliantly illuminated.

ADVICES AT WASHINGTON.

NO MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The conference which a committee of the Foreign Missionary Society last week arranged with Secretary Hay will not be held. The Secretary today received a letter from the Rev. Mr. Barton of Boston, representing the society, announcing that the action already taken by the government in relation to the protection of foreign missionaries in Turkey rendered interviews with the Secretary of State on this subject unnecessary.

The first official dispatch coming directly from Beirut, regarding the Magelssen affair, has been received by Secretary Hay. It is dated August 31, and is signed by Consul Ravendal. It says: "The attempt on Magelssen's life failed utterly. A narrow escape, but the Vice-Consul suffer no injury."

AMERICAN WARSHIPS.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MESSINA (Sicily) Sept. 1.—The United States cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco passed through the Straits of Messina at 10:25 o'clock today bound south. The Semaphore saluted the warships, wishing them good luck.

WITNESSES TELL STORY OF ACCIDENT.

MANSLAUGHTER TRIAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY DIRECTORS.

Principal Stearns and Prof. Sonn of New York High School, Nine Pupils of Which Lost Their Lives, Give Testimony for the Prosecution.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Sept. 1.—The trial of the eleven directors and executive officers of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, who are accused of manslaughter in connection with the grade crossing disaster on February 19, was resumed today.

James Kay, a letter carrier who was on the stand when court adjourned yesterday, was the first witness today. Under cross-examination, he testified that he had, for about a minute before the accident, a good view of the motorman of the ill-fated trolley car. The motorman appeared to be tugging hard at his brakes in an effort to stop the car. Witness thought the car was going at a medium rate of speed, but it appeared to be under control, considering the rate at which it was going. He could not be sure whether or not the trolley car had come to a stop, before the collision occurred.

Oscar Barcliffe, the passenger engineer who was unconscious for several weeks after the accident, was a witness today. He is still an invalid, and when he took the stand shook as if affected with palsy. Barcliffe testified that the snow had interfered with the working of the brake by getting between the brake shoes and the wheels. He said he saw the trolley car approaching the crossing when he was about 150 feet away. He applied the emergency brake, but too late to avoid a collision. He said that he lost consciousness when the crash came. He said that it was customary for the trolley cars to run so close to the gates before stopping that the engineers could never be sure that a car was going to stop.

Prof. George C. Sonn of the Newark High School, nine of whose pupils lost their lives in the accident, testified that he had closely examined the trolley tracks soon after the crash occurred, and that he saw no evidence of either sand or salt having been used on the tracks. Principal W. E. Stearns of the Newark High School corroborated.

NEW CRUISER ALL RIGHT.

Notwithstanding Adverse Conditions, the Cleveland Well Exceeds the Speed Requirement of the Navy Department.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTLAND (Me.) Sept. 1.—The cruiser Cleveland, built at the Bath Iron Works and designed for service in tropical waters, made her official trial run today on the Cape Ann course, with a four-hour run against the Navy Department's requirements that she develop a speed of 16.5 knots under service conditions.

The ship suffered an accident, a break in a pump attached to the port engine, which delayed her by more than a minute, and she was obliged to deviate from the course through the carelessness of a three-masted schooner which ran across her bows during the best part of the trip. In spite of that, however, she logged an average of 16.61 knots for the four hours, while during the best part of the test she made 16.65 knots. These figures do not include the tidal corrections, which will undoubtedly be in favor of the ship.

NEW OFFICE FOR WITTE.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 1.—M. Witte, the recently-appointed president of the Council of Ministers, has been appointed a member of the Council of Empire.

WASHINGTON.

CUT DOWN THE DEBT.

Mr. Hill Talks to Treasury Chiefs.

Member of the House Committee on Banking and Currency Would Use Surplus.

If Secretary Shaw is Reluctant Congress Will be Asked to Take up the Matter.

Jury's Decision In Certain Postal Cases Expected By Friday. Capital Notes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Representative Hill of the House Committee on Banking and Currency is of the opinion that steps should be taken to reduce the national debt. He believes that there is enough surplus money in the treasury to warrant some of it being applied to scaling down the country's indebtedness, and he has taken occasion to communicate his views to the high officials of the administration.

Mr. Hill says that the Treasury Department could well afford to divert some of the money in the vaults to cutting down the interest-bearing debt. This is a problem for Secretary Shaw to handle, and it is likely that unless he shows a disposition to lower the debt, Mr. Hill will suggest some means of doing this when the general question of financial legislation is brought up in Congress this winter.

The financial liabilities of the government, of various kinds, aggregate $2,202,464,781. What may properly be called the national debt, however, is considerably less than this for the interest-bearing obligations amount to only $914,541,460. This item is made up of bonds of various issues, all of which bear interest. There is an item of $382,500,000, which is classified as "debt bearing no interest," and another item of $500,000, which is also included in the aggregate of debt.

The first item consists of United States notes, old demand notes, national bank notes and fractional currency, while the second is made up of treasury gold and silver certificates of various denominations. The whole thing will come finally to a question of finance, when Secretary Shaw will have to determine whether the state of the Treasury and the general condition of business in industrial centers will permit him to deplete the cash balance in order to cut down the national debt.

While the national debt may appear to be something to cause public worry, it is small in comparison with the financial burdens of European countries. The per capita indebtedness of the United States is smaller than that of every nation of any importance. France has the heaviest burden of this sort, staggering under a debt of something like $3,800,000,000. England, Russia and Germany all have large outstanding obligations, while some of the smaller countries are mortgaged up to the limit.

POSTAL INVESTIGATION.

DECISION EXPECTED FRIDAY.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—A number of the inspectors who have been investigating the affairs of the office of the Assistant Attorney General for the Postoffice Department were in consultation today with Assistant United States Attorney Taggart regarding postal matters before the grand jury. Although it is possible that the jury may reach an agreement to return one or more indictments any day, it is not now anticipated that the decision of the jury will be reached before Friday.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow is devoting a great deal of time to this part of his report. He is carefully reviewing a vast mass of documents bearing on the investigation and consulting frequently with Chief Inspector Cochrane and Inspector Fsane, the head of the free delivery service, both of whom have been his chief assistants in the investigation.

Mr. Bristow confers every day with the Postmaster-General regarding matters connected with the inquiry. Today he refused to venture an opinion as to when the investigation will be closed, or when his report can be placed in the hands of the Postmaster-General. Additional rooms on the floor of the Postoffice Department Building have been set aside for the use of the inspectors, who are getting the multitude of details developed by the investigation into shape for incorporation in Mr. Bristow's report.

WIRELESS COMMON CARRIERS.

BERLIN CONFERENCE'S RULING.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The wireless telegraph companies are common carriers, and must therefore receive from any source and transmit to any destination all messages offered to them. This conclusion, which forestalls any monopoly, was reached by the Berlin International Conference, and was the gist of the only important resolution adopted at its session, which lasted nine days, beginning August 4. Germany, Great Britain, France, Russia, Austria-Hungary, Italy, Spain and the United States participated.

August 14, the congress adopted a

King, Kaiser and Czar to Recomend United Action by Europe.

Turkey Has Shown Incapability for Reform and the Dissolution of the Empire Can Alone Ensure Peace in the Balkans—Remarkable Opinion Ascribed to a Friend of the British Ambassador at Vienna.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALONICA, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] According to the latest Turkish estimate, about fifteen hundred Bulgarians were killed in the recent fighting at Smilovo, Neveska and Klisura. The Turkish losses are not stated. This estimate does not include further losses in the Smilovo district, where fighting was renewed about August 30 and continued until yesterday. It is reported that 650 Bulgarians were killed in this two-days battle.

VIENNA, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In conversation this morning, a well-known politician, one of the men who enjoy the confidence of Sir Francis Plunkett, British Ambassador to the court of Vienna, expressed the opinion that King Edward's visit to Emperor Francis Joseph, with similar visits on the part of the Czar and Kaiser in September, may lead to the final dissolution of the Turkish Empire in Europe.

"England," said the diplomat, "believes the time has come when the union between the Turk and his Christian subjects of the Aryan race should be ended. Such action might involve war, but if Europe proceeds unitedly the struggle will be short. Apparently in no other way can peace and prosperity be conferred on the Balkans. Everybody willing to see perceives that Turkey is incapable of introducing reforms."

Serious measures looking toward intervention are undoubtedly being discussed in the highest quarters, but are unlikely to assume a final form for several weeks, unless unexpected and extraordinary events in Macedonia disturb the orderly deliberations of the powers. Should Turkey make substantial headway toward restoring order it is believed the powers will hold plans in abeyance and again take up the policy of maintaining the status quo.

FROM THE SEAT OF WAR.

HAPPENINGS IN THE BALKANS.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The Porte has notified Minister Leishman that five arrests have been made at Beirut in connection with the shooting which led to the report that William C. Magelssen, the United States Vice and Deputy Consul there, had been assassinated. The Turkish officials continue to insist that no attempt was made on the Vice-Consul's life, and they reassert that the whole story originated in a feu-de-joie fired on the occasion of a native marriage and in accordance with the custom. Minister Leishman however, refuses to accept such an explanation without conclusive proof that the judicial investigation continues.

The attempt to burn the American College at Kharput occurred five weeks ago, and apparently was the work of an individual who considered that he had a grievance against the college authorities. When Leishman was informed of the attempt, he demanded that the Porte protect the American institution, and in consequence of his representations, instructions were sent to the authorities at Kharput to try to press the charges against fifty Armenians charged with trafficking in arms and engaging in other seditious acts. Among the accused is Prof. Tenekedjian of the American College, whose treatment in prison pending his trial was also ordered to be improved.

Minister Leishman is pressing for a definite settlement of a number of matters on which agreements were reached with the Turkish authorities last year, but which, in spite of frequent promises on the part of the Porte, have never been executed. For instance, a naturalized American is still in prison at Tripoli, Syria, although the Porte has frequently informed Mr. Leishman that the authorities at Beirut, who have jurisdiction over Tripoli, had been ordered to liberate him.

Yesterday, Mr. Leishman received a tlegeram from Rear-Admiral Cotton, dated Genoa, Italy, Saturday evening, announcing that the warships Brooklyn and San Francisco would arrive off Beirut at the end of the week.

The American officials here attribute the dispatch of the warships to Turkish waters not solely to the Magelssen affair, but to the general dissatisfaction of the authorities at Washington at the non-fulfillment of the Porte's promises in relation to the pending questions and to the determination of President Roosevelt to show Turkey that she cannot trifle with American representatives. Diplomatic circles here generally approve of the energetic action of the United States, which, it is pointed out, is amply justified by the bad faith of Turkey, and it is felt here that the appearance of the United States warships in Turkish waters will lead to the immediate settlement of the pending disputes. Nothing so impresses the Porte as a naval demonstration, and the diplomats claim that this will be especially noticeable in the present case, as the Americans are not fettered, like other powers, by agreements regulating the international political affairs of Turkey.

FIVE HUNDRED KILLED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—Official reports say that 500 insurgents were killed or wounded during the fighting which occurred last week in the vilayet of Monastir.

The Porte has sent a memorandum to the Austrian and Russian Ambassadors here, pointing out that at the recent mass meeting of Macedonians in Sofia, Bulgaria, it was decided to send fresh bands into Macedonia, and also calling attention to the fact that committees in Bulgaria were supplying the insurgents with arms and ammunition by means of ships which land their cargoes on the coast in the vicinity of Indlai.

Consular dispatches from Prishtina, near the Servian frontier, confirm the reports that nearly all the Christian villages in the districts of Dibra, fifty-four miles from Monastir and Cicevo, have been pillaged and burned and that the inhabitants have fled. It is not stated whether Albanians or Bulgarians were the perpetrators of the outrage.

In spite of the apparent gravity of the general situation, optimism prevails in Turkish official circles. In the course of the audiences which the German Ambassador, Baron Von Bieberstein, and the Russian Ambassador, M. Zinovieff, who have been with the Sultan for the purpose of recommending more energetic action and entrusting to the Turkish Commander-in-Chief full direction over the military operations, the Sultan replied that he preferred to retain control at Constantinople.

The government has imposed a personal or land tax on the entire population of the empire over the age of 18. The tax ranges from about 80 cents to $85 each annually. This is regarded in some quarters as being in the nature of a provision for war.

NEWS FROM SOFIA.

NEW INSURRECTION ANNOUNCED
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SOFIA (Bulgaria) September 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Prince Ferdinand of Bulgaria has arrived at Euxinograde, Bulgaria, where he was joined by Premier Petroff. The Prince is expected to remain there for some time.

A local newspaper announced today that a general insurrection was proclaimed today in new districts of Turkey, across the southern frontier of Bulgaria. The rising is headed by the famous Macedonian leaders, Gen. Zontcheff, president of the Macedonian Council, and Col. Jankoff, who was wounded in the rising of 1902. The new territory covers the districts in the valley of the Struma, at the base of the Rhodope Mountain chain and to the north of the River Vardar. Col. Jankoff is directing the movements of the bands in the southern part.

News of severe fighting is still coming in. At the village of Armensi, after a day's fighting, the Turkish troops in the night time massacred the entire population of 180 men and 200 women. The Turks have also massacred the inhabitants of the village of Velepo.

It is reported that Hilmi Pasha, the Inspector-General for Macedonia, refuses to leave his headquarters in the Konak at Monastir. The insurgent leader, Grueff, in a letter to Hilmi Pasha, demanded that he prevent the barbarous acts of the Turkish soldiers and Bash-Bazouks, otherwise the revolutionists would massacre all the Turkish inhabitants. The insurgents have occupied the mountain pass of Gergele, on the main line from Salonica to Uskub, and Turkish troops have been sent to dislodge them.

The town of Malkotirnovo is reported to be in a state of anarchy, the Turks plundering the houses and committing unspeakable atrocities on the women.

ADVICES AT WASHINGTON.

NO MISSIONARY CONFERENCE.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The conference which a committee of the Foreign Missionary Society last week arranged with Secretary Hay will not be held. The Secretary today received a letter from the Rev. Mr. Barton of Boston, representing the society, announcing that the action already taken by the government in relation to the protection of foreign missionaries in Turkey rendered interviews with the Secretary of State on this subject unnecessary.

The first official dispatch coming directly from Beirut regarding the Magelssen affair has been received by Secretary Hay. It is dated August 31, and is signed by Consul Ravendal. It says: "The attempt on Magelssen's life failed utterly. A narrow escape, but the Vice-Consul suffer no injury."

AMERICAN WARSHIPS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

MESSINA (Sicily) Sept. 1.—The United States cruisers Brooklyn and San Francisco passed through the Straits of Messina at 10:25 o'clock today bound south. The Semaphore saluted the warships, wishing them good luck.

WITNESSES TELL STORY OF ACCIDENT.

MANSLAUGHTER TRIAL OF THE STREET RAILWAY DIRECTORS.

Principal Stearns and Prof. Sons of New York High School, Blind Pupils of Which Lost Their Lives, Give Testimony for the Prosecution.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Sept. 1.—The trial of the eleven directors and executive officers of the North Jersey Street Railway Company, who are accused of manslaughter in connection with the grade crossing disaster on February 16, was resumed today.

James Kay, a letter carrier who was on the stand when court adjourned yesterday, was the first witness today. Under cross-examination, he testified that he had, for about a minute before the accident, a good view of the motorman of the ill-fated trolley car. The motorman appeared to be tugging hard at his brakes in an effort to stop the car. Witness thought the car was going at a medium rate of speed, but it appeared to be under control, considering the rate at which it was going. He could not be sure whether or not the trolley car had come to a stop, before the collision occurred.

Oscar Barcliffe, the passenger engineer who was unconscious for several weeks after the accident, was a witness today. He is still an invalid, and when he took the stand shook as if affected with palsy. Barcliffe testified that the snow had interfered with the working of the brake by getting between the brake shoes and the wheels. He said he saw the trolley car approaching the crossing when he was about 150 feet away. He applied the emergency brake, but too late to avoid a collision. He said that he lost consciousness when the crash came. He said that it was customary for the trolley cars to run so close to the gates before stopping that the engineers could never be sure that a car was going to stop.

Prof. George C. Sonn of the Newark High School, nine of whose pupils lost their lives in the accident, testified that he had closely examined the trolley tracks soon after the crash occurred, and that he saw no evidence of either sand or salt having been used on the tracks. Principal W. E. Stearns of the Newark High School corroborated.

NEW CRUISER ALL RIGHT.

Notwithstanding Adverse Conditions, the Cleveland Well Exceeds the Speed Requirement of the Navy Department.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PORTLAND (Me.) Sept. 1.—The cruiser Cleveland, built at the Bath Iron Works and designed for service in tropical waters, made her official trial run today on the Cape Ann course, with a four-hour run against the Navy Department's requirements that she develop a speed of 16.5 knots under service conditions.

The ship suffered an accident, a break in a pump attached to the port engine, which delayed her by more than a minute, and she was obliged to deviate from the course through the carelessness of a three-masted schooner which ran across her bows during the best part of the trip. In spite of that, however, she logged an average of 16.42 knots for the four hours, while during the best part of the test she made 16.65 knots. These figures do not include the tidal corrections, which will undoubtedly be in favor of the ship.

NEW OFFICE FOR WITTE.

ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 1.—M. Witte, the recently-appointed president of the Council of Ministers, has been appointed a member of the Council of Empire.

SULTAN'S LITTLE TIME.

Celebration in Honor of His Accession Goes Off Successfully.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The celebration here in honor of the Sultan's accession passed off without any untoward incident. The Sultan held the customary reception, and received the congratulations of the representatives of the powers and the State dignitaries. This evening the city is brilliantly illuminated.

WASHINGTON.

CUT DOWN THE DEBT.

Mr. Hill Talks to Treasury Chiefs.

Member of the House Committee on Banking and Currency Would Use Surplus.

If Secretary Shaw is Reluctant Congress Will be Asked to Take up the Matter.

Jury's Decision In Certain Postal Cases Expected By Friday. Capital Notes.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Representative Hill of the House Committee on Banking and Currency is of the opinion that steps should be taken to reduce the national debt. He believes that there is enough surplus money in the treasury to warrant some of it being applied to scaling down the country's indebtedness, and he has taken occasion to communicate his views to the high officials of the administration.

Mr. Hill says that the Treasury Department could well afford to divert some of the money in the vaults to cutting down the interest-bearing debt. This is a problem for Secretary Shaw to handle, and it is likely that unless he shows a disposition to lower the debt, Mr. Hill will suggest some means of doing this when the general question of financial legislation is brought up in Congress this winter.

The financial liabilities of the government, of various kinds, aggregate $2,303,464,781. What may properly be called the national debt, however, is considerably less than this for the interest-bearing obligations amount to only $914,541,490. This item is made up of bonds of various issues, all of which bear interest. There is an item of $282,980,000, which is classified as "debt bearing no interest," and another item of $380,000, which is also included in the aggregate of debt.

The first item consists of United States notes, old demand notes, national bank notes and fractional currency, while the second is made up of treasury gold and silver certificates of various denominations. The whole thing will come finally to a question of finance, when Secretary Shaw will have to determine whether the state of the treasury and the general condition of business in industrial centers will permit him to deplete the cash balance in order to cut down the national debt.

While the national debt may appear to be something to cause public worry, it is small in comparison with the financial burdens of European countries. The per capita indebtedness of the United States is smaller than that of every nation of any importance. France has the heaviest burden of this sort, staggering under a debt of something like $5,000,000,000. England, Russia and Germany all have large outstanding obligations, while some of the smaller countries are mortgaged up to the limit.

POSTAL INVESTIGATION.

DECISION EXPECTED FRIDAY.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—A number of the inspectors who have been investigating the affairs of the office of the Assistant Attorney General for the Postoffice Department were in consultation today with Assistant United States Attorney Taggart regarding postal matters before the grand jury. Although it is possible that the jury may reach an agreement to return one or more indictments any day, it is not now anticipated that the decision of the jury will be reached before Friday.

First Assistant Postmaster-General Bristow is devoting a great deal of time to this part of his report. He is carefully reviewing a vast mass of documents bearing on the investigation and consulting frequently with Chief Inspector Cochrane and Inspector Fosne, the head of the free delivery service, both of whom have been his chief assistants in the investigation.

Mr. Bristow confers every day with the Postmaster-General regarding matters connected with the inquiry. Today he refused to venture an opinion as to when the investigation will be closed, or when his report can be placed in the hands of the Postmaster-General. Additional rooms on the floor of the Postoffice Department Building have been set aside for the use of the inspectors, who are getting the multitude of details developed by the investigation into shape for incorporation in Mr. Bristow's report.

WIRELESS COMMON CARRIERS.

BERLIN CONFERENCE'S RULING.
[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The wireless telegraph companies are common carriers, and must therefore receive from any source and transmit to any destination all messages offered to them. This conclusion, which forestalls any monopoly, was reached by the Berlin International Conference, and was the gist of the only important resolution adopted at its session, which lasted nine days, beginning August 4. Germany, Great Britain, France, Russia, Austria-Hungary, Italy, Spain and the United States participated.

August 14, the congress adopted a

protocol of eight articles as the groundwork of a general treaty, all of them being of minor interest except the following: "Coast stations are obliged to receive and transmit telegrams going or returning from ships, without distinction as to the system of wireless telegraphy employed by ships."

Under this rule, "radiograms," as wireless telegrams were termed at the conference, are to be placed in the category of merchandise, and radiograph corporations, as common carriers compelled to cooperate in delivering them at their destination.

The common-carrier declaration which is aimed against monopoly was adopted at the instance of the American delegates, who were familiar with United States statutes and the Supreme Court decisions of that general principle, and was warmly espoused by all delegates except those from Great Britain and Italy, who pleaded lack of authority in their instructions. It is significant that these are the only two countries wedded to the Marconi system.

HANDSOME SURPLUS.

RECEIPTS AND EXPENDITURES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The monthly statement of the receipts and expenditures shows that for the month of August, 1903, the total receipts were $49,852,677 and the expenditures $43,-604,347, leaving a surplus for the month of $6,528,132. The surplus for August, 1902, was $5,492,000.

The receipts from the several sources of revenue, with the increase or decreases, compared with August 1, 1902, are given as follows:

Customs, $25,131,714; decrease, $1,461,-000. Internal revenue, $19,394,466; increase, $1,761,000. Miscellaneous, $5,444,-767; increase, $946,000.

PUBLIC DEBT.

SIX MILLIONS DECREASE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The monthly statement of the public debt shows that at the close of business August 31, 1903, the total debt less cash in the treasury amounted to $923,924,357, which is a decrease for the month of $6,098,954. This decrease is accounted for principally by the corresponding increase in the cash on hand. The debt is recapitulated as follows:

Interest-bearing debt, $914,541,000; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,204,070; debt bearing no interest, $391,629,597. Total, $1,307,375,065. This amount, however, does not contain $896,739,869 in certificates and treasury notes outstanding which are offset by an equal amount of cash on hand, held for their redemption.

The cash in the treasury is classified as follows: Gold reserve fund, $150,000,000; trust fund, $896,739,869; general fund, $172,053,551; in national bank depositaries, $152,317,776; in the treasury of Philippine Islands to credit of United States disbursing officers, $5,-422,901. Total, $1,376,534,096, against which there are demand liabilities outstanding amounting to $961,089,187, which leaves a cash balance on hand of $383,450,710.

The Puget Sound estimates include the following items: New drydocks, $1,800,000; repairs to timber drydock, $100,000; purchase of land, $350,000.

Fight for Duphy's Life.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The War Department has decided to refer to the Supreme Court of the Philippines the case of the native Filipino Dunphy, who was convicted of murder by the military government and sentenced to death. He escaped and was apprehended after the Philippines passed into civic control. His attorneys make the claim that the civil government cannot carry out the sentence of the military government. It is expected that the case ultimately will be taken to the United States Supreme Court.

Monthly Coinage Statement.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—The monthly statement of the coinage executed at the mints of the United States shows the total coinage for August to have been $1,114,180, as follows: Gold, $450,000; silver, $452,000; minor coins, $212,185. The coinage executed for the Philippine archipelago amounted to 39,-456,878 pieces and for the Venesuelan government 200,000 pieces.

SHAW IN ST. LOUIS.

He is There to Make Arrangements to Turn Over the Five Million Dollar Appropriation.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. LOUIS, Sept. 1.—Secretary of Treasury Shaw arrived in St. Louis this morning for the purpose of inspecting the progress made in the erection of the buildings at the World's Fair grounds preparatory to beginning the disbursement of the $5,000,000 appropriation. He was escorted by a committee of World's Fair directors to the administration building, where he was greeted by President Francis. The company was driven over the great site in carriages.

From the top of the Art Palace the Secretary was afforded a view of the great exhibit buildings, several of which are now completed, and awaiting the installation of exhibits and the decorative features in the course of construction.

Secretary Shaw was impressed with the sight, for he said: "Gentlemen, it is a gem. It is the finest thing I have ever seen. The view from this point is surpassing."

After finishing his inspection of the World's Fair, Secretary Shaw was escorted to the Mercantile Club, where a luncheon was spread in his honor. Among those present were a number of prominent business and newspaper men.

It is expected that Secretary Shaw before leaving here will appoint a disbursing agent to handle the $5,000,000.

PRESIDENT'S QUIET DAY.

He Takes Advantage of it to Dispose of a Large Amount of Departmental Business.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 1.—This was one of the President's quietest week days during his summer sojourn at Sagamore Hill. No formal callers were received. The President embraced the opportunity to attend to a considerable amount of departmental business that had been referred to him, and to dispose of a mass of correspondence. The work of the executive office here has become so heavy that it has become necessary to increase the force of clerks.

Arrangements have practically been completed for the President's trip to Syracuse on Monday, September 7, the opening of the New York State Fair. Accompanied by a small party he will leave Oyster Bay on the night of the 6th, arriving at Syracuse Monday morning. At 10 o'clock he will review a great Labor Day parade. Shortly before noon he will be escorted to the State Fair grounds, where he will formally open the fair and deliver his address. Returning to the city later in the afternoon, the President will review the parade of the letter carriers. In the evening, former United States Senator Frank Hitchcock will give a dinner in honor of the President. The President's party will return directly to Oyster Bay, arriving here on the morning of the 8th.

KING EDWARD'S DAY.

He Starts it, by Visiting Capuchin Church and Its Vaults, and Winds up at Reception.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VIENNA, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] King Edward today visited the Capuchin Church and its vaults, in which are sarcophaguses inclosing the remains of the Austrian royal family. Later he was entertained at a luncheon at the British embassy, at which Emperor Francis Joseph and a number of notable personages were present. Complimentary speeches were exchanged. The function was followed by a banquet.

A farewell reception was tendered King Edward this evening by the Archduchess Marie Joseph, the Emperor and King Edward being present.

On Sunday morning, his horse and cart were found near Jolon with Dodge dead in the cart, holding the reins. The Coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of heart disease. Prof. Lammasch of Austria has been appointed one of the arbitrators in the Venesuelan question. Dr. Zorn, a professor at the University of Koenigsberg represents Germany in the arbitration court.

MT. VERNON CRUMBLING.

Washington's Mansion and Tomb In Need of Preserving Process.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In an effort to preserve from further decay the tomb and mansion of George Washington at Mount Vernon, a force of men today began treating the limestone of which the tomb is built with a vulcanizing process, which, it is supposed, will make it waterproof and imperishable.

Some time ago Superintendent Dodge noted that the stones of the old tomb, the one built by Gen. Washington, in which his body and that of his wife rested until 1831, were in such a condition of decay that a fingernail could easily scrape away large surfaces of the stones. Further investigation disclosed that the sandstone foundations of the historic mansion in which Gen. Washington lived were undergoing a like process of disintegration, and that with small effort they could be made to crumble. It is evident that if the process now being used on the stones is not a success the foundation will have to be replaced, or the building will collapse, perhaps within two years.

A month ago Superintendent Dodge removed the historic corner-stone of the tomb, the one bearing the Masonic emblem, in an effort to prevent further decay of the stone. He found it necessary to have the sides cut away, and this destroyed the Masonic emblem. It was recut in the stone, and is an exact imitation of the historic one.

THEIR HERO IS PARKS.

Laborites Worship at the Shrine of Felon.

Released from Sing Sing on Bail Pending Appeal.

Telluride Millmen Out—Miners Violate Agreement—Letter Carriers Meet.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, September 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Taken from Sing Sing prison, whisked to a railroad express, whirled to the waiting throng of union labor friends at Grand Central station, and from there taken to the Tombs in a prison van, "Sam" Parks, the convicted walking delegate of the Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's Union, was treated to a bit of "railroading" today that eclipsed in speed the quickness of his progress to the penitentiary.

As he sat in the parlors of the Hotel Victoria today there was nothing but his closely-cropped head and smooth-shaven upper lip to indicate that the well-dressed labor dictator had for five days worn the stripes of a felon. His air of bravado had returned. He was the "Sam" Parks of old. To a dozen lesser lights in the labor world clustered about him, he issued instructions as though he simply had been on a vacation.

John J. Byrne, a nephew of W. S. Devery, qualified as bondsman, scheduling real estate valued at $63,000 as security. The Recorder accepted bonds on three pending indictments, but nettled Mr. Eustace by saying he would have to refer the acceptance of $10,000 bail to Justice Sewell.

Parks called on "Big Bill" Devery at the club, and joined in the general hilarity over his release.

In his greatest day of victory Parks never was the hero of such a demonstration as that which met him on his return from Sing Sing. Massed against the station gates and on the train platform were sympathizers to the number of two thousand.

"Hurrah for Parks" they cried, and they pounced upon him with such vigor that twelve policemen were unable to hold them back.

TIE UP ESPEE STEAMERS.

FREIGHT-HANDLERS' STRIKE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW ORLEANS (La.) Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Five hundred Southern Pacific dock workers struck today because the company failed to grant them an increase in wages from 30 to 40 cents per hour, 60 cents for overtime, and 30 cents per hour for Sundays and holidays. Work was tied up on the two big steamers Comus and Louisiana, and it was nearly night before the company had secured some 35 men to enter the ships. Traffic is seriously interfered with.

The strikers, comprising the Universal Freight Handlers' Union No. 402, International Association of Longshoremen, declared tonight that their strike had been indorsed by the international body and also by all local levee labor. They said that should the Southern Pacific refuse to settle with them that the international union, with headquarters in Detroit, Mich., of which Daniel J. Keefe is president, will order all union labor off the Morgan ships at both Galveston and New York.

"We are assured of this fact," declared Lewis J. Johnson, chairman of the strike committee. "We can tie up the Southern Pacific ships in both New York and Galveston if we are not given satisfaction. Union men will not go into them."

BRUTAL OUTRAGES.

WORK OF STRIKING MINERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DENVER, Sept. 1.—A special to the Republican from Victor, Colo., says two men were assaulted and seriously injured, one probably fatally, today, as a result, it is believed, of the present strike of the miners of the district.

The first assault occurred this afternoon at Anaconda, the victim being John Hawkins, Justice of the Peace. His assailants are unknown, but he believes the assault was connected with the trial some days ago of two guards at the El Paso mine, charged with carrying concealed weapons. One of them was fined $25 and the other was released.

The second outrage happened late tonight. Thomas M. Stewart, a carpenter employed in the construction of a high fence around the Golden Cycle property, was taken from his home in Independence, terribly beaten and shot through the body. He will probably die. His assailants were five in number. Some of them wore masks but the victim claims to have recognized those who were not masked. He declines to name them at present.

LETTER CARRIERS.

ANNUAL CONVENTION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) Sept. 1.—The early session of the National Association of Letter Carriers' Convention today was devoted to a spirited contest over the seating of the delegations from New York and Chicago. As matters stand, it looks as if Portland, Or., will be the next convention place.

In his annual report, President J. C. Keller suggested that hereafter twelve instead of sixteen annual assessments be made in the mutual benefit branch of the order. The branch, he said, had $70,000 assets in a reserve fund. He recommended that the offices of the association be removed from Washington to avoid preferential lobbyists.

New Scale for Telegraphers.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—Negotiations which have been pending since May 1, between the Illinois Central Railway and the telegraphers were concluded last night. The demands of the telegraphers, slightly modified, were granted. The long time taken to effect the settlement was necessary because of the fact that the schedules of more than 1500 different offices had to be considered individually. The concessions consist of greatly reduced hours and annual increase in the pay roll amounting to more than $100,000. The average increase in the salaries is 15 per cent.

Telluride Mills Idle.

TELLURIDE, (Col.) Sept. 1.—In pursuance of the call issued late yesterday by Secretary-treasurer Carpenter of the Miners' Union, all union millmen in the Telluride district quit work this morning. The Smuggler-Union Company's Pandora mill was forced to suspend operations, but the company's new mill is still working, and Manager Wells says he has enough non-union men to keep it in operation. No violence has been threatened.

Miners Violate Agreement.

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Sept. 1.—Six hundred coal miners in the Voyinger district in Northeastern Missouri refused to go to work today, violating the agreement made between the operators and John Mitchell, now president of the United Mine Workers, at Chicago, last week, that the men would remain at work until the end of the Kansas City conference to meet here on September 10. This convention is to discuss differences affecting the 10,000 miners in Missouri, Kansas, Arkansas and the Indian Territory.

OUR NAVY NOT MUCH.

Admiral Dewey Declares the Nation is Deficient in Naval Strength and the People Are Deceived by Its Imposing Appearance on Paper.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Admiral George Dewey has contributed an article to the Navy League Journal, in which he gives the strength of the fleets that Great Britain, France and Germany could assemble for their summer maneuvers, as compared with our small fleet assembled at Bar Harbor. He says:

"We rely upon the Navy League to bring home such facts as these to the people at large and to make such propaganda as will show how deficient we really are in naval strength. Popular newspaper articles are misleading, and con so distort an imposing-looking list, such as this present one, as to persuade nine-tenths of the community that its vessels are all that they purport to be.

"The Navy League can controvert such impressions, and with intense interest regarding the navy and all details connected with it which now exists, even in the most inland and remote localities of our country, it can demonstrate the real fighting value of these vessels and can point a moral for our possessing better ones before the fighting moment arrives. The Navy League should have a great future, and no more patriotic work can be done than is contemplated by its organization.

"Our immense coast line and our rapidly-increasing world trade demand a navy. We must have it for our own protection, and it rests with the Navy League to instill this idea into the mind of all classes of citizens until the pressure of public opinion gives us such a navy as is needed for the country's prestige and safety.

"Of course, we are doing the best we can," continues Admiral Dewey, "but the Navy League should not allow people in general to be deceived; and, above all things, should impress upon them the necessity of our having a fleet that will combine all the various elements of naval strength."

ARMY OF PHILIPPINES HOLDS BRIEF SESSION.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Sept. 1.—The Army of the Philippines held a two hours' session today and selected St. Louis is the place for the next annual reunion. In an address of some length Gen. Irving Hale delivered a glowing eulogy on the work of the army in the Philippines and then discussed pending legislation of the convention.

Gen. Hale scored a hit in his address when he declared that the National Society of the Army of the Philippines was here to stay, and that it must never allow itself to be absorbed. He said:

"An important matter for our consideration is the relation of this society to the several other societies of the Spanish-American War. We must cooperate with them so far as possible, and no doubt in time many of them will combine with others. But it must be understood that we must never merge this society into the others."

He took up the question of his own succession in so direct a way that it is not likely he will be reelected to the presidency. He said that he did not believe in the policy of one man holding office too long.

Letters from the President, Gen. Miles and Admiral Dewey were read.

Tomorrow will witness the parade of the veterans, preceding which there will be a brief session. In the evening a public meeting will be held, at which Gen. Hale will deliver an address.

AURORA HODGE MURDERESS.

Gave Her Victim Caresses, Then a Bullet.

Los Angeles Girl's Trial in Salt Lake Soon.

Hints that She Had Accomplice, Who is in Southern California.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SALT LAKE CITY, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Arrangements are under way for the speedy trial of Mrs. Aurora Hodge of Los Angeles, the self-confessed slayer of William X. Ryan, the aged spectacle vender, whose life she took a few months ago by playfully tying him to the wheels of his wagon while she was caressing him and then firing a bullet into his brain, killing him instantly. The probability is that the woman will have a hearing within a few days, and that the case will go to trial in the Criminal Court during the September session. Meantime she is an inmate of the County Jail, where she is spending most of the time doing fancy work and reading light literature.

Mrs. Hodge does not hesitate to disclose her ill feeling toward her husband, who is now in Southern California, and who has written damaging letters to the police authorities here concerning her alleged inordinate greed for money, the impelling motive in the murder of Ryan, who is believed to have had a sum in excess of $2000 on his person at the time he was killed. What became of the money is not known. Mrs. Hodge refuses absolutely to discuss that question, under the advice of her attorneys.

Some new and interesting facts regarding her antecedents came to light today. It appears that her father committed suicide when she was an infant, and that her mother died soon after. She was subsequently placed in a school for girls, but as she became older she refused to remain there and left on account of inability to agree with those in charge of the institution. While she has traveled in many States under conditions that were not only not ordinary, but extraordinary, including California, where she was married last February after a brief courtship, she is still a woman in her teens, not being 19 until October 12, next. While in Los Angeles last spring she admits having gone to Catalina Island, where she formed the friendship of a man who runs a glass-bottom boat off Avalon beach. She says he was a 'jolly good fellow and that she wishes she was there now, knowing that he would treat her better than her husband has done.

Mrs. Hodge declared solemnly to the the chief that if he will let her go she will come back to face the charge of murder against her whether it will be this month or next. That the woman will be found guilty of murder in the first degree there is not the slightest doubt in the minds of the police. In fact she confessed to that to the Michigan officials, some of whom will be brought here to testify against her. It is understood her counsel will contend that the confession was made under the strain of excitement and fear and cannot be used against her. But other evidence, while circumstantial, is very strong, and there is hardly a chance for her acquittal.

The only matter of doubt is in relation to the infliction of the death penalty. That is something that has never been done in this State against a woman, and it is believed the jury will bring in a verdict of guilty, with a recommendation to mercy in the form of imprisonment for life, and it is not thought the prosecution will contend for a severer punishment than that, though the crime was a peculiarly atrocious one. There is a possibility that the accomplice theory will be pressed forward, as it has been frequently hinted that she had one, and that he is probably in Southern California. At first her husband was suspected, but as he has proved an alibi, suspicion has shifted to another whose identity has not yet been revealed by the officers who are working on the case.

VENEZUELAN CLAIMS CASE

But Only One Arbitrator At the Opening.

MacVeagh Vigilantly Protects the Defendant Government.

Protest Entered Against Delay Resulting from Failure to Fill Court.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

THE HAGUE, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The first session today of the court which is to decide the Venezuelan claims was occupied by the discussion of procedure to be followed. The members of the Council of Ministers, the Premier, Dr. Kuyper, and the Foreign Minister, Baron von Lynden, were present. The press was excluded from the court.

Several representatives of the interested governments have not yet arrived.

According to authoritative information, after Baron von Lynden, the Dutch Foreign Minister, had greeted the members of the court, M. Muravieff, the Russian Minister of Justice, who presided, announced that he was the only arbitrator present, and that he was willing to hear any remarks.

Mr. Cohen, counsel for Great Britain, proposed that the tribunal adjourn from day to day. Wayne MacVeagh, on behalf of Venezuela, replied that in the absence of three arbitrators he could not agree to Cohen's proposal.

Thereupon M. Mauravieff declared that the tribunal was not yet duly

REVOLUTION AWAITED

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Travelers from Panama report the Isthmus alight with fires of a new revolution.

According to a Times dispatch from San José, Costa Rica, the Indians have risen and the late followers of General Benjamin Herrera are mustering in the mountain villages preparatory to joining an organized revolt caused by the rejection of the Panama canal treaty.

Hundreds of stacks of arms confiscated by the Colombian government at the close of the late revolution have reappeared from some mysterious source. With the arms goes ammunition fresh from factories, showing the movement is not spasmodic, but carefully planned.

Travelers from Panama to Puntarenas say that in Panama it is reported that Gen. Herrera has disappeared from his home near Bogota and is presumed to be on his way to the Isthmus. If this is true, Herrera probably will again assume command of the revolutionary forces and cast his lot with the Isthmian people, as was his intention had the late revolution terminated in favor of the Liberal party.

SETH LOW'S GAIN IS

[BY DIRECT WIRE]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Those fusion leaders who desire the renomination of Seth Low for Mayor gained a decided advantage at the fusion conference held tonight.

No action was taken pledging the conferees to support Mr. Low or any other possible nominee, but there was a strong expression of sentiment in favor of the Mayor's renomination. M. Linn Bruce, president of the Republican County Committee in New York, and Jacob Brenner, chairman of the Republican Executive Committee in Kings, declared more strongly than any of the other conferees in favor of a second term for Low.

Greatly to the surprise of many present, it was asserted after the meeting that no member of the Citizens' Union spoke for that organization in favor of the Mayor's renomination. A resolution indorsing the administration was offered by Francis C. Huntington, chairman of the Citi-

Mr. Cohen, counsel for Great Britain, proposed that the tribunal adjourn from day to day. Wayne MacVeagh, on behalf of Venezuela, replied that in the absence of three arbitrators he could not agree to Cohen's proposal.

Thereupon M. Maunavieff declared that the tribunal was not yet duly constituted and the sitting was unofficial. The French counsel asked that the present discussion should be incorporated in the minutes of the meeting. MacVeagh opposed this application on the same grounds as before. The arbitrator then adjourned the sitting and withdrew.

The Venezuelan government has handed in a protest to the Secretary of the tribunal against the delay entailed by the failure on the part of Great Britain and Germany to ask the Czar to appoint three arbitrators in time for the opening of the tribunal. It is believed that the Venezuelan counsel will insist on the nomination of arbitrators and the organization of the tribunal as soon as possible.

REVOLUTIONISTS AWAITING SIGNAL.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Travelers from Panama report the Isthmus alight with fires of a new revolution.

According to a Times dispatch from San José, Costa Rica, the Indians have risen and the late followers of Gen. Benjamin Herrera are mustering in the mountain villages preparatory to joining an organized revolt caused by the rejection of the Panama canal treaty.

Hundreds of stacks of arms confiscated by the Colombian government at the close of the late revolution have reappeared from some mysterious source. With the arms goes ammunition fresh from factories, showing the movement is not spasmodic, but carefully planned.

If this is true, Herrera probably will again assume command of the revolutionary forces and cast his lot with the Isthmian people, as was his intention had the late revolution terminated in favor of the Liberal party.

Gen. Victiono Lorenzo, who was banished to Coucau after the surrender of the Liberal forces last December, has escaped and is presumed to be in the marshes making his way back to the Isthmus. Lorenzo has 7000 Indians in his following, and it is believed he will have little difficulty in rallying the old forces if he succeeds in making his way back to San Carlos or to any other contiguous point.

From Chorrerra comes the report that he is in that locality mustering the Indians. At Boujouks, Col. Arcouca is in command of well mobilized forces.

SENSITIVE COLOMBIANS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Dispatches from a Bogota correspondent assert, says a Panama dispatch to the Herald, that the Panama Canal treaty was rejected by the Senate because of the imperative nature of the notes received from Secretary of State Hay and United States Minister Beaupre. These notes, the correspondent declares, were regarded as offensive.

The main question now discussed is whether the United States will be willing to enter into new negotiations, or will simply let the matter drop and take up the Nicaraguan route.

Immediately after the treaty was rejected, exchange went up to 12,000 per cent. discount.

SETH LOW'S FRIENDS GAIN IN STRENGTH.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Those fusion leaders who desire the renomination of Seth Low for Mayor gained a decided advantage at the fusion conference held tonight.

No action was taken pledging the conferees to support Mr. Low or any other possible nominee, but there was a strong expression of sentiment in favor of the Mayor's renomination. M. Greatly to the surprise of many present, it was asserted after the meeting that no member of the Citizens' Union spoke for that organization in favor of the Mayor's renomination. A resolution indorsing the administration was offered by Francis C. Huntington, chairman of the Citizens' Union Executive Committee, and represents the sentiment of the organization. But the resolution, it was pointed out, declares neither for nor against Low's renomination. It was adopted unanimously, all of the organizations thereby pledging their support to the anti-Tammany cause.

TEXT OF RESOLUTIONS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—The following resolutions were unanimously adopted at a conference of the fusion organizations, presided over by R. Fulton Cutting:

"Resolved, That the excellence of our city government, administered by our city officials chosen for capacity and character rather than party affiliations has fully justified the non-partisan policy adopted by the parties to the fusion of 1901;

"Resolved, That we, the parties to the fusion of 1901, hereby reassert the pledges of the last municipal campaign and declare our unalterable determination to deliver the city permanently from the scandalous misgovernment of Tammany Hall."

STOCKMEN OPEN WAR ON PACKERS' TRUST.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

KANSAS CITY (Mo.) Sept. 1.—Twenty-five stockmen from different parts of the Western grass country met in the Midland Hotel in this city today and arranged to perfect the organization of a packing company to compete with the alleged packers' trust. The new company will be named the Independent Packing Company. The company will have a capital stock of $5,000,000, and will be incorporated under the laws of Arizona. Of the total capitalization 51 per cent. will be so disposed of as to be held in escrow by the Board of Directors of the company. This will assure stockmen who interest themselves in the plant that the company will always be controlled by stock interests. The rest of the stock will be sold to stockmen, if possible, although no purchaser will be barred. The division of the stock as decided upon today was made to prevent any possibility of the alleged packers' trust gaining control of the new independent company.

GOBBLING UP BEET SUGAR IN MICHIGAN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

DETROIT (Mich.) Sept. 1.—The Free Press tomorrow will say that for some time past the American Sugar Refining Company has been gradually purchasing stock in sugar-beet factories throughout Michigan, and today it was announced that this company had obtained a controlling interest in nine big factories, having a combined capitalization of $8,300,000.

It is also stated that as soon as the beet-sugar season is over, the management of the factories will be placed under one head.

BARRY QUESTIONS PARRY AND GETS QUICK REPLY.

LABOR UNION LEADER TRIES TO CORNER MANUFACTURER.

Latter, in Answer, Calls Attention to Lawless Purposes of Unions and Says Their Encroachment on Individual Liberty, Demands Opposition to Them.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.—P.M.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Sept. 1.—President Barry of the Central Labor Union of Indianapolis today submitted to D. M. Parry, national president of the Manufacturers' Association, the following questions and asked for formal answers:

"What is your idea of the legitimate purpose of a labor union?"

"Would you permit the formation of a 'perfect' union in your plant?"

"Is your plant conducted along political lines?"

"Do you believe that our laws are such as to foster special privileges and restrict the opportunity to labor?"

"Is it not a fact that wages are higher in communities using union labor, and the community thereby benefited?"

"Ought the welfare of the many be placed in the hands of the few?"

"Ought not the laborer be on an equal footing with the employer when it comes to settling the wage question?"

"Is it within the power of law to suppress the labor unions?"

"Have you not adopted an institution similar in scope and nature to the boycott?"

"Is it necessary to have laws regulating child labor?"

"What actuates your opposition to labor unions?"

President Parry in a statement tonight said:

"Barring one or two questions in which there is a tone of animosity directed at me personally, I think that Mr. Barry's questions are entitled to a fair answer.

"The real issue is whether an organization, labor or otherwise, can perform acts which its members as individuals cannot legally do. No individual has the right to prevent another from disposing of his labor as he sees fit, and neither has an organization the right. The union says, however, that a man must take an oath or pledge of allegiance to its organization, and abide by its government or else be denied the chance of employment in those industries which it controls. This is as much an usurpation of the inherent rights of liberty as it would be to compel a man to join a certain church or a certain lodge. I have stated that unionism aims to establish a condition of affairs similar to that of feudalism and serfdom of former centuries when the right of disposing of one's labor was denied to the individual. If the labor leaders had their way they would in time reënslave the human race.

"Again, in order to enforce their illegal purpose, the members of unions are habitually resorting in times of strikes to physical and mob violence. They gather in crowds about the place of their former employment with the intent of inspiring fear in the minds of men who might be disposed to work, and all too frequently they terrorize the women folks of so-called 'scabs' and commit cowardly assaults. Even murder is now and then committed in the sacred name of organized labor.

"I wish to bring out this point, that any organization that has lawful purposes and conducts itself lawfully has a perfect right to exist, and that if organized labor would eliminate that which is unlawful in its creed and would act strictly within the law in its practices, there would be no cause for agitation against it.

"If unionism must necessarily be lawless, then it is correct to assume that those who object to the lawlessness on the part of the organization are in favor of destroying the unions; otherwise it is not true."

Negro Organization of Boston Calls on the President to Dispense With the Advice of Washington.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—The Suffrage League of Boston, a negro organization, tonight adopted resolutions declaring:

"Inasmuch as Booker T. Washington has glorified the revised constitutions of the South; has minimized the 'Jim Crow' car outrage; has attacked th wisdom of the fourteenth and fifteenth amendments to the Constitution; has depreciated the primary importance of the ballot; has preached to the colored people of silent submission to intolerable conditions, and makes his people a by-word and laughing stock before the world, he is not a fit leader for the colored race; and no President who recognizes him as a political leader should receive the colored vote of the North.

"Therefore, since President Roosevelt has given him charge of the appointment of all negroes of whatever State in the Union, and has made him the negro adviser as to all policies affecting colored Americans, in the interests of our race, we call upon President Roosevelt to dispense with Mr. Washington as our political spokesman."

MOB CALLS ON JAILER.

Asks for Negro John Griffin Who is Under Arrest for Attempted Assault on a White Woman.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SHAWNEETOWN (Ill.) Sept. 1.—A mob of fifty masked men went to the jail here early this morning and demanded that Jailer Calloway turn over to them John Griffin, colored, who was under arrest for an attempted assault on Mrs. Joseph Hobbs, white, near her own home. Griffin had been frightened away by the woman's screams, and had been arrested a short while afterward.

When the mob demanded that the jailer turn the negro over to them, Calloway armed himself, and after reasoning with the men from the jail door, he warned them that any effort to force the jail would be at their own peril. The mob, in spite of the jailer's words, made several ineffectual attempts to break down the jail doors, finally dispersing about daylight.

Many of the colored people are taking sides with Griffin, though some of them have, in fear of a race riot, left the town. No trouble has followed the visit of the mob to the jail this morning, but preparations are making to take the negro to Carmi for safekeeping.

MORGAN'S CARRIAGE ACCIDENT.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—J. P. Morgan, on his way from his yacht, the Corsair, tonight, was the victim of a carriage accident. At Tenth avenue and Thirty-sixth street the driver of his brougham drove the horse and vehicle into an excavation. Morgan was not injured. He left the carriage and proceeded in a car.

CUTTING OFF TUSKEGEE.

Member from Macon Puts in a Bill in the Alabama House to Deprive Negro Schools of Funds Annually Paid

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MONTGOMERY (Ala.) Sept. 1.—Representative Woods of Macon today introduced in the Alabama House of Representatives a bill which seeks to take from the Tuskegee Normal School and the Negro Industrial School at Montgomery the annual appropriation from the Agricultural Fund. Interest is added to Woods's bill by the fact that he is a resident of the town of Tuskegee and represents the county in which the Tuskegee Normal School is located, and that he only recently finished a term of office as Mayor of Tuskegee.

From the Agricultural Fund the Tuskegee Institute receives $1500, and the Montgomery school is paid $1000 annually.

Ambassador Choate Gives a Dinner in Honor of the American Boundary Commission—Foreign Office Will Select Secretary of the Commission.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] War Secretary Root of the Alaskan Boundary Commission has accepted an invitation to be the guest of Lord Roberts Thursday night at the latter's country home in Surrey. On Sunday the Secretary will visit Chief Justice Alverstone at his country place, which is also in Surrey. Mr. Broderick, the British War Secretary, has asked Mr. Root to be his guest for three days during the army maneuvers.

Ambassador Choate gave a dinner tonight in honor of the American Commission, which was attended by the consuls and their wives and Capt. Bentley Moot, the United States military attaché at Paris, and Marvin Carter.

Henry White, secretary of the United States embassy, will not be secretary of the Joint Commission. The secretary will be selected from the Foreign Office, and will probably be Eric Barrington or F. H. Villiers.

NO VISIT FROM "BOBS."

FORCED TO ABANDON TRIP.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

LONDON, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Although Field Marshal Lord Roberts is still booked to sail for Boston on the Mayflower, September 22, it can now be definitely stated that he is not going to the United States this autumn. Alteration in his plans was necessitated by the postponement of the British army maneuvers until the middle of September because of the bad weather which has retarded the harvesting of the crops, and the situation in Somaliland, the War Office not wanting Lord Roberts to be absent while the new East African campaign is in preparation.

DARING THIEF CAUGHT.

Stole Five Hundred Dollars from Paying Teller's Desk by Means of a Copper Wire.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MILWAUKEE (Wis.) Sept. 1.—The Germania National Bank was robbed of $500 today by a daring thief, who gave his name as George P. Johnson. The money was extracted from the paying teller's desk with the aid of a short piece of copper wire, while the latter was engaged at the telephone.

The thief was captured, and the money recovered in a few minutes. Johnson tonight acknowledged that his name is Joe Shea. He is credited in police circles with having robbed the Metropolitan National Bank of New York of $10,000 on July 28, 1899, for which he served a term of two and a half years in Sing Sing.

BIGAMIST SURRENDERED.

Joseph Lauer Preferred a Prison Cell to Facing the Two Women that He Had Wronged.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Joseph Lauer, 20 years old, astonished the Brooklyn police with a request to be locked up.

"I have got two wives," he explained. "Both are looking for me with a warrant, and I think I'd rather spend the night here than go home."

The police readily accommodated him.

Lauer explained that he married his first wife, a girl of 18, last November. Later he met one of 20, and also wedded her. Recently the two wives discovered Lauer's duplicity and went into court together, where they procured warrants. While they were gazing from the courtroom window, a man resembling the husband passed. An officer captured him, but he soon established his innocence. Lauer heard of this and made himself scarce until he appeared at the police station.

ACTUARIES DINE AT SHERRY'S.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Three hundred members of the Congress of Actuaries as well as presidents of nearly all the life insurance companies of the United States, with their wives and women friends, were entertained tonight at Sherry's at a banquet given by the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York, the New York Life Insurance Company, and the Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. George B. Cortelyou, Secretary of the Department of Commerce and Labor, presided, with Mayor Low at his right.

SLUDER RETRACTS CONFESSION.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—John W. Sluder, an ex-employé of the Chicago City Railroad Company, who on Wednesday night gave the police an alleged confession of the circumstances surrounding the murderous raid on the company's barns last Sunday morning, informed Chief O'Neil in the presence of a number of newspaper men tonight that all his startling yarns about the tragedy were false. The strange thing about Sluder now seems to be, as the police view it, his familiarity with every movement made by the robbers.

CRUSADE AGAINST MORMONISM.

SALT LAKE (Utah) Sept. 1.—A gentile bureau of information is to be established in this city by the Women's Missionary Union of Salt Lake and the Utah Ministerial Association. A circular has been sent out to ministerial associations and missionary and church organizations all over the country, calling attention to the bureau and explaining its objects. For some time the Mormon Church has had a bureau of information on the Temple grounds for the benefit of tourists, and it is to furnish these visitors with information from the gentile point of view, especially on the questions of polygamy, the church in politics and matters along the lines that the bureau is to be established.

MASKED MEN FRIGHTENED.

INDIANOLA (Neb.) Sept. 1.—Four masked men before daylight this morning broke into the County Jail here and attempted to blow off the locks of the steel cage occupied by Charles H. McMillan, the slayer of Lee Jones, who is awaiting trial on a charge of murder. The noise aroused the jailor, and the men fled. The identity of the men is not known, and whether their purpose was to harm or liberate McMillan is equally a mystery.

FIGHT OVER BEDFORD ESTATE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—As a result of the complications arising over the property left by Gunning S. Bedford of this city, who died last February, in Paris, a three-cornered fight has begun in the Supreme Court. In the name of Eugene L. Bushe, and Stephen Flake, trustees, action has been brought to determine the rights of all persons interested, including the widow. The latter was detained in London, a few months ago, charged with attempting to foist a child on the estate. The infant is reported to have died in France recently. While the estate is not great, there is a large trust fund involved, which should pass to Bedford's heirs.

Southern Counties' Hearing Before State Board.

Ventura and Riverside Have Made Considerable Increases.

Rejected Lover Stabs Girl—Mrs. Geberding Dead—Woman Captures Burglar.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 1.—Assessor J. A. Donlan of Ventura county was before the State Board of Equalization this morning, and was interrogated by the members of the board with reference to property valuations in his county. The assessed valuation of the property in Ventura county in 1902 was $8,368,346. This year it is $9,410,892. Donlan said there has been an increase of the assessed valuation of a little more than $3,000,000 since 1896. The county has been going ahead all the time, although the crops at the present time are not particularly good.

W. F. Monnette, Assessor; Lyman Evans, District Attorney, and W. B. Chaney, Auditor, of Riverside county, reported for that county. The assessed valuation of the county in 1902 was $10,859,806. This year it is $11,656,331. Dist.-Atty. Evans said the county is incumbered with three irrigation districts which exist under the Wright law. Heavy bonds, combined with short rains, he said, have wrecked the districts. About $1,500,000 was lost through land in those districts being sold to the State for taxes. All the land would be tillable were there sufficient water. People are not redeeming the land on account of heavy bonds. Eight hundred thousand dollars of the total increase in valuation this year is on property in the city of Riverside and $190,000 in Corona. The city of Riverside is four by fifteen miles in area.

Auditor Clancy said all the prosperous sections of the county have been increased in valuation. The decrease is in the bonded sections, in which are located the irrigation districts. There has been a failure of the grain crop for five years. The increase in the entire county is 10 per cent. over the assessed valuation in 1902.

MRS. GERBERDING DEAD.

BARD'S MOTHER-IN-LAW.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Mrs. Mary J. Gerberding died yesterday at her home on Clay street, this city, where she had lived for more than fifty years. Mrs. Gerberding was the widow of a well-known pioneer of this city, who was one of the first owners of the Bulletin. Since coming to California in 1851 Mrs. Gerberding has been prominent in the social life of the community, and had taken an active interest in charitable work. She was for eighty-four years on the board of managers of the Protestant Orphan Asylum. Until recently, she had been in good health, but the death of her son, Albert Gerberding, was a severe shock to her.

She is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Thomas R. Bard, wife of Senator Bard of Ventura, who is at present in England, and two sons, E. O. and W. Gerberding, both of whom reside in Southern California.

STABBED FIFTEEN TIMES.

CRIME OF REJECTED LOVER.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Maddened because the girl to whom he was once engaged would not replight her troth with him, Matthew J. Thomas, a fresco painter, stabbed Blanche Boland fifteen times with a putty knife today, and then, after making a vain attempt to end his own life by a slash at his breast with the same weapon, he fled from the scene of his crime, leaving his victim apparently dead. A young man pursued the would-be murderer for some distance, but the latter finally made his escape and so far the detectives have failed to apprehend him.

Miss Boland, despite the desperate nature of the attack made upon her, was not fatally injured and there is every prospect for her recovery.

WRECK OF THE RIO.

COURT AWARDS THE DAMAGES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—By a decision handed down today Judge De Haven of the United States District Court fixed the awards to be given the claimants for damages against the Pacific Mail Steamship Company on account of the loss of the steamer Rio de Janeiro.

The ship went down on the morning of February 22, 1901, after striking a rock just outside the Golden Gate. She was a total loss, and nearly all on board were drowned. As the accident was caused by the negligence of the pilot, and not through carelessness on the part of the owners, the company is liable but for that which was saved from the wreck. This aggregates $24,977, of which $24,827 was for freight pending.

The company's liabilities were limited to this sum, and by the decision of the court this amount will be distributed pro rata among the claimants, which will give each about 35 per cent. of the amount sued for.

INDIAN POWWOWS.

DEATH ENDS FESTIVITIES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

YOSEMITE, Sept. 1.—The Indian powwows, which have been carried on with intense excitement for the last week, came to a sudden end with the burial of Mrs. Uncle George, one of the oldest squaws of the Sierras, which took place this morning with imposing ceremonies. Mrs. George came from the Nevada side of the mountains a week ago to attend the biennial celebration of the Piute and Digger Indian tribes, but was taken sick soon after her arrival. Her death was a severe shock to the visiting Indians from different parts of the Sierras and put a quietus on the feasting and war dances that have brought so many visiting red men together lately.

Several days ago her supposed death was announced while one of the war dances was at its highest pitch of enthusiasm. Every Indian immediately left the dance, and the mourning programme for the next day was soon announced.

When the next day came, it was found that the venerable Mrs. George still drew the breath of life, but on Sunday night it was discovered that she had suffered a relapse and death came very suddenly.

Yesterday all festivities at the different Indian camps ceased immediately. In the afternoon, Capt. Kelly of Bear Creek, together with Chiefs Francisco of Bull Creek and Lancisco of Carson, Nev., arranged the last rites and ceremonies of burial, consisting of fastings and wailing all night until sunrise, when the obsequies took place at the Yosemite Indian burial grounds, located at the foot of Indian Cañon.

Capt. Kelly, the most eloquent red man of the Sierras, delivered the Indian funeral oration, speaking in proud terms of the valuable services performed by the deceased in her life time, and of the noble sons and daughters she has given to the brave tribes of the mountains.

PLUCKY MRS. RICHARDSON.

SHUT BURGLAR IN CLOSET.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BERKELEY, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Leon J. Richardson, wife of Prof. Richardson of the University of California, caught a burglar this morning by shutting the marauder in a closet in her room. She notified the officers by telephone, and the man was placed in jail. The scene of Mrs. Richardson's bravery was at the residence of her father, Prof. Warring Wilkinson, a director of the State Institution for the Deaf Dumb and Blind.

The robber was heard to enter the window of the residence by Mrs. Richardson, who gave the alarm. Prof. and Mrs. Wilkinson were aroused, and discovered the man in the hall. He fled to a closet, closely followed by Mrs. Richardson, who shut the door on him.

The burglar gave the name of Charles Gaylor. He exhibited papers of honorable discharge from the First California Infantry. For the past two months Gaylor has been employed at a stable in this city. Little is known of his antecedents, but the police believe he ha committed many recent robberies in this city.

ALLEGED POISONERS.

SAVED FROM WORSE QUARTERS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The attorney who has charge of the case of Mrs. Martha Bowers, under arrest for the alleged murder of her husband, today concluded to drop the proceedings in habeas corpus to get the woman out of the city prison.

Mrs. Bowers and her sister, Mrs. Sutton, were detained by the police in the city prison, but as yet no charge has been placed against either.

Attorney Drury has been informed that in the event of the women being discharged from custody, a warrant would be sworn out for the arrest of both of them. Mrs. Bowers and Mrs. Sutton are now installed in comfortable quarters in the matron's ward in the city prison, but once they are charged with murder they will be placed in a cell among the common criminals. Drury today went to Chief of Police Whitman, and told him he would move to drop the habeas corpus proceedings.

Detectives are still at work on the case, and claim to have unearthed new evidence against the women.

RAISIN GROWERS SIGNED.

ASSOCIATION IS A "GO."

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

FRESNO, Sept. 1.—The California Raisin Growers' Association is a "go." This afternoon, the directors counted up their contracts, and it was found that 90.99 per cent. of the acreage was signed. This exceeded the expectation of the most sanguine, and the association will conduct business and maintain prices for the coming year.

This result is a source of gratification to growers, packers and the public generally, and everybody asserts that it assures prosperity to Fresno for another year.

At 10 o'clock tonight, the directors, after a protracted meeting, named the following prices on raisins: 2-Crown, 6¼ cents; 3-Crown, 6¼ cents; 4-Crown, 7 cents. These are the highest prices ever named on raisins.

CONDITION OF THE MILITIA.

INSPECTOR KOSTER'S REPORT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Lieut.-Col. John A. Koster, division inspector on Gen. John H. Dickinson's staff, has finished the inspection of the National Guard of California, with which he has been engaged the past two months, and his report will be forwarded to headquarters at Sacramento. Generally speaking, he finds the State Guard to be in first-class condition, with an excellent esprit du corps, a high state of discipline and an earnest ambition to maintain the most creditable military organization possible. In fact, the claim is made that California's militia ranks as the best of the citizen soldiers of the United States.

But in some instances Col. Koster was much displeased with affairs. In these particular commands, a woeful lack of discipline was shown. Laxity characterized the drills, and the officers displayed more incompetency than command. Rules and orders were dishonored, and arms and accouterments were in a sad state of neglect.

SLOPE BRIEFS.

Clergymen Bound for Philippines.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Bishop D. P. Dougherty of Philadelphia, accompanied by secular priests J. Carroll, E. Cook and D. Gercke, and Profs. J. McCloskey and J. McGinley have arrived in San Francisco en route for Manila. These six clergymen comprise an important American delegation of Catholic priests bound for the Philippines to reorganize the institutions and importance of the church in Northeastern Luson, which has been partly neglected since the outbreak of the insurrection, and the necessary evacuation of the district by the original Spanish priests.

Oakland's Tax Levy.

OAKLAND, Sept. 1.—By an ordinance passed to print by the City Council, the city tax levy was fixed at $1.257 for the year 1903-4, as compared with the rate of $1.26 for last year and $1.23 as was estimated by the City Auditor. The total valuation of property in Oakland, is $50,535,833.

The judge believed that the entrance was not made with criminal intent.

Lineman Instantly Killed.

STOCKTON, Sept. 1.—Charles S. The flesh of both arms and one side was badly burned. Stith is from Kansas, where he leaves a mother and sister. He came from San Francisco a week ago, and was in the employ of the Stockton Gas and Electric Company.

She was the mother of three little girls, the eldest being 10 years of age. Since the mother obtained a separation from her husband, the children have lived with relatives in Alameda.

Met Schooner in Distress.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The steamer Gaelic, which arrived here today from Hong Kong and Yokohama via Honolulu, reports having responded to the signals of distress displayed by the schooner Andy Mahony, 54 days from La Trinidad, Mex., for Portland, Or. The schooner was encountered midway between Honolulu and this port, and her captain stated that owing to calms and her foul condition, the vessel had been so long delayed that she was practically without provisions. Capt. Finch of the Gaelic supplied the needs of the little vessel, which proceeded on her voyage to Portland.

Transport Thomas Sails.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The army transport Thomas sailed for Manila by way of Guam today. She carried 307 marines for the Philippines and Guam, twenty-five members of the Fourteenth Cavalry and a few casuals. In addition to a large quantity of freight, the Thomas takes to the islands $7,000,000 in treasure, of which $2,000,000 is in the new silver pesos and the balance in Philippine silver certificates. It is guarded by Maj. F. H. Hardie of the Fourteenth Cavalry and a detachment of twenty-five men.

Levi Permitted to Sue.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—Jacob Levi, Sr., of the Pacific Coast Warehouse Company, has been granted permission by United States District Judge De Haven to bring suit against Henry L. Wadsworth, the receiver appointed in the Eppinger bankruptcy case, for the recovery of the property of the company located at Crockett, Contra Costa county, and which was seized upon the claim that the grain was the property of the bankrupt firm at the time of failure. According to the petition as filed by Levi, he was, and is now, the owner of the warehouse and grain stored therein.

Fine Weather for Hops.

PORTLAND (Or.) Sept. 1.—The fine weather prevailing in the Willamette Valley for the past few days has been of great benefit to the hop crop, which is now being harvested. Reports from the various hop districts to the State show that the yield will not exceed 75,000 bales, against 85,000 bales last year.

Martine Turns State's Evidence.

REDWOOD CITY, Sept. 1.—Brismo Martine, one of the men accused of killing George La Palme, today turned State's evidence and testified against George B. McLellan, now on trial. Martine testified he was ordered to shoot toward a telegraph post in the direction of La Palme and his companions, by McLellan to scare the boys off the ranch. He fired first from the barn, but as the range was too great, he walked to a fence quite a distance nearer, and, resting his rifle on the fence, fired three or four shots, one of which killed La Palme. The charge against Martine was dismissed before he testified.

LORDSBURG.

HERE AND THERE.

LORDSBURG, Sept. 1.—The Lordsburg Band entertained its friends tonight with an ice cream social in Woodman Hall. There was a very large attendance, choice selections of music were rendered by the band during the evening, the excellent work of which was much admired.

J. C. Whitmer of La Verne, who is engineer for L. C. Meredith, has invented a pump head, which is expected to revolutionize the pumping plants on many irrigation systems. The invention is a straight lift pump with quick return, but so constructed that fully one-third the power now required will be saved, thus saving a considerable burden of expense, which falls upon the fruit grower.

The rural mail delivery commenced this morning with Clyde Doughty as carrier. The ranchers are delighted at the prompt service rendered; which will be of immense help to the community, the only kick coming from those women who expect the mail brought to their doors instead of the corner of their chicken ranch.

One hundred and fifty Japs are busy laying the new eighty-five pound steel rails for the Santa Fé through this town.

County Superintendent Keppel was here today looking over the school interests of these districts.

I. F. Daniels and wife left today for a three months' visit to Chicago and Maine.

ANSWERS CALL OF LORD.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—While reciting a prayer in the pulpit of St. Paul's Church at Inwood, L. I., Rev. Gilbert Combs stopped in the middle of a sentence. One of the congregation, hastening to his side, found the minister, who was 79 years of age, dead from heart failure. For a moment the congregation was almost panic-stricken. Quiet was soon restored and the worshippers slowly left the church.

PITH OF NEWS FROM THE MIDDLE WEST.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A few days of grace to the quickly-departing summer have been granted by the weather man, who has recalled his refrigerating forces and substituted balmy zephyrs. How long they will last is the problem of the hour for Chicagoans who are contemplating a lengthier stay at the resorts. The reprieve may be in effect a week or a month—many hope for the latter. Conditions today were in striking contrast of those of last week, the sun shining brightly and the maximum temperature being at 79 degs. at 5 o'clock in the afternoon, and the minimum 60 early in the morning, with a wind velocity of 13 miles. Bright and fair ruled from the Rockies to the Atlantic. Temperatures at 7 a.m.: New York, Philadelphia, Chicago Cincinnati St. Louis, 62; Boston, Washinton, 64; Minneapolis, 58.

SUMMER RESORTERS.

With September comes the tide of summer travelers. Life at the resorts has grown so strenuous that society will need a few weeks in which to recuperate. Among those expected to return before the middle of the month are the Palmers, Marshall Fields, Mrs. W. J. Chalmers, Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Swift, Mrs. Paul Morton and Mrs. Ogden Armour.

NO "PALATIAL TRAIN" SERVICE.

Passenger officials of the transcontinental roads seem to think that the reported plan for an establishment of a palatial train service between New York and San Francisco, is a "pipe dream" of the most vivid sort. It is, they say, impracticable, as it would be impossible to improve on the limited train service now in effect between Chicago and the Coast. It is also held that there is not sufficient through traffic from coast to coast to support such a service.

PALACE CARS FOR HORSES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In palace cars, the most elaborate that money could buy, eighteen fine driving horses, the pets of Jacob Heyl, the young millionaire who is leaving this city today, began thir trip to Germany. When Heyl decided to quit America, he was worried as to what he should do with his horses, and finally decided to have special cars built. The cars will be placed aboard a vessel at New York and be used further after landing abroad.

BOOM FOR COL. LOWDEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

ROCKFORD (Ill.) Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Col. Frank O. Lowden was brought to the front as a formidable candidate for Governor of Illinois at the Republican love feast held in this city today. Nearly four hundred chieftans from the surrounding territory were present. Col. Lowden was the only candidate there, and the atmosphere was decidedly Lowdenaden.

IOWA'S BEAUTIFUL WOMEN.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

IOWA FALLS, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] In order to form an album of beautiful women for the Iowa building at the World's Fair, each city in the State is asked to designate a few of its handsomest women, the Mayors being called upon to decide as to the qualities that constitute the true essence of feminine grace. The task is considered a delicate one, and the executives are entering on their work with misgivings.

CAVALRY AT MORENCI SINCE UNION RIOTS.

DOZEN INCENDIARY LIARS TO BE TRIED SOON.

Tucson Star Asserts Its Independence and Typographical Totem Gang Issues Boycott Manifesto—Unionist Charged With Criminal Libel—Judge Cheyney's Death.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.]

TUCSON (Ariz.) Aug. 30.—A troop of cavalry is still being held at Morenci, in fear of further troubles following the riots of last June, though it is thought the situation has been cleared by the show of force. The next point soon will be the trial of the dozen leaders who took the ignorant Mexican miners into such serious trouble. It is believed that the conviction of the fellows will have the most salutary effect upon all lawlessness within the Territory, while their acquittal will be encouragement to the lawless element. The report of another labor strike in the Clifton country is incorrect. The most incendiary news that has come from that vicinity is the publication of a communication from Morenci to a San Francisco Italian paper, telling that as soon as the troops left the camp the miners would strike again and attempt to force compliance with their demands for higher wages.

The latest union disturbance is in the office of the Tucson Star, where the establishment of a non-union linotype operator has caused the issuance of a boycott manifesto by the typographical union. One of the union printers, named Hunt, was arrested on a charge of criminal libel. He had been distributing circulars alleged to contain malicious falsehoods. Hunt was taken before a justice of the peace, and later was released on $1000 bail. Editor Hughes of the Star contends that his non-union workmen are skillful and that he proposes hereafter to employ men without consideration of their union affiliations.

There are thirteen trades unions in Tucson. They have formed a local confederation and on Labor Day, September 7, will unite in a parade, picnic and sports.

It was only a few years ago when labor was more than plentiful in Mexico, the usual rate of wages being about $7 silver, per man per month. Now it is difficult to get good miners at $3 a day silver. The agricultural industry of the State has been paralyzed because of the desertion of workmen to take the superior positions offered in the mines. Mexican laborers are being shipped in large numbers from the interior States, but the supply is not sufficient. Several thousand Chinese have been landed in Guaymas within the last few months, some of them to work on the railroads and more of them to run the line into the United States. The Mexican government has taken cognizance of the situation and is said to have promulgated a new immigration act that will practically prohibit the entrance of the celestials for the next few years.

TERRITORIAL BRIEFS.

There has been a deal of weather of late in Southern Arizona. All the principal towns have known high temperatures and unusual humidity. From the dampness have come several deaths from heat prostration, much after the manner of the summer time back East. Several Mexicans died at Yuma from the heat, the situation being complicated, however, by overindulgence in red liquor. Heavy rains have mitigated the fervor of the skies, however, and it now appears as though summer were departing. Heavy windstorms have complicated matters somewhat in Tucson, doing thousands of dollars damage at the University and ripping roofs from houses in the city. At a number of points the railroads were washed out, the Gila Valley, Globe and Northern failing in service for about four days.

Wells, Fargo & Co. have taken control of the express business of the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad, the change to take effect September 7.

The report that the United States custom-house was to be removed from Nogales to Naco was incorrect. Nogales has several times the customs business of either Naco or Douglas.

Thursday night engine 1645 exploded at the roundhouse in Tucson, killing Fireman George C. Mayfield, who was then in charge at the time. The engine, an old one, was being used temporarily to heat water near the roundhouse. It appeared at the inquest that the young fireman had gone to sleep several times during the night, and it is believed that following a nap he found the water low and injected cold water upon the superheated plates. The engine was torn to pieces by the explosion and part of the car-repairing sheds were destroyed.

Joseph Ferguson, a cowboy, committed suicide last Sunday at the home of James Herron on the San Pedro River. Ferguson was prosperous and apparently contented and no reason is known for his act.

L. M. Strumm, aged 16 years, a tool carrier in the Copper Queen mine at Bisbee, was struck by a cage in the Czar shaft last Friday and horribly injured. Though the lad's skull was shattered, it is believed he will recover.

The saddest news that has come to Tucson for years was that telling of the death in San Francisco of George W. Cheyney, probate judge of Pima county. Judge Cheyney had been in San Francisco for several weeks going there to consult his old family physician and receive treatment for dropsy. For twenty years he had been known as one of the most prominent Republicans in the Territory. In 1890 he was the party's candidate for Delegate to Congress. He filled one term as Territorial Superintendent of Public Instruction. For four years latterly he had been postmaster at Tucson and last election was made probate judge, his election being by a large majority. In the early days of Tombstone he was manager of one of the camp's most important mines. He leaves a widow and six daughters. Interment will be in Philadelphia in the family burial plat. J. W. Kirkpatrick, selected by the Board of Supervisors to fill the vacancy of probate judge, has appointed Miss B. Cheyney as his deputy.

Rochester Ford, one of the most prominent attorneys of Southern Arizona, since 1886 a resident of Tucson, died Thursday night at his former home in St. Louis, of tuberculosis.

A number of farmers in the San Pedro Valley have formed an association, much on the lines of the Water Users' Association at Phoenix, and will petition the government for water storage and for the sinking of artesian wells, in order to develop about 50,000 acres of good land now unused. The association has petitioned the Cochise county Board of Supervisors for assistance, but unsuccessfully.

An international episode occurred a few days ago at Douglas, where an American officer stood on the north side of the international boundary line and a group of Mexican officers on the south side, while a Mexican criminal straddled the line and hugged the boundary monument as though it were the Rock of Ages. The fugitive's sanctuary lasted only a few minutes, however, for the Mexican police finally decided that the larger part of the man's anatomy was on Mexican territory; so they ruthlessly dragged him away from the pillar and hurried him off to prison.

From Agua Prieta, the Mexican town south of Douglas, comes a sweet story to the effect that a Mexican dying of delirium tremens, became conscious toward the end and was informed of his fate. His only request was that he die while listening to music, so a guitar was forthwith brought, and the man expired to waltz time.

It is now averred that strong oil indications have been struck at a depth of 400 feet in a well at Chollas, near Quartzsite, Yuma county.

Arizona excursions to California will be continued till September 25.

Mr. and Mrs. Epes Randolph have taken up their residence again in Tucson, in the hope of bettering the former's health. He has large railroad interests as well in Arizona, and from this point will conduct both Los Angeles and Arizona works.

Thomas Fitch, "the silver-tongued," has written a friend in Tucson that he expects to return here about October 1, to here make his permanent residence, probably the two hundredth "permanent residence" that the Hon. Thomas is known to have on the Pacific Coast.

Dr. Egan of Clifton, Ariz., has been appointed a member of the Board of Regents of the University of Arizona, succeeding Ferris S. Fitch, resigned. Mr. Egan is attorney for the Arizona Copper Company, is a gentleman of the highest education and a Republican of prominence.

F. R. O'Brien, probate judge of Cochise county, has been appointed superintendent of the new Territorial Reform School at Benson. Judge O'Brien for four years was connected with the Whittier school, and filed his recommendations covering his California record. It is expected that the school will open for the reception of the Territory's wayward youth about October 1. Contracts for equipment have been made with Hules, Bradford & Co. and the Case-Smurr Stove Company, both of Los Angeles.

Skunks Invade a Town.

A swarm of full-grown skunks has invaded the little town of Salona, Pa., spreading consternation and terror. The citizens were aroused to desperation this week by the odoriferous pest, and a war of extermination was begun. Already 80 have been killed.

C. W. Rote, first scented danger when, several days ago, he gathered the eggs in his barn and placed them in a box at the door. He went to the house, forgetting to take the eggs along.

A short time later he went to get the box, but was dumfounded to see a skunk perched on the eggs. He killed this one and two more.

A still hunt was begun, and no less than 30 of the animals were laid out in that immediate vicinity, by which time it was thought the end of the string had been reached.

A day or two later a woman at the other end of the town discovered an animal in the cellar. She called several boys to investigate, and they found two skunks in possession.

The next discovery was made by Robert Miller, who passed five of the animals in a procession crossing the bridge at the east end of the village. The next evening Hartman Herr encountered three on the same bridge.

The climax was reached, however, when, still further up the village, at Charles Eddy's house, Ball Miller was entertaining friends one evening on an inclosed porch.

After he had been playing a guitar for some time, the listeners discovered a parade of "polecats" coming up the backyard path from the stable. There were thirteen by actual count. The music ceased, a rush was made to get under cover, and the animals went back to their haunt.—[New York Herald.

FOUND OUT.

What a Mother Found Out About Food.

A mother found out what a change of food can do for a whole family. From the nursing of baby to the adult, is this way: "Twice during the summer months my baby was taken violently ill and was very slow getting over the attacks. His former diet of cow's milk alone ceased to agree with him so I combined it with an expensive infant's food but he soon became very much constipated.

"Then I shifted to Grape-Nuts food and found that this was just what baby needed, adding it to his milk after softening in hot water. Baby has thrived upon this food and is now healthy and strong and chubby as any mother could ask which you know is saying a great deal.

It did not take me long to find out that a saucer of Grape-Nuts and cream is just what is needed by the tired nervous mother and I have also proved to my own satisfaction that when the children are old enough to chew Grape-Nuts it is far better for them than oatmeal or any other mushy food for it develops their teeth and helps their digestion and their minds seem much brighter and more active too.

"Truly here is a wonderful food and one for the entire family." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

DECIDING BA WILL BE

Perfect Deluge Candidates — N Wise Can Pick

One day more of the scholarship contest and all will be over except the counting of the accumulated ballots, the awarding of the prizes and the jubilation.

At 12 o'clock tonight the last vote must be in. Credit will not be allowed on any subscription or coupon received at The Times office after that hour, except by mail, and in the case of mailed packages, it must be evident that they were posted or in the hands of an out-of-town agent of The Times before midnight. The branch offices of The Times may receive votes up to midnight to be forwarded to the scholarship manager in the mornings but nothing will be counted that arrives at The Times office twenty-four hours after the official closing of the polls. It will be well for all suburbanites interested in the contest to send in their final contributions early today, so as to guard against possible delays in the mail.

The flood of ballots yesterday was even more overwhelming than on Monday, and it was simply a physical impossibility to tabulate the returns of the day in time for the printing of the score this morning. The mail received by the scholarship manager yesterday was probably the heaviest ever opened at The Times office in a single day. There was a perfect glut of coupons and subscription certificates in the scholarship department, and the attempt to bring the count up to date was utterly impracticable.

The count has not progressed far enough for the forecasting of the result with any degree of certainty, but there does not seem to be the least doubt that all former score records will be broken. There are at least a dozen candidates whose scores are mounting over 100,000, and some of the "High Five" will in all probability exceed 175,000. It will not be surprising if the winner of the first prize will reach the 175,000 mark.

Who No. 1 will be is still problematic, although the betting continues to be in Miss Bower's favor. The popular Pasadenan's pretty girl will certainly come near knocking the persimmon, but Miss Hibbard of Pomona, Miss Pedelty of Santa Ana, Miss Ellis of Whittier, Master Saens of The Palms, Florence Darch of Los Angeles, Porter Rockhurst of Gardena, Elisabeth Dehmlow of Clearwater, Georgia Pitts of Redlands, Winifred Beckingsale of Ontario and Clare Templeton of Lamanda are all piling in the votes at such an enormous rate that it will be hard to tell before the final count is completed just who will constitute the winners of the money prizes.

It is hoped to have the count completed in time for the announcement of the winners on Friday morning or Saturday morning at the latest.

All the contestants with scores of 1000 or over, whether prize winners or not, are requested to be at The Times office at 9:30 o'clock Saturday morning. An opportunity will then be given them to inspect The Times' presses and linotype machines in operation.

At 10 o'clock the forty or more contestants who will be guests of The Times for the day will be loaded into automobiles for a tour of Los Angeles. The automobile ride will terminate

WAS THE HOLLYWOOD DENTIST ROBBED?

RESIDENTS OF THE SUBURB EXPRESS A DOUBT OR TWO.

Actions of the Alleged Victim of a Hold-up Artist Create Skepticism. Hollywood Constable Was Looking for a Man Yesterday.

Dr. A. G. Dundas, a Hollywood dentist, claims to have been held up on Monday night about 11 o'clock, as he entered the hallway leading to his office, and robbed of $57 in cash and a diamond ring.

When seen by a reporter of The Times yesterday, Dr. Dundas was evidently bored, said he did not wish to say anything about it, and edged toward the door. When the reporter persisted in asking questions as to the main fact of his being held up he affirmed that point and declared that was all he cared to say. His answer to a request for a description of his assailant was to go back into his office and close the door between himself and his tormentor.

The dental office is over the bank, just across the street from the Hollywood Hotel, and the doctor, who is a single man, sleeps in his office. Another front room is occupied by a woman who carries on dressmaking.

Half-way up the stairway leading from the street, there is a pair of swinging doors, and Dr. Dundas says that as he entered the hall and approached the swinging doors, he was met by a man, who struck him a blow in the face, grappled with him, and ran away, after having torn from his inside coat pocket a pocketbook containing the money and the ring.

Constable D. E. Wait was out hunting for somebody who looked like a hold-up man the greater part of yesterday, and before he was seen by the reporter he talked with a number of persons about the hold-up, and it was the unanimous statement that no description whatever had been given of the assailant of Dr. Dundas. When the constable was interviewed later he was found with Dr. Dundas and the latter was overheard telling the constable, "Here is the reporter I was telling you about."

When the officer was ready to talk he said that he had a partial description of the man, saying he wore a dark smouch hat and a dark suit of clothes, meeting to some extent the description of a certain man that he and Dr. Dundas had seen one day as they rode together in a buggy out toward the foothills. The doctor had told Wait that his assailant resembled that man, and he was out looking for him to see if he could be connected with the crime.

There is a conviction at Hollywood that there is something mysterious about the matter, and there is an undefined but very general belief that the natty young doctor is masquerading for some reason known only to himself.

Here is the evidence: no marks on him of an assault; his embarrassment

The popular Pasadena girl will certainly come near knocking the persimmon, but Miss Hibbard of Pomona, Miss Pedelty of Santa Ana, Miss Ellis of Whittier, Manuel Saens of The Palms, Florence Darch of Los Angeles, Porter Blackburn of Gardena, Elizabeth Dehmlow of Clearwater, Georgia Pitts of Redlands, Winifred Beckingsale of Ontario and Clare Templeton of Lamanda are all piling in the votes at such an enormous rate that it will be hard to tell before the final count is completed just who will constitute the winners of the money prizes.

It is hoped to have the count completed in time for the announcement of the result on Friday morning or Saturday morning at the latest.

At 10 o'clock the forty or more contestants who will be guests of The Times for the day will be loaded into automobiles for a tour of Los Angeles.

The automobile ride will terminate at the station of the Pacific Electric Railway Company, where a special car will be in waiting to take the party to Long Beach. Immediately upon arrival at the seaside town, luncheon will be served to the guests at the palatial bath-house of the Seaside Water Company, the faculty and students of the Long Beach Business College, assisted by the ladies of the town and Board of Trade representatives, doing the honors.

After luncheon another treat will be in store for the happy scholarship workers. Prof. Isaacs, principal of the Woodbury Business College, has chartered the power launch Nellie and placed it at the disposal of The Times to take the young folks on a marine excursion to the new government breakwater at San Pedro Harbor. This will be a pleasant trip, as well as an instructive one, and will no doubt be greatly appreciated by the young people in whose compliment it is given.

Upon returning to the Long Beach wharf, an hour or two will be spent on the beach and in bathing, the courtesies of the Seaside Water Company's bath-house being extended to all of the guests free of charge.

At 5 o'clock in the evening the awarding of the prizes will take place at Blanchard Hall. To this function the friends of the contestants and of the schools represented, and the general public will be invited. The awards will be made with as little ceremony as possible, and the speechmaking will be kept down to the minimum. An orchestra furnished for the occasion by Mrs. Florida Brownsberger, principal of the Brownsberger Home School, will render a musical programme. It is designed to have the exercises over with by 10 o'clock and an informal reunion of all former contestants for Times scholarships will then be held.

This will end the programme so far as The Times is concerned, but Mrs. Brownsberger will keep the orchestra on duty until midnight, and will also serve refreshments to those who choose to remain for a sociable time after the regular adjournment.

A parting word of commendation for all of the many worthy contestants was intended to be said before the contest passed into history, but with the multiplicity of other duties devolving upon the scholarship editor he has been unable to find time to carry out his intentions. Suffice it to say that they are all worthy of the scholarships they are striving for, and perhaps nothing that could be said at this late date would help their scores. Their respective merits seem to be pretty well understood, and it is gratifying to note how loyally they have the support of their friends and admirers.

Some of the candidates have derived the bulk of their support from total strangers, out of sympathy or admiration, gained by what they learned of the contestants through perusal of The Times. The scholarship editor has received hundreds of encouraging and sympathetic letters in behalf of favorite candidates, and at least one-half of all of them are in behalf of Elizabeth Dehmlow. Miss Bower, Vada Watson, Soh Sang Nan, Porter Blackburn, Julietta Campbell and others have also come in for a good share of attention from correspondents. These letters would make interesting reading, but there are too many of them for publication.

There is a conviction at Hollywood that there is something mysterious about the matter, and there is an undefined but very general belief that the natty young doctor is masquerading for some reason known only to himself.

Here is the evidence: no marks on him of an assault; his embarrassment and refusal to talk to anybody of the assault, so far as could be learned.

At the time of the alleged hold-up the lights were burning brightly in the hotel, but nothing unusual was seen, and the doctor did not make the attack known at the hotel; a young lady and gentleman sat talking sweet nothings in the front room over the entrance where the assault should have occurred, but not a sound was heard, and Hollywood isn't an awfully noisy place, but they heard Dr. Dundas go up the stairs, leave a package to be carried, and go down again.

On the corner, 200 feet away, stood C. B. Boag and two companions, who had just alighted from a car from the city; they heard nothing and saw nothing until Dr. Dundas walked by on his way to the home of Constable Wait, almost a half-mile distant. He did not stop and tell them he had been assaulted, although they were well acquainted with him.

The young doctor is a good-looking fellow, about 25 years of age, who came to Hollywood about three months ago.

After he reported having been robbed, he said he had gotten the money from his brother, and during the day previous to the alleged robbery he had discussed hold-ups and expressed wonder that there were no more about Hollywood.

CHEKIB BEY'S TIP.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 1.—Chekib Bey, the Turkish Minister, has received from the Minister of Foreign Affairs at Constantinople a dispatch giving the Turkish version of the reported attempt on the life of the United States Vice-Consul Magelssen at Beirut. It was dated August 30, and originally was sent to the Minister's summer home at Sayville, L. I.

After declaring that the report of the assassination of the Vice-Consul was false, it gives a version of the affair, practically the same as has been told before in the dispatches from Turkey. It says that the pistol was fired by a man returned from a marriage fete; that the shot was fired in the air, and that it happened just as Magelssen was passing in his carriage. This, the dispatch said, led the Vice-Consul to believe that an attempt had been made against his life. The man who did the shooting already has been delivered to the authorities.

Chekib Bey's dispatch also asserts that order and tranquillity prevail at Beirut. The information contained in the cablegram has been furnished to Constantinople by the Turkish Minister of Foreign Affairs and to Secretary Hay by the Turkish Minister here.

VENTURA COUNTY.

TO PRESS ESPEE BOYCOTT.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE OF THE TIMES.

VENTURA, Sept. 1.—A meeting of citizens was held at the Town Hall last night to take steps regarding the attitude of the Southern Pacific Company toward the town and county in its refusing to stop its limited trains at this point. The meeting was a unit in its sentiment that the railroad company was not giving Ventura fair treatment. The merchants decided to continue the boycott and also to look into the franchise granted the railroad to determine to what extent the railroad is violating the town speed provisions. The merchants will address circulars to farmers and others who contemplate shipping farm products and present-season crops.

VENTURA NOTES.

"Jack" Hollingsworth of Los Angeles arrived in Ventura this morning. He is preparing to take a trip to the famous Sespe hot spring, upon which gusher he thinks he has a pretty good claim, despite the fact that John Burson has grub-staked a man to watch it and that the Radfords purchased it from the railroad company.

Sheriff McMartin is determined that no more rock-pile toughs will be able to take leg bail without having to dodge bullets. In the past he has treated them with consideration in all respects, one of his orders being that his deputies were not to shoot at runaways except to frighten. It will be different in the future, for this order has now been countermanded. Burdick, one of yesterday's runaways, has not been recaptured.

Manuel Sepulveda has been captured at El Paso, Tex. Requisition papers will be secured at once and he will be brought to Ventura. Sepulveda was the ringleader in the fight in Oxnard on the night of July 4, in which a gang of toughs attacked Deputy Sheriff Russell. Sepulveda was a prisoner in Russell's hands, but the crowd took him from the officer.

Neal Conklin, son of George Conklin, is laid up with a severely sprained ankle. On Sunday a younger brother, Shirley Conklin, while bathing in the Foster pool, broke one of the bones of his right wrist.

FREEZE-OUT GAME.

NEVADA, Sept. 1.—A sensational mining suit has been instituted in the Superior Court, in which Letson Ballat is one of the plaintiffs. He and E. O. Millard have asked the court to issue an injunction and restraining order to keep the directors of the Alder Creek Mining Company, from rescinding an assessment, at a meeting to be held at Truckee Thursday. The plaintiffs charge that the large stockholders want to rescind the assessment so as to defraud the smaller owners, while the latter say the assessment will redeem the property, besides leaving a balance in the treasury. It is also charged that the books are kept in the State of Iowa, except at the time of annual meetings when they are immediately taken out of the State again.

The complaint alleges that this is done for the purpose of preventing other directors from knowing what is done in order to defraud the stockholders.

NEW LINE TO YOSEMITE.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 1.—The Santa Fé Company, according to the Call, is quietly preparing to reach the Yosemite Valley by way of Big Oak Flat and thereby place itself on an equal footing with the Southern Pacific Company in the competition for the valley traffic.

The Call says a company composed of men in no way identified with the Santa Fé road will be incorporated in a short time for the purpose of constructing a new line from Oakdale, the southern terminus of the Sierra Railway Company, where it meets the Southern Pacific line to Claus, a small station on the San Joaquin Valley road above Merced. With this small stretch of track, less than thirty miles, the Santa Fé's western system will be brought in direct connection with the Sierra Railway's main line, and over the latter passengers will be transported to the Yosemite Valley by way of Big Oak Flat.

HAYTI HOUSE-CLEANING.

PORT AU PRINCE (Hayti) Sept. 1.—The commission of inquiry into the financial scandals is continuing its investigation. Gideon and St. Victor former ministers under the administration of President Sam, who are accused of being bearers of Haytien government securities fraudulently issued have been arrested. President Nord is determined to vigorously prosecute all those implicated in the frauds.

FATAL FEAR.

MONTEREY, Sept. 1.—Mrs. Brown, a resident of San José, about 60 years of age, who, with her daughter, Mrs. Allen, has been spending the summer at Pacific Grove, was run over by the incoming Del Monte express near Pacific Grove depot this evening, and had both feet cut off at the ankle. Mrs. Brown was going along the track to the depot, and becoming flurried at the approach of the train, stepped in front of it. Engineer John McCray saw the accident and stopped his train. The shock to her nervous system and the loss of blood are expected to prove fatal to Mrs. Brown.

Few new corporations with a capital of $1,000,000 or more, filed papers in the Eastern States in August, which month furnished the small total capitalization of $72,950,000. With the exception of the same month in 1901, when the total was $57,000,000, this is the lowest monthly record for a series of years.

BUSINESS.

Bank clearings for the month of August were more than 30 per cent. in excess of the record of the same month last year. The month also broke all August records in general business and building.

There was little trading in the Chicago market, but prices closed well up. Sales of stocks at New York fell to below a quarter of a million shares. The time-money market has become almost wholly nominal.

WORSE THAN WHISKY.

A few days ago a cultured young society man from Boston, who had made many friends during his sojourn in this city, was discovered to be a petty thief, having been arrested for stealing two pictures. On searching his lodgings, a quantity of articles were found that he had taken from various places. The rest of the story—up to date—may be told in one word—cocaine—and the finale may safely be prophesied in one other word—suicide.

Unfortunately, this is only one of a large number of similar cases occurring all the time in this country with alarming and ever-increasing frequency. For every one that comes to the surface there are scores of little tragedies of this kind that are never told in print. The increase in the consumption of deadly drugs, such as morphine, and cocaine, and opium, is certainly a cause for serious apprehension. Such habits are not confined to any particular class. The victims include "all sorts and conditions of men," from the hobo, who is half-crazed without his "shot," and wholly besotted with it, to the millionaire, who seeks relief for his nerves, overwrought through dissipation in "dope." Women, also, are taking to this habit, with alarming frequency, also children of tender age. In a case recently tried in a Los Angeles police court, it came out that a number of boys make a practice of going to a filthy Chinese opium joint, young men of tender culture lying on the same dirty bed with negroes and Chinamen, while white women are sometimes so lost to decency as to do the same thing.

Like other bad practices that sap the health, and finally destroy mind and body, these habits are not acquired all at once. They come on gradually. The morphine fiend usually gets his first appetite for the drug through using it when administered by a physician, to alleviate pain, for which purpose it is altogether too freely used. We are often told that such and such things should "only be taken under the advice of a physician." It would be better to say that they should not be taken at all, except when used, as an act of mercy, in some exceedingly severe paroxysm of pain, or when a surgical operation has to be performed. The drugs are no whit less harmful, when used by direction of a physician, than when they are taken on the initiative of the patient. In this connection, it is a significant fact that, according to a recent statement in a medical publication, the doctors themselves have become widely addicted to the use—or rather the abuse—of morphine. This is not surprising, when one considers that they are constantly thrown in contact with it, and that they so commonly prescribe it, on the slightest provocation.

The cocaine habit is also pandered to, and doubtless in many cases makes its start, in the use of drinks containing a small amount of this preparation, that are sold so extensively at the drug stores, being consumed by men, women and children. Some of the druggists say that these cocoa preparations do not contain any of the drug. In that case, they are sold under misrepresentation, but there is little doubt that many of them do, if only in small quantities, the temporary exhilaration produced by them being derived from this source.

While the good women of the W.C.T.U. are making such a valiant effort to exterminate the "rum fiend," and to prevent the reintroduction of the army canteen, would it not be a good thing for them to devote a little more attention to this greater evil? For that it is a greater evil than the alcohol habit cannot successfully be denied. A man may drink habitually to excess, and yet manage to carry on his business and to hold his position in society, after a fashion, and he may throw off the habit and reform, as many do, but once he becomes thoroughly addicted to the use of opium, or morphine, or cocaine, he is utterly done for, mentally and physically and morally—absolutely lost to all sense of shame, and without one chance in a thousand of ever freeing himself from his chains until he sinks into the suicide's grave, or winds up his miserable existence in an insane asylum or on the scaffold.

NON-UNION LABOR IS BEST.

A dispatch from Chicago mentions the fact that the Restaurant Keepers' Association of that city is offering higher wages than the union demands to cooks, waiters, etc., who do not belong to unions, or who, belonging to those organizations, refuse to obey the order for a general strike. This movement is an inevitable and natural development of the industrial situation. It may be expected to spread. Employers, generally, should be quick to perceive the advantage and the justice of paying higher wages, as a rule, to non-union than to union workmen. The following reasons, among others, should lead to this result:

(1.) The non-union workman is more valuable to his employer than is the union workman. He is more dependable. He acts upon his own initiative, and obeys the promptings of his own conscience. He enters into an agreement with his employer, as to wages, hours of labor, etc., as an individual, and no person or organization has power to compel him to go on a strike upon any pretext, reasonable or unreasonable.

(2.) The non-union workman is a better workman, all things considered, than the union man. The really first-class workman does not need the assistance of a union to secure or keep employment. The first-class workman is always in demand. If he joins a union he is at once handicapped by the restrictive rules of the organization, which are invariably framed so as to hold the more skillful and efficient worker down to the level of the least efficient, without lifting up the latter.

(3.) The non-union worker is not only more skillful than the union man, but he turns out more work, as a rule. He stands upon his own individual merits, is paid according to his skill and efficiency, and therefore has an incentive to develop the best that is in him. The union man, on the other hand, is required by the rules and methods of his union to limit the amount of work which he performs to a definite minimum (which is often unreasonably low,) upon the mistaken assumption that the less work each man does the more work there will be for others.

(4.) Union men are less efficient and less skillful than non-union men, man for man, because the unions, in their scramble to "unionize" everything in sight, take into their organizations all sorts of incompetents, who could not command steady work nor good wages if they were not backed up by a union. Furthermore, the unions hold out no inducement and furnish no incentive for their members to become better workmen. Progress in skill and efficiency is discouraged, and in some instances workmen are fined for doing what is considered too much work. The tendency of unionism, under existing management and methods, is reactionary.

For these and many other cognate reasons, employers, generally, should prefer non-union to union workmen, and should be willing to pay them better wages. The time seems to be near at hand when the non-union workman will command a decided premium, in the labor market, over the unionist. Even if the non-union man were no better workman, it would be of much value to the employer to know that his employé was at liberty to do his best and to work for his employer's interests, without interference from walking delegates or other trouble breeders.

Unionism is fast falling into disrepute because of its unreasonable (often outrageous) demands, its constant succession of strikes, its boycotting and blackmailing practices, its criminal extortions, its riots, its murders, and its maulings, its disreputable leadership (comprising, frequently, ex-convicts, unconvicted criminals, wife-deserters, defaulters, etc.,) and its numerous conspiracies against the public weal. Is it to be wondered at that employers, in increasing numbers, prefer the non-union workman, who is practically free from all these evil practices and evil associations?

A correspondent in yesterday's Times asked why the four magnificent rubber trees in the old plaza were cut back. The reason given by the Park Commission is that the limbs were splitting, so that it was necessary to cut off the branches. Within a few years they will be as large as ever. About ten years ago they were cut back, and soon grew out again.

Another Funeral Needed.

Representative Sibley of Pennsylvania went to Mexico, a time ago, to look after some interests he has there. Being a vigorous and energetic man, he was worried by the shiftless habits of the natives.

One day in the City of Mexico he saw an imposing funeral procession.

RIGID RULES FOR BARBERS.

Sanitary Reform Launched by Health Board.

Streets to be Placarded With Spitting Reminders.

Garbage Question Causes Explosion by the Mayor—Reports of Inspectors.

Garbage, spitting and barbering were the subjects of a ninety-minute session of the Board of Health last evening.

Novelty was the order, even to the action of Mayor Snyder, who exploded on the garbage question and denounced what he termed the "half-way business" of the Health Department.

Barber shops are to be made as pure as a baby's breath, if the Health Board has its way, for stringent rules for the tonsorial industry were adopted and ordered posted in every shop in the city.

Spitting on the sidewalk is to be stopped, or charged for at the Police Court rate, and to this end it was ordered that the streets be placarded with notices calling the attention of the public to the expectoration limits, and that the police be requested to rigidly enforce the existing ordinance.

GARBAGE THE FEATURE.

The impossible garbage problem occupied an hour of the board's time, and while there was no pretention that it was solved, it called forth a severe criticism of Garbage Inspector A. W. Sanborn, and the board indicated a purpose to strenuously attempt to better conditions.

The presentation of the semi-monthly report of Inspector Sanborn, covering the period from August 15 to 31, the first business, showed just this: That there had been 102 complaints; that 99 of these complaints had been investigated; that there had been 17 failures to collect the garbage; that 22 collections had been missed on their regular day, but were made promptly on notification; that the contractors had added one more wagon, and promised others soon; that seven of the complaints had been from new residents asking for service; and that through lack of time the crematory and dump had not been inspected.

Secretary McGill passed this report up to Chairman Snyder, and a look of disgust and exasperation spread over the Mayor's phiz. He studied the report for a moment, and then broke out:

"This report is not at all satisfactory," There was a long silence, then: "Where is Sanborn?" There was no answer. Then the Mayor drew a long despairing sigh, and started out:

"This report doesn't tell a thing. There were 102 complaints and ninety-nine were investigated, but the results from only thirty-nine cases are reported. What became of the other sixty-odd cases?"

Health Officer Powers was unable to reply, saying he had not gone over the report, and Secretary McGill said it had merely been turned over to him for presentation to the board. The books of the office were produced, but neither the entire number of cases nor the desired results of the investigations were found on the records. Dr. Powers ventured the explanation that perhaps the missing cases had been stumbled upon by the inspector while out on his rounds.

"Well, this won't do," declared the Mayor, with animation. "It seems to me that inasmuch as there has been so much criticism of this department things should be better looked after. If the inspector and office force of this department are unable to keep things up better than this they ought to resign. Now there must be no more half-way business in this department."

Drs. Hitchcock, Salisbury and Day, the other members present, strongly supported the demand for better bookkeeping. In the general discussion which followed it was shown that the contractors are fined for their failures, and that in the event of them disputing or contesting any of the complaints the city would be unable to show any record or proof of the failure to fulfill contract. The board vigorously asserted its desire to know more of the details of the department work—how many of the complaints are found groundless; how many are second offenses, etc.

The report was referred back to Inspector Sanborn "for correction," and the general rule was enunciated that reports submitted shall be itemised in detail.

RULES FOR BARBER SHOPS.

Dr. W. W. Hitchcock launched the crusade on unclean barbers and unsanitary practices in some shops, presenting a carefully-prepared set of rules and regulations. It was proposed that the official regulations be printed and that every barber be compelled to post them in a conspicuous place in his shop. An ordinance for this was decided to be unnecessary, after discussion, as it was thought the existing powers of the board would prove sufficient to either force compliance with the new order or expose and prosecute any barbers who maintain unsanitary shops. Dr. Hitchcock's rules, slightly tempered by Dr. Day, will be printed and posted in all the shops. The idea is both to educate the public on their rights and to compel the slovenly barber to maintain healthful conditions or quit business. It is expected the penalty of being reported by customers will prevent the offenses of some barbers aimed at. The rules are as follows:

(1.) Every barber shall be required to wash his hands in some reliable antiseptic soap before attending a customer.

(2.) The powder puff and sponge shall be abolished.

(3.) A sterilized or clean, freshly-laundered towel shall be used for each customer, and shall not be used again on another patron.

(4.) All mugs, combs, razors, clippers, scissors, hair and bath brushes shall be washed in boiling water, or exposed to some germicide antiseptic or formaldehyde gas before using.

(5.) Alum or other stick astringents shall not be used, except in the form of powder, applied with a clean napkin or towel.

(6.) The stropper on which the razor is edged must be subjected to a thorough cleansing in some recognized germicide solution or exposed to formaldehyde gas before using.

(7.) Customers observing violations of these rules are requested to report the same to the City Health Office.

(8.) The Health Officer shall cause the above rules and regulations to be posted in a conspicuous place in all barber shops.

The stringency of these regulations is expected to bring forth a great roar, and possible opposition from the barbers of the city.

ANTI-SPITTING SIGNS.

The common violation of the city ordinance making spitting on the sidewalks a misdemeanor has brought to the Health Office numerous complaints, comments and suggestions from the general public. The board last evening took cognisance of these by passing a resolution asking the police department to rigidly enforce the law. To back this up and perhaps prevent such crimes, the board decided to have printed flaring signs calling attention to the law against spitting and the Health Officer will direct the posting of these on all of the downtown streets. Such signs are maintained in many foreign cities.

Fruit Inspector R. E. Drummond's report, called forth the inquiry as to what becomes of the decayed fruit condemned by him. It was not definitely answered, but the supposition was advanced that most of it goes to hog ranches, though undoubtedly a considerable quantity is used in making cider or vinegar for human consumption. Measures were taken looking to compelling owners of condemned fruit to convey it to the crematory, as do butchers found in possession of unfit meat. During the half month 5040 pounds of fruit and 1410 pounds of vegetables were condemned, but where it went no official knew. It was stated that an entire carload of decayed fruit was run out of town to another market after being condemned.

Milk Inspector George L. Pierce reported that thirty-eight samples of milk were tested, four of which were found containing the deadly formaldehyde, which caused such terrible injury to a Long Beach woman. Four convictions were secured in the Police Court for adulterating milk, the aggregate fines amounting to $275. Of the thirty-three dairies inspected twenty-nine were found in good condition, and the others were ordered cleaned up.

Meat Inspector Fred T. Hughes examined 153 cows, and condemned two unhealthy ones to slaughter. One complaint was sworn to for placing sulphite of soda in meat.

THE DWINDLING OF ANGLO-SAXON BIRTHRATE.

A PERIL OF THE ENGLISH-SPEAKING RACE.

A Review of the Record of England and Her Colonies—The Birthrate on the Continent—Suggestions as to the Probable Cause of the Decline.

[H. W. Wilson in London Mail:] But sixteen years have passed since an English thinker spoke in bitter terms of "the devastating torrent of children," the arrest of which, he predicted, would bring infinite blessings to mankind, yet today everywhere throughout the Anglo-Saxon world we find the thoughts of statesmen and publicists turning not to the arrest of the birth-rate, but to the far more difficult problem of stopping the decline in it which has set in with ominous steadiness, and which is now beginning to menace the predominance of the race.

President Roosevelt has appealed to American men and women on this head in a public address; the great Australian statistician, Mr. Coghlan, in words of impassioned truth, has warned Australia of the future before her unless she obeys the old commandment to be "fruitful and multiply;" and in England we are becoming dimly conscious that our hold upon South Africa depends upon our power to pour settlers into that country, and that with the decline in the rate of increase in our population, this power is passing away.

The fall in the birth-rate in the English-speaking countries coincides, apparently, with a distinct increase in the peoples of the Far East. The population of Japan, after remaining stationary for 150 years, has recently begun to expand, and that rapidly. Authorities on China hold that there also of late years the population is again advancing, after a long period of stagnancy. Is it the case that, as Lafcadio Hearn, a thinker in the closest touch with the East, has suggested, the Far East has evolved an individual too expensive to live, a being the wants of which are so many that they cannot be satisfied in the intense race-competition which is the characteristic of the twentieth century world?

ENGLAND AND THE COLONIES.

The birth-rate in England fell after the great war with France, at the opening of the nineteenth century, and in 1838 it was only 30 per 1000 of the population. From this point it began to rise slowly, and advanced, on the whole, steadily with the advance of British trade. It reached its culminating point in the years just after the Franco-German war, which were among the most prosperous known in our trade history.

It was 35.8 in 1872, 36 in 1874, and 36.4 in 1876, which is the highest record ever touched since accurate statistics were collected in this country. In 1876-8 the average rate for the United Kingdom was 34.2.

But from 1876 onwards a sharp decline set in, and this decline has continued almost uniformly to our own day. From 1879 to 1883, the average for the United Kingdom was 32.6; from 1884 to 1888, 31.2; from 1889 to 1893, 29.8; from 1894 to 1898, 29.1; and from 1899 to 1901 28.3. Thus in the period for 1874 to 1901 the decline was six per thousand, and the birth-rate fell to a little more than four-fifths of what it had been in 1876.

Outside England the same phenomenon was noted in one of our Colonies to an even more marked degree. In Australia, the birth-rate has fallen with a rapidity which is positively alarming. The rate was 41.9 per thousand in 1861-5; in 1871-5 it had diminished to 37.3, and in 1881-5 this had further shrunk to 35.2. In 1891-5 it was 31.5, and in 1896-9 only 27.35, so that it was actually below the rate of increase in the Mother-country.

The loss of birth force in Australia in the last forty years has been no less than 14.55, or much more than a third of the rate of increase in 1861-5. One Australian state now shows a rate of only 25, or but 4 above the rate of France, which is generally regarded as the type of a stationary country. The decline is great in every position of life, among the poorest and richest alike, and it is the more extraordinary in that the greatest want of Australia is a teeming population.

In Canada, unfortunately, no vital statistics are collected, and it is consequently impossible to say what is happening there. But the same process appears to be at work in the case of the British part of the population. The French population, however, is said to have large families and pour thousands of immigrants into the United States, so that we are faced by this paradox—that in Europe the French people do not increase and multiply, while across the Atlantic they do.

In the United States the small size of the native American family has drawn protests from Mr. Roosevelt, though no statistics are collected, and here, as in Canada, it is impossible to say what is actually happening. The excess of births over deaths has fallen from 20 per 1000 in 1830 to a calculated total of only 13 in 1900, so that the birth-rate must have declined or the death-rate enormously increased, which last supposition is most improbable.

BIRTH RATE ON THE CONTINENT.

In France the birth rate, except in abnormal years during or after wars, when nature was striving to undo the handiwork of man, has tended downwards, but the fall has not been so marked as in England, though it started at a lower level. The French rate was on an average 25.8 for 1874-8, 23.5 for 1894-8, and 21.5 for 1899-1900, the last years for which the returns are accessible. The drop was thus 4.3 in about the same period as that in which the English rate fell 6. In Italy the fall was 3.2, from a figure of 37 in the same period, so that the Italian rate is still much above the English one.

In Germany, perhaps our most formidable competitor in Europe, the decline was 4.2 in this period, from 40.1 to 35.9, and the German rate is still higher than was the rate in England in 1876. Moreover, in some German States of recent years there has been a slight tendency for the rate to advance, which is most marked in Bavaria, Wurtemberg and Baden.

If the Russian figures can be trusted, and they do not come down later than 1897, the birth rate there is advancing. It was 47.7 in the three years 1892-4, and 49.5 in the years 1895-7. This, however, may be due to the fact that nature is compensating for the loss of life in famines in her own peculiar way. But the Russian rate is a very high one, and notwithstanding a very high death rate, the Russian people is increasing with amazing rapidity.

THE ROOTS OF THE EVIL.

What are the explanations of the falling birth rate in the English-speaking countries? Mr. Coghan suggests, in the case of Australia, that it is due to the love of pleasure, and to the deliberate limitation of families. His argument seems to be borne out by some very striking facts noted by Mr. and Mrs. Webb in their work on "Industrial Democracy." They state that "there are many indications that the danger to be apprehended in Northwestern Europe during the coming century is not overpopulation at all, but a deliberate restriction of population by the more prosperous, more intelligent, and more thrifty sections, brought about by a rise in the standard of life itself." That is Lafcadio Hearn in other words; it is the admission that the superior race is too expensive to multiply; but it means the suicide of that race, and its slow replacement, by other human material.

Yet another suggestion is that, as the death rate has declined, the relative propertion of young men and women has declined, and that a corresponding fall in the birth rate was to be anticipated. But this is not very satisfactory, since the fall in the birth rate is much greater than the decline in the death rate, and the fall in the death rate in Germany has been much greater than in England, but has not brought such a diminution in the births.

Lastly, the question must be faced whether the fall is not to be connected with the special strains of modern life, especially of city life. Australia and England are both States in which the huge city predominates, and it is at least a noteworthy fact that the marked fall in our birth rate coincides with the collapse of agriculture, which forced our country population more and more into the towns from 1878 onward.

This may be a mere accident, but country families are still generally larger, if only because of the difficulty of housing in the towns. No point is so painful in Booth's great study of London as the repeated reiteration of the fact that large families are regarded by landlords as a nuisance, and that the large family is too often refused accommodation where the small family finds no difficulty in obtaining it. Thus is the "devastating torrent of children"—most accursed phrase—repelled, and thus is our national position being imperilled. For in this twentieth century the victory is to the large unit; the full nursery spells national and race predominance.

H. W. WILSON.

GREAT GIRL SWIMMER.

A Maiden of Tender Years Who Beats the World's Record—Her Methods and Wonderful Endurance.

[Boston Correspondence New York World:] Elisabeth McAvoy, 16 years old, has beaten by seven seconds the world's women's record for swimming 100 yards—1 min. 24-5 sec.—held by Miss Golden. Miss McAvoy's time was made in practice and therefore does not warrant a revision of the tables, but several watches held over her tallied.

Furthermore, she made the 100 yards in seventy strokes, which is something extraordinary. The work was performed at the big L-street bath-house, where for three years the girl has been a faithful "plugger," and where on Friday, August 25, she expects to clip ten seconds from Miss Golden's time. Should she make a record on that occasion it will be official.

Superintendent Rowe, Peter McNally and George Cannors, all famous swimmers, have taken great interest in Miss McAvoy and are confident that Miss Golden's time will be lowered officially and substantially. The L-street house is right on Dorchester Bay, so it is really ocean swimming, and every day for four months this young girl has been in the water four times, rain or shine. Before that she managed to have a dip or two daily throughout the winter.

There is a club of swimmers at South Boston, most of the members of which have not missed their daily swim for years. Miss McAvoy is a three years' member. It was in 1900 that she took up swimming, partly as sport and partly because the family physician recommended it.

"I expect to make the 100 yards in record time and keep on for 100 yards more at the same speed," said Miss McAvoy. "I can do it. You see, I have been training for a long time and am in perfect condition physically. I can swim without tiring, and have a style that wins. It is an adaptation of the Australian stroke used in part by McNally, Connors and McKusker, and is a long right overhand with left balance and feather and a little fin work, with a clean kick-off. I take long strokes covering nearly a yard and a half with each measure, and do it without fatigue. My heart and lungs are just as well developed as my arms and legs, and I feel strong and able."

"The girl is a wonder, sure enough," declares Superintendent Rowe, "and I expect her to make fast time next Friday. She has trained hard, has swum a half-mile and return in a choppy sea without fatigue, and in my opinion can beat any man swimmer around here. She has the strength and skill and is more buoyant than a man, submerging at the proper position, which means much. She is an easy swimmer, cuts the water like a knife and leaves little or no splash. She can beat me."

When asked if she would become a professional the girl said that she would in time. "I want to help out at home, for there are seven of us, all younger than I am, and there is none too much income. I am going to do gymnasium work this winter and try for private pupils next summer, when I will be older and better able."

Miss McAvoy is 5 feet 2 inches tall, weighs 135 pounds and has a calf measure of fifteen inches of hard yet pliable and very powerful muscle. She is well set up, says she swims because she loves to, and old Dr. Jackson, the septuagenarian member of the Never-Miss-a-Day Swimmers' Club, says she will make a record some day and will be permanent, as she is still improving.

A Brother's Song.

Up hill the burden must you bear?
O brother, sing, as on you fare!

Nay, nay, the road is rough and steep,
The narrow path I hardly keep—
Already in the noontide heat
I faint, and see, my faltering feet
And trembling hands are scarred and torn
With thistle's whip and sword of thorn.
Too soon shall pass my mete of time
As up the toilsome height I climb,
Where crags defy, and winds deride
And foes assail on every side—
The day is short, the night is long.
No voice, no heart have I for song!

Aye, brother, sing, there's one behind
Who lists your voice, the path to find.
Sing loud, and with his answering song
Your fainting courage shall grow strong!

Then rose a voice so brave, so clear
The laggard pilgrim joyed to hear.
Light burst upon his darkened sense,
Hope quickened thought, once dull and dense.
The sullen stream and threat'ning
rock,
That seemed his craven soul to mock
Took up the blitheful, buoyant strain,
And sang it o'er and o'er again,
Speeding the tardy footsteps on
Until, at last, the goal was won.
And lo! a glad, victorious throng
Brought hither by a brother's song!

MINES AND MINING.

"SOUP EATERS" DESERT UNION

Failure of Miners' Strike Randsburg Apparent.

Sixteen Members of the Union Back to Their Work.

Mill Will Start up in Two Weeks—Working up Mineral Exhibit.

Tired of the "soup-house" diet and disgusted with the hopeless failure of the Miners' Union to force the Yellow Aster mine management to accede to unjust and unreasonable demands, sixteen members of the Randsburg union yesterday turned their backs upon the walking delegates and went to work.

Three months ago the Randsburg Miners' Union called out the men employed in the mines of the Randsburg district because the operators refused to grant an increase in the wages of miners and stopers. Monday the Yellow Aster company resumed operations with a small force, which is being increased daily. The old schedule is in vogue, and apparently the company will have no trouble in securing all the miners that will be needed in this important property.

The failure of the strike is now apparent. The Miners' Union has been beaten and was wholly ignored when the company decided to resume operations.

A telephone message from Randsburg last evening stated there was great consternation in the ranks of the "soup eaters" when it became known that the enemy had made no large breach in the union ranks. Meetings were held and committees appointed to wait the deserters, to plead with them to return to the "soup house," and, if necessary, threaten them with the vengeance of the broken union.

Three months' diet at the "soup house" had apparently got in its work, and the prospect of three square meals a day was far too alluring to be turned aside. The men are standing firm, and it is reported that there will be others to forsake the union ranks. It is now that the operators have demonstrated their ability to start work.

At present but little can be learned there about eighty union men in the camp. For the most part they are a good, reliable lot. Leaders of the union are trying them to win over the men already employed in the mine, and their efforts have been of the most friendly nature. There is no sign of weakening on the part of the employed men, even when the hopelessness of their position is appreciated by the union delegates. There is a chance for trouble.

The Yellow Aster management has issued a statement, in which an invitation is extended to miners and a chance of work is offered. It is stated that men will be employed regardless of the union. This invitation is left open to union men.

Superintendent Burton expects to have the mills on the Yellow Aster property running within two weeks. Ore is now being taken out to the paying bodies of ore have been tapped by the local operator is not a surprise to those familiar with the field.

RAILROAD WASHED AWAY.

E. D. Trandwell has completed repairs to the Rogers smelter in the well-known Big Bug district, Arizona, and is all ready to begin operation if there is ore to handle. The railroad leading to the Hackberry mine was, however, completely washed away by recent floods, there being no less than three separate floods down the gulch, each of which aided in the destruction of the road, though there was very little of it left for the two later ones to work on after the first one had finished with it. The road has been built for over twelve years, and this is the first time it has been affected by floods. Trandwell will rebuild it on a higher grade out of reach of floods.

WORKING UP MINERAL EXHIBIT.

Lewis E. Aubury, chief of the department of mines and metallurgy for the St. Louis Exposition, has sent out the following circular letter to mining men throughout the State, in which he asks their cooperation in the matter of gathering a representative and attractive exhibit:

The work of collecting representative samples of the mineral products of California, for the State exhibit at the St. Louis Exposition, is now in progress, and collectors are visiting the various counties in an endeavor to make the California mineral exhibit as comprehensive and representative as possible. As the funds for this purpose are limited, it will be impossible for collectors to visit many of the districts which are distant from railroad transportation points, and as all specimens of the State should be represented, the cooperation of miners and others interested in the development of our mineral resources is sought. As it may be impossible for the collector to visit your district, will you please forward at your earliest convenience samples which are representative of your property; also specimens of the wall rocks or inclosing formations. They can be sent from the railroad point free of charge. Wells, Fargo & Co. have kindly consented to transport all minerals free of charge not in excess of twenty pounds. Anything in excess of that weight should be forwarded by freight, the railroad companies having also kindly consented to waybill material for the above, position free of charge."

In the vicinity of the Congress Junction, Yavapai county, Ariz., the Congress Mining Company of this city is at present engaged in opening and developing the old and well-known Leviathan mine. Attending its work the best results are stated to be satisfactory, and with what has been done in past years and what the company has already performed in development a total of 1600 feet is shown.

This property was known as far back as 1871. The district in which the mine is situated has always been regarded as a very rich one, and the high paying bodies of ore have been tapped by the local operator is not a surprise to those familiar with the field.

OROVILLE (Cal.) Sept. 1.—One of the biggest mining projects undertaken in California is about to be set on foot in Butte county. This is the construction of an immense tunnel from Butte Creek to drain the ridge between Big and Little Butte Creeks, which is known as one of the richest of gold-bearing parts of the Sierra. On and along this ridge are numerous ancient channels covered by lava and the object of the great tunnel now projected is to drain these channels. If the tunnel is successfully carried out it will put hundreds of men to work and mines will be opened and developed.

BRITISH COLUMBIA DISCOVERY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

VANCOUVER (B. C.) Sept. 1.—Specials from Thomson Landing, B. C., say the gold excitement in the Larleau district of British Columbia has received another advance by the discovery of a rich deposit near the north end of Trout Lake. The man who struck it was William Davis, formerly of Vancouver, who, after staking his claim, came down to Trout Lake City yesterday bringing lumps of quartz bright with nuggets. A stampede followed the telling of Davis's story. Trout Lake City is now deserted, men, women and children starting out last night so as to plant their stakes by daylight this morning. Discoveries are in direct line with the rich deposits at Poplar Creek, indicating that the gold belt is thirty miles long.

Magdalena-Virgin Gold.

Old Mexico is the home of Mother Lode—we have it. The reports coming from our mines are more than flattering, hundreds and hundreds of tons of ore assaying up to $30 now in sight. It is a little unusual for old prospectors and miners to buy stock, but they are sending after this nearly every day. We advise our friends to buy now at 8 cents share—watch it go to $1. Send for prospectus. Magdalena Gold Mining Company; D. D. Whitney, president; 343 South Spring street.—[Adv.

BOSTON DRY GOODS STORE

239 South Broadway. Opposite City Hall, Los Angeles.

We have been busy at our Wash Goods counter all during the summer; in fact, we are always very busy here supplying the needs of our many customers.

Wash Dress Materials

There remains only a short time now before school opens and the preparation of school dresses will require many pieces of waist and dress materials. We are offering numerous specials that will interest you.

White Fancy Waistings

We are headquarters for fancy white goods, and a visit to this department will convince you of the truth of this assertion. We are showing the most extensive and novel line of white wash waistings that we have ever shown. They are heavy, medium and sheer in plain, stripe, figured and lace effects, from 25c to $1.25 per yard.

Punjab Percale

There is no material more distinctly appropriate for comfort and for durable house gowns and separate shirt waists than the old standard percale. It is a first-class tub material and holds its own. We are showing it in a variety of colors in stripe and figure designs. 36 in. wide, price 12½c per yard.

Damask

In this masterpiece of textile skill we present a fabric the superiority of which is quickly noticed and it rarely fails to call forth unbounded admiration. The cloth is finely wrought from mercerized yarns and the designs refined and soft in tone and especially attractive because of their originality. 52 in. wide and 75c per yard.

Fancy Madras

No ladies' wardrobe is complete without several white shirt waists, and white madras is the most popular for washable shirt waists. The skillful introduction of mercerized yarns adds a charm to cotton material that makes it largely resemble a high-priced silk. They are 27 in. to 36 in. wide and range in price from 25c to $1.25 per yard.

Rich Dinner Sets.

We have recently opened a large selection of real choice dinner sets. Something exceptionally rich and exclusive. It is seldom that such rich goods are brought out to the Coast, but we have taken the lead, believing that many will appreciate these high class services.

Sets range from $75 to $250 per set.

We carry these goods in stock so that broken pieces can be replaced at all times.

INDIVIDUAL manufacturers have surpassed their own best records in the production of cotton and wool waistings—and similar materials for skirts and shirt waist suits—for Fall and Winter, 1903-4. Being the largest handlers of these particular lines west of Chicago—and buying direct from the makers, for spot cash, thereby taking advantage of all discounts—besides saving middlemen's profits—we are in position to name lower prices than will prevail in other Los Angeles stores, quality considered.

Free-Labor Number

The Times has just issued another edition of its special four-page Free-Labor Number for circulation among "independent workers, captains of industry, and all employers and employees who prize their lawful rights." Its contents are mainly reproductions of editorial articles and facts and statistics which have appeared in this paper from time to time heretofore, and are now brought together in this form. The matter shows again, and even more clearly, what The Times stands for, viz.: Liberty regulated by law, and independent, untrammeled labor; also what it is unalterably opposed to, viz.: Strikes, boycotts, picketing, conspiracies and needless industrial disturbances, to the great detriment of the country.

CONTENTS

I. To All Who Seek the Truth.
II. Our Platform: For Liberty, Law and Labor—Against Strikes and Boycotts—For Industrial Freedom and Repose.
III. Gen. Otis to the Workingman.
IV. "A Spectre from the Grave."
V. Getting Their Eyes Open.
VI. Editorials: Editorial Declarations of Independence—Stand Fast—A Heritage of Unreason—Stubborn Facts. Refuting Falsehoods Disseminated by Organized Labor—The Logic of Plain Truth—The Boycott Scarecrow—Strong, Brave Words from the Nation's Chief—Ringing Words from President Parry—"Halt and Call a Council of Reason"—A Stinging Rebuke to the Boycotting Gang—The Curse of Lawlessness—Court Condemns Boycotting.
VII. Parry to the Manufacturers—"A Signal Man Swinging in the Night a Red Lantern Between Us and Perdition."
VIII. A Body Blow Given to Lawless Labor. (President Parry's Speech at Buffalo.)
IX. Speech for Freedom by Gen. LaGrange.
X. California—Los Angeles and Southern California — Announcement of The Times—(Advertisement.)
XI. A Boycott Boomerang—Wages in Southern California.
XII. Seven Strike Failures.
XIII. The Situation in Omaha—Recent Strikes, Boycotts, Lawlessness, Violence and Failure.
XIV. Mark these Plain and True Utterances.
XV. Figures that Prove—Advertising and Circulation for Fourteen Years.
XVI. The Logic of Results.
XVII. A Free Journal for Free People.

This issue being special, is not sent to the regular patrons of The Times. 100 copies will be sent to any single address in the United States for 50 cents; 10 copies to one address, 15 cents, postpaid. Scores and hundreds of free citizens, independent workers and unshackled employers can do great good to the country and to the cause of true labor by aiding to circulate everywhere this free-labor edition. YACHT RACES TIRESOME.

Both Sides Anxious to End Sir Thomas's Agony.

No Contest Yesterday Owing to Failure of the Wind.

Lou Dillon Crowned Queen of the Turf—San Rafael Tennis. Baseball.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] After waiting vainly for wind, today's race between the Reliance and Shamrock III was called off just before 1 o'clock. The wind, which came from nearly all quarters of the compass in the course of the forenoon, blew at the rate of only about three miles an hour and showed no sign of freshing. Heavy fog hung over the starting line and a view of the yachts from shore was obscured. The racers had been at the starting line since shortly after 10 o'clock. When it was seen the boats could not go over the course the "No race" signal was hoisted, followed by another signal that there would be an effort made tomorrow to sail the third contest of the series. The weather predictions for tomorrow are that it will be fair, with light to fresh north or northeast winds.

Yesterday's race proving a fluke, with the Reliance three miles in the lead, but half a mile short of the finish line when the time limit expired, today's contest was to be to windward or leeward 15 miles and return. Five miles an hour was the maximum gait of the breeze in the morning, and it fell off as the hours passed, but the yacht managers were taking no chances and wanted to be close to the lightship in case a breeze should spring up which would allow them to start. Head sails were in stops and mainsails hoisted, and at 9 o'clock both yachts cast off from their moorings and headed in tow for the starting point.

The decided superiority of the Reliance over the Shamrock which has been demonstrated in the two races that have been sailed left no doubt as to the better boat, and the consequent unsuccessful attempts to sail the third and what is looked upon as surely the decisive race was but suspense to the Shamrock's supporters, as well as to the Reliance's admirers. In yesterday's attempt, the flagging interest was most evident.

There were few private yachts to follow the boats over the course, and the excursion fleet was little more than a small picnic party. The third race must be sailed, however, to carry out the articles of agreement or deed of gift of the America's cup.

Sir Thomas Lipton, on the Erin, said: "It's too bad; we should get the thing over. I am needed at home on urgent business matters, and my present plan is to sail for England within two or three days after these races. In fact, I ought to be there now, and every day I stay is injuring my business."

Upon after man of the Shamrock's crew who went ashore this morning expressed, sometimes more forcibly than elegantly, the hope that today would be the last. Even the hopefulness of Sir Thomas, which is also very much qualified, does not seem to affect his crew. They worked this morning with a listlessness that frequently brought a sharp word from Capt. Wringe.

On the Reliance, there was less of gnashing and wigot. The men appreciate that in all kinds of weather and all kinds of sea their boat had demonstrated her great superiority, and they were suffering from ennui consequent upon their not being able to close the series quickly.

WORE OUT THE GREEN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, September 1.—The third attempt to sail the third and probable final race of the international yacht races today was a failure. There was not wind enough to make it worth while to send the yachts across the line. A small fleet of excursion steamers, poorly patronized, hopelessly waited at the Hook for a breeze. A weary pall of haze and mist hung over the sea, with a surface like glass. An absolute calm was varied at intervals by faint drafts of wind from the southeast and southwest. The Reliance and Shamrock III never dropped their tow lines, but with mainsails and club topsails set, they circled about in ghostly fashion through the fleet.

At 10:40 o'clock the committee tug Navigator signalled that the start would be postponed until later in the day. An excursion steamer pursued the Shamrock III, her band playing "The wearing of the Green" to relieve the monotony of the long wait. C. Oliver Iselin impatiently paced the deck of the Reliance, and Designer Fife was the center of a little group of men on the Shamrock III. There was no sign, either of wind or of the lifting of the foggy haze, when at 12:30 o'clock the Navigator asked the assent of the racing skippers to a postponement, and, securing it, signalled that the race was off and that another attempt to sail it would be made tomorrow.

QUEEN OF THE TURF.

CROWNING OF LOU DILLON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Sept. 1.—Lou Dillon, 2:08, was crowned Queen of the Turf this afternoon in the presence of 5000 persons at the InterCity Matinee. Led by a band and the famous trotter, the members of the Gentlemen's Driving Club, with their guests from New York, Boston, Syracuse, Pittsburg, Columbus and Detroit, marched onto the track, where, in front of the grand stand, a floral blanket, bearing appropriate inscriptions, was placed on the new champion trotter.

LOWERS HER RECORD.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CLEVELAND (O.) Sept. 1.—The Cleveland Challenge Gold Cup race of the Inter-City Matinee today, was won by the Monk, owned and driven by C. K. G. Billings of the Cleveland Club. Although there were only three starters, four heats were necessary to decide the event, as when three heats had been trotted each contestant had won one.

Aside from this race, interest centered in the exhibition of Lou Dillon, the champion trotter, in an attempt to lower her trotting record to wagon of 2:04 3-4. Driven by Billings, she succeeded in chipping one-quarter of a second off her previous record. Summary:

Cleveland Gold Cup trotting: The Monk won the first and fourth heats in 2:11 1-4, 2:12 1-4. Dolly Dillon won the third heat 2:11 1-2, Wauban won the second heat in 2:12.

AUTOMOBILE BOATS.

MERCEDES STILL LEADING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

PARIS, Sept. 1.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Twenty automobile boats out of the fifty-seven which started Sunday in the race on the Seine from Paris to the sea completed their third stage, which included the section of the river between Elbeuf and Rouen, a distance of fifteen miles. The Mercedes and Loraine retained their places of first and second respectively, the former covering the distance in 42 min. 32 sec. The Musette was third. The last boat took 1 hour, 36 min. 38 sec. on the trip.

An enormous crowd witnessed the arrival of the boats at Rouen.

GOLF AT GLENCOVE.

FOUR STRONG PLAYERS WIN.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

GLENCOVE (L. I.) Sept. 1.—Findley S. Douglass, the former amateur golf champion; H. Chandler Egan, the present inter-collegiate champion; H. B. HMcFarland, the strongest golfer in the University of Pennsylvania, and Malcolm McBurney, who recently won the Stockbridge, Mass., Golf Club championship, were among the leading winners in the opening round today of the National Amateur Golf Championship tournament on the links of the Nassau Country Club. All but Egan won their matches handily.

Egan met Lee T. Harbin of Washington, D. C., and had a hard game from the start, winning by only one hole. Douglass had a runaway victory of his match with W. W. Alexander of Detroit, winning by 9 up and 8 to play. McBurney also won by a high score, defeating O. E. Stevens of the local club 9 up and 7 to play. McFarland had an easier victory than was expected with J. W. Baker of Princeton, winning by 3 up and 1 to play.

As four players defaulted their matches, only 26 of the 145 entries took part in the opening day's play of the United States Golf Association. The other players, with the winners today, will play in the first round tomorrow morning.

SHARPE ON FOOT BALL RULES.

THEY DON'T CUT MUCH ICE.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW HAVEN (CL.) Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Dr. Sharpe will be with the Yale team the first two weeks of training, and will then leave to coach the Pennsylvania Charter School team in Philadelphia. He directed the work of this team last year. He was asked today his opinion of the new rules, and said:

"They will make less difference in play than has been generally stated, I believe. Yale will fall back to her old specialty, old-fashioned football, when the ball is in the middle of the field, I think, and will try mass plays when the rules allow it. Some wing shifts will be practicable under the new rules and the center rush may not always snap back the ball.

"If the Rules Committee really wish to cut out fierce scrimmaging, it seems to me that it would have been better to have abolished mass play on the last twenty-five yards, where it is always fiercest, and allowed mass plays to the 25-yard line instead of within it."

OVERLAND BY AUTO.

YOUNG HARKNESS'S AMBITION.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] There will be another transcontinental automobile record-breaking attempt this autumn. Harry S. Harkness, the young millionaire who designed and built a racer for trial for a place on the American team in the international cup race, is to make effort. The try will be made with the racer itself, which will be made over and fitted with a touring top, similar to the famous Passe Partout, which started last autumn on an around-the-world journey, but abandoned the attempt.

This is the story that precedes Harkness, who is expected to arrive this week with his racer. It will be remembered that the delays in construction prevented Harkness from taking part in the elimination trials, and that he took his car to Europe with the intention of competing in the big international road races. He did not, however, start in any of them. The car has since been fitted with French transmission.

It is the young sportsman's ambition not only to be the first automobilist to cross the continent from the Atlantic to the Pacific, but to beat the record of sixty-two days made by the Old Pacific as well. Harkness would also probably be a willing competitor in the great cross-continent race suggested by Dr. Jackson.

FIFTY MILES AN HOUR.

HARRY CALDWELL'S RIDING.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BOSTON, Sept. 1.—Harry Caldwell established a new world's competitive record at the Charles River track tonight, riding fifty miles in one hour. The contestants in the race were Caldwell and Albert Champion. In the forty-fifth mile Caldwell's motor went wrong and he lost two laps while riding unpaced.

PACIFIC COAST LEAGUE.

SENATORS KNOCK OUT HODSON.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 1—The members of the San Francisco team head a bad off-day and played in such a slow style that Sacramento had no difficulty in winning. Hodson's delivery was easy for the hard-sticking Senators who knocked his offerings all over the field. In the seventh inning he was relieved by Howell, who did good work, striking out the first two men who came up. The game was too far gone, however, for him to pull it out of the ruck. Score:

Both teams played good tennis.

BARBER FAILED TO SHAVE VERY CLOSE.

NEWTON'S PILLS TOO HARD FOR THE SIWASHES.

Both Texas Put up a Strong Contest, but Looloos Were the Best—Dillon Signed for Next Year—Jeff is Still Here—Good Coursing Card.

Los Angeles, 3; Seattle, 1.

It is easy enough to fix people if you can drag them into the shop and hold them down; but when they hit everything with the furniture, it's a hard matter to do business. It's a good deal worse, too, when the man on the second chair thinks his feet are his hands and falls around the floor in an attempt to make business.

These things didn't constitute everything, however, for the Looloos did as much business with their bats as if they had been boycotted on base hits by all the walking delegates and trouble-makers in town. They were just rushed to death slugging the ball and Barber didn't have time to hone an edge on himself. He really had to stand by his chair and see the locals sling the ball around the room and he could not stop them except in two successive intervals, and then it was no use trying.

Doc Newton was called in to diagnose the case of the Siwashes, and after a post-mortem of the proceedings the bulletin gave it as panilion of the arms. The disease was not of long standing, but it would not yield to Doc's treatment. The prescription he handed out was apparently too strong, and after nine applications the patient gave only one gasp and croaked.

About 1200 spectators saw this contest between the Barber and Doctor, and they found a whole chestful of peculiarities. The first striking one, or rather the one that didn't strike, was Dillon, who is said to be the best batter in the league. In four times at bat he couldn't knock the ball out of the diamond, while every one of his teammates cracked it safely. Pitchers Joe Corbett, Doc Newton and Wheeler connected safely and Cravath and Corbett not only killed the ball, but fielded it in a beautiful manner. The result can be easily imagined, and with few exceptions the play was most interesting throughout.

Newton was in good form, and besides allowing but six hits, he fanned out five and gave but two passes. He had a bird's eye of speed and a cross-fire that kept the Siwashes dodging their own shadows all the afternoon. He was given almost perfect support and only in the eighth inning, when the visitors made three hits, was he in any danger of losing.

It is more than half customary, the Siwashes started out yesterday by making the first run of the game in the first inning. Of the seven games they have played here so far during this visit they have made a run in the first inning in four. Yesterday they started things the same way, but that was the only run they got in the game. Lumley, the first man to bat, waited for the second ball pitched and sent it crashing out to the center-field fence. It came down behind Dummy Hoy, running backwards, and bounced over the fence for a home run. That was all.

The locals had luck about as disheartening, for they secured but three runs from eleven hits, or what will have to be called eleven. Cravath opened the season with a double against the center fence and went to third when Ross hit a high liner through Brashear's upraised hands. Toman followed with a stinging grounder through the pitcher's box, on which Cravath scored. Ross had previously been thrown out trying to steal second. With Toman on first, Spies bounced one over Barber. Toman would have been forced out at second probably, but both Mohler and Dolan tried to get the ball. Each man dived for it about the same time and from the grand stand it looked as if each got a hand on it, but in their running scoop the ball fell from their hands. If Mohler dropped it, Dolan was doubtless the cause, and it is even doubtful if even Toman or Spies could have been put out on the drive. Under the peculiar circumstances Spies is given a hit, rather than half an error to both Mohler and Dolan. This mix-up at second left Toman safe on the bag and he scored on a slam of Newton's to right field.

In the eighth inning Wheeler doubled to right field and scored from second on Corbett's hard single to left.

DILLON SIGNED.

MORLEY GETS HIM EASILY.

Frank Dillon, the popular captain and first baseman of the Los Angeles ball club, signed yesterday with Manager Morley to play first base for the Looloos in 1904.

During the past month Dillon has received a number of very flattering offers to play in two of the big clubs of the National League, but has not answered them. One of these is the Chicago National League team. President Hart of that team has been trying for many months to get Dillon, but he has refused to go East if he could. Say on this Coast, and now turns down Hart's third offer by signing with Manager Morley. Dillon is one of the few expert first basemen in the United States, and Hart of Chicago has told him several times to write his own contract and the Chicago management would accept it. Manager Morley is to be congratulated on securing Dillon and the fans will rejoice at the news.

As a matter of fact, Morley could go farther and fare worse in signing his entire team for next season, for the boys have won him the pennant this year, and may do so next year. Their team work is excellent, and there is no bickering among the players, and none of the petty jealousies that do so much to disrupt all ball teams. Manager Morley has not yet spoken to any of the other players, or they to him about a next season's contract. There is plenty of time for conferences, however, for the present season will not end for three months.

TODAY'S GAME.

In the contest this afternoon, which will be a "ladies' day" game, Corbett will pitch for Los Angeles and Carrick for Seattle. Smith will probably be at third base for the locals.

AMONG THE PUGS.

JEFFRIES STILL WITH US.

Contrary to reports, Champion Jim Jeffries did not start for San Francisco last night, and the latest is that he doesn't know when he will go. This is interesting information in more ways than one, for it is more than likely that on the length of his visit here this time, depends the chance that Miner Munroe has of getting on with Jeff. Manager McCarey was trying to bring the negotiations to a head and Jeffries finally decided that he wanted to talk the matter over with Delaney, and with this object in view it was his intention to have started for San Francisco last night.

The sports have become possessed of the idea that Munroe is about the style of Sharkey, for he is willing to advertise himself by challenging every fighter than ever hit the pike. The eastern sporting papers are full of a lot of twaddle about Munroe being feverishly anxious to bet $5000 that he can win form Jeffries, and when Munroe's manager was wired concerning this by Manager McCarey of this city, the answer came back that the miner wanted to hear first what kind of a proposition Jeffries had to make to him. The fact is that Munroe is looking for a lot of newspaper notoriety.

NEIL-DE COURSEY FIGHT.

Betting will probably begin today on the featherweight fight next Friday night between Neil and DeCoursey, and it is said that the Neil sports have plenty of money to bet at evens. They apparently want a lot, for Neil is the bantam champion, and has beaten a lot of good boys in short order. There is no apparent reason why he should be at evens or on the short end, for his title and his record should make him favorite.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Seriously Ill.

J. C. Chapman, secretary to Chief of Police Elton, is very seriously ill at his home on Ceres avenue from the effects of a surgical operation, complicated with an attack of acute peritonitis. His condition is such that no one is permitted to visit him. He has taken no nourishment for eight days.

Injuries Caused Death.

T. Oyame, a Japanese, died yesterday at the County Hospital from the effects of injuries received Saturday night by falling from a street car. He is said to have attempted to alight from a moving car at Ninth and Main streets, when he fell, striking his head on the pavement. He was unconscious when taken to the Receiving Hospital, and the next day he was removed to the County Hospital. He died without having recovered consciousness. The Coroner will hold an inquest at 10 o'clock this morning.

Narrowly Escaped Death.

By the explosion of a gasoline stove in a tent in which a family named Zobes is living at No. 216 Bloom street, Mrs. Zobes was burned about the face, head and arms so severely that she had to be taken to the Receiving Hospital for treatment. She was lighting the fire and permitted too much gasoline to escape, and when she applied the match there was an explosion which covered her face with the burning fluid. Other members of the family went to her rescue and succeeded in preventing the ignition of her clothing. She was hurriedly conveyed to the hospital, where her injuries were dressed.

Died at Police Station.

J. O'Brien, a blacksmith, whose home was at No. 615 Banning street, died in the Receiving Hospital yesterday morning, after an illness of two days which the attending physicians did not consider serious. He was taken to the Police Station Monday morning for medical treatment. He said he was suffering from cramps. He was given treatment and put to bed. Yesterday morning he told Dr. Spencer that he was feeling much better. The doctor went to breakfast, and when he returned the man was dead. An autopsy will be performed to determine the cause of death. The deceased was about 30 years of age and a native of California. The police have been unable to learn where his relatives reside, if he had any.

EVENTS IN SOCIETY.

Miss Grace Mellus of West Adams street informally entertained at dinner Sunday night in honor of D. A. McGilvray and William Workman, Jr., who left last night on a tour of the world. The five charming young women who were the artistic femininity of the occasion are not the only ones who will miss these popular society young men, and it was regretfully and with hearty good wishes that a number of their young business friends bade them "Bon Voyage" at the Arcade depot last night. They sail tomorrow for Japan.

The supper table was most refreshing in its abundance of greenery and white carnations. Though informal, the menu was elaborate and finely appointed throughout.

Among those invited were: Misses Howard, Winder, Burks, Mellus and Catherine Mellus; Messrs Workman, Jr., McGilvray, Robertson, Howard, Seyior, Hugh Stewart and Van Pelt.

At Luncheon.

Mrs. C. M. Shannon was the hostess of a charming luncheon yesterday, in honor of her sister-in-law, Mrs. B. Shannon, of Clifton, Ariz., who is visiting in Los Angeles. There were ten ladies present.

Complete Surprise.

A complete surprise was tendered Mrs. William J. Salisbury at her home on Hewitt street Monday evening, in honor of her birthday. The young people of the Grace M. E. J. Salisbury, William A. Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. G. G. Evans, Mr. and Mrs. Atkins, and Messrs. Robert and Charlie Atkins, Mr. and Mrs. Pring, Miss Ella Pring, Mr. and Miss Loughead, Miss Wright, E. IN DESPAIR?
GO TO BRAUER & KROHN'S

Common frame of mind to the man who buys ready-made clothing. Why shouldn't it be? Ready-made garments are all alike—built from measurements of a certain model. Only one man out of a hundred is built like the model. That's why we see so many ill-fitting collars, so many coats that draw across the back, so many baggy trousers.

Nothing like that here. Every garment made to your measure. No wrinkles, no bagginess. Perfect fit, smartest styles, exclusive Fall fabrics now ready for your inspection.

Suits $5.00 to $40.00

"Arts and Crafts" Furniture

There is only one "Arts and Crafts" Furniture. The tendency of the times is toward unique effects, but no manufacturer has succeeded in producing the semi-rustic, artistic designs that are to be had in Lembert's "Arts and Crafts." The material used is of course oak, either in the natural, golden or weathered finish. A few pieces of this and a few pieces of

Old Hickory Furniture

Produce the best and most artistic effect possible for the porch, lawn or summer home. The addition of a piece or two of Reed Furniture would add to the variety and the pleasing effect. We have complete lines of all three kinds.

ARMED CRANK CALLS AT SAGAMORE HILL.

Henry Weilbrenner Seeks the Hand of Miss Roosevelt.

Secret Service Operative Arrests the Persistent Individual Who Tries Three Times to See the President. Claims to Have Had a Wireless Conversation With the Chief Executive, Who Made an Engagement With Him. Son of a Truck Farmer and Subject to Nervous Attacks.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Henry W. Weilbrenner, aged 28, of Syosset, near here, made an unsuccessful attempt to see the President at Sagamore Hill last night. He drove to the President's house three times, and after being turned away twice by Secret Service men was arrested and locked up. He gave several absurd reasons for wishing to see the President, alleged that he had an appointment with him, and declared that he wished to talk with the President about marrying his daughter, Miss Alice. When arraigned in court in Oyster Bay this morning, the man's behavior was so peculiar that the magistrate decided to have him examined as to his sanity. Three physicians examined the prisoner and declared him insane.

The President was kept in ignorance of the attempt to reach him made by the crank. When Weilbrenner drove up for the third time, the President, who was in the library, threw open the door to the veranda and advanced to the railing, where he stood sharply silhouetted in the glare of the lights from the house, peering over the lawn to where the buggy had been halted.

When Weilbrenner saw the President he half rose from his seat, cracked the whip over the back of his horse, and tried to rush past. But the Secret Service man sprang at him, caught him by the throat, and dragged him to the ground, where, for a moment, he lay breathing heavily. When he had regained his feet and had been led away the President reentered the house.

Beside the crank in the buggy was found a loaded revolver. From its position in the bottom of the buggy the Secret Service men believe that the man dropped it there when he was stopped. Weilbrenner has been acting strangly for some time past, it is learned.

OTHER PARTICULARS.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OYSTER BAY (L. I.) Sept. 2.—Henry Weilbrenner was arrested at Sagamore Hill late last night while making a persistent demand to see the President. The man was armed with a revolver fully loaded. He was taken to the village and placed in the town prison.

Shortly after 10 o'clock last night, Weilbrenner drove to Sagamore Hill in a phaeton buggy. He was stopped by the Secret Service operative on duty. Weilbrenner said he had a personal engagement with the President and desired to see him. As it was long after the hours when visitors are received, the officer declined to permit him to go to the house. The man insisted, but the officer turned him away.

Soon afterward Weilbrenner returned and again insisted that he be allowed to see the President, if only for a minute. This time he was ordered away and warned not to return.

Just before 11 o'clock the man returned a third time and demanded of the officer that he be permitted to see the President at once. The officer's response was to take the man from his buggy and put him in the stables, where he was placed under guard of two stablemen. A revolver was found in the buggy. Later Weilbrenner was brought to the village and locked up. He is five feet eight inches in height, 28 years old, has a medium-sized dark mustache, black eyes and evidently is of German descent. He resides in Syosset, about five miles inland from Oyster Bay. He was well dressed in a suit of dark material and wore an old-fashioned derby hat. It is thought by the officers that Weilbrenner was accompanied by two other men, as their footprints were found in the mud alongside the buggy tracks. In view of this fact, the officer on duty telephoned to the village for assistance, and was soon joined by two other Secret Service men.

While Weilbrenner talked rationally to the officers last night it seems evident from his conversation today that he is demented. He said that he had received a telegraphic communication from the President, bidding him call at Sagamore Hill. Weilbrenner's buggy was taken to a local livery barn. When asked what had become of the rig, Weilbrenner replied: "Oh, the President has taken care of it. That's all right."

Weilbrenner is regarded by those who have seen him to be a dangerous lunatic. At Syosset, it is learned that the man is the son of a truck farmer, and is one of three boys. He has two sisters. The family is respectable and is held in general esteem.

Weilbrenner several years ago had a nervous attack which rendered him mentally helpless for a day or two, but his family supposed that he had been quite restored by medical treatment. Since then he had manifested no symptoms of mental aberration. He had no Socialistic or Anarchistic tendencies so far as known, never having been interested in questions of that kind. He was employed daily on his father's farm.

Weilbrenner was arraigned today before Justice Franklin on complaint of the Secret Service operatives who placed him under arrest. Weilbrenner's brother William was present at the examination. Justice Franklin questioned the prisoner about his movements last night. His replies were made in a quiet tone of voice, but they indicated apparently beyond a doubt that the man is crazy. Asked why he went to Sagamore Hill, he replied:

"I went to see the President about his daughter Alice."

"Had you an engagement with the President?"

"Yes."

"How was the engagement made?"

"I talked with the President last night," replied Weilbrenner.

"How did you talk with him?"

"Oh, I just talked."

"A sort of wireless talk, was it?"

"Yes, that is it, a wireless talk."

"Why did you want to see the President about Miss Alice?"

"I wanted to marry her."

"Did you ever see Miss Roosevelt?"

"Yes, I saw her night before last."

"Where did you see her?"

"At my house."

"Did she go there?"

"Yes, she came in a red automobile."

"Who accompanied her?"

"Her brother Theodore."

Justice Franklin, after the examination decided he would hold Weilbrenner until an inquiry of lunacy could be held upon his case.

The examination was then postponed until 5 o'clock this evening, when physicians who filed certificates entitling them to make inquiry into the sanity of persons could be present.

PRONOUNCED INSANE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 2.—The examination of Weilbrenner was continued today. Dr. George A. Stewart and Dr. Barnes conducted the examination. Weilbrenner was declared by them to be insane. He was placed immediately in charge of the Sheriff of Nassau county.

LABOR UNION FEATURE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 2.—Weilbrenner was taken to Mineola, L. I., on an evening train and placed in the custody of the county authorities.

It appears that the President was aware of the trouble the Secret Service officer had with Weilbrenner last night. After the man had been turned back the second time, despite his insistence that he had an engagement with the President, the officer, to make assurance doubly sure, inquired of the President about the fellow. The President was in his library, only a short distance from the spot where the officer had stopped Weilbrenner's horse. He told the officer he had no engagement with anybody.

Weilbrenner has been practicing with his revolver recently, but he would give no reason for his interest in marksmanship, and today said he could not shoot very well. It appears that one of his brothers, who attended the examination this afternoon, is a metal worker and belongs to a labor union in Brooklyn. Some time ago he lost his position and went with his wife to his father's farm at Syosset. The farm is a good one, but the family is in debt for it, and the father, Henry Weilbrenner, and the son who was arrested last night, have been working hard to lift the indebtedness. The son from Brooklyn is said to have talked a good deal to his brother recently about labor unions and about the loss of his position. It is thought that the hard work and the trouble over the farm indebtedness had something to do with upsetting Weilbrenner's mind.

The incident is the first serious occurrence of the kind during the President's summer sojourn at Sagamore Hill. It has demonstrated completely, in the opinion of officials here, the wisdom of the close and systematic guard which is maintained at all times over the President. He is exposed frequently, it is true, to assault, but every care that human agencies can devise is exercised constantly to insure his personal safety and immunity from danger. Personally, he was not perturbed by the Weilbrenner incident, but, although the maintenance of the guard is often distasteful to him, he thoroughly realizes the necessity under the circumstances of having made as certain as possible the political safety of the President of the United States.

PRESIDENT'S GUESTS.

KAHN MAKES HIM A PRESENT.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

OYSTER BAY (L. I.) Sept. 2.—The President has as guests at luncheon today Senator Beveridge of Indiana, and one of the latter's constituents, a Mr. Pettit, and Dr. J. H. Finley, who soon is to be installed as president of the College of the City of New York. Senator Beveridge came to talk with the President about some Federal appointments in Indiana, and about the work of the approaching session of Congress. Dr. Finley's call was of a social nature.

Later, the President received I. N. Stevens, a newspaper editor of Pueblo, Colo., and Frank Mead, both of whom desired to discuss with him some western matters. Mead's mission related particularly to Indian affairs.

PRESENT FROM JULIUS KAHN.

OYSTER BAY, Sept. 2.—Among other callers upon the President was former Representative Julius Kahn of San Francisco, who came to present to the President a handsome copy of the addresses which he delivered in California, on his western trip last spring.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt today attended the funeral of Edward C. Swan, a widely-known Long Island philanthropist.

MATRIMONY AND MONEY FOR ROXBURGHE.

ANNOUNCEMENT OF ENGAGEMENT TO MAY GOELET.

Bride-to-be Has a Vast Fortune Created by Growth in Population of New York, While the Duke is Somewhat Impoverished.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Kelso (Scotland) Mail says it is authorized to announce that a marriage has been arranged between the Duke of Roxburghe and Miss May Goelet of New York.

The Dowager Duchess Roxburghe confirms the report. The Roxburghe family has been living quietly recently, its fortune having been considerably reduced.

NEWPORT KNOWS IT.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEWPORT (R. I.) Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The engagement of the Duke of Roxburghe and Miss May Goelet, daughter of Mrs. Ogden Goelet, is known here to be a fact.

Miss Goelet is about 20 years old and in a year will inherit a fortune variously estimated at from $20,000,000 to $30,000,000.

The Duke is now a guest of Mrs. Ogden Goelet at Newport, having come to this country on the same steamship with Miss Goelet, ostensibly to witness the yacht races.

PLANS OF STOCKMEN.

They Will Build Their First Plant at Kansas City in Opposition to Packers' Trust.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

KANSAS CITY, Sept. 2.—The western cattlemen who propose to build a packing-house of their own, held a meeting here today and agreed upon articles of incorporation for a packing company. The articles will be filed in Arizona.

As explained by C. F. Martin, secretary of the National Life Stock Association, the purpose is not so much to fight the packing-houses now in existence, as to establish competition, and make the packers pay a reasonable price for cattle. The cattlemen say they can raise the money to buy the stock among themselves, although it will be put upon the market and any one may buy. The voting trust is to keep the property out of the hands of the big packers. The talk today is that about one-half a million stock will be issued at first to build the plant on the Missouri River. Later, if this plant should succeed, another will be built, probably at Fort Worth and more stock sold. The stockmen think that some day the oriental trade, and the growth of the live-stock industry near the Pacific Coast will justify them building a third packing-house somewhere in California.

Among the ranchmen and feeders who are expected to be named among the incorporators are E. S. Gosney of Arizona and J. A. Justro of California.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Estimates for improvements and expenditures at the navy yards named have been submitted to the chief of the Bureau of Yards and Docks, the figures having been prepared by the civil engineers attached to the yards.

The Mare island estimates include the following items:

Improving channel in Mare Island strait, $150,000; wharf at dry dock, $100,000; additional steam engineering building, $450,00; new anchor and chain shed, $155,000.

REFORM IN DANCING.

No More "Yale Glides" or "Harvard Dips" if the Professors Are to Have Their Way.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Football tactics on the ballroom floor must stop. No more "Yale glides" or "Harvard dips" or distorted attempts to tread a measure in two-four time when the music calls for three beats in a bar.

Such is the ultimatum of the American Society of Professors of Dancing, now in session here. War has been declared by the professors on what they call the invasion of their special field by college students. The dancing of the two-step to waltz time, and the grotesque positions assumed by the dancers are evils attributed to the college fads that have vitiated the public taste.

"Some of these students," said a professor from Terre Haute, Ind., "invent a series of simian contortions and football tactics and give it a college name and the public thinks it is all right because the college men do it.

"Now we want to stop all this and bring dancing back to the old style of graceful carriage that enabled the dancers to express the beauty of the motion to music.

"A majority of people now seem to dance a two-step to waltz music. This is not right. The two-step is easier to teach, as it is in common time, and dancing it to waltz music is not a correct movement."

Attention was also called to the neglect in the large cities of the old square dances, which are still taught in the smaller cities.

Thousands of People in Monastir Face Starvation—Adrianople Reported Burning.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 2.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Three explosions occurred today on the Austrian steamer Vaskapu, soon after leaving the Bulgarian port of Burgas, en route for Constantinople, and twenty-nine persons perished. The boat caught fire and had to be beached.

A telegram conveying this news was received by the agent here of the Hungarian Levant line, to which the Vaskapu belonged. The telegram said the Vaskapu had been destroyed in the Black Sea. The captain and officers of the steamer and six of her crew were killed, a total of twenty-nine lives being lost.

The Vaskapu sailed from Varna, Bulgaria, and after calling at Burgas, was steaming through the Black Sea to Constantinople when three explosions took place on board. The deck of the vessel took fire and she had to be run ashore at Misvros Bay, eighteen miles north of Burgas, where she is still burning.

BULGARIANS BLAMED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

LONDON, Sept. 2.—A dispatch from Vienna, reporting the destruction of the Vaskapu in the Black Sea, says the opinion is expressed that the Bulgarian revolutionaries were responsible for the explosions.

Special dispatches from Constantinople published here state that the bomb was timed to burst while the steamer was in the port of Constantinople, but that owing to the vessel being twenty hours late in starting from Varna, the explosion occurred off Mosvra Bay. Among the missing and supposed to have been blown overboard is Herr Leadvay, belonging to the head office of the steamship company.

ADOPTING KITCHENER'S TACTICS.

KING EDWARD KEPT BUSY.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VIENNA, Sept. 2.—Although during his visit here King Edward has not sought a private conference with Premier Count Goluchowski, it is believed that the Balkan troubles have been the subject of discussion between the King and the Austrian Emperor. It is pointed out that Count Goluchowski and other Austrian ministers have attended the numerous imperial functions in King Edward's honor.

It transpires that Prince Ferdinand's mother, Princess Clementine of Saxe-Coburg, came here from Hungary Monday, purposely to see King Edward, and the latter's visit to Prince Philip of Saxe-Coburg at his palace yesterday was principally made in order to meet Princess Clementine.

It is rumored here tonight that the Sultan has received a letter from the Macedonian Committee communicating their demands, and threatening him with death in the event of his not fulfilling them.

It is rumored from Belgrade that the headquarters staff of the insurgents has issued a new proclamation, promising Bulgarian and Servian intervention.

Secretary Shaw Discusses Business Outlook.

Plan for Securing Automatically Responsive Currency.

How the Most Prosperous of All Nations May Become More Prosperous.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—Two hundred business men from all parts of the country listened to Secretary of the Treasury Shaw talk on "The business outlook," at a banquet given tonight at the Auditorium Hotel by the National Association of Merchants and Travelers. Lyman J. Gage addressed the association on the same subject just before his retirement from the Treasury Department and great interest was attached to the speech tonight of the present Secretary. In his discussion of the financial question Secretary Shaw declared that what was needed was not an elastic dollar, but some provisions by which, automatically, the aggregate volume of dollars should increase whenever and wherever more dollars were needed and would as promptly retire when not needed.

His speech follows:

"A representative of a large metropolitan daily recently submitted the following question as the basis of an interview: 'Has the boom left the United States richer than it found it?' The honor was declined, as usual, but I could not help contemplating a few facts.

"Compare the following with available statistics covering any former period and there can be but one answer to the proposition. Our farms produce four thousand millions. Have these lands become sterile or their occupants indolent? Our five hundred thousand factories add fifty-six hundred millions in value to three thousand millions of raw material, and their net output, exclusive of duplications, is more than eight thousand millions. Have these hives of industry been consumed by the elements? Six million operatives in these factories and workshops annually sign pay rolls aggregating three billions. Have these artisans become paralyzed or have their wages been reduced? Our mines, quarries, clay banks, and oil wells yield a thousand millions. Are these storehouses of wealth exhausted or their capacity diminished? Our two hundred thousand miles of railway transport six hundred million tons of original freight, not including duplications, and pay eight hundred thousand operatives, exclusive of officers, six hundred and fifty million dollars. Are these thoroughfares of commerce in the hands of receivers, or are they likely to be?

"As nearly as can be estimated the annual productive capacity of the American people is eleven billion dollars. This does not include duplications. This does not include raw cotton and manufactured cotton, but raw cotton and the value added thereto in the process of manufacture. Of this we export one and one-half billions, and import a billion of other merchandise, mainly non-competitive with our own products. We therefore consume the equivalent of 95 per cent. of all we produce. Not while these conditions continue will prosperity cease.

MOST PROSPEROUS PEOPLE.

"We are the most prosperous people in the world, because we both produce and consume more than others. The little that we sell abroad, about 10 per cent. of our net production, and the little we purchase abroad, 6 or 7 per cent, or our net consumption, constitute no challenge to the statement that our prosperity rests with ourselves. Unless our factories and workshops voluntarily close, or labor voluntarily refuses employment, or commerce voluntarily ceases its activity, there is no occasion for alarm. Unless apprehension becomes epidemic and ultra-conservatism contagious, the immediate future holds for us as much of real good as the immediate past has showered upon us.

"To those who are comparing 1903 and 1893, and who think history likely to repeat itself every ten years, permit the suggestion of a few radical differences in conditions. Ten years ago, whether wisely or unwisely, whether with or without foundation in fact or reason, a very large number, and of that number many close students of commercial and industrial conditions, believed our then financial system not only unsafe, but absolutely vicious. At least four kinds of money—United States notes, Treasury notes, silver dollars, and silver certificates—were believed to be dangerously near depreciation. Grave doubts existed, and were freely expressed, whether the Secretary of the Treasury could maintain the parity of these forms of money if he chose, and equally grave doubts existed as to the wisdom of attempting to maintain their parity. Aye, a very respectable number of very good people, and a very respectable portion of a very good public press, openly advocated the redemption of greenbacks in silver, and the refusal to exchange gold for any form of money except gold certificates. No such doubt or desire now exists. By express statute it has become the duty of the Secretary of the Treasury to maintain the parity with gold of all forms of money coined or issued by the government, and express authority is given to negotiate loans, if necessary, for that purpose. In other words, the Secretary of the Treasury is directed to exchange gold for any and every kind and form of money coined or issued by the United States, and to lend the government to the last limit of his authority whenever such action is necessary to the maintenance of parity. A man is a fool who sends his money into hiding now.

AS TO ELASTICITY.

"It is true that a very respectable number of very good people, and of that number I desire to be classed, believe our financial system, good as it is, might be improved by adding an element of elasticity. I do not think there exists any great number who believe we should have any inflation. Eight years ago we had $21 per capita. Now we have certainly more than $29, and probably nearly $30 per capita. Conservative business men and conservative bankers do not generally consider this an insufficient normal minimum volume of currency. I repeat, the only criticism now offered relates to the want of elasticity. Not that a dollar can be made elastic, but that the volume shall be made responsive to the demands of business. Of course the term is a misnomer. Elastic material like rubber will expand in one direction, but it contracts in the opposite direction, while the material, the volume, is neither increased nor diminished. What is needed is not an elastic dollar, but some provision by which, automatically, the aggregate volume of dollars shall increase whenever more dollars are needed, and will as promptly retire when not needed.

"There is now no statutory prohibition against the well-night inherent right of banks to issue circulating notes. This right exists throughout the United States, but subject to a tax of 10 per cent. per annum. This tax is prohibitory. If I were given authority to formulate a measure that would provide the requisite elasticity to our present currency system, I think I should add an amendment permitting national banks, with the consent of the Comptroller of the Currency, to issue a volume of circulating notes equal to 50 per cent. of their bond-secured circulation, at a tax of 6 per cent., the same to be retired at will or by direction of the Comptroller, by the deposit of an equal amount of lawful money with any subtreasury.

HOW PLAN WOULD WORK.

"Three things I know. First, this additional circulation would spring into existence almost instantly whenever and wherever interest rates advanced to the point of profit. Second, it would be absolutely safe—as good as the present national bank issue and with a slight and immaterial change identical in form and appearance—for the government, amply protected by the 5 per cent. tax, would underwrite it. But you say this is emergency currency. Anything more is inflation. It has the advantage, however, over emergency currency so-named, and over legalized clearinghouse certificates, in that it injects into the commerce of the country no new or doubtful form of money, and the presence of these notes will not advertise the stringent condition which is the occasion of their existence. The only persons who would know of its existence would be the Comptroller, the bank, and the few people who would take sufficient interest in the published statement of the bank to compare the volume of circulation with the amount of government bonds on deposit in the treasury. Prominent among the benefits, if not the principal benefit, would be the substantial guaranty against sudden increase in interest rates, and an equally important guaranty against dangerously low rates of interest. Each locality would be able measurably to provide for its own emergencies.

"But you say this would be no aid to commerce under ordinary conditions. I reply that under ordinary conditions the present volume is sufficient, and the country might well rejoice whenever the comptroller was able to report no dollar of this additional circulation in existence. I do not intimate that this is the only way to secure elasticity. I only say it is one way, and it is an effective way, and it possesses no element of inflation, but would afford a very respectable cushion against sudden financial concussions, and few people ask more. There is nothing original or novel in the scheme. It is simply the German plan slightly modified to conform to our present system.

STRENGTH OF BANKS.

"And yet important as the element of elasticity may be, it is not an essential to our prosperity. During the month of August, 1902, the associated banks of New York had an average surplus above their required reserve of $10,000,000. During August, 1903, they had a suiplus reserve in their vaults of $22,000,000. In the same time the trust companies in that city increased the reserve in their vaults $15,000,000. I had good reason to believe, in fact, I have very positive assurance that banks generally have safeguarded themselves materially. The shock that was felt in every central reserve city, and promptly communicated to every local money center from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coasst, and from the Chain of Lakes to the Gulf, on September 29, 1903, as was then predicted, has proved a blessing. Wherever that shock was felt a little more care has been exercised that it be not repeated in 1903. I am not saying that it will not be repeated. I am making no prediction. I am simply saying that during the year 1903, the banks of New York, and I believe the banks throughout the country, were in better condition to face the annual demand for money with which to move crops, and with which to put winter stocks of goods in the stores, and with which to purchase the winter supply of coal, than they were twelve months ago.

"In closing this branch of the case, as we lawyers say, I want to lay down this proposition: There exists today no one fact, and no combination of facts, the logical sequence of which suggests disaster. If disaster comes it will be psychological and not logical. The microbe, if it exists, is in the mind; it is not elsewhere.

HOW TO GET NEW MARKETS.

"Assuming, then, that we are in comparative health and in no imminent danger of disease, I want to invite your attention to the importance of a forward step. I have already stated that we are the greatest producers in the world. The balance of trade in our favor nearly equals, and occasionally exceeds, that of all other favored nations on the map. We sell a billion dollars per annum to Europe. Twenty per cent. of the people of the world will not always consume 75 per cent. of our surplus. The United Kingdom, with only 3 per cent. of the people of the world, will not always consume 40 per cent. of our gross surplus. This is not a political gathering, and we are not expected to have political desires; but we are expected to have pretty good business sense, and to that business sense I make appeal when I ask, how shall we acquire more markets? There are three ways suggested. One is to voluntarily and gratuitously set our doors more or less widely ajar and permit more freedom of importation, in the hope that other countries will set their doors more or less widely ajar and give us greater freedom of exportation. Some of you gentlemen are importers, and after this meeting adjourns I would like to inquire whether you, in making your purchases abroad give preference to those countries which favor us with an open door, or do you buy where you can obtain the desired article to the best advantage? Do you purchase your silks, for instance, in Great Britain because she buys $600,000,000 of our gross exports without the imposition of customs duties; or do you purchase in France and Germany, notwithstanding tariff exactions upon goods coming from the United States? We have tried this experiment with Brazil. We annually buy of her more than $70,000,000 free merchandise, more than 40 per cent. of all she has to sell, and sell her $10,000,000, 10 per cent. of what she has to buy.

"Another way suggested is to trade compliments—to exchange trade privileges—to set our doors somewhat ajar for the special advantage of one country on condition that it shall set its doors ajar for the special advantage of our people. Considerable has been said along this line, but not very much has been actually accomplished.

SHIP SUBSIDY NEEDFUL.

"I do not wish to discuss the merits of either of these methods, but I do wish to suggest a third, and I sincerely believe the only method by which we will ever get our share of the commerce of South America and South African countries and of the islands lying south of the equator. The policy which resulted in creating the commerce of the Pacific Slope was subsidizing lines of communication with the Pacific Slope. When the first transcontinental lines of railway were built there was not sufficient commerce to pay operating expenses, to say nothing of dividends on investments. Few business men and fewer politicians objected to government aid to transcontinental lines during the development period of the commerce along these lines. These railways need no assistance now. No business man objects to government aid to the commerce of our navigable rivers, and no political party objects to large expenditures on non-navigable streams. Improvements to rivers and harbors is subsidy to the commerce of rivers and harbors. If we ever secure the trade of the countries to which I have referred, we will first secure regular lines of communication with these countries, and if we ever secure these lines assistance must be afforded. Who of you, owning a steamship, would divert it from participation in trans-Atlantic commerce where there is much to be done, and send it on regular trips to countries where we have little or no commerce?

"Do not misunderstand me. I am not mourning the defeat of any ship subsidy bill, but I shall mourn exceedingly the defeat of a bill, if any such shall ever be introduced, which, if enacted, would insure regular lines of American ships, flying the American flag, and carrying American merchants and commercial travelers, with their wares and merchandise, the product of American labor, into those countries to which I have referred. Such a bill must offer special advantages to ships plying between our ports and countries where our trade is undeveloped."

NOVEL CHURCH EDIFICE.

It Will Resemble in Exterior Appearance a High-class Apartment Building With Terra Cotta Trimmings.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Instead of on the line of a sacred edifice, the new All Souls' Independent Church, work on which is to begin at once, will resemble a big apartment building.

The site chosen for the structure is in the Oakwood boulevard near Langley avenue, and when completed, it will represent an expenditure of $150,000. Marked educational and industrial features are to be conducted in conjunction with religious worship in the beautiful new place of worship. In general, according to Architect D. H. Perkins, the church will look on the outside like a high-class apartment building, six stories high, with a sparing addition of terra cotta trimming. The entire basement will be devoted to a manual training department and kitchen. Other floors will contain auditorium, church pariors, pastor's study and residence and Sunday-school rooms. Rev. Jenkin Lloyd Jones is pastor of the new church.

VERDICT FOR FERRI.

The Italian Editor Could Not be Sued by Certain Naval Officers Because He Attacked the Whole Navy.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ROME, Sept. 2.—[By Atlantic Cable.] The trial of Deputy Ferri, editor of the Socialist paper Avanti, on a charge of libeling the navy, a charge brought against him by three naval officers, including Commander Cagni, the companion of the Duke of Abruzzi on his Arctic expeditions, concluded today. The hearing, which lasted three days, aroused intense excitement. The affair arose out of the failure of Deputy Ferri to obtain a Parliamentary inquiry into the affairs of the navy, and his subsequent vehement attacks on it. The trial was marked by violent incidents, demonstrations and arrests, the troops being called out.

The court late tonight delivered judgment in favor of Ferri on the ground that the officers were not entitled to bring suit against the defendant in virtue of the accusations which he brought against the whole navy.

IS CLERGYMAN A BURGLAR?

Rev. H. R. Kennedy Arrested on Charge of Robbing Warren Family.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HILLSBORO (Or.) Sept. 2.—Rev. H. R. Kennedy, former pastor of the Congregational Church here, was arrested today and lodged in jail on a charge of burglary. Early Monday morning the house of E. H. Warren was entered by a masked burglar, who attempted to chloroform the family. Warren, his daughter and Mrs. Mackinder of St. Helens, Cal., were in the house. The burglar first entered Mrs. Mackinder's room and tried to chloroform her. She awoke and started to scream, which aroused the others. On entering the room where the intruder stood, Miss Warren struck a match, and, seeing a man wearing a mask, she ran downstairs for her father. While she was downstairs the robber lighted the lamp and set it on the floor close to the window, where he had gained entrance by means of a ladder. As Miss Warren and her father returned a revolver was drawn on them, and they were all ordered to stand in line and deliver their valuables and money. Mrs. Mackinder delivered her purse, containing $7, together with a gold watch valued at $150.

The women closely observed the intruder, Miss Warren even going so far as to grab his mask and partially remove it. He remained for nearly half an hour, and then left the house through the window by which he had entered. The burglar did not attempt to disguise his dress, simply wearing a mask over his face. Miss Warren claims that she recognized the minister, both by his voice and his clothing.

Kennedy, who came here from Albany about nine months ago, was pastor of the Congregational Church here for a short time. Lately he had been engaged as a timber cruiser. He is a man of culture and has a wife and three small children.

PRAISES MEN WHO FOUGHT FOR THE FLAG.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ST. PAUL (Minn.) Sept. 2.—Gen. Hale delivered the annual address to the Society of the Army of the Philippines this evening. He said in part:

"The society is rapidly growing in individual membership and, more important, in the organization of numerous local camps. It is founded on a just war, humanely waged, with just administration and a glorious result to all concerned, in the most unique experience in the history of the nation.

"Service in war is but a duty involving no greater courage than many of the deeds of peace. For every hero in war there are a hundred in civil life. Every man with the right stuff in him should be stronger, kinder and better for having served his country as a soldier under the flag.

"A year ago we were smarting from mosquito-like attacks on the army of the Philippines, some from sincere but mistaken motives of humanity, and others from political demagogues, using the army as a club to assassinate the administration in facing its duty and responsibility in the Philippines. But the army found valiant defenders in its Commander-in-Chief, the President, the Secretary of War and the great majority of the people. Today the mosquitoes are practically exterminated, as the American people have always eradicated traducers of the American soldier in the performance of his duty.

"Investigation has proved that the improprieties committed in the Philippines were remarkably few under the provocation, and that the army in the face of maddening hardships and difficulties and exasperating treachery and savagery, has conducted a war so humane in general that it has astonished the observers of foreign nations, and even the Filipinos themselves. The developments have also established that this country has adopted the only possible course with decency to ourselves, the European inhabitants of the islands and the masses of the Filipino people, and that the results have been and will continue to be beneficial. Whether or not the Constitution technically follows the flag, that flag wherever it floats has brought and always will bring humanity, justice, civilization and good government."

The day for the parade of the Army of the Philippines dawned with cloudy and threatening skies and shortly before the hour set for the start a drizzle of rain began to fall. Nevertheless, the programme was carried out and, headed by Gen. C. M. Reve as Grand Marshal, a column of about 2000 strong marched through the downtown streets.

Officers were elected as follows: President, Gen. Charles King, Wisconsin; Vice-President, Col. J. W. Pope, Colorado; Second Vice-President, Capt. C. Locke, Colorado; Third Vice-President, Capt. M. Shute, St. Paul; Fourth Vice-President, Capt. H. A. Crowe, Pennsylvania; Fifth Vice-President, Col. W. S. Metcalfe, Kansas; Secretary A. E. Fouts, Missouri; Treasurer, J. E. White, Illinois; Chaplain, Capt. James M. Mailley, Nebraska.

The court fixed December 12 for the execution. Knapp took the decision with indifference, and made no statement. He will be taken to Columbus for electrocution.

BOUNDARY COMMISSION READY TO ASSEMBLE.

AFTER THE ORGANIZATION A LONG RECESS WILL BE TAKEN.

Chief Justice Alverstone to Preside Over Deliberations — It is Believed that Award Will be Rendered in Middle of October.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P. M.]
LONDON, Sept. 2.—[By Atlantic Cable.] Ambassador Choate tonight gave a dinner to Chief Justice Alverstone and all the boundary commissioners, Judge John M. Dickson representing the American counsel and Sir Robert Finlay and Sir Edward Carson representing the British counsel.

Chief Justice Alverstone tomorrow will be chosen chairman of the commission which will be assembled in the Cabinet room of the Foreign Office. An adjournment for a fortnight will then be taken to allow counsel to prepare their oral arguments. Three counsel on each side will address the commission. There is a disposition on the part of all the commissioners to hasten the conclusion of the case, and it is now believed that the award will be rendered in the middle of October.

RUNAWAY ELECTRIC CAR.

Flies Down Alvarado Street Hill and Across Seventh Street Into an Electric Light Post.

Car No. 1 on the Second street "hill line" to Westlake Park took a terrific dash to destruction at 10:30 o'clock last night. It went tearing southward down the Alvarado-street hill, crossed both of the Seventh-street tracks and collided squarely with an electric light pole on the southeast corner. The conductor, who was running the car, jumped off in time to escape injury. The one male passenger on the inside was hurled from his seat in the rear to the front door as if from a catapult.

The Los Angeles Railway night forces refused to give out any facts concerning the wreck in advance of a report this morning. The accident apparently was due to the inexperience of the conductor who was handling it, rather to any fault of the brakes. A common practice of the motormen is to drop off their cars at the Sixth-street corner of the park, allowing the conductors to run them one block to the end, and then resume their post on the return trip. Last night on No. 1 the conductor took the front end at the top of the hill and the motorman swung off at Sixth street.

The car went racing down the last block of the hill, and for some reason the motorman pro tem. was unable to check its speed. At the end of the line the tracks turn easterly onto Seventh street. The car was going so fast that it did not take the curve, but dashed off the rails and went across both the Seventh-street tracks to the curbing like a shot. It struck the pole with such force that the sheet-iron railing in front was stove in against the car, the floor splintered and the headlight demolished. The wrecked car cleared the Seventh-street tracks and there was no interference with traffic on that line. A wrecking crew soon dragged it back on the tracks and to the shop for repairs.

WORK OF ART RECOVERED.

ROME, Sept. 2.—The police at Florence have succeeded in finding a valuable Della Robbia bas-relief, representing the descent from the cross, which was stolen last January from the oratory of the Brotherhood of the Annunciation at Lepi. Several persons have been arrested. They are said to have formed an association of thieves to send antique works of art abroad. The bas-relief when found was already packed for dispatch abroad.

GUNBOAT IN COLLISION.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The Metropolitan line steamer H. M. Whitney, bound for Boston, was in collision in the East River today with the gunboat Scorpion. The Scorpion struck the Whitney on the starboard bow and drove two holes in the vessel, one about seven feet above the water line and the other about two feet above. The Whitney put back to her pier, where she discharged her freight and passengers. The Scorpion had a large hole stove in her bow. She proceeded to the navy yard, where she was pumped out, and laid up for repairs.

Counsel for Ex-Congressman Edmund H. Driggs, who is under indictment in connection with the postoffice frauds, has filed in the United States Circuit Court, Brooklyn, a brief as to the constitutionality under which the indictments were found. The point is made that the statute of limitations shall be liberally construed in favor of his client.

Town of The Angels; why angels? why wait to be angels?

Our notion is: on the whole, it's a pretty-nice town for mortals; we've no intention of waiting.

Lots o' people'll wait till they get to be angels, before they find out how to have a good time, even here; as likely as not, they'll get switched-off to a warmer country, where comfort is scarce and cooking is done without gas.

DURABILITY and accuracy of a Watch depend upon the repair work. Only experts employed here.

FOUL BROOD.

STILL IN FRESNO APIARIES.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P. M.]
FRESNO, Sept. 2.—Foul brood has not been stamped out yet from the apiaries of Fresno, as the report of the bee inspector, F. G. Story, filed today with the Board of Supervisors shows. Out of forty-five apiaries inspected by him in the month of August, the dread disease was found in six. As the disease is highly contagious, and means the destruction of the hive in which it makes its appearance, and the probable infection of others in the neighborhood, great precautions must be taken.

In his report, Mr. Story says that in the forty-five apiaries inspected there were 1555 stands. His detailed figures show that eight of these stands were infected with foul brood so that the actual condition of the apiaries is not bad, but the fact that foul brood is in the county at all requires apiarists to be on the lookout, and take stern measures at the first symptom of the commencement of its ravages.

BOWERS POISON CASE.

INQUEST TO BEGIN FRIDAY.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P. M.]
SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—The inquest on the death of Martin L. Bowers from arsenic poison will be opened Friday. Chemist Morgan finished his analysis of the stomach of the deceased today, and a report will be made to the Chief of Police that enough poison was found to have produced death, for which at least two grains are necessary. The fatal agent in the stomach was arsenious acid.

Among the witnesses who have been subpoenaed to testify at the Coroner's hearing is John Cunningham, a roomer at the small lodging-house Mrs. Sutton conducted. Cunningham says he went to the store where the ham which was supposed to have been the cause of Bower's first illness had been obtained, and made inquiry about it. The grocer denied that any one ever called upon him in regard to the tainted ham.

John F. Schnorr, who lives at 366 Clementina street, adjoining the Bowers' home, stated today that on the morning after the death of her husband, Mrs. Bowers came to her door and looked up and down the street, as if to see if any one was about, and that a moment later Lervey, alias O'Leary, emerged, and ran to the corner as fast as his legs could carry him.

Since the arrival of Lawyer Vaughn from Portland to take charge of the case, the women, in obedience to his instructions, have refused absolutely to talk of the case.

ESTUDILLO RESIGNS.

HELD OFFICE ONE DAY.
[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P. M.]
SAN RAFAEL, Sept. 2.—Frank P. Estudillo of Los Angeles, who was appointed captain of the guards at San Quentin prison, resigned today. He served only one day. Maj. Tompkins, the new Warden, retained James Russell, former Chief of Police of San Diego, as captain of guards. Many changes have been made in the personnel of the guard, and also among the officers. At present there are 1507 convicts in San Quentin. Seventy-five men guard them. This number will probably be increased at the next meeting of the prison directors.

Miss Anglin Will Remain.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—Miss Margaret Anglin, who is at present playing here with Henry Miller, will continue to appear with him the rest of the season, according to an arrangement perfected today with Charles Frohman, who has Miss Anglin under contract. It had been originally planned that Miss Anglin should play with Mr. Miller only during the term of the five weeks' season in this city, but now she will finish the season with Mr. Miller.

WASHINGTON.

DEPARTURE IN DEPARTMENTS.

General Staff Has Several Improvements in View.

Retired Officers to Be Detailed to Serve With Militia.

Underhanded Attacks on Secretary Hitchcock—Mexico and the Irrigation Congress.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] It is understood that the information division of the General Staff has under consideration a possible change in the boundaries of the various military departments. Theoretically, they are based upon transportation facilities. They were established many years ago. Since the present headquarters were established, the whole character of the transportation system has changed. There is politics in all these matters, and as soon as it is generally known that any readjustment is to be made, nearly every member of Congress will be compelled to interest himself in behalf of local interests.

The only change in recent years has been the creation of a temporary Department of the Gulf, with headquarters at Atlanta, during the Spanish War. When the war was ended political pressure from the Southwest became so strong that the Department of Texas was restored. If a general adjustment is contemplated, the General Staff will soon find itself the center of a political storm, though this, of course, will not deter the administration from making such improvements as seem necessary.

The General Staff is considering the rehabilitation of numerous forts and posts in various parts of the country, but mainly in the West, which have been abandoned for years. Before the war with Spain, the army had run down to less than 25,000 men, of all branches of the service. There was no use for many of the posts which had been occupied. Now that the army consists of nearly 70,000 men, it has been discovered that the posts which have been kept in repair are not large enough to accommodate the troops comfortably, and other new posts will have to be established or the old ones repaired. The latter proposition strikes the members of the staff as the most economical.

Another proposition that is being carefully considered is the detail of retired officers to service with the militia of the various States. It is held that there are a sufficient number of retired officers capable of performing such service, and that, in most cases, they could do the work better than the younger men, whose services are badly needed in the regular establishment. If it is finally decided thus to use the retired officers, those who receive such details will receive full pay, as they would then be in active duty.

MEXICO AND IRRIGATION.

MILITARY ATTACHE GOING.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The Mexican Embassy's military attaché, Lieut.-Col. Altamira, has been instructed by his government to attend the sessions of the National Irrigation Congress at Ogden, Utah, this month, and has started West for this purpose. He expects to be absent from Washington for several weeks.

Col. Altamira arrived in Washington a few days ago, after his inspection of the Canadian militia. In addition to making a report on that subject, he will send to his government detailed information about questions discussed in the irrigation convention, as this is a subject of particular interest in Mexico. It is expected his observations will be of much service in developing the new Boer colonization plan lately undertaken in Mexico.

BUNDY TIME CLOCKS.

STOPPED BY UNCLE SAM.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—Several employés of the Bundy Time Clock Company of Binghamton, N. Y., whose alleged contract to supply clocks to the postal service has figured in the postal investigation were examined here today by the inspectors. They were closely questioned regarding the accounts of the company with the government, and the transactions involved in the supply of the clocks under the alleged contract with the Postoffice Department.

The government takes the position that no contract between the department and the company exists, as the document purporting to be a contract lacked the essential requirements, and therefore no abrogation is needed. No more of these supplies are being purchased, the department explaining that no more are needed.

The grand jury was in session today, considering the postal cases, but adjourned until tomorrow without action.

HITCHCOCK ALSO SUFFERS.

SECRET ATTACKS UPON HIM.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

WASHINGTON, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The series of assaults made upon Secretary Hitchcock of late, using as ammunition certain local conditions in Indian Territory and Oklahoma, is merely part of the general campaign designed to drive him from the Cabinet. He has been a stumbling block in the way of political mercenaries from the day he entered office. He has had no mercy on rascality, when detected, though half a dozen Senators stood behind each rascal. In this respect, he stands almost unique among the Secretaries of the Interior of the last quarter of the century, and quite so in more recent years.

He is a man of strong feelings, and although passing a brief period in the school of diplomacy, where it is supposed that one's standards become somewhat liberalized and one's manners brought under softening influences, he has remained as blunt and outspoken as ever where rottenness is concerned. This has been very offensive to some of the people who have visited the department with axes to grind.

Because he believed at the outset that he could hunt down scoundrelism more successfully by holding his tongue than by noisily heralding his movements, he has been denounced as trying to smother an inquiry which he was really struggling, night and day, to bring to a focus.

BRYAN AT MARION.

He Closes His Present Ohio Tour, but Will Return Next Month and Make More Speeches.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

MARION (O.) Sept. 2.—William J. Bryan tonight closed his present Ohio tour here, where he addressed an audience estimated at from 9000 to 10,000. Immediately after the meeting Bryan left for New York. He announced that he would be in Ohio again next month to make a number of speeches in support of the Democratic ticket.

BRYAN ACCEPTS CLARKE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

COLUMBUS (O.) Sept. 2.—William J. Bryan issued a statement here today, accepting John C. Clarke as the Democratic candidate for United States Senator to succeed Senator Hanna. He says Mr. Clarke differs from the Kansas City platform on one phase of the money question only, viz: metallic money.

MANSLAUGHTER TRIAL.

Books of Street Railway Company Placed in Evidence to Establish Responsibility of Defendants.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEWARK (N. J.) Sept. 2.—At the trial of officials of the North Jersey Street Railway Company accused of manslaughter in connection with the Clifton-avenue crossing railroad accident, the prosecutor read selected sections from the street-car company's by-laws on the duties of directors and officials, showing how the various duties are delegated from one to another, but they are responsible for the carrying out of the rules of the company.

Prosecutor Riker later referred to the company's books for the year preceding the date of the accident to show that the members of the committee under indictment were at nearly all the executive meetings.

Riker then offered the minute books of the Executive Committee in evidence and they were accepted.

STATE ISSUES ONLY.

Democrats of Pennsylvania do Not Care to go Before the People on National Questions.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

HARRISBURG (Pa.) Sept. 2.—The Democratic State Convention nominated the following ticket today by acclamation:

Auditor-General—Senator A. G. Dewalt, Lehigh county.

State Treasurer—Senator Joel G. Hill, Wayne county.

Judges of the Supreme Court—Ex-Judge Calvin Reyburn, Armstrong county, and John A. Ward, Philadelphia.

The platform adopted is devoted entirely to State issues. The nominees for Auditor-General and State Treasurer and Senator W. L. Grime of Bucks county, permanent chairman of the convention, were members of the last Legislature and voted against the Grady-Salus libel bill, which will be one of the issues of the campaign.

A minority report on national issues was ruled out of order.

EAGLES' BIG PARADE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—The Fraternal Order of Eagles had their parade today and went into session to continue their convention at Tammany Hall. Mayor Low reviewed the parade. There were over 20,000 members in the various lodges which formed the procession, with a number of bands, and the distinctive apparel of the lodges gave a picturesque appearance to the marchers.

tion disarranged the plans of the revolutionists, and therefore it is denied.

According to reliable reports from Monastir, thousands of Bulgarians in that vilayet are confronted with famine in addition to Turkish persecution. Peasants who are continually arriving from Monastir complain of the attitude of Hilmi Pasha, and the Turkish atrocities.

The insurgents in the district of Adrianople appeal to be less active. The Turks are pouring in in overwhelming force, and the revolutionaries are taking refuge in the mountains. The Bulgarian leader, Gergicoff, has been wounded.

The insurgents, it is reported, have captured the seaport of Autoboly, on the Black Sea, and the Turkish population has fled to Constantinople. The insurgents have organized a local government at the seaport, and are giving ships their clearing papers and sanitary certificates.

ONLY NINE DISMISSED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

SOFIA, Sept. 2.—The Bulgarian agent at Uskub reports that notwithstanding the Porte's promises on the occasion of the Rusian demonstration in Iniatba Bay to dismiss twenty-four officials accused of malpractices by the Russian and Austrian Consuls, only nine of them have been dismissed, while some of the others have been given higher posts.

TO SETTLE WITH JANKOFF.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 2.—According to government advices, Col. Jankoff, the insurgent leader, who with a strong following, is operating southward of Demotykak, has been entrusted with the task of destroying the larger bridges of the railroad running from Dedeagatch, on the south coast to Julieli Burgas, over the Maritsa and Arda rivers, so as to cut off communication with Adrianople from the south and delay the troops who are on their way to the threatened city. The government believes it has taken measures which will bring about a speedy settlement with the insurgent forces commanded by Col. Jankoff. The palace officials were in constant communication with the allies at Adrianople throughout Monday, formulating plans to master the situation in the vilayet.

The crowds which witnessed last night's illumination here in honor of the anniversary of the accession of the Sultan were not so large as usual.

The police recently have been exercising great severity toward the Mussulmans suspected of inciting trouble in the disturbed vilayets and have arrested and banished large numbers. While the Russian squadron was in Iniatba Bay, no less than 142 Mussulmans were expelled on account of their unconcealed hostility to Russia.

STILL BURNING ADRIANOPLE.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

BELGRADE, Sept. 2.—An unconfirmed report is again published here that Adrianople is in flames.

COMPULSORY INSURANCE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Dr. Eucken-Anneheuser, Imperial Privy Councellor and delegate of the German government to the Congress of Achtuaries spoke today on the reasons for the introduction of the compulsory health insurance in Germany. He said there are ten million men insured in the States, and every sixth man is insured in health insurance. The reasons for its introduction was to improve the standards of life, and to improve the physical standards for the army service.

TWO LIVES BLOTTED OUT.

Double Tragedy Follows an Insane Proposal.

Henry T. Edson Kills Mrs. Fannie Pullen and Himself.

Murderer Suspected of Embezzlement—Son of Former Mayor of New York.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Henry Townsend Edson, son of former Mayor of New York, Franklin Edson, at his apartments at 292 West Ninety-second street, today shot and killed Mrs. Fannie Pullen of 372 West End avenue, and then shot and killed himself. The murder and suicide appear to have been premeditated, and followed a dramatic scene in which Edson called upon Mrs. Pullen, a close and honored friend of his wife and family, to desert her husband and children and fly with him to another State. Mrs. Pullen, a very handsome woman, is said to have been the daughter of a United States naval officer.

The double tragedy brought to the surface the fact that Edson, who was "comptroller" of St. Michael's Protestant Episcopal Church, had been suspected of misappropriating funds belonging to the parish, and that expert accountants were at work on his accounts. It was also declared by those related with the family that Edson was financially distressed on account of Wall street speculations.

Whatever may have been the precise cause of the tragedy, members of the Edson family insist that the man was insane. There were many indications that Edson was madly in love with Mrs. Pullen. On the body of the man was found the following letter:

Mrs. Pullen, darling: Trust John implicitly. He will always be a go-between and faithful; I know him thoroughly. He will tell you where I am waiting for you, to see your sweet face once more before I go. I am going, far far away, and will die true to you, no matter how long I live. I shall lead a new life and an honest one, and if I can ever come back to you with my past cleaned up, I will, dearest. Oh, my God, let me see and speak to you once more before I go. I cannot go until you do. I hope and pray that you put in today's (Sept.) 1) personal. Anyway, I answered it in tomorrow's. I hope you see it. I cannot sleep. I can only pray and pray that you will come to me once more. Surely you will after all you have been to me for the past ten years. You do love me, darling; I know you do. Come to me once more, darling, if only to say good-by. I shall wait here until you come, no matter how long. John will tell you my hotel name. Ask clerk for me."

The following "personal" was published in a morning newspaper yesterday: "B—Loyal—Nothing in answer to message, be good to me; worried about you; send word today; just as true to you as always; with love."

The following, evidently a reply to the foregoing, appeared this morning: "Fannie—I am loyal and true; cannot go till I see you; trust John; he will tell you where I am; with love."

These are believed to be the "personals" referred to.

Dr. Peters of St. Michael's Church, who knew the dead man well, is emphatic in his declarations that none but the most honorable relations existed between Edson and Mrs. Pullen. She was, he said, Edson's "friend and adviser."

Mrs. Pullen lived with her husband, John F. Pullen, an auditor at the Grand Central station, and her two children, Trafton, 16 years of age, and Mary, 14 years of age.

The Edson's were to break up their home this morning as a result of an agreement to sign articles of separation, reached the night previous. The life of the couple had not been happy. Edson had been acting in a peculiar manner. For that reason furniture movers were in the house packing up furniture and bric-a-brac.

Mrs. Edson spent last night with her friend, Mrs. Pullen. She was about to go out this morning when a note came from Edson asking that Mrs. Pullen accompany his wife to where he was. Edson, his wife, Mrs. Pullen and Dr. David O. Edson, a brother of Edson, met in Edson's house. During the conversation in the dining-room Edson is said to have turned to Mrs. Pullen and suggested that she leave her home with him and go to some other State where they could be happy. Mrs. Edson was horrified. Mrs. Pullen turned away in disgust.

Dr. Edson, after sharply rebuking his brother, left the room with Mrs. Edson, but both returned in a few minutes, when Edson again turned to Mrs. Pullen and began to entreat her to elope with him. Mrs. Pullen was horrified at the suggestion, and possessed with fear of the man, ran from the room. Edson, however, seemed to recover his self-possession, and went into the dining-room again. A very few moments afterward, Mrs. Edson, who was weak and trembling from the ordeal, was assisted to another room by Dr. Edson.

A moment later, according to Woods, a furniture man working near by in the hallway, Edson pulled a revolver from his pocket and pointing it at Mrs. Pullen shouted: "You must go with me. If you don't elope with me, I'll see that you go with me anyway."

In terror Mrs. Pullen started to run from the room. She had gone but a few steps when four pistol shots rang out in quick succession. The first bullet tore Mrs. Pullen's left cheek, and the second entered the right side of her head.

According to Woods, Edson looked at the woman a moment and then turned the muzzle of the revolver to his own head, firing two shots almost simultaneously, both enteredе about the middle of the forehead, and he fell, his head striking and resting on the feet of Mrs. Pullen's body.

At the first shot Dr. Edson and Mrs. Edson rushed to the door of the dining-room, reaching there just as Edson fired the shots that ended his own life. Mrs. Edson fell to the floor in a faint.

Coroner Jackson, after making a thorough examination of the house, said that the evidence showed that the murder and suicide were premeditated; that he had found letters and other papers in Edson's possession which showed that he had had a love affair.

Mr. Pullen, the husband of the murdered woman, and who is a vestryman of St. Michael's Church, made a statement tonight in which he branded Edson as a defaulter and forger, and said that he had stolen from the funds of St. Michael's Church. He also declared that Edson had attempted to kill Mrs. Edson, but missed and killed Mrs. Pullen by error.

Mr. Pullen's statement was not borne out by the investigation of Coroner's Physician Hanlon, who found powder marks on the dead woman's face, showing that the pistol must have been held very close.

Dr. Cyrus Edson, a brother of the suicide, said tonight that the intimations of improper relations between his brother and Mrs. Pullen were absolutely false. His brother, he said, had recently been acting very strangely, and had admitted that he was involved in financial difficulties. His family, Dr. Edson said, had become so alarmed over his mental condition that arrangements had been made to have him examined by an alienist.

The shooting, Dr. Edson declared, was undoubtedly committed in a moment of maniacal frenzy.

SYRACUSE (N. Y.) Sept. 2.—At the evening session of the National Association of Letter Carriers, by a large vote, the convention exonerated President J. C. The report of the Executive Board was adopted.

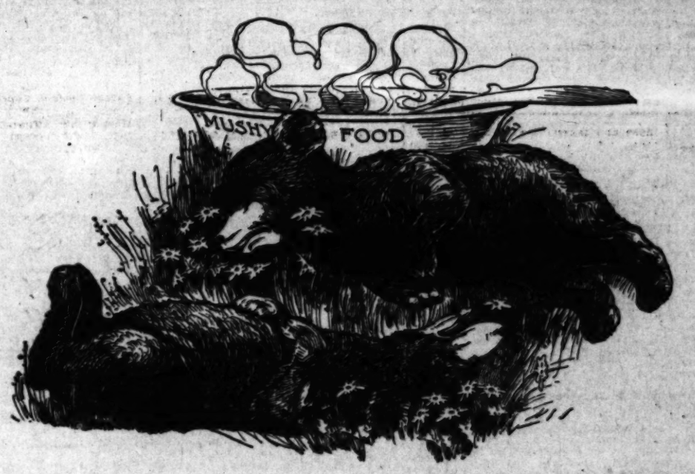
AUTOMATIC BOTTLE MAKER.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

TOLEDO, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] A company was today incorporated with a fully-paid capital of $3,000,000, subscribed principally by New York and Pittsburgh people to exploit an automatic bottle-making machine which bears the same relation to the glass trade as the linotype does to the newspaper business. The machine, it is claimed, will save $3,000,000 per year on the cost of beer bottles alone, and will dispense entirely with skilled labor.

DEAD JOHNNY BEARS



Gone to Bear Heaven by the Mushy Food Route.

Some little Johnny bears ate too freely of pasty, undercooked oats and wheat—got more starchy food than they could digest.

One has appendicitis and the other bowel trouble. They learned too late that pasty, starchy and half cooked cereals, added to white bread, potatoes and other starch food, make more starch than the average man or woman can digest. Then follows "starch indigestion," well known to physicians and a very common complaint.

If the food is not changed, serious bowel complaints set up and all too often appendicitis follows, directly traceable to irritation and disease caused by undigested starch.

These facts caused the invention of

GRAPE-NUTS

In which the starch of Wheat and Barley is transformed by scientific cooking into sugar (shining on the outside of each little granule of Grape-Nuts.)

One can have the delicious ready cooked food, enjoy it, obtain the value and energy of the carbohydrates and yet not in the least tax the digestive organs.

Don't let any one deceive you by saying the stomach and bowels need hard and indigestible oats and wheat to give them exercise!!!!

They get too much exercise usually with the other food.

Never fear that the organs of digestion will get weak from lack of exercise.

Tax them a little further than you are doing at present and you may join the Johnny bears, with ears in the daisies and feet to the stars.

There is sober fact worth careful thought in the tremendous mistake made in the selection and use of indigestible food.

Bodily health and increased strength follow the use of

Chicago Police the Railway Car Which Two Me Two Others Sev

[BY DIRECT WIRE

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Chief of Police O'Neill late this afternoon was given information which leads him to believe that four of the convicts who broke out of Folsom Penitentiary several weeks ago, engineered the daring holdup and murderous assault on four employés of the Chicago City Railway at the car barns of the company early last Sunday morning, in which attack two employés were shot dead and two others severely wounded.

Following the escape of the Pacific coast desperadoes, four of them—Edward Davis, Frank Case, Richard Gordon and Ray Fahey—were traced east to the Missouri River, and it is believed they were headed for Chicago.

Sept. 2.—Backed by the Union and Southern Pacific, Northwestern, New York Central and Lake Shore, a plan is now on foot to run a train from coast to coast, and for this purpose a company is being organized with a capital of $1,000,000 to furnish the equipment and handle the trains. WONG'S HIDDEN POCKET FOOLS NEGRO THUGS.

CHINAMAN BRUTALLY BEATEN, BUT MINUS NO MONEY.

Two Black Men Attracted by Rattle of Coin Attack Victim Behind Freight Cars on North Alameda Street With Rocks for Weapons.

Wong Jung, an employé of a Chinese laundry at No. 637 East First street, was assaulted by two negroes for the purpose of robbery shortly before midnight at Jackson and Alameda streets. Despite the terrible beating he received, he held on to his money and his assailants got nothing.

Jung had been to Chinatown and was walking homeward along the north side of Alameda street. As he approached Jackson street he passed between a string of freight cars on a railroad track and the building, when two negroes suddenly confronted him and demanded money. The Chinaman cannot speak English, but he understood what the highwaymen meant by their motions.

Instead of throwing up his hands as they tried to run, but one of the negroes struck him a violent blow on the face with a stone, cutting his lip and knocking him down.

The moment the robbers confronted him, Jung began yelling for help at the top of his voice. His cries could be heard for blocks and attracted a number of persons to the place, among them Patrolman Story, who was about a block from the scene of the hold-up. After knocking their victim down one of the negroes tried to stifle his cries by blows on the mouth, while the other attempted the almost impossible task of finding the Chinaman's pocket. Hearing the approach of other persons the negroes left their victim without having secured his money, and running west on Requena street, disappeared in the darkness. They were seen only by the Chinaman. Patrolman Story and Lennon made a thorough search for the robbers, and could give no intelligible description of them, their search was futile. Detectives Cowan and Davis were sent to the scene, and with them Jung told the story of the robbery through an interpreter. He said he had about $6 in silver and as he walked the coin rattled in his blouse. Therefore, when he approached the place where the negroes were concealed, they could hear his money rattle, and probably took advantage of the opportunity to attempt the robbery. The Chinaman's injuries are not serious.

Chicago Police Suspect Them of the Railway Car Barns Robbery, in Which Two Men Were Killed and Two Others Severely Wounded.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Chief of Police O'Neill late this afternoon was given information which leads him to believe that four of the convicts who broke out of Folsom Penitentiary several weeks ago, engineered the daring hold-up and murderous assault on four employés of the Chicago City Railway at the car barns of the company early last Sunday morning, in which attack two employés were shot dead and two others severely wounded.

Following the escape of the Pacific Coast desperadoes, four of them—Edward Davis, Frank Case, Richard Gordon and Ray Pahey—were traced West to the Missouri River, and it is believed they were headed for Chicago.

The information which the Chief received was that Gordon had been seen in Chicago three days before the hold-up, and the description of him is markedly similar to that of the leader of the bandits. The description of Case also tallies closely with that of one of the other robbers.

"They are just such men as would commit this crime," said Capt. Shippy. "The men are desperate, undoubtedly need money, are not well known to the local authorities, and they know that another crime added to the list will not affect their end, for if caught they will meet hanging anyway."

Pictures are being prepared and descriptions of all the ex-convicts are being sent to all police stations.

NEW YORK GROCERS AND SUGAR SALES.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The wholesale grocers of New York and vicinity will no longer attempt to maintain an agreement to continue the limited-priced plan of selling sugars. They will sell at profit, at cost, or at a loss, according to their own idea of the best interests of their own business. This decision was reached Monday night at an executive committee meeting of the Wholesale Grocers' Association of New York and vicinity. So far as the northern part of the State is concerned there will be some attempt to continue a small profit, and the understanding is that the New York grocers will not attempt to cut below these prices. But for all practical purposes, the limited-price system is at an end, except in New England, where it has been in operation for many years and where the grocers are loyal to it.

For some years past, Chicago and other Western points have been selling sugar at cost with the hope of taking business from New York and other centers, and even with this inducement, refiners claim that Chicago is gradually losing its trade to other carload points. Cutting has gone on for so long that grocers have given up all hope of being able to arrange with refiners to help them maintain a profit of 15 cents per hundred, which the refiners admit is little enough for handling the product.

MILLION DOLLARS IN AN OVERLAND TRAIN.

It is understood that all of the stock in the new company will be held by the roads mentioned, over whose tracks the train will run.

The train will not only be a through train from New York City to San Francisco, but will, it is calculated, make the journey from ocean to ocean in from ten to twelve hours less than it can be done with the best connections at present. For several years the Harriman interests have been working toward this end, and have spent millions of dollars in straightening their tracks and reducing the grades so that better time and service might be given.

The alleged thief was captured by lodgers after a chase and taken back to the rooming-house, where he was placed in a room and the police notified. Sergt. Williams and Detective Cowan responded and found the fellow pretending to be very drunk.

Hildebrand was awakened by the noise of his watch falling upon the floor, and when he opened his eyes he saw a man rifling his pockets. He grappled with the thief and the latter ran out of the house, but was caught at Winston and Los Angeles streets. Those who joined in the chase state that they notified a policeman who wore star No. 91, but the officer refused to aid in the pursuit. Hildebrand lost $6.05. The prisoner gave the name of John Messini, and stated that he is a restaurant cook.

SAM PARKS SCHEMES TO INJURE EMPLOYERS.

BOASTFULLY SAYS HE WILL NOT GO BACK TO SING SING.

Convict-Leader of Labor Unionists Proposes to Get All the "Knockers" Out of Union—Complains of Unfair Treatment by Newspapers.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Sam Parks, labor agitator, laid plans today to get even with his enemies.

"I've got a scheme," he said to a reporter, "that will pound the employers as hard as they have pounded me. Right here and now I want to tell you that I'll never go back to Sing Sing. I had no right to go there in the first place, but I will say for warden and keepers that they treated me fine. They seemed to know that it was wrong that I was there."

Parks was asked what course he would pursue in dealing with President Nelson of the United Board of Building Trades, who repudiated him when he got into trouble.

"Nelson," he said, "is a mighty small proposition. He doesn't cut any ice. All I can say about that is that I'm going to get back at the knockers, and I'm going to get the knockers out of the Housesmiths' and Bridgemen's Union. This persecution has made me stronger than ever with my men, and with labor men generally.

"All I've got to say about my case is that I am satisfied with what my lawyers did. They couldn't do any more. The newspapers didn't give me fair treatment."

MOLLY MAGUIRES.

ORGANIZATION REVIVED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—A.M.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 2.—Continued criminality in the anthracite coal fields of Northern Pennsylvania has not only aroused a feeling of insecurity among the residents of the poorly protected mountain districts, but the authorities are becoming very much puzzled over the mystery surrounding the numerous murders committed here, according to special dispatches from Tamaqua.

The coal and iron police and detectives declare that the spirit of Molly Maguire brotherhood is as strong in certain localities as during the early seventies, when crime was rampant throughout the coal fields.

The local authorities of Schuylkill county have endeavored to ferret out and hunt down the murderers, but all efforts have proved futile. Five men killed recently are asserted to have received missives bearing the suggestive skull and crossbones, but paid no attention to them.

From the mystery surrounding several unprovoked and bloody tragedies in Luzerne, Columbia and Lackawanna counties, it is believed that some oathbound organization is responsible for the crimes. The police of Columbia county have already arrested several suspects.

THREATEN PARRY.

COWARDLY LABORITES.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

INDIANAPOLIS (Ind.) Sept. 2.—When asked tonight as to the rumor that he was receiving threatening letters warning him to cease his attacks on organized labor, President D. M. Parry of the National Manufacturers' Association, said:

"All I have to say is that the man, or men, who enter my premises to abduct any of my children will leave the place dead, for that is the order given the men at my home.

"I get letters almost daily which make some sort of threat against me, but I pay no attention to them, and ordinarily I throw them into the waste basket as soon as I read them.

"The men who write them are cowards and a coward is not a consideration with me.

"Still, as I say, there is no telling what some fool may do, so I have taken precautions to place myself on equal terms with them, in case one breaks loose.

"I have never tried to detect who the persons are, who are directing these letters to me, but I think I know some of them. However, it is but natural to believe that at least a part of them were indicted by some people who are revengefully disposed toward me because of my labor views.

"If an attack is made upon me you will see me in at the finish, and the assailant is more than likely to be stretched out at full length, awaiting the attention of the undertaker."

May Call Out State Troops.

DENVER (Colo.) Sept. 2.—There seems tonight to be a likelihood of the State troops being ordered to Cripple Creek tonight or tomorrow. No definite statement from an official source has been given out to that effect, but it is known that there are numbers of militiamen gathered at the armory in this city, and Gov. Peabody, Adjt.-Gen. Sherman Bell, Atty.-Gen. Miller and Judge Maxwell of the Colorado Court of Appeals have been in conference for several hours.

Trunk-making Stops.

CHICAGO, Sept. 2.—A strike of 700 trunkmakers, followed by a lock-out, has tied up seven manufacturers of trunks, satchels and dress-suit cases, practically crippling the industry in Chicago. Nearly 1000 men are idle.

Loyal Men Rewarded.

COLORADO SPRINGS (Col.) Sept. 2.—The Standard Mill at Colorado City, owned and operated by the U. S. Reduction and Refining Company, against which institution the present strike of the miners in the Cripple Creek district had its inception, was closed down for an indefinite period this morning. The employés of the mill, numbering about two hundred, will receive one-third wages for an indefinite time because of their loyalty in remaining with the company at the time of the first trouble with the Millmen's Union.

WILL PROBABLY NAME SCHMITZ.

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 2.—The Union Labor Party held its convention tonight. Preliminary organization was effected, committees appointed and adjournment taken to tomorrow night, when Mayor Schmitz will probably be nominated for another term. Schmitz addressed the convention tonight.

RATIONS CAUSE A STRIKE.

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 2.—In anger at the alleged poor rations served aboard their vessel, the crew of the United States lighthouse tender Hyacinth went on strike tonight. The Hyacinth is the supply boat for many lighthouses on Lake Michigan, and safety of navigation upon the lake depends upon the ship being kept regularly in service.

Fire in a five-story building at 204 to 208 Walnut street, Cincinnati, yesterday, caused a loss of $145,000. It started from spontaneous combustion. There were several explosions and many narrow escapes. Several persons were slightly hurt.

WORN OUT, DRAGGED OUT

Are Most Women in Summer. —Pe-ru-na is a Tonic of Efficiency.

Mrs. Tressie Nelson.

Mrs. Tressie Nelson, 422 Broad street, Nashville, Tenn., writes:

"As Peruna has done me a world of good, I feel in duty bound to tell of it, in hopes that it may meet the eye of some woman who has suffered as I have.

"For five years I really did not know what a perfectly well day was, and if I did not have headach', I had back'che or pain som'where and really life was not worth the effort I made to keep going.

"A good friend advised me to use Peruna and I was glad to try anything, and I am very pleased to say that six bottles made a new woman of me and I have no more pains and life looks bright again."—Mrs. Tressie Nelson.

JOSEPHINE MORRIS, 226 Carroll St., Brooklyn, N. Y., writes:

"Peruna is a fine medicine to take any time of the year, but I have found it especially helpful to withstand the wear and tear of the hot weather. I have taken it now for two summers, and feel that it has kept my system free from malaria, and also kept me from having that worn-out, dragged-out look which so many women have.

"I therefore have no hesitancy in saying that I think it is the finest tonic in the world."—Josephine Morris.

Peruna is frequently used as a mitigation of the effects of hot weather. What a bath is to the skin, Peruna is to the mucous membranes. Bathing keeps the skin healthy, Peruna makes the mucous membranes clean and healthy. With the skin and mucous membranes in good working order, hot weather can be withstood with very little suffering.

Frequent bathing with an occasional use of Peruna is sure to mitigate the horrors of hot weather. Many ladies have discovered that the depression of hot weather and the rigors they have been in the habit of attributing to malaria, quickly disappear when they use Peruna. This is why Peruna is so popular with them. Peruna provides clean mucous membranes, and the clean mucous membranes do the rest.

If you do not derive prompt and satisfactory results from the use of Peruna, write at once to Dr. Hartman, giving a full statement of your case, and he will be pleased to give you his valuable advice gratis.
